Little Rock's Citizens Pray For Solution

Peaceful End To Army Occupation Goal Of People

LITTLE ROCK, Oct. 12 (UP)—Thousands of Little Rock's residents, including a man accused of being a "principal agitator" of anti-Negro violence, prayed at special services in 85 churches today for a peaceful and moral end to Central High School's integration crisis.

Additional thousands stopped in stores throughout Little Rock as church bells rang across the city, bowed their heads and mumbled prayers for peace.

Other churches throughout Arkansas and the nation voluntarily joined in special services. Both President Eisenhower and Gov. Orval E. Faubus praised the services and ministers invoked a blessing on both of them today.

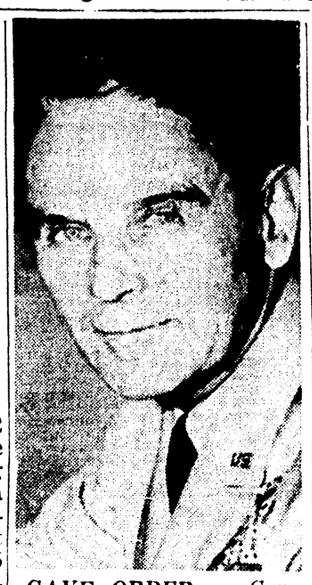

Prays For Strength

The Rev. Rufus Young, pastor of the Bethel African-Methodist-Episcopal Church, one of Little Rock's biggest Negro churches, led 100 Negroes in a prayer to strengthen the nine Negroes attending Central High under the protection of soldiers.

"Renew their courage and their faith to go ahead daily with what we believe is right," he prayed. "Remove fear from their parents and bring normality back to their lives."

The Rev. Young asked that Life-Saving Tool Maker Left $500,000

LANGHORNE, Pa., Oct. 12 (AP)—A local tool engineer learned today that the widow of a man whose life he had twice saved left him half a million dollars.

Charles Schwartzgood Jr. of London, Ontario, told a Trenton Sunday Times-Advertiser reporter by telephone that his mother Elvira, who died two weeks ago in Canada, had left an estate valued at more than a million dollars to be split between her son and L. Clifford Spickler, a tool engineer in a Trenton, N. J., rubber plant.

Schwartzgood said his mother, who owned extensive holdings in Canada and Florida, left half of her estate to Spickler because he twice saved the life of her late husband, Charles Schwartzgood.

Spickler confirmed that he had saved Schwartzgood first in France during World War I and again in 1955, during the August floods.

Spickler told a reporter he first met the senior Schwartzgood in 1918 in France while he was serving in the Air Force. He said a bomb burst in the airfield and the two men were badly injured.

Spickler said he suffered severe leg and body injuries while his companion was hit by shrapnel in the abdomen.

Spickler said that although badly injured, he dragged Schwartzgood to a nearby shelter and another hospital in Newton, N. J., where he was hospitalized.

Two weeks later, Spickler said, Schwartzgood suffered a second heart attack and died.

Spickler told a reporter he did not know Mrs. Schwartzgood had left him the money: "Oh my gosh ... don't tell me that," he said when he learned the news.

Kidnaper Returned By Mexican Police

EL PASO, Oct. 12 (UP)—Mexican immigration authorities at 11 a. m. today turned over confessed kidnaper, rapist and murderer Joe Franco to United States officials at the Mexican border on the International Bridge.

Roswell, N. M., chief of Police Tom Thompson and Chaves, N.M. county Sheriff J. D. Jones took Franco to Roswell.

The 24-year-old Dexter, N. M., farmhand said he laughed when he fatally stabbed 5-year-old Sandra Jo Lucero with a screwdriver early Sunday morning after kidnaping and raping her near Roswell. He said he had been smoking marijuana Saturday and thought it "would be fun."

Franco, also questioned by Mexican officials on a 1955 child molesting case in Juarez, appeared arrogant and defiant until today. Today, the thrill-killer appeared plain scared.

Space Pressure Heavily On GOP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Pressures are growing within the Eisenhower administration for the United States to get a satellite into the skies or take some other action to demonstrate its progress in the science of space at the earliest possible moment.

These pressures stem primarily from studies in the State Department and elsewhere which are reported to show that U. S. prestige has not been too badly damaged during the first week of world reaction to Russia's satellite success.

Bad damage probably will result over a period of time, however, some responsible officials say, unless this nation cuts the lag time between the Soviet achievement and its own satellite launching to a minimum.

Alternately, they say, some other demonstration of a spectacular nature in the field of rocketry and missiles would serve the same purpose.

A week after news of the Soviet triumph hit the world, studies based on press reaction and comment abroad and on personal inquiries and observations by American officials in foreign countries,

Navy Says Sputnik To Stay Aloft

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Experts at the Naval Research Laboratory estimated today that Russia's satellite Sputnik would stay up for at least a year.

At the same time they said reports were true that the rocket shell up in the sky with Sputnik has lost altitude and is speeding up.

But they added: "Reports that the rocket shell is disintegrating seem highly unlikely at this time."

The statement was issued by Dr. John P. Hagen, director of America's Project Vanguard at the laboratory.

"We estimate the satellite will stay up for at least a year," Dr. Hagen said. He said it appears to remain in a fairly constant orbit with an around-the-world flight period of 96.1 minutes, with the closest point to the earth 170 miles and the most distant 570 miles, and "should remain aloft for some time to come."

Density Low

Dr. Hagen said the empty rocket shell's density was low compared with the small dense mass of the satellite.

"The effect of the earth's atmospheric drag would naturally be expected to pull the rocket shell down faster than the satellite and at the same time because of its lower density the shell would increase its velocity as it falls closer and closer to the earth," he said.

Signs appeared to some American scientists today that "the beginning of the end" may have set in for the nose cone and the third-stage rocket that hurled Sputnik into space.

The research laboratory also said that photographic observations made at Salisbury Australia, on Oct. 11 indicated that the shell of the final rocket stage was leading the satellite by 2.4 minutes of time.

The experts said according to

Unions Face Great Demand For Controls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP)—A growing demand seemed to be developing among Republican Senators today for federal laws to put new curbs on the activities of labor unions.

Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland assumed the leadership of that bloc by announcing he was drafting labor legislation to be introduced after Congress returns in January. He said his objective was to protect Democratic processes in unions.

The office of Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb.) said he was studying legislative proposals to carry out a seven-point program which he recommended in a speech at St. Louis Friday.

It was not disclosed whether Knowland discussed labor issues with Eisenhower. He described the meeting as "just a review of domestic and foreign problems."

Includes Others

Knowland's proposals included the recommendations he has been making in his preliminary campaign for the governorship of California. However, they excluded a national "right-to-work" law of the type he has advocated for his home state but would leave it to the state legislatures. Such laws, in force in 18 states, would outlaw union shop contracts.

Knowland told reporters his

Space-Missile Controls May Aid Disarming

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 12 (AP)—Space-missile control was seen here today as a possible point of breakthrough toward the long-sought world disarmament treaty.

A 23-nation resolution submitted for the U.N. General Assembly mentions it only as one point of a six-point Western "package" disarmament program which the resolution would have the Assembly endorse.

But both U.S. and Soviet leaders were on record in favor of some kind of discussion of control of space objects prior to conclusion of a general disarmament agreement.

So the possibility was held out in some quarters at the U.N. that if the Western resolution ran into heavy going, the United States might push this idea as one way to get the big powers out of their deadlock over disarmament.

The Soviet Union's success in launching an artificial earth satellite Oct. 4 was taken as proof that it had the intercontinental ballistic missile it had claimed to have last August.

Monday, Soviet Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev told a New York Times interviewer his government would be willing to start talks with the United States

Homecoming

A number of Monroyans, headed by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Slagle, are to make a trip to Slagle, La., down in Vernon parish today to attend a big homecoming party at the church.

The Slagles were specially invited as the town bears their name. It is explained that back in 1917, Slagle's father was financially interested in the founding of a lumber mill there and the company operating the mill called the place "Slagle" for this man who was so deeply interested in the progress of the community.

Former residents from Louisiana and nearby Texas are expected to attend. There will be dinner on the grounds at noon.

Rickenbaker Sees Early Space Flight

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Oct. 12 (AP)—Capt. Eddie Rickenbaker predicted today that within 50 years interplanetary travel will be commonplace in atomic powered luxury spaceships carrying 2,000 persons.

And by the year 2007, some spaceships will be "semi-self sustaining planets within themselves," he added.

Rickenbaker, president of Eastern Air Lines, made the predictions at the dedication of a new terminal at Pinellas International Airport.

He also forecast half-hour airplane flights from Florida to New York, one hour transcontinental flights, and two hour transAtlantic flights.

Emergency Phone Rate Hike Denied

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Louisiana Public Service Commission rejected today a request for an immediate seven million dollar Southern Bell Telephone Co. rate hike before hearings are held on need for the increase.

In a prepared statement, Chairman Nat B. Knight said:

"The Commission cannot raise rates in this manner without giving the public a hearing any more than it would reduce the rates of the telephone company without giving the telephone company a full hearing."

Southern Bell, complaining current rates brought earnings so low they crippled expansion plans, had offered to post bond for refunds if the higher rates are denied.

In New Orleans, Homer Bartee, Southern Bell vice president and general manager for Louisiana said:

"The denial of our request is a great disappointment. It means that an urgently needed improvement in Louisiana telephone earnings has been further delayed.

"Without an improvement in earnings, the betterment and expansion of telephone service which we are anxious to continue, must be severely limited.

"At this peak period of Louisiana's growth, we will be able to do less than one-third of the construction required to meet the public need because our Louisiana earnings are too low to attract the necessary investment funds."

Knight said hearings on telephone rates would be held the latter part of November. He said the commission was negotiating with Arnold Hirsch, utilities expert who testified for the commission last year when rates were reduced. Hirsch presently is working on a telephone rate case in Canada, Knight said.

In 1956, a commission order forced Southern Bell to trim long distance rates 20 per cent within the state and slice pay station calls from a dime to five cents. This required a $3,940,000 refund to Louisiana customers.

Ideal Fall Weather Looms In Forecast

Clear and mild is the outlook for today, with a partly cloudy and cooler forecast offered for Arkansas.

The mercury dipped to 49 yesterday in the Monroe area, for the second time this season, and a high of 76 was recorded. Friday's readings were 54 and 77.

AT OTTAWA

Queen Elizabeth, Phillip Arrive

OTTAWA, Oct. 12 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip arrived here today amid the booming of a 21-gun salute to her first North American visit as a reigning monarch.

The Queen's four-engined DC7C landed at 4:21 p.m. EDT, four minutes ahead of schedule on its 13½-hour flight from London.

However, clinging to the precise schedule, the aircraft's door was not opened until exactly 4:30 p.m.

A Royal Canadian Air Force Band played "God Save the Queen."

Philip was hatless in the bright sunshine.

Elizabeth, looking pert in a full-skirted red afternoon dress with a mink collar, stepped forward smartly to receive the official hello from Canada's governor general Vincent Massey, and Prime Minister and Mrs. John Diefenbaker.

GULF MYSTERY

Hope Abandoned For Lost Sea Diver

GRAND ISLE, La. Oct. 12 (UP)—The Coast Guard said today the fate of a deep sea diver who mysteriously disappeared in the Gulf of Mexico may never be known.

Steven Thomas Williamson, 46, Columbia, Miss., father of five children and a veteran professional deep sea diver, vanished yesterday a few minutes before a barge crew could pull him from gulf waters near an offshore oil rig. Sharks live in the area 15 miles south of Grand Isle, but they rarely attack humans.

The Coast Guard rescue units said Williamson, a former Navy diver with 25 years diving experience, is presumed dead. Boats will keep watch in the area where Williamson was clearing debris from an underwater oil pipeline, 75 feet below water. They believe his body may float to the surface.

The victim's brother said he may have suffered a heart attack underwater.

Williamson equipped with a diving suit and mask was cleaning the outside of the pipeline which carries oil from a rig to battery storage tank on Grand Isle.

He signaled the crew in a barge above him he wanted to rise. They pulled him to a depth of about 15 feet when he signaled again. They stopped pulling and gave him slack in the lifeline, assuming he wanted to slow his ascent. Divers must come from deep water slowly or they develop bends, which can be fatal.

Underdog Notre Dame came from behind a two-touchdown deficit and whipped Army 23-21 in the renewal yesterday of one of college football's traditional rivalries while Oklahoma—the power above them all—and Michigan State eagerly trying to catch up to the Sooners scored expected victories.

Oklahoma won its 43rd in a row defeating Texas, 21-7. Michigan State buried neighboring Michigan, 35-6, before 101,000 at Ann Arbor.

Army was rated a six-point favorite over Notre Dame for their first meeting in 10 years. With less than 9 minutes to play the Cadets from the West Point plains, were ahead 21-20 because Monte Stickles missed an attempted conversion on Notre Dame's third touchdown.

But it was the same Stickles who came back to haunt Army. Just 2 minutes and 28 seconds after he missed the conversion try, he kicked a 29-yard field goal and that spelled the difference.

It marked the first time the two teams have scored two touchdowns against each other since the series was started in 1913. Notre Dame coach Terry Brennan played in the last Army-Irish game in 1947.

The Michigan State - Michigan game was advertised as a battle between two giants. State was No. 2 in last week's Associated Press poll behind Oklahoma, while Michigan was sixth.

But it really was no contest after the first half. State's big back, led by halfback Walt Kowalczyk, turned the Wolverines into a pack of fumbling Giants, rolling up a 35-6 count.

Oklahoma, which counts the day lost when it doesn't win by a half-dozen touchdowns, whipped Texas, 21-7, so it marked a moral victory for the Longhorns. Texas even led for one quarter.

But Oklahoma was not to be

Hydrogen Bomb Still Deterrent, Says M'Millan

BRIGHTON, England, Oct. 12 (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan said today world peace still hinges on the West's H-bomb deterrent despite startling developments in Russia. Obviously he referred to the Soviet satellite and intercontinental ballistic missile.

"Nobody can deny that it has been the West's possession of the bomb which has deterred and still deters the Soviet Union from open aggression," Macmillan told the Conservative party at its annual meeting.

"Even the most recent developments, however startling, have not altered this strategic fact. It is our will to retaliate with nuclear strength which prevents them from daring to launch their enormous forces against us."

He said Britain will go on working for a disarmament agreement to "free the world from the shadow of the nuclear threat."

"Meanwhile, so long as we have the retaliatory power I do not believe that a mass assault of the Soviet forces upon us is practicable."

Macmillan said the British-U.S. Alliance remained a cornerstone of world peace.

Missile And Satellite At Florida Base

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Oct. 12 (UP) — An American satellite assembly, complete with an instrumented baby moon, lies untouched at an Air Force base on a Florida beach while a U. S. Army rocket team labors on and nurses its bitterness in the north Alabama hills.

Nowhere did the Soviet satellite launching strike closer to home than at nearby Redstone Arsenal where the German - American team, led by brilliant Dr. Werner von Braun, prides itself as best in the field.

As far back as six months ago, it was learned, Dr. von Braun put together a "Jupiter C" guided ballistics missile and equipped it with what would have been the first man-made "space ball" had the device been fired successfully. The sphere is reported to weigh about 20 pounds and is about 20 inches in diameter.

Now, the Defense Department has hung a tight curtain of secrecy around operations here and has forbidden Redstone scientists to speak in any way about satellites or missiles.

Prof. Hermann Oberth, the "father" of German rocketry and tutor of Von Braun, sat in his little green bungalow and muttered "the teletype, it says today to say nothing, absolutely nothing."

But Herman Wiesman, a youngish veteran of the German rocket team that developed the V-2 at Peenemuende on the Baltic in World War II, summed up the general feeling of his countrymen working with the Army.

But it was the same Stickles who came back to haunt Army. Just 2 minutes and 28 seconds after he missed the conversion try, he kicked a 29-yard field goal and that spelled the difference.

It marked the first time the two teams have scored two touchdowns against each other since the series was started in 1913. Notre Dame coach Terry Brennan played in the last Army-Irish game in 1947.

The Michigan State - Michigan game was advertised as a battle between two giants. State was No. 2 in last week's Associated Press poll behind Oklahoma, while Michigan was sixth.

But it really was no contest after the first half. State's big back, led by halfback Walt Kowalczyk, turned the Wolverines into a pack of fumbling Giants, rolling up a 35-6 count.

Oklahoma, which counts the day lost when it doesn't win by a half-dozen touchdowns, whipped Texas, 21-7, so it marked a moral victory for the Longhorns. Texas even led for one quarter.

But Oklahoma was not to be

Homecoming

A number of Monroyans, headed by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Slagle, are to make a trip to Slagle, La., down in Vernon parish today to attend a big homecoming party at the church.

The Slagles were specially invited as the town bears their name. It is explained that back in 1917, Slagle's father was financially interested in the founding of a lumber mill there and the company operating the mill called the place "Slagle" for this man who was so deeply interested in the progress of the community.

Former residents from Louisiana and nearby Texas are expected to attend. There will be dinner on the grounds at noon.

Rickenbaker Sees Early Space Flight

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Oct. 12 (AP)—Capt. Eddie Rickenbaker predicted today that within 50 years interplanetary travel will be commonplace in atomic powered luxury spaceships carrying 2,000 persons.

And by the year 2007, some spaceships will be "semi-self sustaining planets within themselves," he added.

Rickenbaker, president of Eastern Air Lines, made the predictions at the dedication of a new terminal at Pinellas International Airport.

He also forecast half-hour airplane flights from Florida to New York, one hour transcontinental flights, and two hour transAtlantic flights.

Emergency Phone Rate Hike Denied

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 12 (AP) — The Louisiana Public Service Commission rejected today a request for an immediate seven million dollar Southern Bell Telephone Co. rate hike before hearings are held on need for the increase.

In a prepared statement, Chairman Nat B. Knight said:

"The Commission cannot raise rates in this manner without giving the public a hearing any more than it would reduce the rates of the telephone company without giving the telephone company a full hearing."

Southern Bell, complaining current rates brought earnings so low they crippled expansion plans, had offered to post bond for refunds if the higher rates are denied.

In New Orleans, Homer Bartee, Southern Bell vice president and general manager for Louisiana said:

"The denial of our request is a great disappointment. It means that an urgently needed improvement in Louisiana telephone earnings has been further delayed.

"Without an improvement in earnings, the betterment and expansion of telephone service which we are anxious to continue, must be severely limited.

"At this peak period of Louisiana's growth, we will be able to do less than one-third of the construction required to meet the public need because our Louisiana earnings are too low to attract the necessary investment funds."

Knight said hearings on telephone rates would be held the latter part of November. He said the commission was negotiating with Arnold Hirsch, utilities expert who testified for the commission last year when rates were reduced. Hirsch presently is working on a telephone rate case in Canada, Knight said.

In 1956, a commission order forced Southern Bell to trim long distance rates 20 per cent within the state and slice pay station calls from a dime to five cents. This required a $3,940,000 refund to Louisiana customers.

Ideal Fall Weather Looms In Forecast

Clear and mild is the outlook for today, with a partly cloudy and cooler forecast offered for Arkansas.

The mercury dipped to 49 yesterday in the Monroe area, for the second time this season, and a high of 76 was recorded. Friday's readings were 54 and 77.

AT OTTAWA

Queen Elizabeth, Phillip Arrive

OTTAWA, Oct. 12 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip arrived here today amid the booming of a 21-gun salute to her first North American visit as a reigning monarch.

The Queen's four-engined DC7C landed at 4:21 p.m. EDT, four minutes ahead of schedule on its 13½-hour flight from London.

However, clinging to the precise schedule, the aircraft's door was not opened until exactly 4:30 p.m.

Philip was hatless in the bright sunshine.

Elizabeth, looking pert in a full-skirted red afternoon dress with a mink collar, stepped forward smartly to receive the official hello from Canada's governor general Vincent Massey, and Prime Minister and Mrs. John Diefenbaker.

Hydrogen Bomb Still Deterrent, Says M'Millan

BRIGHTON, England, Oct. 12 (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan said today world peace still hinges on the West's H-bomb deterrent despite startling developments in Russia. Obviously he referred to the Soviet satellite and intercontinental ballistic missile.

"Nobody can deny that it has been the West's possession of the bomb which has deterred and still deters the Soviet Union from open aggression," Macmillan told the Conservative party at its annual meeting.

"Even the most recent developments, however startling, have not altered this strategic fact. It is our will to retaliate with nuclear strength which prevents them from daring to launch their enormous forces against us."

He said Britain will go on working for a disarmament agreement to "free the world from the shadow of the nuclear threat."

"Meanwhile, so long as we have the retaliatory power I do not believe that a mass assault of the Soviet forces upon us is practicable."

Macmillan said the British-U.S. Alliance remained a cornerstone of world peace.

GULF MYSTERY

Hope Abandoned For Lost Sea Diver

GRAND ISLE, La. Oct. 12 (UP)—The Coast Guard said today the fate of a deep sea diver who mysteriously disappeared in the Gulf of Mexico may never be known.

Steven Thomas Williamson, 46, Columbia, Miss., father of five children and a veteran professional deep sea diver, vanished yesterday a few minutes before a barge crew could pull him from gulf waters near an offshore oil rig. Sharks live in the area 15 miles south of Grand Isle, but they rarely attack humans.

The Coast Guard rescue units said Williamson, a former Navy diver with 25 years diving experience, is presumed dead. Boats will keep watch in the area where Williamson was clearing debris from an underwater oil pipeline, 75 feet below water. They believe his body may float to the surface.

The victim's brother said he may have suffered a heart attack underwater.

Williamson equipped with a diving suit and mask was cleaning the outside of the pipeline which carries oil from a rig to battery storage tank on Grand Isle.

He signaled the crew in a barge above him he wanted to rise. They pulled him to a depth of about 15 feet when he signaled again. They stopped pulling and gave him slack in the lifeline, assuming he wanted to slow his ascent. Divers must come from deep water slowly or they develop bends, which can be fatal.

After four minutes elapsed, the

Reds' Sputnik Means Satellite

The Russian word sputnik apparently has more than one special meaning to Americans.

The noun form means a satellite, or fellow-traveler. And it means Russian science beat the United States in conquering a large chunk of outer space.

Here's something else a Russian-English dictionary says about the word. The noun transformed into an active verb, as frequently is done in Russian, means to perplex, trammel, or embarrass.

The reflexive verb form means to entangle oneself, to be embarrassed or confused, or perhaps figuratively, to be all shook up.

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 12 (AP)—Mississippi oil men this week completed two new gas condensate wells and reported oil and gas shows in three other wells in several fields.

New wells:

In Pearl River County's Pistol Ridge field, Fred Larue completed the Southern Mineral-Federal No. A-1 well and reported it was flowing 1,1000,000 cubic feet of gas and 12 barrels of condensate daily from a Tuscaloosa sand at 8,496-8,501 feet.

L. B. Porter has completed the unit SE 72 in the Maxie Field of Forrest County and reported it flowed 1,800,000 cubic feet of gas and some condensate daily. Completion was in the lower Tuscaloosa sand at 8,212-18 feet.

Gulf Oil Corp. was below 10,000 feet in the Sullivan No. 2 in the Martinville field of Simpson County. Gulf reported testing low gravity oil in the Paluxy zone at 9,784-811 feet.

This field has commercial production established in the Rodessa field of Simpson County. Gulf reported testing low gravity oil in the Paluxy zone at 9,784-811 feet.

NEGROES AT AIRPORT

Racial Disturbance Ends At Waco Without Arrest

WACO, Tex., Oct. 12 (AP)—Police were called to the airport restaurant today after a Negro actress and the wife of a Negro college president refused to move from the white section.

The restaurant did not serve the women, Actress Rita Jordan, a faculty member at Southern College in Baton Rouge, La., and Mrs. J. H. Adams, whose husband heads Paul Quinn College at Waco.

The police blotter lists the incident as a disturbance call "settled without arrest." The officer who was sent to the restaurant couldn't be reached.

Miss Jordan, who appeared at the college last night, was at the airport to fly to Houston. She told a newsman, "I feel I am owed an apology."

Mrs. Adams said later they were asked by a waitress to move into an adjoining room. She said they told the waitress they were comfortable and simply wanted a cup of coffee. They also asked to see the manager. Mrs. Adams said they were told he was out but another person, whom she didn't believe was the manager, asked them to move.

"If the police were called we didn't know it," Mrs. Adams said. We sat there for 30 to 45 minutes and it doesn't take but about 15 minutes to get to the airport from the city."

The restaurant manager, Walter Smith, couldn't be reached for comment. The airport manager, Waverly Johnson, said that although he didn't know about the incident he has been directed to follow a segregated policy at the restaurant.

Yokohama WAC Unit Wins 'Battle Of Bulge' Honors

By DON BALDWIN

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Oct. 12 (AP)—A WAC detachment today came through with flying colors in its battle of the bulge.

Falsies and girdles decreed by the detachment's pretty young commander shaped up the outfit to win it a "high excellent" rating from a tough colonel who likes sharp soldiers.

Lt. Col. Frederick G. Ward of Harrington, Maine, said the 96-woman detachment at this U. S. Army port narrowly missed a top "superior" rating at today's inspection.

Three uniforms slightly scorched by too-hot irons and four pairs of slightly off-color shoes cost the detachment the highest mark.

Lt. Jeane Wolcott of Kent, Ohio, a shapely 28-year-old who came up through the ranks, said she was well-pleased with the fit of her charges' uniforms.

Imagines They Did

"I imagine they probably did," she said, when asked if the women had taken advice given them last week in a "girl-to-girl" chat. After her first inspection of the unit last week the new commander advised women not "generously endowed" to try falsies to pad out their uniforms.

"I don't like to see a uniform hang," she explained. "A few women who were beginning to bulge a bit were advised to wear girdles."

She emphasized that since neither falsies nor girdies are government issue, they must be purchased by the women and therefore her advice was not an order merely advice. Col. Ward said the young lieutenant's advice undoubtedly resulted from his orders.

"I talked to all my companies and I told them to sharpen their outfits up and do it in a hurry," he told a news conference following his inspection. "As far as the WACs are concerned, they are professional soldiers and expect no special privileges. They get none from me."

State Delegates At Convention Rap Accusations

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 12 (UP)—The Louisiana delegation attending the convention of National Association for Retarded Children here charged the Rapides parish coroner of "unethical and totally false accusations against the staff of the state Colony and Training School (at Pineville)."

The coroner, Dr. Walter Murrell, has said the school staff "did everything they could to cover up the news" of the recent death of a colony patient.

Rapides parish authorities announced this week that one patient struck another inmate over the head with a bottle and concealed the dead victim's body in a linen closet.

Morley Hudson of Shreveport, a board member of the National Association for Retarded Children, said Dr. Murrell injected "politics into the problems of caring for the mentally retarded. This is apparently the objective of certain local citizens and public officials who want the colony back under political control, with its resultant patronage and source of political plums," he said.

L. B. Porter has completed the unit SE 72 in the Maxie Field of Forrest County and reported it flowed 1,800,000 cubic feet of gas and some condensate daily. Completion was in the lower Tuscaloosa sand at 8,212-18 feet.

Gulf Oil Corp. was below 10,000 feet in the Sullivan No. 2 in the Martinville field of Simpson County. Gulf reported testing low gravity oil in the Paluxy zone at 9,784-811 feet.

This field has commercial production established in the Rodessa field of Simpson County. Gulf reported testing low gravity oil in the Paluxy zone at 9,784-811 feet.

This field has commercial production established in the Rodessa and Hosston sands but the Gulf well was the first to test the Paluxy zone.

Gulf Logs Shows

Gulf also is logging lower cretaceous oil shows in the Green No. 1 well in the semi-shallow Eucutta field in Wayne County.

Gulf is below 9,800 feet with shows of heavy oil logged from 9,600 feet to the bottom.

This well was abandoned in 1944 at 5,722 feet. Operators began deepening operations last month. Contract depth is 12,500 feet to seek Rodessa production.

Marshall R. Young was testing the International-Alexander No. 2 in the Ansley field of Hancock County. A drill stem test showed 2,800,000 cubic feet of gas and 144 barrels of condensate daily.

Other oil activity included:

1-Z. B. Soso field unit is scheduled to be drilling 17,500 feet.

The deepest producing well in the Soso Field is 12,200 feet.

In the one-well Valley Park field of Sharkey County, Amerada Petroleum Corp. was below 12,380 feet in the USA-Vaughey No. 1 scheduled to test the Smackover lime.

Central Oil Co. was beginning drilling operations in its Jennings No. 2 in the Martinville field of Simpson County.

Central and Southern States Oil Co. have set surface casing in their John D. Smith No. 1, also in the Martinville field.

Carter Oil Co. was below 12,000 feet in the Rankin County wildcat Kersh No. 1. No shows have been reported. Contract depth is 13,900 feet.

Rimrock-Tidelands was attempting to free stuck drill pipe in the Smith County wildcat J. C. Hester No. 1 at 11,560 feet.

State Delegates At Convention Rap Accusations

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 12 (UP)—The Louisiana delegation attending the convention of National Association for Retarded Children here charged the Rapides parish coroner of "unethical and totally false accusations against the staff of the state Colony and Training School (at Pineville)."

The coroner, Dr. Walter Murrell, has said the school staff "did everything they could to cover up the news" of the recent death of a colony patient.

Rapides parish authorities announced this week that one patient struck another inmate over the head with a bottle and concealed the dead victim's body in a linen closet.

Morley Hudson of Shreveport, a board member of the National Association for Retarded Children, said Dr. Murrell injected "politics into the problems of caring for the mentally retarded. This is apparently the objective of certain local citizens and public officials who want the colony back under political control, with its resultant patronage and source of political plums," he said.

GUTHRIE, Okla. (AP) — C.C. Pike was checking a building he had just purchased and was startled when he opened a closet door and found a skeleton.

Pike checked with authorities and found that a doctor formerly had his offices in the building. Apparently the skeleton was used for experimental work.

NEGROES AT AIRPORT

Racial Disturbance Ends At Waco Without Arrest

WACO, Tex., Oct. 12 (AP)—Police were called to the airport restaurant today after a Negro actress and the wife of a Negro college president refused to move from the white section.

The restaurant did not serve the women, Actress Rita Jordan, a faculty member at Southern College in Baton Rouge, La., and Mrs. J. H. Adams, whose husband heads Paul Quinn College at Waco.

The police blotter lists the incident as a disturbance call "settled without arrest." The officer who was sent to the restaurant couldn't be reached.

Miss Jordan, who appeared at the college last night, was at the airport to fly to Houston. She told a newsman, "I feel I am owed an apology."

Mrs. Adams said later they were asked by a waitress to move into an adjoining room. She said they told the waitress they were comfortable and simply wanted a cup of coffee. They also asked to see the manager. Mrs. Adams said they were told he was out but another person, whom she didn't believe was the manager, asked them to move.

"If the police were called we didn't know it," Mrs. Adams said. We sat there for 30 to 45 minutes and it doesn't take but about 15 minutes to get to the airport from the city."

The restaurant manager, Walter Smith, couldn't be reached for comment. The airport manager, Waverly Johnson, said that although he didn't know about the incident he has been directed to follow a segregated policy at the restaurant.

Little Rock's Citizens Pray For Solution

President Eisenhower and "the governor of this state" be "given the light to allow every citizen of the United States to have all the rights allowed to him in the Constitution."

"Let us pray for the young people of the community and of the church that they may resist temptation and overcome evil," the Rt. Rev. Robert R. Brown, Episcopal bishop of Arkansas, said at Trinity Cathedral.

"We pray for the President of our great land and for Governor Faubus to find a way to solve the situation for which we are praying today."

The President and Faubus are deadlocked in the crisis. The President refuses to remove 101st Airborne Division troops protecting nine Negroes at Central High School, because he does not think Faubus' promises to safeguard them are strong enough.

Faubus, on the other hand, refuses to make the guarantees stronger. His attitude is, "he (Eisenhower) got himself into this mess. Now, let him get himself out."

James T. Karam, a clothier and close personal friend of Faubus, who has been accused of being a "principal agitator" of violence at Central High, slipped into the First Methodist Church, sat in a back pew and prayed with his head bowed.

Mayor Woodrow Wilson Mann telegraphed Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. on Sept. 23 that Karam was a principal agitator of a near-riot which caused the President to send the troops in. The FBI is investigating Karam.

Faubus was sick in the gubernatorial mansion with flu and a hacking cough. When he was asked whether he prayed silently, he said:

"They tell me to pray without ceasing."

Whites and Negroes, Protestants, Roman Catholics and Jews all prayed today. Bishop Brown was chief organizer of the services.

He said that a "secondary purpose" of the prayer meeting was to determine how many residents of Little Rock felt deeply enough for law and order to pray for a solution.

now on control of such satellites and missiles.

Tuesday, Secretary of State Dulles, in remarks later amplified by a State Department declaration, opposed any bilateral talks. But he said the United States would enter into multilateral discussions looking toward control of space objects provided its allies agreed.

In the Assembly's Political Committee Thursday, U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge brought up this idea before the U.N. He recalled the proposals that Britain, Canada, France and the United States put before the Soviet Union Aug. 29 in the U.N. Disarmament subcommittee negotiations, later recessed in deadlock.

These proposals called for atomic and conventional disarmament subject to inspection. Under them, a technical committee would be set up to work out a system of inspection to make sure that objects sent through outer space would be used exclusively for peaceful and scientific purposes. This would take place three months after a disarmament treaty came into effect.

bills would call for federal laws to insure that union members could elect or recall officers by secret ballot and to act on policies through initiative and referendum procedure.

His legislation also would be aimed at protecting employe welfare funds, preventing the spending of union dues for political purposes or personal use of officers, and stopping national unions from taking away the autonomy of their locals.

Knowland acknowledged that most union leaders would oppose his ideas. He said they had taken the same stand toward the Taft-Hartley labor - management act but never convinced the country or their own members that it was a "slave labor" law.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Senate investigators disclosed today they are digging deeper into the handling of union funds by Teamster locals in areas which, they said, have been under James R. Hoffa's domination.

All Teamster locals in the Central and Southern Conferences have been asked to supply a listing of their cash assets, their stocks and bonds, all of their loans since January, 1950, and any advances or payments to other Teamsters units.

The request was made in letters sent by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of the special Senate committee investigating racketeering in the labor - management field.

L. A. Landry, wholesale manager for the Texas Oil Company; John Sherrouse, Jr., president of the Central Oil and Supply Company, along with Jimmy Moore, will attend the Louisiana, Arkansas Oil Progress meeting in Lafayette this week.

Other Louisiana cities planning to take part in the nationwide exercises include New Orleans, Norco Destrehan,Houma, New Iberia, Morgan City, Franklin, Abbeville, St. Martinville, Ville Platte, Charles, Shreveport, Winnfield, Ruston, Tallulah, Alexandria, Del and others.

Here service stations will display signs and posters telling of the vast oil industry. Many will have bumper stickers with the Bargain.".

In the Monroe area, there are 12 wholesale bulk plants serving more than 100 service stations, officials said.

The local plants and service stations employ nearly 1,000 persons to help serve Monroe motorists better Louis Whitfield, northeast district publicity chairman said.

Besides the industry's economic impact on the local area, its workers also contribute leadership, energy and financial support to the communities.

There are 40,336 oil and natural gas production people in Louisiana, second ranking state in gas production and third in crude oil in the nation.

Responsible for carrying out their companies' intensive exploration and drilling programs are hundreds of engineers, exploration crews and drillers. They often work under the most difficult conditions such as the steaming swamplands or far offshore in the Gulf of Mexico, Whitfield pointed out.

Speaking of service station dealers, "The public rarely stops to think how much it depends on service station men for everything from good service for their cars to answering all types of questions and the supplying of road maps and information on their use to the customer."

Deeds

The Exchange club is anticipating the receipt of many names of persons who seem to be qualified for the honor of being designated as suitable for an award for their Golden Deeds.

The club's book of Golden Deede is unique for it is of persons in our midst, still living, and who have performed with no thought of any return deeds that have been widely helpful to humanity.

This record will be preserved for years to come in the Ouachita Parish Library where pictures and awards will be on file.

Already there are on file for public display awards and names of E. L. Neville, James A. Noe, D. E. K. Means and Miss Julia Wossman.

The Exchange club wants names submitted and a brief listing of reasons why in the opionion of the writer certain person, or persons should receive the award for the current year. The letter to the club can be addressed to The Exchange Club, P.O. Box 330, Monroe.

Space Pressure Heavily On GOP

have left no doubt in the minds of top authorities here that the event could hardly have made a more powerful impact. The political and diplomatic implications for the future are tremendous.

At the same time, informants said the secret surveys, which are still going on, demonstrate an enormous reservoir of respect for the United States all over the world. This reservoir is the result of U. S. superiority in the fields of scientific progress and industrial production for many years.

Having lost the satellite race by officially refusing to recognize it as a contest in the cold war, the United States still has a chance to maintain its prestige largely unimpaired—by not trying to meet fact with explanation and propaganda. The only thing that will work, many U. S. diplomatic authorities are convinced, is an actual physical demonstration of American achievement.

Presumably these are among the considerations that have entered into President Eisenhower's conferences this week with military and civilian advisers, the National Security Council and the Cabinet on the whole wide range of issues and problems created by Moscow's disclosure Oct. 4 that its new baby moon was already riding the skies.

A main concern of State Department leaders is reported to be that the United States should not now appear to other nations as being either unduly excited or stupidly indifferent.

What American officials hope for is that the increased military power which the Russians either have or may shortly possess will serve to strengthen the ties among the Western Allies and cause them to pull together as in times of past danger. But it is said that this result cannot be assured unless this country itself shows a more dynamic leadership than it has so far appeared to display in connection with the satellite competitio

Minnesota, which seems to be getting stronger each week, crushed Northwestern in Big Ten competition. Wisconsin triumphed over Purdue 23-14, and Ohio State conquered Illinois 21-7, in two more Big Ten contests.

In the South, Maryland finally came alive and smothered Wake Forest 27-0, for its first victory of the season. Tennessee rolled past Chattanooga 28-13 and South Carolina halted Furman 58-13.

In the East, Penn State and Pitt, two of the hopefuls for the mythical crown, won. Penn State defeated William & Mary 21-13, while Pitt shut out Nebraska, 34-0. Syracuse, another strong eastern team, walloped Cornell of the Ivy League 34-0.

Take Another Reading

"When the confusion dies down, they may take another reading in Washington and we will find out where we are headed," Wiesman said. He emphasized he was speaking as a management and control participant in the program here, not as a scientist.

The Von Braun "moon" rocket was put together with available materials and within limitations of the Jupiter C project which called for a high velocity test weapon. An earlier Jupiter C is reported to have been fired 3,500 miles to a height of 650 miles.

Five times the Army offered to undertake the satellite launching, each time coming up with a project more ambitious than the previous one. But the role ultimately was assigned to the Navy, and the Von Braun team hid its disappointment and concentrated on perfecting the Jupiter, an intermediate range ballistic missile of a different construction than the Jupiter C.

Meanwhile the Jupiter C with the "moon" was shipped to Patrick Air Force Base at Cape Canaveral, the nation's big secret missile testing center where all types of rockets are sent soaring over the Atlantic.

Scientists In Turmoil

There it still sits and the Soviet Sputnik launching has plunged German and American scientists here alike into emotional turmoil over what might have been had the Von Braun "moon" gone up. Von Braun himself has gone into seclusion and is reported hoping secretly that the Air Force at Cape Canaveral will strike a match to the "wrong" rocket and his satellite will take its place in space.

But the Soviet feat is not without mixed blessings for this bustling rocket city which draws half its payroll from the 1,500 employes at Redstone Arsenal.

The Army ballistics missile agency at Redstone has stepped up as never before its work on the Jupiter, a weapon that appeared doomed last winter when Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson assigned intermediate missile control to the Air Force. This decision led to the court duced by the Air Force. Nickerson Jr., for letting out secret data on the Jupiter in defense of its qualities over the rival Thor produced by the Air Force. Nickerson was exiled to what his admirers here call the "Hot Siberia" in the Canal Zone.

calculation the satellite must have been seprated from the shell with a relative velocity of 2.1 feet per second.

Smaller Orbit

"After separation the shell has a slightly smaller orbit which will continue to grow still smaller with each passage around the earth," they said. "During the first passage around the earth the shell overtook the satellite and will continue for some time to lead it by an amount which is increasing 22 seconds per day," they said.

One American scientist reported that he got a photograph — faint and blurry — of the rocket that has been acompanying Sputnik on its journeys.

And from London came an estimate that the rocket is 100 times as large as the satellite, which the Russians have described as weighing 184 pounds and measuring 23 inches in diameter.

Dr. J. Alan Hynek of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said at Cambridge, Mass., that the rocket and the cone that helped carry the satellite into its orbit Oct. 4 now appear to be breaking up.

Junk Pile?

"We may have a traveling junk pile in the sky," he said.

Smithsonian officials had reports from Cambridge and Bedford, Mass., and Ft. Monmouth, N.J., of sightings of three bodies —the satellite itself is the third.

One Bedford sighting reported one of the objects as bright as the planet Jupiter, or almost 100 times brighter than the first sightings in various parts of he world.

Dr. Hynek said this particular brightness may have been caused by the nose cone beginning to tear apart, and added:

"This looks like a terrestial case of comet disintegration, possibly the beginning of the end as the objects sink lower and feel the drag of denser atmosphere."

The rocket photograph was reported by Prof. Donald L. Menzel who was posted on the roof of the Harvard Observatory at Cambridge early this morning. He is the director of the observatory.

A Moonwatcher in Colesville, Md., near Washington, D.C. said he spotted the rocket with an eight-power field telescope set at about a 20-degree angle from the horizon, and followed it 30 seconds.

This would take place three months after a disarmament treaty came into effect.

Unions Face Great Demand For Controls

bills would call for federal laws to insure that union members could elect or recall officers by secret ballot and to act on policies through initiative and referendum procedure.

His legislation also would be aimed at protecting employe welfare funds, preventing the spending of union dues for political purposes or personal use of officers, and stopping national unions from taking away the autonomy of their locals.

Knowland acknowledged that most union leaders would oppose his ideas. He said they had taken the same stand toward the Taft-Hartley labor - management act but never convinced the country or their own members that it was a "slave labor" law.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Senate investigators disclosed today they are digging deeper into the handling of union funds by Teamster locals in areas which, they said, have been under James R. Hoffa's domination.

All Teamster locals in the Central and Southern Conferences have been asked to supply a listing of their cash assets, their stocks and bonds, all of their loans since January, 1950, and any advances or payments to other Teamsters units.

The request was made in letters sent by Sen. McClellan (D-Ark), chairman of the special Senate committee investigating racketeering in the labor - management field.

buildings in Monroe and West Monroe.

L. A. Landry, wholesale manager for the Texas Oil Company; John Sherrouse, Jr., president of the Central Oil and Supply Company, along with Jimmy Moore, will attend the Louisiana, Arkansas Oil Progress meeting in Lafayette this week.

Other Louisiana cities planning to take part in the nationwide exercises include New Orleans, Norco Destrehan,Houma, New Iberia, Morgan City, Franklin, Abbeville, St. Martinville, Ville Platte, Charles, Shreveport, Winnfield, Ruston, Tallulah, Alexandria, Del and others.

Here service stations will display signs and posters telling of the vast oil industry. Many will have bumper stickers with the Bargain."

In the Monroe area, there are 12 wholesale bulk plants serving more than 100 service stations, officials said.

The local plants and service stations employ nearly 1,000 persons to help serve Monroe motorists better Louis Whitfield, northeast district publicity chairman said.

Besides the industry's economic impact on the local area, its workers also contribute leadership, energy and financial support to the communities.

There are 40,336 oil and natural gas production people in Louisiana, second ranking state in gas production and third in crude oil in the nation.

Responsible for carrying out their companies' intensive exploration and drilling programs are hundreds of engineers, exploration crews and drillers. They often work under the most difficult conditions such as the steaming swamplands or far offshore in the Gulf of Mexico, Whitfield pointed out.

Speaking of service station dealers, "The public rarely stops to think how much it depends on service station men for everything from good service for their cars to answering all types of questions and the supplying of road maps and information on their use to the customer."

It was decided that the new holiday lighting will be turned on Saturday, December 7, which will be the day that a big Christmas parade is set for the west side city. A gaily costumed Santa Claus will distribute candy to the youngsters.

Deeds

The Exchange club is anticipating the receipt of many names of persons who seem to be qualified for the honor of being designated as suitable for an award for their Golden Deeds.

The club's book of Golden Deede is unique for it is of persons in our midst, still living, and who have performed with no thought of any return deeds that have been widely helpful to humanity.

This record will be preserved for years to come in the Ouachita Parish Library where pictures and awards will be on file.

Already there are on file for public display awards and names of E. L. Neville, James A. Noe, D. E. K. Means and Miss Julia Wossman.

The Exchange club wants names submitted and a brief listing of reasons why in the opionion of the writer certain person, or persons should receive the award for the current year. The letter to the club can be addressed to The Exchange Club, P.O. Box 330, Monroe.

have left no doubt in the minds of top authorities here that the event could hardly have made a more powerful impact. The political and diplomatic implications for the future are tremendous.

At the same time, informants said the secret surveys, which are still going on, demonstrate an enormous reservoir of respect for the United States all over the world. This reservoir is the result of U. S. superiority in the fields of scientific progress and industrial production for many years.

Having lost the satellite race by officially refusing to recognize it as a contest in the cold war, the United States still has a chance to maintain its prestige largely unimpaired—by not trying to meet fact with explanation and propaganda. The only thing that will work, many U. S. diplomatic authorities are convinced, is an actual physical demonstration of American achievement.

Presumably these are among the considerations that have entered into President Eisenhower's conferences this week with military and civilian advisers, the National Security Council and the Cabinet on the whole wide range of issues and problems created by Moscow's disclosure Oct. 4 that its new baby moon was already riding the skies.

A main concern of State Department leaders is reported to be that the United States should not now appear to other nations as being either unduly excited or stupidly indifferent.

What American officials hope for is that the increased military power which the Russians either have or may shortly possess will serve to strengthen the ties among the Western Allies and cause them to pull together as in times of past danger. But it is said that this result cannot be assured unless this country itself shows a more dynamic leadership than it has so far appeared to display in connection with the satellite competitio

Auto Plunges Off Roadside, Three Injured

Three people were injured last night on the Jonesboro highway south of Bawcomville when the driver apparently lost control of the car, hit the railroad tracks and catapulted into the ditch.

Taken to St. Francis Hospital were H. V. Dorathy, 30, of 302 Campbell Street, West Monroe; Iley H. Evans Jr., 24, of 408 Jewel Street, West Monroe, and Eugene Haney, 24, address unknown.

Their injuries were undetermined late last night. State Police were investigating.

denied and Clendon Thomas and Jakie Sandefer scored on short bucks to send the Sooners ahead for good.

Minnesota, which seems to be getting stronger each week, crushed Northwestern in Big Ten competition. Wisconsin triumphed over Purdue 23-14, and Ohio State conquered Illinois 21-7, in two more Big Ten contests.

In the South, Maryland finally came alive and smothered Wake Forest 27-0, for its first victory of the season. Tennessee rolled past Chattanooga 28-13 and South Carolina halted Furman 58-13.

In the East, Penn State and Pitt, two of the hopefuls for the mythical crown, won. Penn State defeated William & Mary 21-13, while Pitt shut out Nebraska, 34-0. Syracuse, another strong eastern team, walloped Cornell of the Ivy League 34-0.

Princeton, which appears to be the class of the Ivy loop edged Penn, 13-9, and Dartmouth clubbed Brown—the preseason choice—35-0.

Denver turned back Wyoming 26-13, in the Skyline Conference and Oregon State, the defending Pacific Coast Conference champion, whipped Idaho 20-0 in a league game.

Missile And Satellite At Florida Base

Take Another Reading

"When the confusion dies down, they may take another reading in Washington and we will find out where we are headed," Wiesman said. He emphasized he was speaking as a management and control participant in the program here, not as a scientist.

The Von Braun "moon" rocket was put together with available materials and within limitations of the Jupiter C project which called for a high velocity test weapon. An earlier Jupiter C is reported to have been fired 3,500 miles to a height of 650 miles.

Five times the Army offered to undertake the satellite launching, each time coming up with a project more ambitious than the previous one. But the role ultimately was assigned to the Navy, and the Von Braun team hid its disappointment and concentrated on perfecting the Jupiter, an intermediate range ballistic missile of a different construction than the Jupiter C.

Meanwhile the Jupiter C with the "moon" was shipped to Patrick Air Force Base at Cape Canaveral, the nation's big secret missile testing center where all types of rockets are sent soaring over the Atlantic.

Scientists In Turmoil

There it still sits and the Soviet Sputnik launching has plunged German and American scientists here alike into emotional turmoil over what might have been had the Von Braun "moon" gone up. Von Braun himself has gone into seclusion and is reported hoping secretly that the Air Force at Cape Canaveral will strike a match to the "wrong" rocket and his satellite will take its place in space.

But the Soviet feat is not without mixed blessings for this bustling rocket city which draws half its payroll from the 1,500 employes at Redstone Arsenal.

The Army ballistics missile agency at Redstone has stepped up as never before its work on the Jupiter, a weapon that appeared doomed last winter when Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson assigned intermediate missile control to the Air Force. This decision led to the court duced by the Air Force. Nickerson Jr., for letting out secret data on the Jupiter in defense of its qualities over the rival Thor produced by the Air Force. Nickerson was exiled to what his admirers here call the "Hot Siberia" in the Canal Zone.

Turns Murderer

TOKYO, Sunday, Oct. 13 (AP) — Mt. Mihara, Japan's famous suicide volcano, erupted Sunday morning and killed one sightseer and injured 30 to 40 others, police reported.

Mihara is situated on Oshima Island off Tokyo Bay, about 100 miles south of Tokyo.

Navy Says Sputnik To Stay Aloft

calculation the satellite must have been seprated from the shell with a relative velocity of 2.1 feet per second.

Smaller Orbit

"After separation the shell has a slightly smaller orbit which will continue to grow still smaller with each passage around the earth," they said. "During the first passage around the earth the shell overtook the satellite and will continue for some time to lead it by an amount which is increasing 22 seconds per day," they said.

One American scientist reported that he got a photograph — faint and blurry — of the rocket that has been acompanying Sputnik on its journeys.

And from London came an estimate that the rocket is 100 times as large as the satellite, which the Russians have described as weighing 184 pounds and measuring 23 inches in diameter.

Dr. J. Alan Hynek of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said at Cambridge, Mass., that the rocket and the cone that helped carry the satellite into its orbit Oct. 4 now appear to be breaking up.

Junk Pile?

"We may have a traveling junk pile in the sky," he said.

Smithsonian officials had reports from Cambridge and Bedford, Mass., and Ft. Monmouth, N.J., of sightings of three bodies —the satellite itself is the third.

One Bedford sighting reported one of the objects as bright as the planet Jupiter, or almost 100 times brighter than the first sightings in various parts of he world.

Dr. Hynek said this particular brightness may have been caused by the nose cone beginning to tear apart, and added:

"This looks like a terrestial case of comet disintegration, possibly the beginning of the end as the objects sink lower and feel the drag of denser atmosphere."

The rocket photograph was reported by Prof. Donald L. Menzel who was posted on the roof of the Harvard Observatory at Cambridge early this morning. He is the director of the observatory.

A Moonwatcher in Colesville, Md., near Washington, D.C. said he spotted the rocket with an eight-power field telescope set at about a 20-degree angle from the horizon, and followed it 30 seconds.

Television For Blind

Television sets by which the blind will be able to see are reported so near that a physician predicts they will become a reality "in your time and mine."

When the blind are able to see by television it will mean that they will also be able to see anything else, as others see—without the use of eyes. This can be done by attaching small TV broadcasting units directly to the person who is blind.

This perhaps will be the greatest replacement for a vital part of the human body that has ever been perfected. It will mean that all blind persons with normal brains will be able to see as clearly, and possibly even more clearly, than those with ordinary eyes.

The prediction that television eyes will be in practical use within a short time was made by Dr. R. T. Lustig of Grand Rapids, Mich., past president of the Michigan Society of Osteopathic Physicians and a member of the state board of osteopathic examiners. Dr. Lustig is also a scientific consultant to the United State intelligence service. He said:

"This isn't science fiction; it is on its way. It is merely a matter of hanging the frequency of the TV beam to the point of resonance in the brain. The eye only transmits the picture and the brain does the seeing. Research is now under way that will lead to television transmission directly to the brain."

While the first seeing by the blind by television is expected to be made through regular television broadcasting, the prediction has also been made that tiny TV broadcasting sets will soon be so common that anyone who wishes to do so may carry one on his person. This would make it possible for practically any blind person to see, although at first his vision might be more limited to objects directly in front of him.

Heretofore there has been much progress in helping the so-called deaf to hear but up to now aid to the deaf has been principally in the form of magnifying or amplifying the hearing which the person still retains.

Dr. Lustig stated that the eye only does the transmitting and the brain does the seeing. The same is true in regard to sound. The ear does the transmitting but the brain does the hearing. This means that radio contact with the auditory portion of the brain will enable anyone, even a deaf mute, to hear as well as anyone.

If this scientific age continues to exist and to advance, the time will soon come when there will be none who cannot see and none who cannot hear.

South Political Whipping Boy

Why did the Administration send federal troops into Little Rock, Ark., to enforce integration in Central High School, where law and order had not broken down, and not send troops into Kohler, Wis., in the case of the Kohler Company strike in 1954, where law and order had broken down?

That is an interesting question, and a factual, dispassionate answer might spotlight some attitudes on the part of the Administration that it would prefer to keep in he dark.

Boiled down to its essence, a comparison of the two cases very clearly shows that the Administration is motivated more by any political advantage it might gain by what it does than it is by any concern for the preservation of law and order.

The Administration felt it would gain politically by enforcing integration of the races; it felt it would lose politically by curbing the law-breaking activities of the labor unions. That, plainly and simply, is the answer to the question.

This is not to say that had the other political party been in power, its own administration would not have done the same thing. In fact, the last presidential candidate of this other party says he would have acted the same way. Which only serves to show that one party is no better than the other when it comes to playing politics, that a voter looking for statesmanship cannot expect to find it in the leadership of either party. We have reached a sorry state of affairs when the administration of a party in power is more concerned about what may happen in the next election than it is about acting according to law.

Invasion of the State of Arkansas by federal troops was entirely illegal under the Constitution. Whether there would have been violence at Central High School in the case of integration (subsequent events indicate there would have been), the Governor of the State thought there would be, and he headed this off by use of the National Guard. This was the Governor's responsibility under the Constitution, and his alone. He was stopped from carrying out this responsibility by federal court injunction, whereupon violence did break out.

Then, instead of handling the situation through the proper legal channels, the President federalized the National Guard of Arkansas so that the Governor would be powerless to carry out his responsibility for preserving peace and quiet in his own state and very quickly ordered a blitzkreig on Little Rock by federal troops without giving the "civil process" any opportunity to work the trouble out in a perceable manner. Thus did the Administration violate the "law of the land" which it was so piously proclaiming to uphold.

On the other hand, in the case of the Kohler Company strike, law and order county and state level in Wisconsin. No effort was made by the duly elected officials at these respective levels to preserve law and order. More than 800 cases of vandalism to property and violence to individuals were reported, but the political power of the union in that state was of such strength that the people had to bear them without recourse to due process of law. If there was ever a time when the Federal Government had a duty to intervene, it was in this case.

It was the responsibility of the Governor of Wisconsin to call out the National Guard but he did not do so. He made no effort to settle the trouble with state troops as was done in Arkansas. The Administration might claim that in such a case, it was the responsibility of the Governor of Wisconsin to call on the Federal Government for help before it could send in federal troops. Actually, such an attitude would have been correct, except that it was plainly apparent to everybody that Wisconsin was making no effort to enforce the law at Kohler. The Administration waited on no such call in the case of Little Rock. In Little Rock, the law was being enforced in accordance with the responsibility of the State Government, but this made no difference to the Administration; it sent the federal troops right on in wihout being asked and without excuse.

The "law" doesn't seem to be the same to the Administration in all cases, whereas "politics" is always the same!

BASCOM TIMMONS

'Remember Little Rock' May Become Like 'Alamo' And 'Maine' Slogans

AUTOBORNE IN VIRGINIA — We had the "Alamo" and the "Maine" in campaign slogans. Now it won't be surprising if we get another — "Remember Little Rock!"

A distinguished Virginian of national political repute has seriously told some colleagues (and this reporter) that every available billboard space should be plastered with the words and that this tactic would bring out a record vote on November 5th when Virginia chooses her next governor. This man feels, as does literally everybody whom I have contacted on a two - day tour, that a voter turnout of over 500,000 would mean a landslide Democratic victory. It might well be large enough to set back the recently-robust Rpublican party in this state by 50 years.

This is dismal and depressing news, but it is writ too large to be misread. Time was when there were a hatful of legitimate issues in this campaign. Today there is only one. Virginia has problems of highways, water pollution, health sanitaria and one - partyism. But one issue, one problem, now blankets them all. Nobody talks about or listens to anything except the federal forced - mixing of the races. It is a public obsession.

Both gubernatorial candidates are against racial integration in the schools and elsewhere, but that is not enough. The degree of a man's segregation spirit is now a vital matter. Candidate J. Lindsay Almond, Jr. (D.) is for "massive resistance" under the so-called Gray plan. Any public school in Virginia in order to be an "efficient" one in the eyes of the state law, must be racially segregated. If not, the governor is required to close it and to shut off state funds. Candidate Ted Dalton (R.) is for "pupil placement," which is essentially a partial - integration plan like the one which has come to grief in Arkansas. Both Almond and Dalton have denounced the president's storm troop strategy in Little Rock, but the intensity of disapproval is all in favor of the Democrats. So, it would seem, is the concentration of sincerity and common sense. If the supreme court school integration decision was unconstitutional and immoral, as both men seem to believe, why tolerate it in small doses?

This implication of hypocrisy is manifestly unfair to Ted Dalton, whom Virginians of both parties regard as a superior man. He polled 45 per cent of the vote in 1953, which was the year after Virginia had elected three Republican Congressmen and had gone for the Eisenhower - Nixon ticket.

Bridge Of Promise

Defense Mobilization Chief Proves Good Name Is Better Than Fine Gold

WASHINGTON, D. C. —Obedience to that part of the Tenth Commandment, reading "Thou shalt not covet," need not apply in all cases. There is the example of Gordon Gray, Director of the Office of Defense Mobilization a man of property, culture and character. It won't hurt a bit if people envy the last-named quality in the sandy - haired, easy-does-it North Carolinian. It might even help if all of us wish we had the character, the name for probity, which Mr. Gray carries around town.

Thereby hangs a tale which is partially told in a letter dated last August 27th, from Gray to Senator Kefauver. The letter reviews an unpleasant appearance in May of the Defense Mobilizer before the Kefauver Committee where circumstantial evidence made Gray look very bad indeed. Frankly, it made him seem to have suppressed a document which the Kefauver Committee already had in hand. It now turns out that Gray could have spared himself much embarrassment by explaining some facts which, as he reveals in his letter, "I was under a duty not to discuss."

In other words, Gray set his teeth and took the abuse of Kefauver and the press, not excluding this column, rather than break his pledge of confidence at the White House. He may have believed, quite correctly, that his reputation for integrity was stronger than the circumstantial evidence. In any event, Gray's friends in town and elsewhere felt this way. They made their feelings known in letters and comment. The upshot was that Gordon Gray, even before his now-it-can-be-told letter to Kefauver, came away from the controversy unscathed. He proved the old adage that a good name is more to be coveted than fine gold.

Such a man is good to have in any job, but he is particularly well - placed at ODM. One of these days this agency is expected to issue a list of survival items which the country will need on hand in event of thermonuclear attack. Many of these will be medical compounds which pharmaceutical firms manufacture for sale and profit. Foreknowledge of such a list, and an inside tip as to whether and how much the Federal government intends to stockpile, would be worth a fortune to speculators and to manufacturing firms. Premature disclosure would amount to a major scandal for the Eisenhower Administration and, by revealing our national shortages, would be worth something to the enemy.

Mobilizer Gray's job is non - glamorous in that it deals with aspects of defense that get little publicity. It breaks down into details that are dull in themselves although quite close to the nation's juglar vein. His calculations as to survival items are based on a large and varied collection of evidence. Some of it was gathered from Operation Alert of last July. This was a non-military exercise to simulate a nuclear attack on the United States from 167 enemy weapons which mythically hurled millions of tons of TNT on 155 American cities. Other evidence concerning our survival requirements comes to Gray from actual war experience by the Armed Forces and from theoretical projections by experts in every related field.

The directorship of ODM is about as big a job as its incumbent cares to make it. Not only physical supplies, but programs for carrying on business and government, fall under his responsibility. The temptation to mushroom and "empire - build" is nearly limitless. Mr. Gray has the advantage of bringing to the post a certain objectivity which he exhibited as Chairman of the Personnel Security Board which considered the case of J. Robert Oppenheimer. It is hardly a secret that the so-called Gray Commission was under much pressure by scientists, academic leaders, liberal members of the press and the Federal Government to give Oppenheimer complete clearance and restoration to his postion with the Atomic Energy Commission. But the chairman and his two associates made their adverse decision on the highest possible level of motivation. They felt it was justifiable to hurt somebody, even with a measure of injustice, rather than to risk the national security.

This highly - sensitive patriotism is a good quality for the ODM directorship, and Gray seems to have another. He understands that this country, thanks to its political divisions, does not stand or fall upon the preservation of the government in Washington. The Federal establishment could be temporarily demoralized by attack, yet the rest of the country would function and continue the fight. In a speech last month to the U.S. Conference of Mayors, Gray warned that "you must put yourselves into a position of mobilization readiness." Part of his own job, he said, was "to make greater use of local authorities and local resources."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (CQ) — Congress is laying the groundwork for the 1958 election campaign with an unprecedented rash of investigative activity.

And, in keeping with the political temper of the times, the emphasis of congressional probing has switched from Communist hunting to other issues closer to the hearts, and pocketbooks, of the nation's voters.

During the 1957 session, the senate and house authorized their committees to spend a record $6.1 million on investigations ranging in subject from the government's monetary policy to the efficacy of reducing pills. As of July 1, committees reported they already had spent more than one-third of the amount. Many are planning to ask for more money next year.

Still leading spender was the senate judiciary committee, which reported using up nearly $440,000 of its more than $1 million authorization before July 1.

The house government operations committee, second top spender, used up nearly $250,000 its $575,000 allotment in the first six months. The third - place senate special committee to study the foreign aid programs spent $162,000, most'y in funds left over from the 84th congress.

Labor - Management Probe

The senate's headline investigation of irregularities in the giant Teamsters' Union had cost about $153,000 by July 1. The senate rackets committee—officially the senate select committee on improper activities in the labor and management fields — which conducted the study, originally had a $350,000 spending authorization. But just before adjournment it sought and won an additional $150,000.

Major economic studies were undertaken by several committees during the 1957 session. The senate finance committee held extended hearings on the financial condition of the United States, after the house denied its banking and currency committee's request for authority to make such a study. President Eisenhower wanted a citizens' commission to undertake the inquiry.

A joint economic subcommittee studied the effects of federal spending on the economy, planned further hearings late in 1957. After adjournment the senate small business committee began a series of regional hearings throughout the United States on the impact of federal taxation on small business.

During the session the senate judiciary antitrust and monopoly subcommittee began an intensive study of "administered pricing" in the steel industry, and two senate subcommittees conducted a joint inquiry into the operation of the emergency oil lift to Europe and its relation to domestic price increases.

Veterans Of World War II More Serious And Sober

For almost two weeks now I have been cataloguing my memories of the American Legion Convention in Atlantic City. After the sifting and sorting, one irrenfutable impression remains.

It's not the same old Legion.

The Legion conventions I remember from two wars and 20 years ago were real ripsnorters. Electric canes. Paper bag waterbombs tossed from hotel windows. Empty meeting rooms and overflowing cocktail bars. One for all and all for fun!

The change began to set in after World War II. It was the young veterans who were more serious, more sober, less celebratory.

There was a further maturity of the average Legionnaire after Korea.

And somehow I think the 40-year-old Legion completely came of age at Atlantic City. Not grown old; grown up.

James Devlin of the Associated Press wrote, "Another sign of the passing years was the general sedateness of the some 75,000 veterans who were in this seashore resort for the convention, in contrast with the high jinks of earlier years."

I sat with Commander Dan Daniel and General Mark Clark through a Commander's banquet which lasted five hours. And not one drink was served.

I witnessed a floor show which included Morton Downey, the Chordettes, Les Paul and Mary and I saw or heard nothing that would not have been appropriate in church!

I addressed the convention at 11 a.m. the following morning, and the huge hall had been packed with attentive and intense Legionnaires since 9:30.

Compared to some of the hung-over morning meetings I remember from 20 years ago, the contrast would have been shocking ... except that it has been gradual.

The National Commanders, elected recent years, demonstrate this evolution.

Right up through this present new one they reflect increased dignity and dedication.

But more important than these "front men" are the three million individual blue-hat men in the ranks whose conduct, public and private, has contributed to a new respect for the organization they represent.

I window-shopped the boardwalk four or five times a day and a couple of times very late at night, and the Legionnaires I found huddled here and there were not singing "Sweet Adeline."

But with the wives many had brought along, they were discussing pending resolutions, speeches they had heard, committee business.

If I have bent the twig backward a bit here, it's only to make sure it snaps back straight.

The American Legionnaires are not suddenly "over the hill," incapable of fun or uninterested in a night on the town.

But that's not what the conventions are for any more.

The American Legion has grown up.

SEES DICTATORSHIP

Editor, Morning World:

We in the South are very much disturbed over the situation that prevails in Little Rock. It was brought on by the selfish desire of nine men on the Supreme Court bench and backed by OUR president. The beginning of dictatorship, something the whole U.S.A. is going to suffer from unless these Communist inspired people are stopped and soon.

When we Democrats voted Republican we thought we voted for a man of high intelligence, a God inspired man — a man the whole nation could trust and depend on to serve us for the good of the people and by the people.

If my memory serves me right and I believe it does — when Ike was campaigning he promised the States, States Rights, and he has done and is doing all to take away rights of the States and people. When he took away the rights of Gov. Faubus of Arkansas, it just goes to show how quick he can take away the rights of other Governors and then we will no longer need a Governor, but will be under dictatorship just as the people of Russia are. Ike mentioned on his T. V. appearance the other night that Russia was laughing up their sleeves about what was happening in Little Rock. WHO cares what Russia thinks? Russia has different classes of their own nationality — the upper class does not integrate with the lower class.

Can the people of America picture anything more horrifying than when Heil Eisenhower marched the troops down on the people of Little Rock to cram something down their throats they didn't want so we might call Little Rock another Hungary — and thanks to Heil Eisenhower.

We have lots of people who are doing the devils dirty work for them and they are people with sheeps clothing. Some are in our government, and we have them as supposed to be ministers of the Gospel — God called servants. Do they know their Bible? The Bible furnishes considerable data from which valid inferences may be drawn in support of the general principle of segregation, an important feature of the divine purpose and providence throughout.

God gave to man the right of reason and experience with the light of revelation of the Bible and he expected man to be a leader in the things that were right in the sight of God. We would all do well to examine with open minds some of the most important references in the Bible. Turn to Gen. 4: 11-26. A mark was placed on Cain and he was separated from the other branch of the human family represented by Seth and his descendants. Gen. 6: 1-17. The promiscuous intermarriage of the sons of God, that is the descendants of Seth with the daughters of men, who were apparently the descendants of Cain. This resulted in the complete breakdown of family life and such wide spread immorality and wickedness as to provoke God to destroy the earth with the flood. Inference from this tragic story is that intermarriage of dissimilar groups, whether the difference be moral, cultural or physical it is not considered to be good for the preservation of wholesome family life or to morality, and therefore is contrary to the purpose and will of God.

Gen. 9: 18-29. After the flood the three sons of Noah, Shem, Ham and Japeth became the three distinct racial groups, which were to repeople the earth.

The descendants from Shem migrated Eastward and occupied most of Asia; the descendants of Japeth migrated Westward and ultimately occupied the Continent of Europe; while the descendants of Ham moved generally Southward toward the tropics and occupied the Continent of Africa, and possibly Southern Asia and the islands of the Pacific.

According to the law of Moses, Lev. 19:19, the cross breeding of diverse strains of cattle, the planting of mixed seeds, and the mixing of wool and linen in garments were forbidden. We are told the reasons for this curious law, but it seems impossible to escape the conclusion that if such inter-mixture of divine elements in the lower orders of animals and plant life were unseemingly and contrary to the divine purpose, the same principle would apply with even greater force with respect to human relations.

Deu. 7:3 — Moses strictly warned the Israelites against their sons and daughters intermarrying with the pagan people with whom they came in contact, under the penalty of bringing upon themselves the divine wrath and judgement. This warning was repeated, and was especially burned into the consciousness of the Nation by the terrible penalties which were inflicted upon those who committed whoredom with the daughters.

In Ezra 9:10, we find also where it caused Ezra to rend his clothes and tear his hair, and cry unto God for mercy upon the sinning Jews from the Babylonish captivity. A great number of the prominent Jews had taken their wives from among the heathen people of the land. Drastic steps were taken to purge out this evil practice and emphasize anew the vital importance of purity and integrity of the racial stock by the leaders of the Nation and their divine ruler.

It is my conviction that God ordained segregation. It is impossible for me to believe otherwise. God divided the races and determined their place of habitation. God's plan is for each race to live to itself the members segregated to themselves and to marry within the bounds of their race in order to keep their blood pure.

And in all fairness to the Negro race, they are not particularly interested in intermarriage with the white race. They have pride in their race and color just as the white people have. Race pride is a normal positive principle and is essentially constructive and moral. Pride of race, like love of home and love of country, has been one of the mightiest forces making for human happiness and progress.

Television For Blind

Television sets by which the blind will be able to see are reported so near that a physician predicts they will become a reality "in your time and mine."

When the blind are able to see by television it will mean that they will also be able to see anything else, as others see—without the use of eyes. This can be done by attaching small TV broadcasting units directly to the person who is blind.

This perhaps will be the greatest replacement for a vital part of the human body that has ever been perfected. It will mean that all blind persons with normal brains will be able to see as clearly, and possibly even more clearly, than those with ordinary eyes.

The prediction that television eyes will be in practical use within a short time was made by Dr. R. T. Lustig of Grand Rapids, Mich., past president of the Michigan Society of Osteopathic Physicians and a member of the state board of osteopathic examiners. Dr. Lustig is also a scientific consultant to the United State intelligence service. He said:

"This isn't science fiction; it is on its way. It is merely a matter of hanging the frequency of the TV beam to the point of resonance in the brain. The eye only transmits the picture and the brain does the seeing. Research is now under way that will lead to television transmission directly to the brain."

While the first seeing by the blind by television is expected to be made through regular television broadcasting, the prediction has also been made that tiny TV broadcasting sets will soon be so common that anyone who wishes to do so may carry one on his person. This would make it possible for practically any blind person to see, although at first his vision might be more limited to objects directly in front of him.

Heretofore there has been much progress in helping the so-called deaf to hear but up to now aid to the deaf has been principally in the form of magnifying or amplifying the hearing which the person still retains.

Dr. Lustig stated that the eye only does the transmitting and the brain does the seeing. The same is true in regard to sound. The ear does the transmitting but the brain does the hearing. This means that radio contact with the auditory portion of the brain will enable anyone, even a deaf mute, to hear as well as anyone.

If this scientific age continues to exist and to advance, the time will soon come when there will be none who cannot see and none who cannot hear.

South Political Whipping Boy

Why did the Administration send federal troops into Little Rock, Ark., to enforce integration in Central High School, where law and order had not broken down, and not send troops into Kohler, Wis., in the case of the Kohler Company strike in 1954, where law and order had broken down?

That is an interesting question, and a factual, dispassionate answer might spotlight some attitudes on the part of the Administration that it would prefer to keep in he dark.

Boiled down to its essence, a comparison of the two cases very clearly shows that the Administration is motivated more by any political advantage it might gain by what it does than it is by any concern for the preservation of law and order.

The Administration felt it would gain politically by enforcing integration of the races; it felt it would lose politically by curbing the law-breaking activities of the labor unions. That, plainly and simply, is the answer to the question.

This is not to say that had the other political party been in power, its own administration would not have done the same thing. In fact, the last presidential candidate of this other party says he would have acted the same way. Which only serves to show that one party is no better than the other when it comes to playing politics, that a voter looking for statesmanship cannot expect to find it in the leadership of either party. We have reached a sorry state of affairs when the administration of a party in power is more concerned about what may happen in the next election than it is about acting according to law.

Invasion of the State of Arkansas by federal troops was entirely illegal under the Constitution. Whether there would have been violence at Central High School in the case of integration (subsequent events indicate there would have been), the Governor of the State thought there would be, and he headed this off by use of the National Guard. This was the Governor's responsibility under the Constitution, and his alone. He was stopped from carrying out this responsibility by federal court injunction, whereupon violence did break out.

Then, instead of handling the situation through the proper legal channels, the President federalized the National Guard of Arkansas so that the Governor would be powerless to carry out his responsibility for preserving peace and quiet in his own state and very quickly ordered a blitzkreig on Little Rock by federal troops without giving the "civil process" any opportunity to work the trouble out in a peaceable manner. Thus did the Administration violate the "law of the land" which it was so piously proclaiming to uphold.

On the other hand, in the case of the Kohler Company strike, law and order county and state level in Wisconsin. No effort was made by the duly elected officials at these respective levels to preserve law and order. More than 800 cases of vandalism to property and violence to individuals were reported, but the political power of the union in that state was of such strength that the people had to bear them wihout recourse to due process of law. If there was ever a time when the Federal Government had a duty to intervene, it was in this case.

It was the responsibility of the Governor of Wisconsin to call out the National Guard but he did not do so. He made no effort to settle the trouble with state troops as was done in Arkansas. The Administration might claim that in such a case, it was the responsibility of the Governor of Wisconsin to call on the Federal Government for help before it could send in federal troops. Actually, such an attitude would have been correct, except that it was plainly apparent to everybody that Wisconsin was making no effort to enforce the law at Kohler. The Administration waited on no such call in the case of Little Rock. In Little Rock. the law was being enforced in accordance with the responsibility of the State Government, but this made no difference to the Administration; it sent the federal troops right on in wihout being asked and without excuse.

The "law" doesn't seem to be the same to the Administration in all cases, whereas "politics" is always the same!

'Remember Little Rock' May Become Like 'Alamo' And 'Maine' Slogans

AUTOBORNE IN VIRGINIA — We had the "Alamo" and the "Maine" in campaign slogans. Now it won't be surprising if we get another — "Remember Little Rock!"

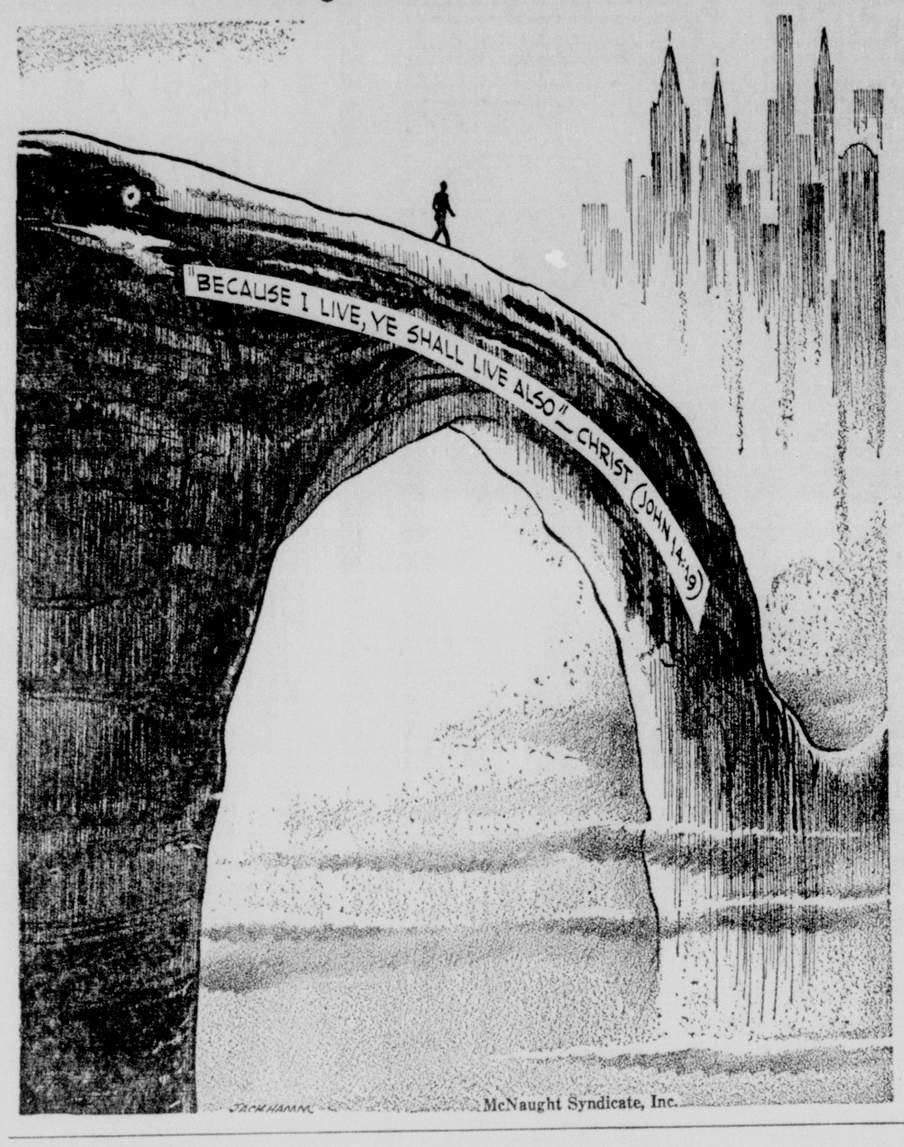

A distinguished Virginian of national political repute has seriously told some colleagues (and this reporter) that every available billboard space should be plas tered with the words and that this tactic would bring out a record vote on November 5th when Virginia chooses her next governor. This man feels, as does literally everybody whom I have contacted on a two - day tour, that a voter turnout of over 500,000 would mean a landslide Democratic victory. It might well be large enough to set back the recently-robust Rpublican party in this state by 50 years.

This is dismal and depressing news, but it is writ too large to be misread. Time was when there were a hatful of legitimate issues in this campaign. Today there is only one. Virginia has problems of highways, water pollution, health sanitaria and one - party-ism. But one issue, one problem, now blankets them all. Nobody talks about or listens to anything except the federal forced - mixing of the races. It is a public obsession.

Both gubernatorial candidates are against racial integration in the schools and elsewhere, but that is not enough. The degree of a man's segregation spirit is now a vital matter. Candidate J. Lindsay Almond, Jr. (D.) is for "massive resistance" under the so-called Gray plan. Any public school in Virginia in order to be an "efficient" one in the eyes of the state law, must be racially segregated. If not, the governor is required to close it and to shut off state funds. Candidate Ted Dalton (R.) is for "pupil placement," which is essentially a partial - integration plan like the one which has come to grief in Arkansas. Both Almond and Dalton have denounced the president's storm troop strategy in Little Rock, but the intensity of disapproval is all in favor of the Democrats. So, it would seem, is the concentration of sincerity and common sense. If the supreme court school integration decision was unconstitutional and immoral, as both men seem to believe, why tolerate it in small doses?

This implication of hypocrisy is manifestly unfair to Ted Dalton, whom Virginians of both parties regard as a superior man. He polled 45 per cent of the vote in 1953, which was the year after Virginia had elected three Republican Congressmen and had gone for the Eisenhower - Nixon ticket.

Defense Mobilization Chief Proves Good Name Is Better Than Fine Gold

WASHINGTON, D. C. —Obedience to that part of the Tenth Commandment, reading "Thou shalt not covet," need not apply in all cases. There is the example of Gordon Gray, Director of the Office of Defense Mobilization a man of property, culture and character. It won't hurt a bit if people envy the last-named quality in the sandy - haired, easy-does-it North Carolinian. It might even help if all of us wish we had the character, the name for probity, which Mr. Gray carries around town.

Thereby hangs a tale which is partially told in a letter dated last August 27th, from Gray to Senator Kefauver. The letter reviews an unpleasant appearance in May of the Defense Mobilizer before the Kefauver Committee where circumstantial evidence made Gray look very bad indeed. Frankly, it made him seem to have suppressed a document which the Kefauver Committee already had in hand. It now turns out that Gray could have spared himself much embarrassment by explaining some facts which, as he reveals in his letter, "I was under a duty not to discuss."

In other words, Gray set his teeth and took the abuse of Kefauver and the press, not excluding this column, rather than break hi pledge of confidence at the White House. He may have believed, quite correctly, that his reputation for integrity was stronger than the circumstantial evidence. In any event, Gray's friends in town and elsewhere felt this way. They made their feelings known in letters and comment. The upshot was that Gordon Gray, even before his now-it-can-be-told letter to Kefauver, came away from the controversy unscathed. He proved the old adage that a good name is more to be coveted than fine gold.

Such a man is good to have in any job, but he is particularly well - placed at ODM. One of these days this agency is expected to issue a list of survival items which the country will need on hand in event of thermonuclear attack. Many of these will be medical compounds which pharmaceutical firms manufacture for sale and profit. Foreknowledge of such a list, and an inside tip as to whether and how much the Federal government intends to stockpile, would be worth a fortune to speculators and to manufacturing firms. Premature disclosure would amount to a major scandal for the Eisenhower Administration and, by revealing our national shortages, would be worth something to the enemy.

Mobilizer Gray's job is non - glamorous in that it deals with aspects of defense that get little publicity. It breaks down into details that are dull in themselves although quite close to the nation's juglar vein. His calculations as to survival items are based on a large and varied collection of evidence. Some of it was gathered from Operation Alert of last July. This was a non-military exercise to simulate a nuclear attack on the United States from 167 enemy weapons which mythically hurled millions of tons of TNT on 155 American cities. Other evidence concerning our survival requirements comes to Gray from actual war experience by the Armed Forces and from theoretical projections by experts in every related field.

The directorship of ODM is about as big a job as its incumbent cares to make it. Not only physical supplies, but programs for carrying on business and government, fall under his responsibility. We would all do well to examine with open minds some of the most important references in the Bible. Turn to Gen. 4: 11-26. A mark was placed on Cain and he was separated from the other branch of the human family represented by Seth and his descendants. Gen. 6: 1-17. The promiscuous intermarriage of the sons of God, that is the descendants of Seth with the daughters of men, who were apparently the descendants of Cain. This resulted in the complete breakdown of family life and such wide spread immorality and wickedness as to provoke God to destroy the earth with the flood. Inference from this tragic story is that intermarriage of dissimilar groups, whether the difference be moral, cultural or physical it is not considered to be good for the preservation of wholesome family life or to morality, and therefore is contrary to the purpose and will of God.

Gen. 9: 18-29. After the flood the three sons of Noah, Shem, Ham and Japeth became the three distinct racial groups, which were to repeople the earth.

The descendants from Shem migrated Eastward and occupied most of Asia; the descendants of Japeth migrated Westward and ultimately occupied the Continent of Europe; while the descendants of Ham moved generally Southward toward the tropics and occupied the Continent of Africa, and possibly Southern Asia and the islands of the Pacific.

According to the law of Moses, Lev. 19:19, the cross breeding of diverse strains of cattle, the planting of mixed seeds, and the mixing of wool and linen in garments were forbidden. We are told the reasons for this curious law, but it seems impossible to escape the conclusion that if such inter-mixture of divine elements in the lower orders of animals and plant life were unseemingly and contrary to the divine purpose, the same principle would apply with even greater force with respect to human relations.

Deu. 7:3 — Moses strictly warned the Israelites against their sons and daughters intermarrying with the pagan people with whom they came in contact, under the penalty of bringing upon themselves the divine wrath and judgement. This warning was repeated, and was especially burned into the consciousness of the Nation by the terrible penalties which were inflicted upon those who committed whoredom with the daughters.

In Ezra 9:10, we find also where it caused Ezra to rend his clothes and tear his hair, and cry unto God for mercy upon the sinning Jews from the Babylonish captivity. A great number of the prominent Jews had taken their wives from among the heathen people of the land. Drastic steps were taken to purge out this evil practice and emphasize anew the vital importance of purity and integrity of the racial stock by the leaders of the Nation and their divine ruler.

It is my conviction that God ordained segregation. It is impossible for me to believe otherwise. God divided the races and determined their place of habitation. God's plan is for each race to live to itself. the members segregated to themselves and to marry within the bounds of their race in order to keep their blood pure.

And in all fairness to the Negro race, they are not particularly interested in intermarriage with the white race. They have pride in their race and color just as the white people have. Race pride is a normal positive principle and is essentially constructive and moral. Pride of race, like love of home and love of country, has been one of the mightiest forces making for human happiness and progress.

So long as the Jews were segre-

We must not underestimate their strong power of destruction, and know when they are working, boring silently, unseen and relentlessly they will soon succeed in destroying everything that is precious to the American people. We must fight these termites and preserve our constitutional government fought and died for that we might have freedom and liberty. When these so called termites have succeeded in destroying our government they have robbed us of our rights, liberty and prosperity. WRITES EISENHOWER

Editor, Morning World,

Here is a copy of a letter I sent to President Eisenhower:

The Military Commander of the United States,
General Dwight D. Eisenhower,
Occupied Territory of Little Rock,
Central High School Command
Post,
Province of ARKANSAS.

Dear Mr. Commander,

Louisiana is accustomed to frequent violent invasion and subjugation, often by forces of vested interests, and its accompanying legal pillage by Northern and Eastern corporate rule.

If, therefore, it is true that you plan, by military decree and proclamation, to abolish state governments, and institute administration by District Commissars, we wish now to take those steps which may be deemed necessary and proper, and by which we will be able to affiliate ourselves with the particular District of which the Province of Arkansas is to become a part.

We stipulate this association as it is our considered opinion that we are not able to keep pace with any District to include Texas, to our West — such an area would encompass too much land, too many cattle, oil wells, millionaires, good roads, big men and beautiful women — nor can we afford to become affiliated with that area of which Mississippi is to become a part—as this fine state has too few millionaires, good roads, and other such resources—in fact, it has been said by unkind Commentators from the North that Mississippi has little other than cotton, and tenant farmers — although we acknowledge the beauty of their State, and their lovely ladies — but perhaps the effort to 'lift up' Mississippi would prove too great!

Why Arkansas, General? We feel that we are ideally suited for association with these fine people! With them we can re-fight the Civil War, daily if desired, reserve to the States all their rightful powers, 'n shout, 'n cuss, 'n raise cain —unfurl the Rebel Flag — BUT, when any national emergency arises, we, too, can again demonstrate to the world that our area harbors more patriotic citizens per square mile than does any other area of comparable population in the nation — and further demonstrate that we have more people who would whenever called on offer the last full measure of devotion to their country than can be found in any of the highly populated centers — who, in so many riotous ways, have illustrated that they do not know, love or appreciate the colored populations with which they are blessed, who have progressed so rapidly during the past one hundred years in their rise from slavery to equal citizenship!

Those with only political motives would now seek to control the phantom vote of this puzzled and misguided people by devious, remote and illegitimate means, and a 'rule or ruin' policy which subjugates the will of the majority to that of the minority! This we prayerfully regret as we observe the tragic results of that one terse military command ("Capture Little Rock") — complete and utter destruction of the accumulated progress of a hundred peaceful and progressive years!

We trust that Military Aides-de-Camp, Adams and Brownell—the Junta through whom this supplication must be made—will permit our plea for understanding to reach you—and even though caddies the 'expendable' and you may yet be on an 'early green'—we pray that you will arrest your policies of 'military occupation', and substitute in lieu thereof an understanding of a 'way of life' now being ruthlessly destroyed by calculated military actions of true Prussian militarism!

By order of,
The Old Southern Colonel!

URGES IMPEACHMENT

Bastrop, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Will you please give me space in your paper for a few expressions in defense the dignity of our sovereign states? It has become almost legendary that the Constitution of the United States was adopted to protect and defend certain rights of the people to be free in the exercise of self-determination in moral society, civil government and religion, the guarantee of a republican form of government, and protection against invasion. Has the President sustained those guarantees to the States and those rights to the people? Let's see if he has.

There is a distinction, clearly defined, between national citizenship and state citizenship. Public schools are institutions originating in the states and not the nation. Any laws originating within state jurisprudence that the Supreme Court of the United States may rule unconstitutional must be referred to the state legislature for correction. If the legislature fails to make correction, then the plaintiff's only remedy is civil suit against the state for damages, and you cannot sue a state without its consent.

When the Supreme Court made its notorious decision overruling segregation in public schools, it did not refer the cases to the states, but proceeded to prescribe rules for gradual integration. Many people think that a court ruling is law, but it is not. All legislative powers are vested in the Congress and the Legislatures. Therefore, a court ruling in common law must be made a law by concurrence of the Congress before it can be enforced. This was the purpose of the President's civil rights bill.

The president, being wrought up by his failure to get this decision made a law, took the bull by the horns, abrogated all civil law, established martial law in Little Rock, and invaded the State of Arkansas in defiance of every civil law and every lawful right of the people in duplication of Russia's invasion of Hungary. If the Congress doesn't immediately impeach him, they will fall far short of their obligations to their country.

COMING BACK TO SOUTH

Many Negroes are honest and straight-thinking, and are not being fooled by the false promises of their hypocritical "friends."

Sudie Mae Lewis, a colored woman now living in Chicago, wrote the following letter to the Editor of The Jackson Daily News Jackson, Mississippi:

EDITOR, DAILY NEWS:

I have written several leading magazines supported by the NAACP but have yet to see one in print or a word of acknowledgement. So once again I turn to my white friends to get action.

I have taught many colored children in the deep south, and was born and raised in the cotton field myself. To some this may sound like a starved, inhuman existence, let me say here that those were the happiest days of my life.

I am getting on in years now, my health is gone. I long to spend my last days and be buried deep in Mississippi soil. I want my own kind of people to lay me away in a Christian manner in a free church yard.

Eleven years ago I heeded the wild tales down there of the wonderful north. I came to Chicago with the hope of being a society lady like I had heard so much about. But what I want to tell my people, the colored people of Mississippi, is this: Just being allowed to sit up front on the crowded buses and here and there a colored child is in school with the whites does not mean and will never mean that the respectable white people will take you into their hearts and homes fully and freely as they do one of their own kind.

And the whites that will and do are just mixed trash that any self respecting Negro will do well to shun.

"Do Not Push Integration"

I beg you to listen to one who knows about these things. For your own sake, the welfare of the coming generations, DO NOT PUSH INTEGRATION. Stop and think these things through.

It just means giving up your own life and none of us can ever be happy trying to adjust and conform to the rigid rules laid down for us by white society.

When you give up your own schools and churches you are giving up your last hold on your precious freedom. Down there you can meet and mingle, serve God in your own way, shout and sing if you feel like it. Here you would get thrown in jail if you attempted to shout to God in church or anywhere else.

Down there you can have your own entertainment in your own way Nobody disturbs you so long as you don't disturb the peace. You have as good schools there as anywhere in this world and a lot more freedom than you will find on northern trails.

If you can't be anything worthwhile in a segregated school, you certainly won't amount to anything worthwhile in an integrated school.

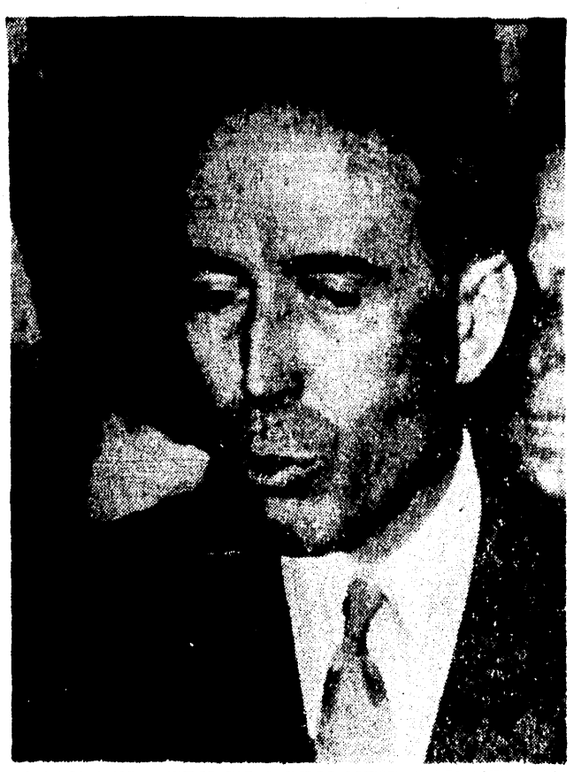

Be Proud Of Your Own Race!

One other thing I have learned I want to pass on to you — nine out of every 10 dollars you hand over to the NAACP goes to pay the white agitators of newspapers and magazines. This is no hearsay, I've worked for them and I know. Their price is high. They are well paid to peddle their agitation and stir up trouble. And all they care about is the money you hand them. Just try paying them a social call. In fact, the whole north, both black and white, is sick and tired of the mess it's made of this entire segregation business.

Stick to your own way of life, be proud of your own race instead of trying to push and shove into places where you won't be happy.

Today I have no regrets I was born black. I have done what I could to help my race improve their way of life. Don't ever blame the white race or any other race for any of your failures. The fault is purely your own. We all have the same opportunity. It's up to each race to rise or fall.

You've never had it so good as you have in dear old Dixie today. God being willing, I'm coming home to Mississippi this fall.

Christian Concept Of Race Relations

By H. T. SULLIVAN,
Oakdale, La.

"And hath made of one blood all nations of men to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed and the bounds of their habitation."

Because of the great stress and tension under which the races are living now, and because of the agitation and confusion prevailing among our people, and because many have advanced their ideas concerning the solution of the problems growing out of the racial difficulties, "it seemed good to me also to set forth" what we believe to be the Christian viewpoint of this matter.

Good Friends

I have worked with colored people all my life. My father worked with them. He would have fought for them, and they would have done the same for him. I have good loyal friends among the colored people who speak to me with a warm friendly greeting on the streets of our quiet little town. So no one would be more ready to help the colored race than I myself am. And let the colored people know that the best friends they have on earth are among the white people of the South.

It is true that men of evil motives and wicked designs are exploiting a helpless race to advance their own selfish political purposes and to force socialism upon a free people. How can a loyal American sit quietly and idly by while the "Termites" and the evil, filthy "Vermin" of Communism eat up the foundation of our social order?

The colored race in our country has grown from mere ship loads to many millions. Oppression is unchristian, expulsion is unthinkable and impractical, and, therefore, only one course is left for the reasonable, righteous and rightthinking persons. This course is mutual good-will and helpfulness. No doubt if a man really does love his country, and if he has the Christian attitude toward his fellowman, he will have a desire to help the colored race rather than to persecute them or to oppress them. All liberty-loving people should want to do the thing, and to pursue the course, which is best for both the white and the colored races.

By the verse of scripture we have used as a basis for this study we can readily see that God created the races, and surely He did have a wise purpose in doing so. But we can clearly see another part in the verse, "He determined the bounds of their habitation."

It seems then that God considered segregation to be wise and best from the very beginning of time. It was never His will that the races should become so mixed and confused as they are today. Where we have "fumbled the ball" is trying to improve on God's plan. When we do this, confusion and trouble usually is the result.

Good Facilities

It should be the desire of every Christian to see the colored race advance and make progress, and every one should like to see the colored people have good schools, good churches, and good homes. If possible, we should want them to have institutions and facilities equal to the ones the white people have.

But there are three institutions where mixing the races is not best for the colored or the white. These three institutions are the home, the school and the church. It is best for each race to take pride in its own heritage as a race and to maintain separate institutions as far as race is concerned.

The Supreme Court in handing down the decision that "equal but separate" institutions is unconstitutional does not properly construe, nor does it intend to benefit the colored race.

Any right-thinking man will know at once that if both races enjoy equal facilities it cannot possibly violate any law or principle to maintain institutions that are separate. And even if they should be placed in schools together, it should be a result of their willingness to do so, and not the dictatorial mandate handed down by ten men; namely, the Supreme Court and the president, neither of whom has the proper understanding of conditions and cultures existing among the Southern people, both white and colored.

Little Rock

For example in Little Rock where so much trouble has come up over the integration issue, why should a car full of colored children be taken away from a new school, Horace Mann, which cost well over a half million dollars and be taken by force and placed in an all white school. They had better facilities at Horace Mann and would have been happier and better off among their own race.

Yet the NAACP which is a Communist front forces the issue, and the United States government supports this move of the Communists to force a free people to accept a situation which has no motive except the world-wide spread of Communism in all lands.

The only Christian attitude for anyone to assume is to maintain separate institutions for the races and provide them with equal facilities.

Wisdom has fled from us, if we try to bring about by force of arms the integration of the the races. Freedom will be lost and cultures will fade away, which will set back our social order for hundreds of years. Christ is the answer, and certainly we should all have the Christian outlook in these momentous days.

Factory Worker Says Wife Of Brando Is His Daughter

CARDIFF, Wales, Oct. 12 (UP) —Factory worker William Patrick O'Callaghan said today Marlon Brando's "Indian" bride actually is his daughter, Jean, who once was a butcher's assistant and waitress in Cardiff.

Neighbors of O'Callaghan agreed. "That's our Jean," they said when they saw pictures in the newspapers of Brando and his bride, Anna Kashfi, a 23-year old dark-haired beauty. They were married Friday in a secret ceremony at Pasadena, Calif.

O'Callaghan said she is Indian only insofar as she was born in Calcutta.

"But she's our daughter," he said, "and both me and the missus were born in London.

There was reported in the United States that the new Mrs. Brando was a Buddhist from Darjeeling, India — where the tea comes from.

O'Callaghan, speaking to newsmen in his modest living room filled with photographs of his daughter, said she lived in India until she was 13, while he worked as a traffic superintendent on Indian railways.

Then she moved to Wales with the family, he said, and went to work as a butcher's assistant. Later, she got a job as a waitress.

O'Callaghan said she then went to art school and worked as a model. A talent scout came along — and Hollywood was the next stop.

"News of the wedding came as a great shock to us," O'Callaghan said. "She never mentioned Mr. Brando in her letters, but we haven't heard from her in three months.

"We knew they had given her another name in Hollywood, but that's only publicity, I suppose," he said.

BIG ARGUMENT

Status Of U.S. Farmer's Wealth Argued Over Nation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP) —How well off is the nation's agriculture?

This question is being argued by groups having conflicting views on whether the federal government should do more or less to put more dollars into farmers' pockets. The debate doubtless will be heard in Congress at the coming session.

The controversy has been fed by periodic reports of the Agriculture Department that farm income is rising and by a recent document entitled "The Balance Sheet of Agriculture, 1957," issued by the Federal Reserve Board. This bulletin said farm assets increased 5 per cent during 1956.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson has been leading the "pro" debating team on this issue.

Espousing the negative has been James B. Patton, president of the schel Newsom, master of the National Grange, and leaders of the newly organized National Conference of Commodity Organizations.

Pins Much On Report

Benson pins much of his argument on the Federal Reserve bulletin relating to farm assets. Much of the material for this document was prepared by economists in Benson's own department.

"On Jan. 1, 1957," the bulletin says, "the value of farm assets reached a new peak of nearly 177 billion dollars, about 5 per cent more than a year earlier."

These assets were listed as farm lands and buildings, automobiles, tractors, motor trucks, farm machinery and equipment, livestock, crop inventories, household goods and financial assets.

The Bulletin said that most of the increase in assets in 1956 was in the value of farm lands. Of the total increase of $8,600,000,000 in all assets, land accounted for $6,300,000,000.

Newsom declares that his increase in land values is not a true increase because he argues, farmers owned no more land at the start of 1957 than at the beginning of 1956. He says they probably owned less, taking into account sales for suburban and industrial developments.

Just 'Inflation'

"The increase is nothing more than inflation," the Grange leader contends.

Newsom and others who argue that farmers are no better off this year than last, if as well off, point to the Federal Reserve bulletin report on farm assets as reflected in farm holdings of livestock. The bulletin says these assets increased 4. per cent during 1956.

But the critics cite an Agriculture Department report giving an inventory of livestock on farms at the beginning of the year. This report states that at the beginning of 1957 there were 2 per cent fewer cattle, 5 per cent fewer hogs, 1 per cent fewer sheep and 9 per cent fewer horses and mules on farms than a year earlier. Only in the case of poultry was there an increase.

The increased valuation put on higher market prices for animals. Newsom says the higher prices were due, in part, to inflation. Cattle, for example, were valued at an average of $91.60 a head at the beginning of this year compared with $88 a year earlier.

We stipulate this association as it is our considered opinion that we are not able to keep pace with any District to include Texas, to our West — such an area would encompass too much land, too many cattle, oil wells, millionaires, good roads, big men and beautiful women — nor can we afford to become affiliated with that area of which Mississippi is to become a part—as this fine state has too few millionaires, good roads, and other such resources—in fact, it has been said by unkind Commentators from the North that Mississippi has little other than cotton, and tenant farmers — although we acknowledge the beauty of their State, and their lovely ladies — but perhaps the effort to 'lift up' Mississippi would prove too great!

Why Arkansas, General? We feel that we are ideally suited for association with these fine people! With them we can re-fight the Civil War, daily if desired, reserve to the States all their rightful powers, 'n shout, 'n cuss, 'n raise cain —unfurl the Rebel Flag — BUT, when any national emergency arises, we too, can again demonstrate to the world that our area harbors more patriotic citizens per square mile than does any other area of comparable population in the nation — and further demonstrate that we have more people who would whenever called on offer the last full measure of devotion to their country than can be found in any of the highly populated centers — who, in so many riotous ways, have illustrated that they do not know, love or appreciate the colored populations with which they are blessed, who have progressed so rapidly during the past one hundred years in their rise from slavery to equal citizenship!

Those with only political motives would now seek to control the phantom vote of this puzzled and misguided people by devious, remote and illegitimate means, and a 'rule or ruin' policy which subjugates the will of the majority to that of the minority! This we prayerfully regret as we observe the tragic results of that one terse military command ("Capture Little Rock") — complete and utter destruction of the accumulated progress of a hundred peaceful and progressive years!

We trust that Military Aides-de-Camp, Adams and Brownell—the Junta through whom this supplication must be made—will permit our plea for understanding to reach you—and even though caddies the 'expendable' and you may yet be on an 'early green'—we pray that you will arrest your policies of 'military occupation', and substitute in lieu thereof an understanding of a 'way of life' now being ruthlessly destroyed by calculated military actions of true Prussian militarism!

By order of,
The Old Southern Colonel!

URGES IMPEACHMENT

Bastrop, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Will you please give me space in your paper for a few expressions in defense the dignity of our sovereign states? It has become almost legendary that the Constitution of the United States was adopted to protect and defend certain rights of the people to be free in the exercise of self-determination in moral society, civil government and religion, the guarantee of a republican form of government, and protection against invasion. Has the President sustained those guarantees to the States and those rights to the people? Let's see if he has.

There is a distinction, clearly defined, between national citizenship and state citizenship. Public schools are institutions originating in the states and not the nation. Any laws originating within state jurisprudence that the Supreme Court of the United States may rule unconstitutional must be referred to the state legislature for correction. If the legislature fails to make correction, then the plaintiff's only remedy is civil suit against the state for damages, and you cannot sue a state without its consent.

When the Supreme Court made its notorious decision overruling segregation in public schools, it did not refer the cases to the states, but proceeded to prescribe rules for gradual integration. Many people think that a court ruling is law, but it is not. All legislative powers are vested in the Congress and the Legislatures. Therefore, a court ruling in common law must be made a law by concurrence of the Congress before it can be enforced. This was the purpose of the President's civil rights bill.

The president, being wrought up by his failure to get this decision made a law, took the bull by the horns, abrogated all civil law, established martial law in Little Rock, and invaded the State of Arkansas in defiance of every civil law and every lawful right of the people in duplication of Russia's invasion of Hungary. If the Congress doesn't immediately impeach him, they will fall far short of their obligations to their country.

COMING BACK TO SOUTH

Many Negroes are honest and straight-thinking, and are not being fooled by the false promises of their hypocritical "friends."

Sudie Mae Lewis, a colored woman now living in Chicago, wrote the following letter to the Editor of The Jackson Daily News Jackson, Mississippi:

EDITOR, DAILY NEWS:

I have written several leading magazines supported by the NAACP but have yet to see one in print or a word of acknowledgement. So once again I turn to my white friends to get action.

I have taught many colored children in the deep south, and was born and raised in the cotton field myself. To some this may sound like a starved, inhuman existence, let me say here that those were the happiest days of my life.

I am getting on in years now, my health is gone. I long to spend my last days and be buried deep in Mississippi soil. I want my own kind of people to lay me away in a Christian manner in a free church yard.

Eleven years ago I heeded the wild tales down there of the wonderful north. I came to Chicago with the hope of being a society lady like I had heard so much about. But what I want to tell my people, the colored people of Mississippi, is this: Just being allowed to sit up front on the crowded buses and here and there a colored child is in school with the whites does not mean and will never mean that the respectable white people will take you into their hearts and homes fully and freely as they do one of their own kind.

And the whites that will and do are just mixed trash that any self respecting Negro will do well to shun.

"Do Not Push Integration"

I beg you to listen to one who knows about these things. For your own sake, the welfare of the coming generations, DO NOT PUSH INTEGRATION. Stop and think these things through.

It just means giving up your own life and none of us can ever be happy trying to adjust and conform to the rigid rules laid down for us by white society.

When you give up your own schools and churches you are giving up your last hold on your precious freedom. Down there you can meet and mingle, serve God in your own way, shout and sing if you feel like it. Here you would get thrown in jail if you attempted to shout to God in church or anywhere else.

Down there you can have your own entertainment in your own way Nobody disturbs you so long as you don't disturb the peace. You have as good schools there as anywhere in this world and a lot more freedom than you will find on northern trails.

If you can't be anything worthwhile in a segregated school, you certainly won't amount to anything worthwhile in an integrated school.

Be Proud Of Your Own Race!

One other thing I have learned I want to pass on to you — nine out of every 10 dollars you hand over to the NAACP goes to pay the white agitators of newspapers and magazines. This is no hearsay, I've worked for them and I know. Their price is high. They are well paid to peddle their agitation and stir up trouble. And all they care about is the money you hand them. Just try paying them a social call. In fact, the whole north, both black and white, is sick and tired of the mess it's made of this entire segregation business.

Stick to your own way of life, be proud of your own race instead of trying to push and shove into places where you won't be happy.

Today I have no regrets I was born black. I have done what I could to help my race improve their way of life. Don't ever blame the white race or any other race for any of your failures. The fault is purely your own. We all have the same opportunity. It's up to each race to rise or fall.

You've never had it so good as you have in dear old Dixie today. God being willing, I'm coming home to Mississippi this fall.

Christian Concept Of Race Relations

By H. T. SULLIVAN,
Oakdale, La.

"And hath made of one blood all nations of men to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed and the bounds of their habitation."

Because of the great stress and tension under which the races are living now, and because of the agitatior and confusion prevailing among our people, and because many have advanced their ideas concerning the solution of the problems growing out of the racial difficulties, "it seemed good to me also to set forth" what we believe to be the Christian viewpoint of this matter.

Good Friends

I have worked with colored people all my life. My father worked with them. He would have fought for them, and they would have done the same for him. I have good loyal friends among the colored people who speak to me with a warm friendly greeting on the streets of our quiet little town. So no one would be more ready to help the colored race than I myself am. And let the colored people know that the best friends they have on earth are among the white people of the South.

It is true that men of evil motives and wicked designs are exploiting a helpless race to advance their own selfish political purposes and to force socialism upon a free people. How can a loyal American sit quietly and idly by while the "Termites" and the evil, filthy "Vermin" of Communism eat up the foundation of our social order?

The colored race in our country has grown from mere ship loads to many millions. Oppression is unchristian, expulsion is unthinkable and impractical, and, therefore, only one course is left for the reasonable, righteous and rightthinking persons. This course is mutual good-will and helpfulness. No doubt if a man really does love his country, and if he has the Christian attitude toward his fellowman, he will have a desire to help the colored race rather than to persecute them or to oppress them. All liberty-loving people should want to do the thing, and to pursue the course, which is best for both the white and the colored races.

By the verse of scripture we have used as a basis for this study we can readily see that God created the races, and surely He did have a wise purpose in doing so. But we can clearly see another part in the verse. "He determined the bounds of their habitation."

It seems then that God considered segregation to be wise and best from the very beginning of time. It was never His will that the races should become so mixed and confused as they are today. Where we have "fumbled the ball" is trying to improve on God's plan. When we do this, confusion and trouble usually is the result.

Good Facilities

It should be the desire of every Christian to see the colored race advance and make progress, and every one should like to see the colored people have good schools, good churches, and good homes. If possible, we should want them to have institutions and facilities equal to the ones the white people have.

But there are three institutions where mixing the races is not best for the colored or the white. These three institutions are the home, the school and the church. It is best for each race to take pride in its own heritage as a race and to maintain separate institutions as far as race is concerned.

The Supreme Court in handing down the decision that "equal but separate" institutions is unconstitutional does not properly construe, nor does it intend to benefit the colored race.

Any right-thinking man will know at once that if both races enjoy equal facilities it cannot possibly violate any law or principle to maintain institutions that are separate. And even if they should be placed in schools together, it should be a result of their willingness to do so, and not the dictatorial mandate handed down by ten men; namely, the Supreme Court and the president, neither of whom has the proper understanding of conditions and cultures existing among the Southern people, both white and colored.

Little Rock

For example in Little Rock where so much trouble has come up over the integration issue, why should a car full of colored children be taken away from a new school, Horace Mann, which cost well over a half million dollars and be taken by force and placed in an all-white school. They had better facilities at Horace Mann and would have been happier and better off among their own race.

Yet the NAACP which is a Communist front forces the issue, and the United States government supports this move of the Communists to force a free people to accept a situation which has no motive except the world-wide spread of Communism in all lands.

The only Christian attitude for anyone to assume is to maintain separate institutions for the races and provide them with equal facilities.

Wisdom has fled from us, if we try to bring about by force of arms the integration of the the races. Freedom will be lost and cultures will fade away, which will set back our social order for hundreds of years. Christ is the answer, and certainly we should all have the Christian outlook in these momentous days.

Factory Worker Says Wife Of Brando Is His Daughter

CARDIFF, Wales, Oct. 12 (UP) —Factory worker William Patrick O'Callaghan said today Marlon Brando's "Indian" bride actually is his daughter, Jean, who once was a butcher's assistant and waitress in Cardiff.

Neighbors of O'Callaghan agreed. "That's our Jean," they said when they saw pictures in the newspapers of Brando and his bride, Anna Kashfi, a 23-year old dark-haired beauty. They were married Friday in a secret ceremony at Pasadena, Calif.

O'Callaghan said she is Indian only insofar as she was born in Calcutta.

"But she's our daughter," he said, "and both me and the missus were born in London.

There was reported in the United States that the new Mrs. Brando was a Buddhist from Darjeeling, India — where the tea comes from.

O'Callaghan, speaking to newsmen in his modest living room filled with photographs of his daughter, said she lived in India until she was 13, while he worked as a traffic superintendent on Indian railways.

Then she moved to Wales with the family, he said, and went to work as a butcher's assistant. Later, she got a job as a waitress.

O'Callaghan said she then went to art school and worked as a model. A talent scout came along — and Hollywood was the next stop.

"News of the wedding came as a great shock to us," O'Callaghan said. "She never mentioned Mr. Brando in her letters, but we haven't heard from her in three months.

"We knew they had given her another name in Hollywood, but that's only publicity, I suppose," he said.

BIG ARGUMENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP) —How well off is the nation's agriculture?

This question is being argued by groups having conflicting views on whether the federal government should do more or less to put more dollars into farmers' pockets. The debate doubtless will be heard in Congress at the coming session.

The controversy has been fed by periodic reports of the Agriculture Department that farm income is rising and by a recent document entitled "The Balance Sheet of Agriculture, 1957," issued by the Federal Reserve Board. This bulletin said farm assets increased 5 per cent during 1956.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson has been leading the "pro" debating team on this issue.

Espousing the negative has been James B. Patton, president of the schel Newsom, master of the National Grange, and leaders of the newly organized National Conference of Commodity Organizations.

Pins Much On Report

Benson pins much of his argument on the Federal Reserve bulletin relating to farm assets. Much of the material for this document was prepared by economists in Benson's own department.

"On Jan. 1, 1957," the bulletin says, "the value of farm assets reached a new peak of nearly 177 billion dollars, about 5 per cent more than a year earlier."

These assets were listed as farm lands and buildings, automobiles, tractors, motor trucks, farm machinery and equipment, livestock, crop inventories, household goods and financial assets.

The Bulletin said that most of the increase in assets in 1956 was in the value of farm lands. Of the total increase of $8,600,000,000 in all assets, land accounted for $6,800,000,000.

Newsom declares that his increase in land values is not a true increase because he argues, farmers owned no more land at the start of 1957 than at the beginning of 1956. He says they probably owned less, taking into account sales for suburban and industrial developments.

Just 'Inflation'

"The increase is nothing more than inflation," the Grange leader contends.

Newsom and others who argue that farmers are no better off this year than last, if as well off, point to the Federal Reserve bulletin report on arm assets as reflected in farm holdings of livestock. The bulletin says these assets increased 4. per cent during 1956.

But the critics cite an Agriculture Department report giving an inventory of livestock on farms at the beginning of the year. This report states that at the beginning of 1957 there were 2 per cent fewer cattle, 5 per cent fewer hogs, 1 per cent fewer sheep and 9 per cent fewer horses and mules on farms than a year earlier. Only in the case of puultry was there an increase.

The increased valuation put on higher market prices for animals. Newsom says the higher prices were due, in part, to inflation. Cattle, for example, were valued at an average of $91.60 a head at the beginning of this year compared with $88 a year earlier.

--Little Theater Curtain Call--

By SANDRA JOHNSON

In less than a week the lights will dim and the curtain will rise on "The Reluctant Debutante" the first Little Theatre production of the season. A situation comedy revolving around the troubles of two mothers and their very reluctant debutante daughters. An absolute must - see. All of the productions of this season will be time well spent.

Following "The Reluctant Debutante" will be "Hatful of Rain," a very moving story that surrounds the problem of dope addiction.

"Witnesses for The Prosecution" is next on the calender. It's a very unsuual story of a trial with a shock ending, to say the least!

"The Boy Friend" a musical comedy of the 20's follows. It was Julie Andrews (of My Fair Lady fame) hit about three years ago. A satire typical of the roaring twenties . . . with dancing, singing and the works.

Next (pending release) will be "The Dairy of Ann Frank." It received the Drama Critics Award and was voted the best play of the year. The story of a young girl who's heroic deeds have long after her. A Susan Strasberg hit.

Be sure and not miss a production of the wonderful season that the Little Theatre has worked so hard to arrange for you. That means not to fail to buy a season ticket. The Little Theatre memberships will continue to be sold through the run of "The Reluctant Debutante" and will be closed October 23rd the last night of the play. After the 23rd of October there will be absolutely no more season tickets sold. SACRAMENTO WALTZ

SACRAMENTO WALTZ By Elva Williams (McGraw - Hill, $3.75).

"Do not scorn her with words fierce and bitter.
Do not laugh at her shame and downfall.
For a moment just stop and consider
That a man was the cause of it all."

In the sleepy middle - class world of Sacramento in 1912 lived three of the most delightful and unique women ever to grace a period piece — a beautiful widow in search of a husband; a grocery - store enchantress in search of men; and a diminutive piano teacher excluded from life's exciting experiences by her abnormally small size. their lives and loves blend into an enchanting mixture of soft lights and high comedy — set in that innocent era of trolley cars and band concerts, player pianos and gleaming electrics.

Mrs. Fanny Bolton — a remarkably beautiful widow who is wasting in Sacramento. For she has feminine talents not fully developed while her husband lived. She needs only a bad example to set her off.

Mrs. Snyder — she's the bad example with the gall of a brass monkey — but busty and appealing to all sorts of men. Alas! She's married to a grocer, but then she has "her other life downtown."

You'll have respectable company too. A small piano teacher lives on the same block. She's the confidante of these venturesome ladies — and because of her odd size, excused from life. (When only ten, her piano teacher passed her off as a child prodigy of six, until puberty undid her fame.)

Although the tiny one has no love life of her own, she's an avid watcher. Through her eyes we travel "down life's stormy path, ill advised." It's surprising how much she reveals . . . of amrous married men, champagne in silver ice buckets, private dining rooms with bedrooms attached, a certain Russian prince, San Francisco, Paris . . .

Canning Plant In W. Carroll Nears Reality

OAK GROVE (Special) — Preliminary legal steps for construction of a canning plant in West Carroll parish were resolved Monday by the parish police jury at its regular monthly meeting here in the courthouse.

By resolution, the jurors granted H. E. Philley, president, authority to negotiate a contract with Burk, LeBreton and Lamantia, architects and engineers, of New Orleans, for resign and plans for construction of the plant.

Also, the jurors instructed R. V. Reeves, secretary, to advertise for bids on the building construction when the legal time intervals have passed.

Sale of the bonds, totaling $125,000, will probably be accomplished early in December. A 60-day waiting period is required from the time of the election before the bonds can be sold.

Advertisements, etc., for sale of the bonds and for bids on construction of the building could possibly begin during the 60 - day waiting period with the dates for sale and-or contract letting set for a date immediately following the 60 days.

DOME WORK

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — (UP) — When the dome on Tennessee's state capitol was built, the great-great-grandfather of Gale Wilkins helped with the work. Recently the dome was torn down for rebuilding and Gale's father had a hand in that.

ARTIST AT WORK — Miss Barbara Mittell (seated behind children) and Miss Kathy Talton are shown at station KLSE-TV with a group from the Louisiana Baptist Childrens Home. Beginning Monday, the station will have a program from 4 until 4:45 p.m. Monday through Fridays of each week, on which science, language, art, math and other subjects will be taught in illustrated lecture form on a child's level. Retarded Children's Group Shocked At Colony Charge

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (Special) — The delegation of the Louisiana Association for Retarded Children now attending the National Association for Retarded Children convention in St. Louis Friday expressed shock at another act of Louisiana public officials in "making unethical and totally false accusations against the State Colony and Training School."

Murrell's Charge

Newspaper accounts in the last few days have attributed charges by the Rapides Parish coroner, Dr. Walter Murrell, that Louisiana State Colony and Training School staff have "refused to cooperate and done everything they could to cover up the news." He was referring to a recent death of a colony patient.

Murrell further charged that "handling of the case by the Colony staff was negligence from the word 'go.'

Morley Hudson, board member of th National Association for Retarded Children from Shreveport said, "This is a low blow to the Colony staff that is uncalled for. The charges are not true and Dr. Murrell has done great harm to over 1500 of 'God's forever children' at the Colony who cannot speak for themselves.

Politics Charged

"The injection of politics," Hudson said, "into problems of caring for the mentally retarded children has damaged the morale and enthusiasm of the Colony staff. This is apparently the objective of certain local citizens and public officials who want the Colony back under political control with its resultant patronage and source of political plums. The parents of 90,000 mentally retarded will resist any such action and resent this continuing siege of public accusations."

Praises Governor

J. Clifford MacDonald, president of the National Association for Retarded Children, said "As a native Louisianian, I have been gratified and encouraged at the support given by Governor Earl Long to the Department of Institutions and State Colony in developing a dynamic program of treatment, training and care for the least privileged citizens. However I'm shocked at presumably responsible legislators and public officials who are continuing a siege of public accusations that have not been referred to the proper authorities for explanation or investigation before receiving public notoriety. I hope their influence to support this pledge that the retarded children's program would be protected and expanded."

"Amazed"

Mrs. Forrest Campbell, president of the Louisiana Association for Retarded Children, from Alexandria, has expressed amazement at recent developments which reflect so badly on Louisiana treatment of its mentally retarded citizens "three of Colony's top leaders conducted a full - day's seminar here in St. Louis at the national convention.

They are considered national leaders in management of retarded children's institutions.

Tideland Legal Problems Topic Of Lectures

NEW ORLEANS (Special) — A second series of lectures on "Legal Problems in the Tidelands" will be presented October 18-19 by the school of law at Tulane University as part of the school's professional study program.

Designed to serve the continuing professional needs of attorneys and judges in the Gulf South, the series is open to all members of the legal profession and others interested in admiralty law and problems in the tidelands, W. Ray Forrester, dean of the Tulane school of law, said in making the announcement.

The tidelands lectures were established in the fall of 1956 and are being repeated this year as a result of popular demand for their continuation Dean Forrester said.

Topics to be covered this year include Coast Guard regulations, insurance, drilling contracts, taxation, labor problems, personal injury, chartering of vessels, and ship construction and financing.

All lectures will be held at Dixon Hall on the Tulane campus, Dean Forrester said.

Water District Cop On West's Longest Beat

GENE VILLAGE, Calif. (AP)—Dan Zans, special agent for the Los Angeles Metropolitan Water District, patrols what is perhaps the longest police beat in the West.

Tall, taciturn 53-year-old Zans is responsible for protection of 593 miles of Colorado River Aqueduct, the water district's network of distribution lines and 230 miles of power transmission lines between Hoover and Parker Dams.

His beat extends from the Colorado River on California's eastern border to the Pacific Ocean.

Auto, Shotgun, Pistol

Zans does most of his patrolling along more than 200 miles of aqueduct between the intake pumping plant on the river and the softening and infiltration plant at Ontario. He covers the rugged, lonely beat by automobile with a shotgun and a pistol at his side.

The aqueduct carries water, and the transmission lines electricity to Los Angeles and other large population centers in Southern California.

Zans is well qualified for the job of security officer for the water district. He was a lieutenant of the Pomona Police Department and chief of that city's Fire Department.

Before Zans took over the job, it was handled for many years by the almost legendary Ralph (Pistol Pete) Stringfellow, who once shot it out with a car full of eastern gangsters he found hiding out in the desert through which the aqueduct runs.

DAN ZANS

Pistol Pete came out of the encounter without a scratch but he was killed six years ago when his car plunged over a cliff while he was patrolling the aqueduct.

Sullivans Give Butte A 'Day To Remember'

BUTTE, Mont. (AP)—It's 6,000 miles to the Emerald Isle but Butte visitors don't have to go that far to find an Irishman.

Corktown and Dublin Gulch are names of sections of this mining city. It's not hard to determine why.

The Irish are possibly the largest national group among Butte's 35,000 residents — and no small part of that fact can be traced to a day 63 years ago when the old Silver Bow County courthouse was besieged, not by Indians, but Irishmen.

June 5, 1894, is known even today as the day the Sullivans came to town.

There were 69 of 'em, Sullivans all, who arrived in a body to seek American citizenship.

With them were goodly numbers of Harringtons, Murphys, Sheas and O'Briens and others whose names proclaimed their origin.

An index of naturalization for late 19th Century tucked away in a shelf of the district clerk's office, shows the Sullivans greatly outnumbered their fellow Irish as settlers.

There were 103 Harringtons, 95 Murphys, 62 Kelleys or Kellys, 46 Sheas, 41 O'Neills and O'Neils, 36 Lynches, 34 O'Briens, 29 Reillys and Rileys, 27 McCarthys, 26 Lowneys, 24 Kennedys, 22 O'Learys, 21 Walshes, 20 Ryans, 19 McGraths, 18 Callahans and Callaghans and lesser numbers of Brogans, Burnses, Carrolls, Clearys, ad infinitum.

Thirty-three members of the group bore the name John Sullivan, most of them prefering John L. or John J.

There were the exceptions, too. There was one Simon Sullivan.

COSTLY CARD

PRINCETON, Ky. — (UP) — It was expensive for Mrs. Jack Bardill to mail a birthday card to a friend. As she backed out of a parking spot after mailing the postcard, Mrs. Bardill smashed her auto into the auto — of the friend. So it cost 15 cents for the birthday card — $15 for repairs to the friend's auto.

ONE-ROOM SCHOOL

BISMARCK, N. D. — (UP) — The passing of the familiar one-room school in North Dakota is being hurried by a new state law tightening teacher requirements, Superintendent of Public Instruction M. F. Peterson said about 50 one-room country schools were without teachers this fall and were unable to open their doors.

SACRAMENTO WALTZ

"Do not scorn her with words fierce and bitter.
Do not laugh at her shame and downfall.
For a moment just stop and consider
That a man was the cause of it all."

In the sleepy middle - class world of Sacramento in 1912 lived three of the most delightful and unique women ever to grace a period piece — a beautiful widow in search of a husband; a grocery - store enchantress in search of men; and a diminutive piano teacher excluded from life's exciting experiences by her abnormally small size. their lives and loves blend into an enchanting mixture of soft lights and high comedy — set in that innocent era of trolley cars and band concerts, player pianos and gleaming electrics.

Mrs. Fanny Bolton — a remarkably beautiful widow who is wasting in Sacramento. For she has feminine talents not fully developed while her husband lived. She needs only a bad example to set her off.

Mrs. Snyder — she's the bad example with the gall of a brass monkey — but busty and appealing to all sorts of men. Alas! She's married to a grocer, but then she has "her other life downtown."

You'll have respectable company too. A small piano teacher lives on the same block. She's the confidante of these venturesome ladies — and because of her odd size, excused from life. (When only ten, her piano teacher passed her off as a child prodigy of six, until puberty undid her fame.)

Although the tiny one has no love life of her own, she's an avid watcher. Through her eyes we travel "down life's stormy path, ill advised." It's surprising how much she reveals . . . of amrous married men, champagne in silver ice buckets, private dining rooms with bedrooms attached, a certain Russian prince, San Francisco, Paris . . .

Northeast Fraternity Scores First

It's another "first" at Northeast State. And this time the honor goes to Tau Kappa Epsilon, national social fraternity, for putting out a welcome mat at the first campus home to bear a fraternity's name.

Ten members and pledges of Epsilon Mu chapter have moved into the former H. K. Touchstone residence at 1103 College Avenue. The organization is renting the two - story structure which is part of the property which Northeast purchased as a phase of the college's expansion program.

New Members

In addition to the new home TKE has a list of new members who just recently were formally taken into the chapter. The group includes: Earl Ingram, Mer Rouge; Jack Ray Williams, Delhi; Roy Vineyard, Hammond; David Watson, Monroe; Raymond Pylant, West Monroe; Haynes Landrum, West Monroe, and Benny Andrews, West Monroe.

Dr. Merritt Melberg, associate professor of education and guidance counselor at Northeast, was initiated as a associate member.

Tau Kappa Epsilon, formerly known as Alpha Theta Chi, was chartered as a national organization in 1956. Since then it has doubled in size, with its current membership listed at forty.

Nationally, the TKE fraternity is second largest in America, having 246 chapters.

23 Coed Sponsors For ROTC

Northeast State's Reserve Officers Training Corps this year will choose 23 sponsors from the college coeds. The list marks an increase of 16 over last year's group.

Man Jailed As Fugitive From Florida

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 12 (UP)—A 35-year-old native of Mississippi was arrested here as a fugitive from a Florida prison camp from which he fled five years ago, detectives said today.

Don Riddle and Jack Hickman said they arrested Howard T. Payne yesterday at a wholesale fish company where he was working. The arrest came about check following Payne's arrest recently on a minor charge.

Oil Progress Report:

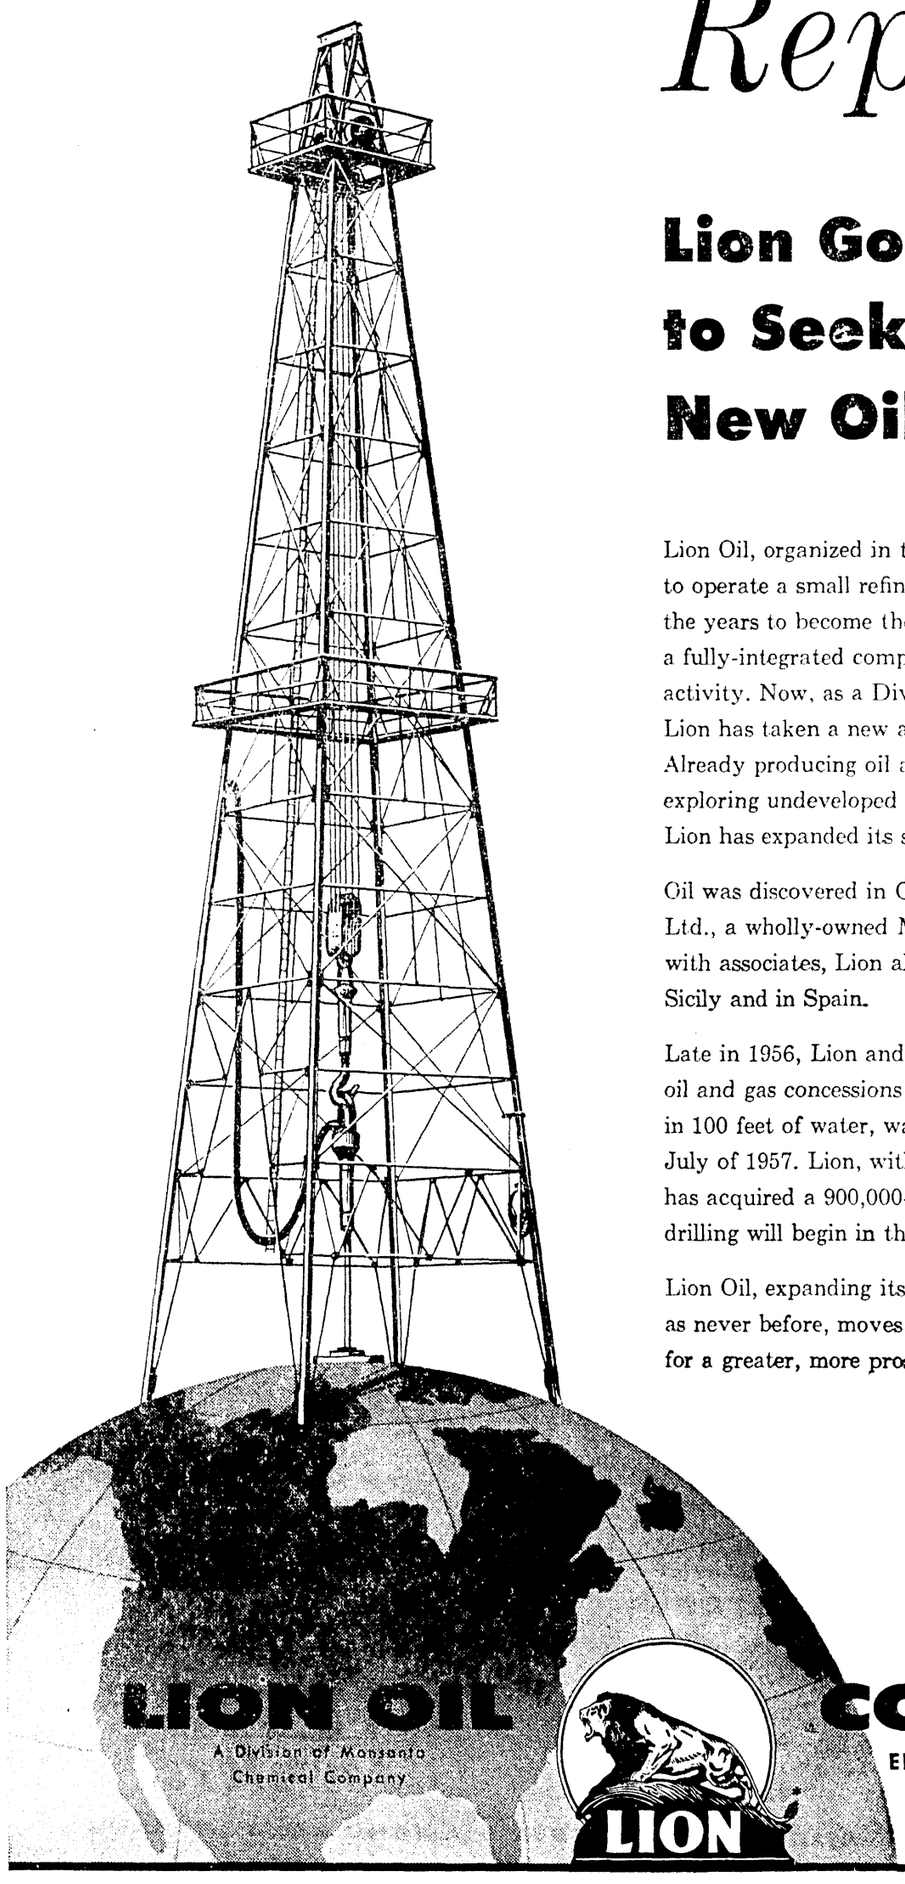

Lion Goes Overseas to Seek New Oil Reserves

Lion Oil, organized in the oil fields of South Arkansas in 1923 to operate a small refinery, maintained substantial growth through the years to become the South's leading petroleum enterprise . . . a fully-integrated company engaged in every phase of oil industry activity. Now, as a Division of Monsanto Chemical Company, Lion has taken a new and significant step forward in its growth. Already producing oil and natural gas in 10 states and currently exploring undeveloped lease holdings in 17 states of the U. S., Lion has expanded its search for oil to new horizons—to the world!

Oil was discovered in Canada in 1957 through L-M Oil Company, Ltd., a wholly-owned Monsanto subsidiary. In joint operation with associates, Lion also is engaged in active drilling in Sicily and in Spain.

Late in 1956, Lion and four U. S. corporations acquired extensive oil and gas concessions in Venezuela and a first well, drilling in 100 feet of water, was begun in fabulous Lake Maracaibo in July of 1957. Lion, with three of these same companies, also has acquired a 900,000-acre concession in Bolivia, on which drilling will begin in the near future.

Lion Oil, expanding its search for new reserves of oil and gas as never before, moves forward in the spirit of Oil Progress Week for a greater, more prosperous and more secure America.

Red Strike At Turks Not Seen By U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP)—U. S. diplomats saw no evidence today that Russia plans to strike at Turkey, despite Moscow's blunt threats that Turkey was inviting disaster.

Instead, they saw the Soviet muscle-flexing as having two objectives in the tense Middle East:

—To establish Russia as a power to be reckoned with in the area where she has long desired a foothold.

—To give Russia chance to take credit if a Middle East war is avoided and a real peace achieved.

The threat was made Wednesday by Soviet Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev. He said in an interview with the New York Times that the United States was inciting Turkey to war against Syria.

In an unusually tough reply, the United States acused Khrushchev of openly threatening Turkey. It promised to stick by commitments to defend Turkey and warned Russia any Middle East fighting would not be necessarily be confined to the Middle East, a clear warning that Russia might be attacked.

While experts here see no sign that Russia plans to strike at Turkey, they considered it essential to answer the Soviet threat with firm language. To fail to make U. S. intentions on aiding Turkey clear might have prompted some Soviet move they said.

Discrimination Sinful, Asserts Church Assembly

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12 (UP)—Delegates to the international convention of the Disciples of Christ resolved today that racial discrimination is sinful, that the joined the 85 churches of Little churches must "move from principle to practice" in eliminating it.

Then the convention delegates Rock, Ark., in a special period of prayer for a solution "to the crisis that has gripped that city."

Resolution 43 contends that "agreement of the sinfulness of racial discrimination and forced segregation both within the church and without is not enough."

"Churches are now faced with the fact that their responsibility is one of moving from principle to practice within their own local situations," the resolution said.

The convention of disciples opened Friday night.

The resolution on "race relations" outlined concrete plans "as to procedures representing the direction in which the Disciples should move."

One clause directed "local churches shou'd make it unmistakably clear the witness of their individual congregations as to the inclusive nature of their fellowships."

The clause suggested "for some this may mean employment of a multi-racial staff. . . an active evangelism program among persons of 'other races'. . . public announcement 'we welcome all people'. . . and for still others it may mean long study and painful experimentation. . ."

Scientist Sees Germ Warfare Threat In Moon

ALBUQUERQUE, Oct. 12 (AP)—A scientist who helped investigate Japanese balloon warfare in World War II said today that the Russian satellite is placing the United States in serious danger from possible germ warfare.

Dr. Lincoln Lapaz, director of the University of New Mexico's Institute of Meteorites, declared that the American people have not been told of what he termed the peril facing this country.

The Russian satellite, LaPaz said, could be used to loose deadly bacteria onto the United States. He said it would be possible, if the Russians wish, for them to place the bacteria in any particular state in the Union.

"Anyone familiar with the basically simple design of the bomb-dropping mechanism on the Jap paper balloons will recognize that scientists and engineers capable of launching a Sputnik would have no difficulty in disseminating B.W. —biological warfare—agents from such a satellite," LaPaz declared.

"And they could do this in complete anonymity. It would be impossible to track it back to them."

The solution, he said, is for the United States to get a satellite of its own circling the globe as soon as possible, to pose an equal threat and create a stalemate situation.

Four Dead Army Officers's Bodies Found In Wreck

Searchers who struggled up the rugged mountainside said one of the officers apparently lived two days after the plane crashed while en route from Governors Island, N. Y., to Burlington, Vt.

That body bore colonel's eagle insignia, had a handkerchief around the head to protect a torn ear and had a two-day beard growth.

Searchers said the body might have been that of Col. David M. Perkins of Wichita Falls, Tex. The handkerchief around his head bore the letter "P."

Scraps of charred paper near the body 200 yards from the wrecked plane gave evidence he tried to light a fire.

The Army said other officers aboard the plane were Capt. Eual A. Cathley, 33, of Brooklyn, N. Y., the pilot; Col. Emery E. Hyde, 46, of Eugene, Ore., and Lt. Col. Clinton G. Merrill, 44, of Dewitt, N. Y.

Two bodies found in the plane were badly charred. Only bones remained of the fourth body.

Ground searchers reached the plane today, nearly 24 hours after it was spotted by an Army aircraft.

Man Hospitalized Following Shooting

Juree White, Ruston Negro woman, was out on $1,000 bond last night after being charged by Ruston City Police with aggravated battery.

Police said she shot her husband, Leonard White, yesterday morning at a Ruston cafe, using a .38 calibre pistol. He was in Conway Memorial Hospital, suffering wounds in the chest and abdomen.

He was reported "resting comfortably" last night in the hospital.

Venezuela Spends Oil Millions On Cable Lift Into The Clouds

By LARRY ALLEN

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — All Venezuelans and tourists have to do to find a new kind of thrill is to take a ride "into the clouds."

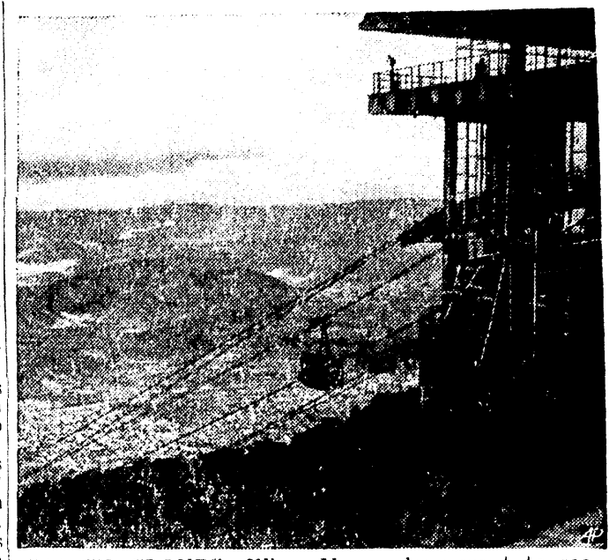

It costs them just four bolivares ($1.20) to get a breathtaking, sweeping look at the brilliantly lighted city of Caracas on one side and the Caribbean coast on the other from atop mist - laden Mt. Avila.

Venezuelans, always building the spectacular as they get richer every day from the hundreds of millions of dollars in taxes and royalties from the production of three million barrels of oil daily, now report a booming funicular business.

It's called the "teleferico." This is a two - mile - long modern cable lift that runs up the steep slopes of the 7,000 foot peak.

On the second longest ride of its kind in the world, the "teleferico" uses 14 cabin cars operating on a continuous moving belt system. Each accommodates 28 passengers on the 10 - minute run to the summit of the mountain.

The streamlined cable railway equipment was purchased by the Venezuela public works ministry from manufacturers in the Saar Basin in Europe for two million dollars. Installations along the incline cost eight million. Building of the luxurious 15 - story Hotel Humboldt, an ice - skating rink and other recreational facilities atop Mt. Avila cost over five million more.

CAR TO CLOUDS: When Venezuelans want to see "something different," they take the two-mile "teleferico" ride to the 7,000-foot peak of Mt. Avila overlooking Caracas.

Senator Byrd Has Proof Of Riot Training

RICHMOND, Va. Oct. 12 (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va) said here last night he has a letter "which appears to be proof" that "riot training" is "actually in operation" in the Army.

A woman wrote him, he said, that her soldier husband and other soldiers were ordered to throw rocks at another group of soldiers armed with rifles with fixed bayonets.

Byrd was among these who demanded of Secretary of the Army Brucker that he give details of the directive Sept. 25 which ordered stepped-up riot training among Army troops and then was quickly rescinded by Bruckner.

Bruckner replied today to Sen. Russell (D-Ga), chairman of the Senate Armed services Committee, that it was Gen. Maxwell Taylor who issued the order. But Byrd told reporters here that Bruckner did not answer some of his, Byrd's questions.

"In effect, what the government has done is to invoke the Fifth Amendment," in refusing to give details of the riot-training order, Byrd said. He said he intended to "get this information if I have to introduce a resolution in Congress."

The Army installation at which the "riot training" was alleged to have taken place was not identified.

The Army said the night Bruckner recalled the directive of Sept 25 that the usual training in dealing with civil disturbances would continue unchanged. Bruckner's orders did not abolish the training which troops usually get for such emergencies.

Bruckner said in his letter to Russell made public today "Field Manual 19-15 . . . prescribes the basis for training in 'civil disturbances' to be given to Army troops. This training is incorporated into training schedules as a routine matter."

An Army spokesman said tonight the Field Manual does not spell out the form of training to the extent of listing such specific points as defense against thrown rocks.

San Marino Gets Third Government

REPUBLIC OF SAN MARINO, Oct. 1 (UP)—A third government was proclaimed for San Marino today, but most residents of the tiny republic put their faith in the government led by the Christian-Democrats.

"My God! Not another government!" was the reaction of hotel keeper Joseph Grozzi when he heard the news. "We've cornered the market."

Tulio Vittorio Giacomini, a 28-year-old distant relative of ousted Socialist - communist boss Gino Giacomini, proclaimed his new fascist - tinged government at nearby Pensaro, 2 miles south of San Marino in Italy.

He announced formation of his government in an open telegram:

"I have the honor to inform you," he told the republic's citizens, "of the proclamation of the new revolutionary and corporate government of San Marino, with its provisional capital at Castelfiorentino," a tiny farm about a mile from San Marino's capital.

"The government will be neither red nor white," he said, "it will be black."

CONGRESS TOLD

New Farm Program Would Cost Taxpayers Billions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP)—Congress yesterday that junking present farm price supports in favor of direct subsidies would cost U. S. taxpayers between 7 and 10 billion dollars a year.

The estimate was contained in a department analysis of the two programs prepared at the request of the lawmakers. The administration's present flexible price support program cost slightly less than 2 billion dollars last year.

The department conceded the subsidy program would boost farm income by from 7 to 11 billion dollars a year. But it said farmers would be receiving nearly half of their net income from the government under such a system.

Under the subsidy program, sometimes called the "Brannan plan," the farmer would sell his crops on the open market for whatever he could get. He would get a federal check for the difference between his sale price and 90 per cent of the "fair" parity price.

Under present law, the government makes price support loans or purchase agreements with farmers on crops eligible for price support. If the farmer is unable to sell his crops on the open market at or above support prices, the government takes over the crop.

Actualy, there is no serious move afoot in Congress to adopt an across-the-board subsidy program for all crops. But the congressmen are expected to consider such a plan for cotton when they return in January.

The report made no recommendation for or against the use of direct subsidies. But Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson and other top administration officials are flatly opposed to any broad-scale use of the plan.

The report said costs would be much higher if supports were set at 100 per cent of parity, as some farm leaders have urged. Costs would drop if supports were set below 90 per cent, or if restrictions were placed on volume or the number of crops eligible for payments.

Ike Plays Golf; Sees Hole-In-1

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—President Eisenhower played 18 holes of golf in an Army foursome at Ft. Meade, Md., today and watched one of his companions score a hole in one.

Lt. Gen. Floyd Parks, retired, former commandant at Ft. Meade in nearby Maryland, lifted the ace on the 155-yard sixth hole of the Army layout. Parks told of his rare shot as he posed for cameramen on the 18th green.

Others in the foursome—scores were not made public—were Maj. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, commandant of Walter Reed Army Hospital here, and Col. Thomas Belcher, retired, who often plays with Eisenhower at Burning Tree Club in nearby Maryland.

Surfeit Of Parties Basic Cause For French Premier Turnover

There is this consolation for a man tapped to shoulder the heavy burdens of the French republic as premier: He knows that it won't be l[ong] before he's asked to put the[m] in again.

V[ictim] - Premier Maurice Bo[urgès] Maunoury's successor tak[es] executive reins of the [Re]public, he will be the premier in office [since] sir[ce] the postwar government wa[s formed] in December of 1945. [Only] two men ha[ve held] control for [the] average postwar term is about six months. One lasted only two days.

Although Bourges - Maunoury tripped and fell over the painful Algerian problem, many elements are usually involved in French political battles. The crux of the French difficulty is that no one party holds a majority in the widely divided French Parliament. A myriad of parties faithfully represent a myriad of opinions in the French society. Although this representation is admirable in theory, the practical result is closer to anarchy than democracy. Each government must patch together a majority with fluid coalitions varying with the issue of the moment.

Sooner or later, as Bourges-Maunoury and the 21 others before him discovered, an issue arises for which no majority can be recruited.

This recurrent failure has led to frequent calls for a constitutional reform which would give the French government more stability. One French parliamentary leader said recently that "such reform is the No. 1 political problem in France."

Scientist Says Space Work To Speed Up

BARSLONA, Spain Oct. 12 (AP)—A U.S. space scientist said yesterday it will be possible to carry out interplanetary research with unmanned rockets within three to five years.

Krafft A. Ehricke of the Convair Astronautics Division made the forecast in a lecture read to the annual congress of the International Astronautical Federation by Frederick C. Durant III, IAF vice president.

Ehricke, who is not a delegate to the congress, suggested postponement of efforts to send out space ships with crews and concentration instead on sending instrument-laden rockets to study lunar and interplanetary space.

"Because of the universal significance and importance of scientific knowledgment gained in this manner," he said, "we urge the scientific and specially the astronautic fraternity of this planet to consider the organization of an international astrophysical decade, in extension of the International Geophysical Year, devoted to systematic research in. . . lunar and interplanetary space."

Ehricke said the comparatively small payload weights of the unmanned rockets would mean much smaller energy requirements. Only a velocity increase of from 10,000 to 12,000 feet per second would be needed to send a rocket off from a satellite orbit near the earth. About 25,000 feet per second velocity is needed to send a body into orbit.

This low velocity rate, he said, "brings the lunar and the entire interplanetary space between Venus and Mars within our reach for one-way missions."

Red Strike At Turks Not Seen By U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP)—U. S. diplomats saw no evidence today that Russia plans to strike at Turkey, despite Moscow's blunt threats that Turkey was inviting disaster.

Instead, they saw the Soviet muscle-flexing as having two objectives in the tense Middle East:

—To establish Russia as a power to be reckoned with in the area where she has long desired a foothold.

—To give Russia chance to take credit if a Middle East war is avoided and a real peace achieved.

The threat was made Wednesday by Soviet Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev. He said in an interview with the New York Times that the United States was inciting Turkey to war against Syria.

In an unusually tough reply, the United States acused Khrushchev of openly threatening Turkey. It promised to stick by commitments to defend Turkey and warned Russia any Middle East fighting would not be necessarily be confined to the Middle East, a clear warning that Russia might be attacked.

While experts here see no sign that Russia plans to strike at Turkey, they considered it essential to answer the Soviet threat with firm language. To fail to make U. S. intentions on aiding Turkey clear might have prompted some Soviet move they said.

Discrimination Sinful, Asserts Church Assembly

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12 (UP)—Delegates to the international convention of the Disciples of Christ resolved today that racial discrimination is sinful, that the joined the 85 churches of Little churches must "move from principle to practice" in eliminating it.

Then the convention delegates Rock, Ark., in a special period of prayer for a solution "to the crisis that has gripped that city."

Resolution 43 contends that "agreement of the sinfulness of racial discrimination and forced segregation both within the church and without is not enough."

"Churches are now faced with the fact that their responsibility is one of moving from principle to practice within their own local situations," the resolution said.

The convention of disciples opened Friday night.

The resolution on "race relations" outlined concrete plans "as to procedures representing the direction in which the Disciples should move."

One clause directed "local churches should make it unmistakably clear the witness of their individual congregations as to the inclusive nature of their fellowships."

The clause suggested "for some this may mean employment of a multi-racial staff... an active evangelism program among persons of 'other races'... public announcement 'we welcome all people'... and for still others it may mean long study and painful experimentation..."

Man Jailed As Fugitive From Florida

MOBILE, Ala., Oct. 12 (UP)—A 35-year-old native of Mississippi was arrested here as a fugitive from a Florida prison camp from which he fled five years ago, detectives said today.

Don Riddle and Jack Hickman said they arrested Howard T. Payne yesterday at a wholesale fish company where he was working. The arrest came about check following Payne's arrest recently on a minor charge.

Oil Progress Report:

Lion Oil, organized in the oil fields of South Arkansas in 1923 to operate a small refinery, maintained substantial growth through the years to become the South's leading petroleum enterprise . . . a fully-integrated company engaged in every phase of oil industry activity. Now, as a Division of Monsanto Chemical Company, Lion has taken a new and significant step forward in its growth. Already producing oil and natural gas in 10 states and currently exploring undeveloped lease holdings in 17 states of the U. S., Lion has expanded its search for oil to new horizons—to the world!

Oil was discovered in Canada in 1957 through L-M Oil Company, Ltd., a wholly-owned Monsanto subsidiary. In joint operation with associates, Lion also is engaged in active drilling in Sicily and in Spain.

Late in 1956, Lion and four U. S. corporations acquired extensive oil and gas concessions in Venezuela and a first well, drilling in 100 feet of water, was begun in fabulous Lake Maracaibo in July of 1957. Lion, with three of these same companies, also has acquired a 900,000-acre concession in Bolivia, on which drilling will begin in the near future.

Red Strike At Turks Not Seen By U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP)—U. S. dip'omats saw no evidence today that Russia plans to strike at Turkey, despite Moscow's blunt threats that Turkey was inviting disaster.

Instead, they saw the Soviet muscle-flexing as having two objectives in the tense Middle East:

—To establish Russia as a power to be reckoned with in the area where she has long desired a foothold.

—To give Russia chance to take credit if a Middle East war is avoided and a real peace achieved.

The threat was made Wednesday by Soviet Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev. He said in an interview with the New York Times that the United States was inciting Turkey to war against Syria.

In an unusually tough reply, the United States acused Khrushchev of openly threatening Turkey. It promised to stick by commitments to defend Turkey and warned Russia any Middle East fighting would not be necessarily be confined to the Middle East, a clear warning that Russia might be attacked.

While experts here see no sign that Russia plans to strike at Turkey, they considered it essential to answer the Soviet threat with firm language. To fail to make U. S. intentions on aiding Turkey clear might have prompted some Soviet move they said.

Discrimination Sinful, Asserts Church Assembly

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12 (UP)—Delegates to the international convention of the Disciples of Christ resolved today that racial discrimination is sinful, that the joined the 85 churches of Little churches must "move from principle to practice" in eliminating it.

Then the convention delegates Rock, Ark., in a special period of prayer for a solution "to the crisis that has gripped that city."

Resolution 43 contends that "agreement of the sinfulness of racial discrimination and forced segregation both within the church and without is not enough."

"Churches are now faced with the fact that their responsibility is one of moving from principle to practice within their own local situations," the resolution said.

The convention of disciples opened Friday night.

The resolution on "race relations" outlined concrete plans "as to procedures representing the direction in which the Disciples should move."

One clause directed "local churches should make it unmistakably clear the witness of their individual congregations as to the inclusive nature of their fellowships."

The clause suggested "for some this may mean employment of a multi-racial staff . . . an active evangelism program among persons of 'other races' . . . public announcement 'we welcome all people' . . . and for still others it may mean long study and painful experimentation. . . ."

Scientist Sees Germ Warfare Threat In Moon

ALBUQUERQUE, Oct. 12 (AP) — A scientist who helped investigate Japanese balloon warfare in World War II said today that the Russian satellite is placing the United States in serious danger from possible germ warfare.

Dr. Lincoln Lapaz, director of the University of New Mexico's Institute of Meteorites, declared that the American people have not been told of what he termed the peril facing this country.

The Russian satellite, LaPaz said, could be used to loose deadly bacteria onto the United States. He said it would be possible, if the Russians wish, for them to place the bacteria in any particular state in the Union.

"Anyone familiar with the basically simple design of the bomb-dropping mechanism on the Jap paper balloons will recognize that scientists and engineers capable of launching a Sputnik would have no difficulty in disseminating B.W. —biological warfare—agents from such a satellite," LaPaz declared.

"And they could do this in complete anonymity. It would be impossible to track it back to them."

The solution, he said, is for the United States to get a satellite of its own circling the globe as soon as possible, to pose an equal threat and create a stalemate situation.

Searchers who struggled up the rugged mountainside said one of the officers apparently lived two days after the plane crashed while en route from Governors Island, N. Y., to Burlington, Vt.

That body bore colonel's eagle insignia, had a handkerchief around the head to protect a torn ear and had a two-day beard growth.

Searchers said the body might have been that of Col. David M. Perkins of Wichita Falls, Tex. The handkerchief around his head bore the letter "P."

Scraps of charred paper near the body 200 yards from the wrecked plane gave evidence he tried to light a fire.

The Army said other officers aboard the plane were Capt. Eual A. Cathley, 33, of Brooklyn, N. Y., the pilot; Col. Emery E. Hyde, 46, of Eugene, Ore., and Lt. Col. Clinton G. Merrill, 44, of Dewitt, N. Y.

Two bodies found in the plane were badly charred. Only bones remained of the fourth body.

Ground searchers reached the plane today, nearly 24 hours after it was spotted by an Army aircraft.

Juree White, Ruston Negro woman, was out on $1,000 bond last night after being charged by Ruston City Police with aggravated battery.

He was reported "resting comfortably" last night in the hospital.

Venezuela Spends Oil Millions On Cable Lift Into The Clouds

By LARRY ALLEN

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — All Venezuelans and tourists have to do to find a new kind of thrill is to take a ride "into the clouds."

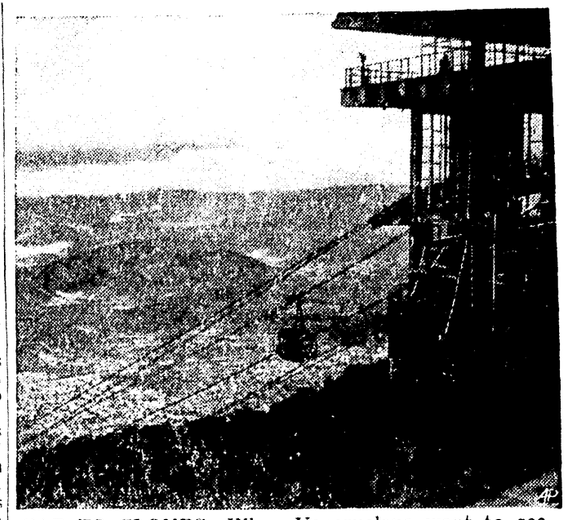

It costs them just four bolivares ($1.20) to get a breathtaking, sweeping look at the brilliantly lighted city of Caracas on one side and the Caribbean coast on the other from atop mist - laden Mt. Avila.

Venezuelans, always building the spectacular as they get richer every day from the hundreds of millions of dollars in taxes and royalties from the production of three million barrels of oil daily, now report a booming funicular business.

It's called the "teleferico." This is a two - mile - long modern cable lift that runs up the steep slopes of the 7,000 foot peak.

On the second longest ride of its kind in the world, the "teleferico" uses 14 cabin cars operating on a continuous moving belt system. Each accommodates 28 passengers on the 10 - minute run to the summit of the mountain.

The streamlined cable railway equipment was purchased by the Venezuela public works ministry from manufacturers in the Saar Basin in Europe for two million dollars. Installations along the incline cost eight million. Building of the luxurious 15 - story Hotel Humboldt, an ice - skating rink and other recreational facilities atop Mt. Avila cost over five million more.

CAR TO CLOUDS: When Venezuelans want to see "something different," they take the two-mile "teleferico" ride to the 7,000-foot peak of Mt. Avila overlooking Caracas.

Senator Byrd Has Proof Of Riot Training

RICHMOND, Va. Oct. 12 (AP)—Sen. Byrd (D-Va) said here last night he has a letter "which appears to be proof" that "riot training" is "actually in operation" in the Army.

A woman wrote him, he said, that her soldier husband and other soldiers were ordered to throw rocks at another group of soldiers armed with rifles with fixed bayonets.

Byrd was among those who demanded of Secretary of the Army Brucker that he give details of the directive Sept. 25 which ordered stepped-up riot training among Army troops and then was quickly rescinded by Bruckner.

Bruckner replied today to Sen. Russell (D-Ga), chairman of the Senate Armed services Committee, that it was Gen. Maxwell Taylor who issued the order. But Byrd told reporters here that Bruckner did not answer some of his Byrd's questions.

"In effect, what the government has done is to invoke the Fifth Amendment," in refusing to give details of the riot-training order, Byrd said. He said he intended to "get this information if I have to introduce a resolution in Congress."

The Army installation at which the "riot training" was alleged to have taken place was not identified.

The Army said the night Bruckner recalled the directive of Sept 25 that the usual training in dealing with civil disturbances would continue unchanged. Bruckner's orders did not abolish the training which troops usually get for such emergencies.

Bruckner said in his letter to Russell made public today "Field Manual 19-15 . . . prescribes the basis for training in 'civil disturbances' to be given to Army troops. This training is incorporated into training schedules as a routine matter."

An Army spokesman said tonight the Field Manual does not spell out the form of training to the extent of listing such specific points as defense against thrown rocks.

CONGRESS TOLD

New Farm Program Would Cost Taxpayers Billions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP)—Congress yesterday that junking present farm price supports in favor of direct subsidies would cost U. S. taxpayers between 7 and 10 billion dollars a year.

The estimate was contained in a department analysis of the two programs prepared at the request of the lawmakers. The administration's present flexible price support program cost slightly less than 2 billion dollars last year.

The department conceded the subsidy program would boost farm income by from 7 to 11 billion dollars a year. But it said farmers would be receiving nearly half of their net income from the government under such a system.

Under the subsidy program, sometimes called the "Brannan plan," the farmer would sell his crops on the open market for whatever he could get. He would get a federal check for the difference between his sale price and 90 per cent of the "fair" parity price.

Under present law, the government makes price support loans or purchase agreements with farmers on crops eligible for price support. If the farmer is unable to sell his crops on the open market at or above support prices, the government takes over the crop.

Actualy, there is no serious move afoot in Congress to adopt an across-the-board subsidy program for all crops. But the congressmen are expected to consider such a plan for cotton when they return in January.

The report made no recommendation for or against the use of direct subsidies. But Agriculture Secretary Ezra T. Benson and other top administration officials are flatly opposed to any broad-scale use of the plan.

The report said costs would be much higher if supports were set at 100 per cent of parity, as some farm leaders have urged. Costs would drop if supports were set below 90 per cent, or if restrictions were placed on volume or the number of crops eligible for payments.

There is this consolation for a man tapped to shoulder the heavy burdens of the French republic as premier: He knows that it won't be long before he's asked to put them down again.

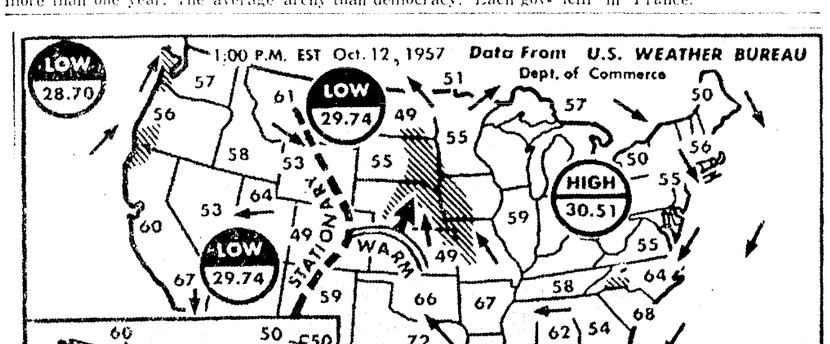

When ex - Premier Maurice Bourges - Maunoury's successor takes up the executive reins of the troubled republic, he will be the 23rd French premier in office since the first postwar government was installed in November of 1945.

In those 12 years, only two men have maintained their control for more than one year. The average postwar term is about six months. One lasted only two days.

Although Bourges - Maunoury tripped and fell over the painful Algerian problem, many elements are usually involved in French political battles. The crux of the French difficulty is that no one party holds a majority in the widely divided French Parliament. A myriad of parties faithfully represent a myriad of opinions in the French society. Although this representation is admirable in theory, the practical result is closer to anarchy than democracy. Each government must patch together a majority with fluid coalitions varying with the issue of the moment.

Sooner or later, as Bourges-Maunoury and the 21 others before him discovered, an issue arises for which no majority can be recruited.

This recurrent failure has led to frequent calls for a constitutional reform which would give the French government more stability. One French parliamentary leader said recently that "such reform is the No. 1 political problem in France."

Scientist Says Space Work To Speed Up

BARSLONA, Spain Oct 12 (AP) —A U.S. space scientist said yesterday it will be possible to carry out interplanetary research with unmanned rockets within three to five years.

Krafft A. Ehricke of the Convair Astronautics Division made the forecast in a lecture read to the annual congress of the International Astronautical Federation by Frederick C. Durant III, IAF vice president.

Ehricke, who is not a delegate to the congress, suggested postponement of efforts to send out space ships with crews and concentration instead on sending instrument-laden rockets to study lunar and interplanetary space.

"Because of the universal significance and importance of scientific knowledgment gained in this manner," he said, "we urge the scientific and specially the astronautic fraternity of this planet to consider the organization of an international astrophysical decade, in extension of the International Geophysical Year, devoted to systematic research in. . . lunar and interplanetary space."

Ehricke said the comparatively small payload weights of the unmanned rockets would mean much smaller energy requirements. Only a velocity increase of from 10,000 to 12,000 feet per second would be needed to send a rocket off from a satellite orbit near the earth. About 25,000 feet per second velocity is needed to send a body into orbit.

This low velocity rate, he said, "brings the lunar and the entire interplanetary space between Venus and Mars within our reach for one-way missions."

There was another clash at Mayari, with four rebel deaths.

No army casualties were mentioned in either case.

San Marino Gets Third Government

REPUBLIC OF SAN MARINO, Oct. 1 (UP)—A third government was proclaimed for San Marino today, but most residents of the tiny republic put their faith in the government led by the Christian-Democrats.

"My God! Not another government!" was the reaction of hotel keeper Joseph Grozzi when he heard the news. "We've cornered the market."

Tulio Vittorio Giacomini, a 28-year-old distant relative of ousted Socialist - communist boss Gino Giacomini, proclaimed his new fascist - tinged government at nearby Pensaro, 2 miles south of San Marino in Italy.

He announced formation of his government in an open telegram: "I have the honor to inform you," he told the republic's citizens, "of the proclamation of the new revolutionary and corporate government of San Marino, with its provisional capital at Castelfiorentino," a tiny farm about a mile from San Marino's capital.

"The government will be neither red nor white," he said, "it will be black."

Red Strike At Turks Not Seen By U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP)—U. S. diplomats saw no evidence today that Russia plans to strike at Turkey, despite Moscow's blunt threats that Turkey was inviting disaster.

Instead, they saw the Soviet muscle-flexing as having two objectives in the tense Middle East:

—To establish Russia as a power to be reckoned with in the area where she has long desired a foothold.

—To give Russia chance to take credit if a Middle East war is avoided and a real peace achieved.

The threat was made Wednesday by Soviet Communist party boss Nikita S. Khrushchev. He said in an interview with the New York Times that the United States was inciting Turkey to war against Syria.

In an unusually tough reply, the United States acused Khrushchev of openly threatening Turkey. It promised to stick by commitments to defend Turkey and warned Russia any Middle East fighting would not be necessarily be confined to the Middle East, a clear warning that Russia might be attacked.

While experts here see no sign that Russia plans to strike at Turkey, they considered it essential to answer the Soviet threat with firm language. To fail to make U. S. intentions on aiding Turkey clear might have prompted some Soviet move they said.

Just Name It, They've Been There; Navymen Claim Record World Travel

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

India, Aden, Japan, Argentina, Dutch East Indies, Yugoslavia . . . you name it, they've been there.

Claiming the title as the Monroe office - force with the most world travel, the men at the U. S. navy recruiting office in the post office have seen the world—and have colorful memories of their tours.

Chief W. R. Chappell, in charge of recruiting, has been with the service for 17 years. Other members of the office include Tom L. Brandon, 17 years; Joseph M. Malmay, Jr., 12 years; Keith E. Rhodes, 17 years; W. C. Choitz, 17 years; and Porter L. Faulkner, 15 years.

The forbidden city of Peking, China . . . "China is the most fascinating country in the world," commented Boatswain's Mate 1-C Joseph L. Malmay, Jr. "I was there in the fall of 1945, and hired a 70 - year - old guide to show me the city for three days."

"Surrounded by sharp - pointed stakes, the city has a huge entry gate. Inside the wall, is a moat; five bridges across the moat represent five fingers of a dragon. A sidewalk, in the shape of an arrow, crosses the bridges and leads to the royal palace. Should an enemy evil spirit enter, the fingers will release the arrow, and it will pierce the spirit's heart, destroying it," Malmay stated, revealing an old legend.

Huge Block

A huge block of very thick teakwood is placed in the center of the doorway to the palace. The Chinese believed that the harmful buddha spirits could travel only in a straight line, and the teakwood post formed a barrier to protect the inhabitants of the palace.

"On the left side of the doorway is a monstrous tortoise, carved from marble, and on the right is a marble stork. The sign of the stork was a belief that the wives would have many children, and the long - lived tortoise signified that the ruler's children would live hundreds of years," Malmay continued.

In possession of an ancient sword procured from the Winter Palace in Peking, Malmay states that hundreds of people have estimated its age and value, but he has no definite knowledge of its true age.

"I believe that it is many centuries old. I paid a Chinese man $25 in U. S. currency (over $1 million in Chinese money) to get the sword for me after the palace had been closed to visitors.

Blade Strong

"No one around here has ever seen a sword like this one. The blade is so strong I sliced a hunting knife in two with it, with very little effort and didn't even scratch the sword's blade. The handle is not made for a one-hand grip, as most other swords are—this one requires two hands," he demonstrated, swinging the sword in an arc.

The sheath and handle are made of rice, hardened, polished down and black - lacquered. Three engraved, raised flower patterns of what appears to be old gold are on the sheath, and another is on the handle.

"A musty smell, just like the palace, is in the sheath, and I've had that thing for 12 years now. I kept it hid for years inside my bunk cover — afraid that someone would be looking for the missing sword," he added.

Far from the temples of China, Boatswain's Mate 1-C Porter L. Faulkner was marooned with his shipmates in the ice, off the coast of Labrador, for several weeks in 1950.

"We were on an A. K. L., carrying light cargo and mail to the northern weather and radio stations. Our ship became wedged in the ice, and all of us, including the cook, had to climb up on the outside and chop off the ice that was constantly forming on the vessel."

Close Call

"The wind blew the salt water up, and it froze — if we hadn't kept at it, the sheer weight of ice would have sunk the ship. We all grew long beards — it was so cold outside, that if we shaved, our faces would have been raw with chapping," he explained.

Hunting on the ice, shooting snow quail, fishing through holes cut in the frozen masses of ice—until an ice - breaker and separation of the surface of the "snow prison" freed the ship — was an experience not easily forgotten.

Impressed by the Australians, Chief Chappell stressed that they are among the friendliest people in the world.

"I was stationed in Australia from January through August, 1944, and the country seemed like what our Old West was during the late 1800's. We were stationed at Perth, and I could ride a horse the 12 miles from there to the ocean, without seeing any fences—it was open range," he revealed

'Out-Door' People

"The Australians are an 'out-door' people — every Saturday afternoon, they closed all their stores, and went on picnics, boating or to the races."

During a 1947 cruise, Chappell visited Trieste; Venice, Naples, Taranto; Tulon, France; the island of Sardinia; Polo, Yugoslavia; and Alexandretta, Turkey.

"In Alexandretta, four other chiefs and I rented a car, and went 50 miles up in the mountains to Antioch, where the Apostle Paul, started preaching."

"Antioch today is much the same as it was 2000 years ago—the streets are lined with narrow shops, about three feet wide, open at the front. The butchers kill an animal, slice it up, hang the cuts on the wall, and customers come in and select their dinner meat."

The way up consisted of steep curves and dips, and it took a truck transmission under the hood of the car to make the journey. "That driver was used to the country, but he had all of us shaking at some of the dangerous spots in the road," Chappell recalls.

Ancient Tombs

"While there, we saw tombs that dated from the 14th century, and even further back in time," he added.

Christmas of 1952 in Singapore—and the four ships of the squadron were filled with youngsters from the Singapore orphanages.

"They had dinner on board ship, then saw American movies—and they were almost thrilled to death," Chappell stated.

Formosa, Hong Kong, Singapore, Columbo, Ceylon — "I got word on Dec. 31, 1952, in Ceylon, that our third child, a boy, had been born — and there I was, halfway around the world," he remembers.

Nearly 900 miles to the north in Calcutta, India, M. M. C. Tom L. Brandon, who also has 17 years Navy duty, witnessed a sight he will ever forget.

Scene of Death

"I saw people lying in the gutters, starving to death—while sacred Brahma bulls roamed the streets at will. No one would dare touch those cattle," he revealed.

From Long Beach, Calif., on November 7, 1953, Keith E. Rhodes, GMH, went on a 11 month, 1 day cruise, that took him to 21 ports in the Pacific.

Cities in Japan, Korea, Pacific Islands, Hong Kong — oriental music, doll-like youngsters peering around corners, rice-paddies, souvenir shops — Rhodes saw life as it is in the Far East.

Snakey Visitor

"It was nothing to get up in the morning, go clean up and shave, and come back to find a small seven or eight foot python snake in your nice warm bunk that you had just left" stated W. C. Choitz, Chief Ship's Serviceman.

Choitz was recalling his 11 months in the jungle country of Southern New Guinea, during 1943-44. "We saw two 32-foot pythons in the jungle, hanging from trees. Bulldozers from a near-by construction area crushed them to death. These snakes don't bite—the only danger is that they will drop down from a tree, wrap around you and squeeze you to death," he said.

"We ran into those snakes on a search for the famed Black Parts. We didn't find any, but we did see a lot of the native life.

"I've heard all kinds of singing, by choirs and choral groups, but no one has ever heard how beautiful singing can actually be until he has listened to wild natives, who have been taught hymns, singing them in their own language," Choitz added.

From Chinese temples to Christian missionary churches in jungle villages . . . from the ice of the far north to the open range of Australia, the land 'down under,' these six Navy men have travelled over the entire globe.

Test Series Give Clues To U.S. On Radioactive Fallout

By JACK LEFLER

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev., Oct. 12 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission said today it learned how to tighten control of radioactive fallout in the 24-shot nuclear test series just concluded.

The series opened on the Nevada desert last May 28 amid a worldwide cry of alarm over the dangers of fallout from atomic tests to present and future generations.

The emphasis on safety to some extent overshadowed the primary purpose of the series—to develop a variety of small nuclear weapons for defense purposes.

After the final shot last Monday the AEC said: "We feel there is a better public understanding of continental testing than there was last spring."

The AEC, reviewing the most extensive nuclear testing program ever carried out in the United States, said, "Fallout was lower than expected because of improved operating techniques."

These improvements, it said, were:

1. Better weather forecasting through experience.

2. More knowledge of fallout pattern as related to wind speed and directions.

3. Use of balloons from which to suspend atomic devices.

As a result, the AEC said, "no populated place received radiation in excess of the established low safety limit.

"Scientific data was gathered to aid in solving the problems of making weapons of greatly reduced fallout."

This was the first time balloons had been used to suspend detonating platforms. Their use reduced fallout because there was nothing to be vaporized. When an atomic device is exploded on a steel tower the disintegrated radioactive matter is sucked up into the air in the mushroom cloud.

Another new wrinkle in reducing fallout was the first explosion in a tunnel. The results of this experiment are yet to be evaluated.

Adverse weather conditions, principally winds which would have carried fallout over inhabited places, caused 76 24-hour postponements of shots. The delays added to the estimated 72-million-dollar expense of the series.

The 24 shots this summer brought to 69 the number of atomic devices set off here since testing was started in 1951. The greatest previous number in a single series was 14 in 1955.

In addition to the balloon and tunnel shots, the series was marked by these firsts:

Firing of an air-to-air rocket with an atomic warhead. (The Air Force said this is "the best weapon we have.")

Use of foreign (Canadian) troops in maneuvers in the blast area.

Presence of military and civilian observers from foreign nations.

Testing of foreign atomic bomb shelters (from France and Germany). They stood up well.

Experiments conducted in connection with the explosions ranged from tests of fabric worn by pigs at varying distances from the blast site to the effect on packaged food and unprotected grains.

Troops were used more extensively than ever before. Infantrymen and Marines crouched in trenches about three miles away when the atomic weapons went off and then were carried into the dust-shrouded blast area in swarms of helicopters. The maneuvers were designed to test new organizational units for atomic warfare.

The most powerful atomic device ever exploded in the United States went off with an earth-shaking roar July 5. Its power was rated unofficially at between 60 and 80 kilotons—up to four times bigger than the World War II atom bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Old Man In Italy Builds Statue To Spite Nephews

LA CAVA, Italy (AP)— The bent old man gazed up at the shining marble statue and chuckled.

It was a statue of himself. And 86-year-old Michele DiPrisco figured it gave him the last laugh on his 20 nephews. He paid many, many lire to have it made.

From his seat under the oak tree in front of his house DiPrisco could see the statue plainly. He puffed on his cigar and pondered the ingratitude of his nephews to whom he gave his land and money—only, he says, to be quickly forgotten by them.

DiPrisco says that's why he built the statue.

Many years ago he was a wealthy farmer. But he and his wife had no children, so he gave away most of his property to the sons of his brothers and sisters.

The old man says he gave each an equal share, and that each became angry because they all wanted more.

DiPrisco kept for himself a few acres on which was located a marble quarry. He and his wife lived comfortably on the rent from the quarry, but DiPrisco wanted to do something to be remembered for in this tiny village 50 miles east of Naples.

La Cava already had a nice bronze statue in its main square. DiPrisco decided it needed another.

He had a sculptor make a life-size statue of himself of marble mined in his quarry. Then he had the statue placed atop a 20 foot marble pyramid on a small piece of ground next to his house. In all it cost about $11,000.

DiPrisco educated himself, and acquired a reputation as "the philosopher" from his cronies, mostly poor farmers. He spends most of each day smoking and sitting under the oak tree in his yard.

It is beside the public street so it can be seen by everyone in the village.

"That is my present to posterity," DiPrisco tells passersby.

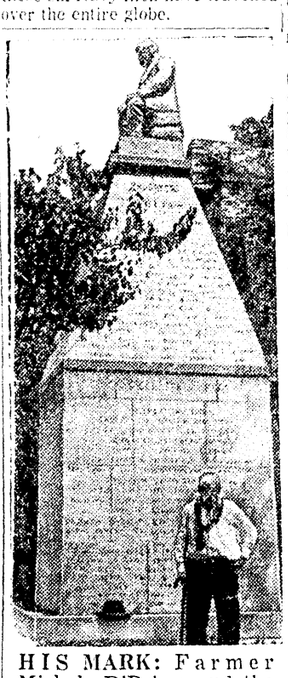

Around the base of the pyramid and on a wall nearby are chiseled a score of verses written by the old farmer. They give advice to the world, to the Italian government, to fathers and to young couples planning marriage.

"To give the country civilization.

"Don't let the people wed before they're 25 years old.

"To avoid creating beggars.

"Don't let a stupid woman marry an ignorant man."

HIS MARK: Farmer Michele DiPrisco and the monument he put up in his own memory near square of his native village.

Item Demands Truth About U.S. Security

NEW ORLEANS, Oct 12 (UP)—The New Orleans Item today called on President Eisenhower to tell the American people the truth about national security instead of handing out "sugar-pills."

In its lead editorial, the Item said the administration has treated the people "as if we were not bright enough to understand the facts—or too neurotic to be trusted with them—we've been fed sugar-pills."

Papa Knows Best

"The philosophy in Washington is one of Papa knows best," the editorial said. "Maybe he does, maybe he doesn't—but the republic wasn't founded on mistrust of the citizenry."

The newspaper cited official treatment given of developments in the U. S.-Russia missiles race.

"Charlie Wilson, an honest, decent, likable gentleman, but too often given to over-simplification, kissed off the Russian hoisting of the world's first satellite as a 'nice scientific trick.'"

The editorial said the country could use a soldier - statesman such as General Gruenther as Defense Secretary.

It also said:

"Where and why have we lagged in the missiles field? What will it take to correct the lag—and what will it cost. If duplication beween Army, Navy and Air Force projects was cut out, perhaps we could catch up and move ahead of the Russians and still come close to a balance budget.

What Price Survival

"What is the price of survival? Washington hasn't discussed it with us. It's been too busy lowrating Russian scientific talent and not busy enough encouraging research in pure science and keeping top scientists in government.

"Where do we stand Mr. President? Let us know—and please use facts instad of balm," the editorial concluded.

SHADOW OF TOMORROW — Silhouette of a 1958 car, with photographers hovering over it far in advance of announcement time, dramatizes the atmosphere of top secrecy surrounding new models. The shadow, incidentally, is thrown by a 1958 Plymouth.

Shrouds Of Secrecy Soon To Lift From 1958 Models

The heavy shrouds of secrecy covering 1958 model automobiles begin falling this month like autumn leaves in the ...th wind.

With the fanfare which delights the manufacturers' drum - beaters one after another the new cars will be formally introduced to the public. The Edsel, a new arrival in Detroit's galaxy, jumped the gun on its more seasoned competitors and started its courtship in September.

Probably no one product manufactured in the United States excites more curiosity in the public than the automobile. And the curiosity is not confined to the public. Keeping new models styling and engineering details out of competitors hands is one of the toughest assignments the car stylists and producers face each year.

Despite the careful precautions all companies take, it is no secret in Detroit that if you want to learn what a certain maker is planning for a model year ahead you usually can get the information from one of his competitors—if you have the proper contacts.

Each manufacturer maintains what the designers call their "cloak and dagger" department. This department, it is said, can usually furnish drawings or pictures of a competitor's forthcoming models.

One of the hardest design leaks to plug is that following the resignation or discharge of a man in the midst of work on a new car. He usually gets a job with a competitor and is a fruitful source of information for his new employer.

Although moves and counter - moves among competitors are in dead earnest, the car makers are just as interested in keeping their new mode' planning from the general public. Advance disclosure of major styling and engineering changes invariably affects the buying of models currently on sale.

The competitors would need the information a year or more in advance to be able to match any innovations another producer might be planning. Styling and engineering have to be firmly set that far in advance because of the time require by the tool and die shops to provide production equipment.

Negro Given Five Years In Seven Hours

LAUREL, Miss., Oct. 12 (AP) — George Ernest, 30-year-old Negro, received a five-year prison term today less than seven hours after he allegedly tried to kill a policeman.

Ernest was arrested after an attack on Patrolman Dick Kennedy, who had picked h... up for larceny investigation. This was the final day of the circuit court term and Judge Lunsford Casey called the grand jury into session.

The jury indicted Ernest for assault and battery with intent to kill. When Ernest said he wanted to plead guily, Judge Casey reminded him automatically called for a prison term and sentenced him to five years.

The attack took place on the front seat of a police prowl car as Kennedy was driving to police headquarters with Ernest and another Negro, Ernest Jones, 30.

Ernest tore the policeman's revolver from the holster and pressed the point of the gun into the officer's side and tried to pull the trigger. Kennedy said he grabbed Kennedy said he grabbed the pistol and prevented the hammer from tripping.

The patrolman halted the car and began struggling. Bill Speed, a truck driver, came to Kennedy's aid. Several other persons also helped subdue Ernest.

Kennedy said Jones, who was riding on the back seat, was not involved in the attack and, instead pleaded with Ernest to stop. Jones also had been picked up for larceny investigation.

Progress Week Observances Set By Oil Industry

HOUSTON Oct. 12 (AP) — Oil Progress Week begins tomorrow. The industry has headaches to spare.

Production cutbacks and localized price wars continue as the industry's celebration starts with a theme emphasizing quality and value of oil products.

Gasoline prices were 6 to 8 cents below normal this week in Houston, with 20 per cent of the nation's refining capacity within a radius of 100 miles.

Domestic crude production last week averaged only 6,311,550 barrels a day, compared to the 7,818,400 record set at the peak of the Suez crisis in March.

Pipeline proration continues in several states where the available crude supply exceeds purchaser demand.

Opponents of imports continue their fight for imports curbs, contending foreign oil now is supplanting instead of supplementing domestic crude.

Such problems are not new. Most result directly from the rapid cutbacks that followed the all-out effort to supply Western Europe with oil when the Suez crisis disrupted the Midle East supply. A similar period of readjustment after military demand curtailments accompanied the end of the fighting in Korea.

Not Candidate

CARTHAGE, Miss., Oct. 12 (AP)—Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss) said today he is not a candidate for any statewide office in Mississippi.

He did not elaborate but rumors have been persistent that he was interested in the governor's race in 1959.

Terms of U.S. Representatives are for two years. Williams' present term expires in 1958.

Addressing the Rotary and Lions clubs, Williams said the use of federal troops at Little Rock was an illegal invasion of a state's sovereignty.

Mississippi Expects To Sell 760,000 Auto License Plates

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 12 (AP) — Motor Vehicle comptroller Guy McCullen said today some 760,000 motor vehicles would have license tags for 1958 and most of them would be bought this month.

In Mississippi, October is license tag buying month.

These tags are the same every year — except for the color combinations. Each measures 12 by 6 inches, is made of 24 U.S. gauge steel, has mile section numbers and border, and usually is found attached to the rear of a motor vehicle.

Under state law, license tags sell for various prices, depending upon the type, model and use of the vehicle for which it is issued.

McCullen ordered 760,492 tags for 1958, each having black letters and numbers on a federal yellow background.

Most of the tags will be issued to passenger car owners. This year, McCullen estimates 479,150 such owners will buy these tags in Mississippi. The estimate is based upon last year's tag issue coupled with the new car sales. The estimate always increases.

The other 281,342 tags are divided into many classes, including some the average Mississippian never sees.

Tag No. 1 always goes to the governor. He receives four of these "1" tags which he places on both ends of his official and personal automobiles.

Non-official tags are placed on the rear only.

The lieutenant governor receives four "2" tags.

The state's U.S. senators and representatives also receive special tags. Sen. James Eastland, the senior senator, has "USS-1" and Sen. John Stennis, the junior senator, "USS-2."

Representatives receive tags bearing the letters "MC" — for member of Congress — and a numeral indicating which of the six congressional districts they represent.

Amateur radio operators also receive special privileges licensewise. For an extra dollar, they can buy a tag bearing their station's call letters assigned by the federal government. In Mississippi, some 150 "hams" advertise their call letters on their automobiles.

Other tags include those bearing these designations:

"Taxi," "Church," "School," "AMB" (ambulance), "NC Bus" (non-commercial bus), "Tractor," "Dealer," "MHP" (Mississippi Highway Patrol), "MNG" (Mississippi National Guard), and "TLR" (trailer).

Passenger coaches are divided into four classes, designated "A", "B," "C" and "D". Their license tags carry the appropriate letter preceeding the sign, "PC," meaning passenger coach.

Smaller license tags, measuring 6 by 3 inches, are for motorcycles, designated "MC," and motorcycle dealers, designated "McDeal."

Truck tags vary more widely and a key to the code is necessary.

There are six classifications for trucks: "H" for common and contract haulers; "F" for private carriers; "HH" for common and contract household goods carriers; "S" for state-owned trucks; and "C" for county-owned trucks.

The figure following the letter, from "5" to "56," indicates the gross weight of the vehicle in thousands of pounds. State law limits trucks to a maximum gross weight of 56,000 pounds.

Drays carry tags bearing "dray" and a number indicating the gross weight. An "H" on a dray tag means it is for hire.

IN MIDDLE EAST

Hammarskjold Says Money Needed To Keep UN Force

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct 12 (UP)— United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said today a lack of money for the U.N. peacemaking task force in the Middle East was a threat to peace there.

Hammarskjold, in a 49-page report to the General Assembly, said the 6,000-man emergency force guarding the demarcation line between Israel and Egypt was the only thing preserving peace in the area.

But, he said, the United Nations had failed to contribute enough money to keep the international Army in the field and warned that there were "grave risks inherent in the present inadequate and insecure basis of UNEF financing."

The secretary general estimated it would cost 24 million dollars to maintain the emergency force this year and that only 6.5 million dollars had been contributed so far.

He asked the United Nations to contribute another 6.5 million dollars to reimburse in part the governments which contributed troops and for an allowance of 20 million dollars to maintain the force next year.

The United States has offered to contribute 3.5 million dollars for the troops if other nations make up the other half of the amount needed.

The U.N. Advisory Committee on UNEF met with Hammarskjold for two hours today and an official statement said only that the meeting was devoted to a review of the secretary general's report.

The state's U.S. senators and representatives also receive special tags. Sen. James Eastland, the senior senator, has 'USS-1" and Sen. John Stennis, the junior senator, "USS-2."

Representatives receive tags bearing the letters "MC" — for member of Congress — and a numeral indicating which of the six congressional districts they represent.

Amateur radio operators also receive special privileges licensewise. For an extra dollar, they can buy a tag bearing their station's call letters assigned by the federal government. In Mississippi, some 150 "hams" advertise their call letters on their automobiles.

Other tags include those bearing these designations:

"Taxi," "Church," "School," "AMB" (ambulance), "NC Bus" (non-commercial bus), "Tractor," "Dealer," "MHP" (Mississippi Highway Patrol), "MNG" (Mississippi National Guard), and "TLR" (trailer).

Passenger coaches are divided into four classes, designated "A", "B," "C" and "D". Their license tags carry the appropriate letter preceeding the sign, "PC," meaning passenger coach.

Smaller license tags, measuring 6 by 3 inches, are for motorcycles, designated "MC," and motorcycle dealers, designated "Mc-Deal."

Truck tags vary more widely and a key to the code is necessary.

There are six classifications for trucks: "H" for common and contract haulers; "F" for private carriers; "HH" for common and contract household goods carriers; "S" for state-owned trucks; and "C" for county-owned trucks.

The figure following the letter, from "5" to "56," indicates the gross weight of the vehicle in thousands of pounds. State law limits trucks to a maximum gross weight of 56,000 pounds.

Drays carry tags bearing "dray" and a number indicating the gross weight. An "H" on a dray tag means it is for hire.

IN MIDDLE EAST

Hammarskjold Says Money Needed To Keep UN Force

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct 12 (UP)— United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said today a lack of money for the U.N. peacemaking task force in the Middle East was a threat to peace there.

Hammarskjold, in a 49-page report to the General Assembly, said the 6,000-man emergency force guarding the demarcation line between Israel and Egypt was the only thing preserving peace in the area.

But, he said, the United Nations had failed to contribute enough money to keep the international Army in the field and warned that there were "grave risks inherent in the present inadequate and insecure basis of UNEF financing."

The secretary general estimated it would cost 24 million dollars to maintain the emergency force this year and that only 6.5 million dollars had been contributed so far.

He asked the United Nations to contribute another 6.5 million dollars to reimburse in part the governments which contributed troops and for an allowance of 20 million dollars to maintain the force next year.

The United States has offered to contribute 3.5 million dollars for the troops if other nations make up the other half of the amount needed.

The U.N. Advisory Committee on UNEF met with Hammarskjold for two hours today and an official statement said only that the meeting was devoted to a review of the secretary general's report.

Monroe Field Discovery Set Pattern

By BILL COLEMAN
Staff Writer

Ever since the discovery of the great Monroe gas field in 1916, gas and oil has played a part in the business, progress and prosperity of northeast Louisiana.

Today America depends more and more on natural resources of gas and oil to further man's place under the sun.

Our homes are heated by gas in winter, cooled by gas in the summer and gas refrigerators keep our foods fresh.

Oil and its by-products can do just about the same in the heating and cooling line as well as being the genie of today's automobiles. Cars today are powered by the best gasoline science can develop which gives great power and longer life to the engine.

Here in the Monroe district six new oil fields and three gas fields were discovered during the past year. Perhaps the best known is the West Monroe field in Ouachita Parish, with the Tina S. Parker No. 1 discovery well of the Pan American Producing Company. This well is in section 5, township 17, range 3 east and was brought in during February testing 1,069 MCF of gas daily on a 12-64 choke with an estimated flow of 60 barrels of 52.1 gravity oil daily. The well has been shut in awaiting the removal of gas.

The other two gas fields in the district are the Olin in Union parish, with the Union-Odom No. 1 as the first well, located in section 4, township 21, range 3 west, and the Justina field in Tensas parish with Halbouty-Fisher No. 1, in section 24, township 12, range 10 east. The Magnolia Petroleum-A. B. Brown No. 1 was also an early well in the field.

In the new oil fields many wells have mbeen dug to a depth of 10,000 to 12,000 feet in search of the "black gold" and with a fair share of success. The Monroe gas field in Union parish had a completion at 11,100 feet in the Smackover lime known as the Olin Oil and Gas No. J-1. This well was brought in March 15 testing 301 barrels of oil daily on a 12-64 choke. This well was plugged and abandoned temporarily on May 24. A new drillsite was staked out and the "J-2" of the same company in section 17, township 21, range 3, east of Monroe field of Union parish was finaled Sept. 25, producing 191 barrels of 40 gravity oil daily on a 14-64 choke. The total depth of this well is 9234 feet.

The Lake Formosa field in Tensas parish has had five oilers brought in since the discovery well.

Eight Oilers

Killens Ferry Field, which is in both Tensas and Franklin parishes, has had eight completions as oilers in its short history. The State Conservation department has just released new orders setting 80-acre spacings in the Killens Ferry field.

Sandy Bayou field in La Salle parish has six completions to its credit, all belonging to the Hunt Oil Company.

The new field in Catahoula parish is the Patton Church field. The Gulf Oil Company - Catahoula Bank No. 1 well was completed February 13, testing 18 barrels of oil daily. The total depth of this well was 4,540 feet.

The last field in the new list is the Turkey Creek in Franklin parish. This field is expected to be a good producer, officials say.

The Monroe gas field has produced and marketed 5.5 trillion cubic feet of gas since the first well was finaled in 1916, figures show. The peak year was 1944, with a total of 272-billion cubic feet of gas produced. The field is presently producing 220,000,000 feet of gas daily, officials stated.

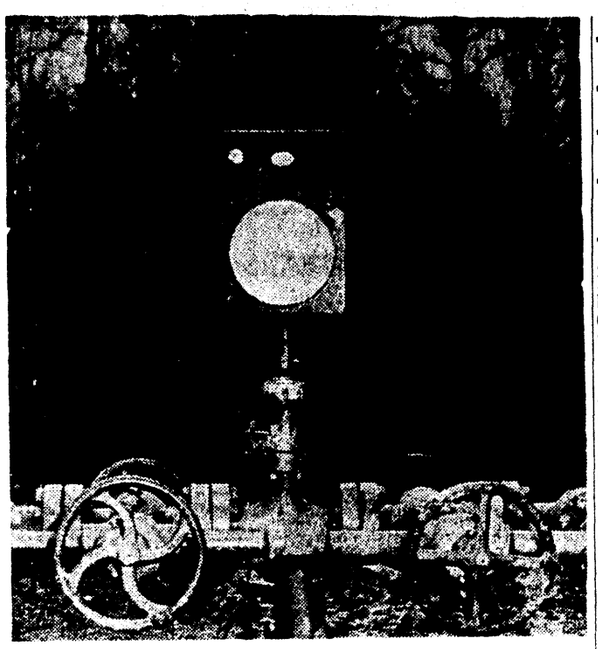

Wells in Production

Records show a total of 2,030 gas wells producing in the Monroe gas field at the present time.

In the Monroe district there are at present 1,824 oil wells and 2,146 gas wells for a total of 3,970 active productive wells in all.

Today, oil and gas take up a great deal of time on the floor of Congress. Bills have been passed to control oil and gas in interstate commerce.

Authoritative sources say seven times as much natural gas is being consumed by householders now as in 1938. Oil and its by-products has reached an even greater use by the American public.

Military Cuts Jolt Petroleum Industry

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP)—The petroleum industry will suffer a financial jolt from the current Defense Department economy cutback, perhaps as much as $170,000,000. But it may be only temporary.

Authority for this is Lt. Col. W. S. Housmen, assistant director, technical division, of the military petroleum supply agency which buys more than a billion dollars worth of oil products annually for the armed services.

"Despite the cutback," Housman said in a speech to the recent quartermaster convention in San Francisco, "it seems reasonable to assume that an upward trend in military fuel requirements will continue. New planes and other war machines (not identified) entering our weapons systems travel farther and faster. But they also require larger quantities of fuels tailored to more stringent specifications."

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, who retired to private life this week, ordered a 10 to 15 per cent cutback in military petroleum purchases as part of the Defense Department's drive to stay within its fiscal 1958 spending budget.

In terms of oil dollars, Col. Houseman said this single economy will cut from $115,000,000 to $170,000,000 from a petroleum products budget of $1,143,000,000.

He said the immediate effect was cancellation of 40 cargoes of Navy special and jet fuel from the Caribbean area. He did not disclose other economies but cited developments over the past 37 years to show why military demands for petroleum products will increase steadily until they are some day replaced by substitute fuels. But that day, he added, is far in the future.

Aviation, Navy Use Oil

Houseman said that in 1920 the military used only 6,000,000 barrels of oil a year, and 95 per cent of that wa. Navy fuel. The figure hit 14,500,000 by 1940 and increased 40 times that in 1945 during World War II. At this peak 70 per cent was aviation gas and Navy special. This was the trend until 1948, beginning of the jet age.

"Today," he said, "jet fuels represent almost 40 per cent of military consumption and are estimated to rise to 48 per cent by 1962. The increase in total requirements through 1962 will be nearly 14 per cent.

Avgas will show little change until 1960 when a gradual decline begins, reflecting the point when the reciprocating engine is to a large degree supplanted by the jet."

He said jet fuel will take a tremendous jump of 52 per cent over the period 1956-62 while other major products will show a slight downtrend.

Housman emphasized that this outlook is based upon present military plans. They do not, he said, reflect possibilities such as further reductions in forces, missions and scope of operations, or a complete reversal of the situation through war.

Here is the way the government petroleum dollar is now spent: jet fuel, 35 cents; avgas, 29 cents; motor gasoline, 8 cents; distillates, 9 cents; heavy fuels, 14 cents; lubricants and greases, 5 cents.

Is It A Highway Or A Building? Artful Tokyo Combines Both

By RENE GEORGES INAGAKI

TOKYO (AP) — The longest building in Tokyo is a road — and the city's only expressway is a building.

This Oriental paradox is the result of combining a two-story building with an elevated highway: the road runs on the roof and the building curves as dictated by the course of the road.

Arising from the bed of a drained canal, the building - highway will run for almost a mile through the heart of downtown Tokyo.

Charge of Profiteering

Begun in 1953, the project now is scheduled for completion next year — one year late. It has been dubbed "the long castle of profits," and made the object of loud criticism and public investigations.

A private firm headed by Minoru Higuchi is building it. When completed, the building — interrupted by six bridges carrying its roof - road over intersections — will provide some 650,000 square feet of rentable space.

Higuchi's firm is collecting eight dollars per square foot as a "loan" from tenants, reimbursable in 15 years at a low interest rate.

It is estimated that the total "loans" will amount to five million dollars. Annual rents charged users will bring in $800,000. Estimated total construction cost is seven million dollars.

Despite its location in the heart of the downtown area where land is more precious than gold, the city of Tokyo is paid only a small rent for use of the land, which, as a one - time canal, is public property.

Higuchi's company started with a paid capital of $33,000 and its shares are held by 39 stockholders, including the presidents of two giant Tokyo department stores, the president of a large radio station, and president of two of Japan's largest newspapers.

Takehisa Hayashi, a director of the company, denies charges of high profits.

"Look around you," he says, waving a hand at the company's drab and crowded two - room office. "We don't even have an electric fan here. That should prove to you that we are not making money. We only rent the office space in order to be able to provide the elevated highway as a free public service.

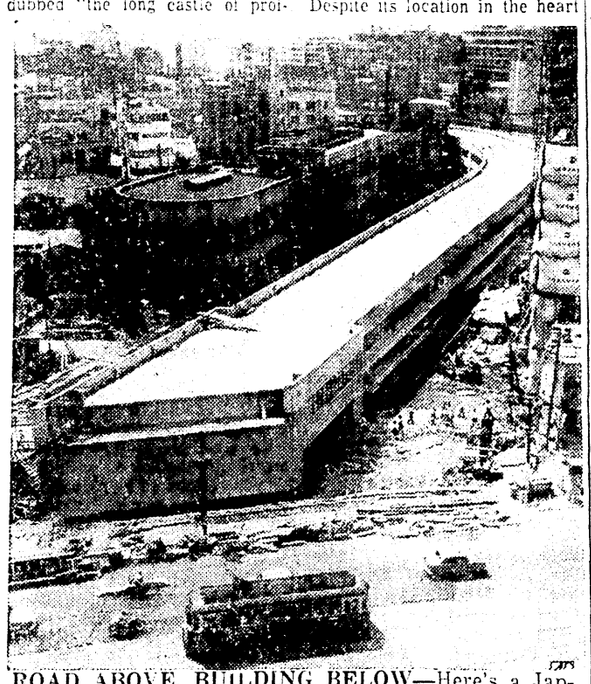

"Another proof that we are not trying to make money is that we will turn over the highway to Tokyo city as soon as it pays for itself, at the latest in 35 years."

Last month a section of the road ending at Sukiyabashi Bridge, the real heart of Tokyo, was completed and a 200 - yard - long all air - conditioned smart shopping arcade opened for business.

The company rented this section to the Ginza Shopping Center Assn. which has leased space to some 80 swanky coffee bars, tea parlors, dressmakers, restaurants, camera, stationery, sporting goods and other specialty shops.

While construction of the new highway has created criticism and some scandal, no one argues that the shopping center and elevated highway are anything but a great asset to this metropolis which claims to be the world's largest city.

This is also the view of the city planners who visualize this short-mile elevated highway as a model and link in a five - road elevated network to be constructed at an expected cost of 200 million dollars in the next 10 days.

ROAD ABOVE, BUILDING BELOW—Here's a Japanese method for conquering city traffic problems—an expressway on the roof of a serpentine building. The roadway will not be complete until next year, but stores and tea shops already occupy parts of the building which winds through the heart of Tokyo.

HOUSES STANDING EMPTY

Frontier Resettlement Resistance Plague Czechs

By HANNS NEUERBOURG

PRAGUE (AP) — Thousands of houses stand empty in rural and small - town areas of Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia while the capital, Prague, is packed to capacity.

Referring to the "housing shortage," Premier Viliam Siroky last summer promised a 50 per cent increase in construction of state-owned apartment buildings.

At about the same time, Rude Pravo, Communist party mouthpiece, told its readers that hundreds of "fine little houses are waiting" for occupants outside of Prague.

Czech newspapers report that 120,000 Prague apartments are overcrowded and 11,000 people live in "emergency" quarters. And yet, between January and June, only 134 Prague citizens moved out of the capital into some of these "fine little houses."

Contradictory? "Frontier resettlement" is the keyword denoting the problem. It means the resettlement of the areas from which nearly two million Sudeten - Germans fled or were expelled after World War II.

Up to now, frantic Czech repopulation efforts have had little sucess. Most of the Sudeten towns now have half or even less of their prewar population.

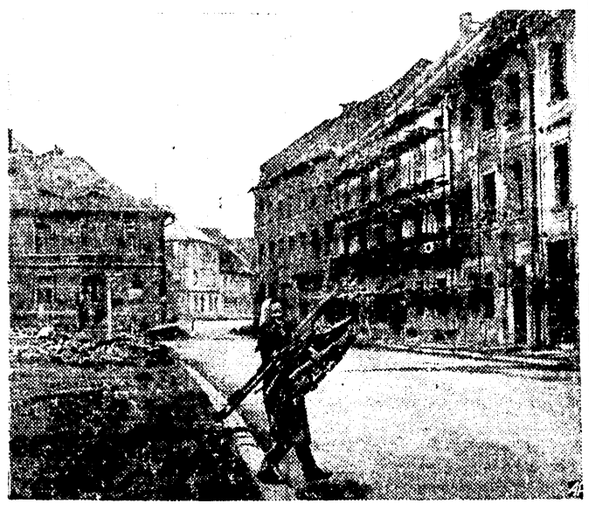

The latest edition of the municipal directory of the Czechoslovak Republic lists 348 communities as no longer in existence. These include towns of 2,000 and more inhabitants.

Villages immediately adjacent to the border were razed to eliminate hideaways for refugees fleeing the country. Other abandoned communities are slowly crumbling or form part of large military training areas. The government has denied published reports that Soviet rocket bases have been set up in these areas.

Why are people hesitating to move into the frontier areas? Most Czechs agreed with the answer of a former Nazi persecutee: "People don't feel safe there."

This feeling is fanned by recurrent warnings of German "revisionism" and is apparently the chief motive keeping people away from the "fine little houses."

Revisionism, in Czech official terminology, may mean either a revision of the present border — although the Western Big Three have given assurance it is final —or a return of the Sudeten Germans to their former homes.

RED GHOST TOWN: A lone woman carries kindling wood through a street of deserted Cheb, a once thriving Czech border town whose pre-war population of 35,000 Germans was expelled or fled. Czechs are having trouble repopulating border towns.

100 TOLAS

'Tola Or Not Tola' Is Indian Question

By SAM JOHNSON

NEW DELHI (AP) — India is beating the drums to lead its people out of the jungle of Indian weights and measures and into the promised land — the metric system.

The present situation "is literally chaotic," a government spokesman says.

After looking into 1,100 villages throughout the country, the government found at least 143 different systems of weighing goods.

In the measurement of volume and area, the situation was found to be worse still.

A "maund" is 82 2-7 pounds, 37.3242 kilograms. Or is it?

More than 100 types of maunds exist, with weights varying from 280 to 8,300 standard tolas. A tola usually is 180 grains troy.

"The 'seer' ranges in weight from 8 to 160 standard tolas, compared to the standard seer of 80 tolas (2.2 pounds)," the government said.

Different Names

Across the country, there are different units with the same name, and different names for the same unit.

The farmer, the bulk of India's population, is hardest hit. In the government's words:

"The absence of a standard weight prejudices the chances of his getting a fair price . . . Farmers are easily duped by unscrupulous middlemen and traders."

The metric system is the answer to these problems, the government said.

The system devised in France "has already conquered the greater part of the world and if we open our gates, it will come in as a friend and help us flush away the chaos and mire of the existing system."

Official Change

India's parliament has already decreed that the meter will become the official unit of length after next April 1. And the kilogram will become the basic measure of weight, with the liter taking over the field of measuring volume.

The new system, however, will be introduced slowly. The government hopes it will replace all other systems by 1966.

With the April 1, 1958, starting date still a long way off, the government is cranking up its publicity machine to make the change acceptable to India's 380 million people, some 82 per cent of them illiterate.

THE HORNS SOUND

Tokyo Coffee Shops Offer Sex, Music, Art

By JAMES CARY

TOKYO (AP)— The music blares raucously. Hip - swaying waitresses in split skirts and low cut gowns shuffle by in time to the beat. Students, businessmen and passersby crowd booths along the garishly painted walls, relaxing over cups of pungent, dark brew.

They are enjoying one of the modern crazes of this traditional land of tea — the coffee shop.

Coffee has been drunk in Japan for decades in tea rooms and milk bars. But the 72,412 coffee shops now licensed in Japan — 6,632 of them in Tokyo — are largely a postwar institution.

They offer almost every conceivable appeal to customers — jazz, classical music, fashion shows, art and pretty girls.

These unique establishments are a strange combination of the American soda fountain, street corner, pool hall and record shop where Japanese gather to gossip, talk business or meet a date. The advent in Japan produced many problems.

"Nude" coffee shops, with hostesses dressed in translucent outer garments, have only recently disappeared from lusty Osaka and Kyoto. Hostesses in bathing suits are also gone.

Women's civic groups charged conditions in Tokyo's 852 all night shops were equally bad. Last August they forced through a new regulation barring persons under 19 from such establishments, requiring adequate lighting, forbidding locked rooms and requiring removal of major obstructions to observation.

But still the sexy joints continue. In Tokyo, the "Albion" features blaring, pounding, hi-fi jazz, a circling chorus line of slinky, suggestively dressed waitresses and an excellent cup of American-style coffee.

The most common coffee shops now feature good hi-fi music, aimed for a particular taste. 'L'Ambre" in downtown Tokyo lays out full classical concerts for weeks ahead, prints a program for its patrons and offers every conceivable type of coffee in an Old English atmosphere.

A recent, typical program included records of Arturo Toscanini leading the NBC Symphony Orchestra in Rossini's Cinderella Overture, Beethoven Symphony No. 4 and Wagner's Siegfrid funeral music.

Other coffee shops specialize in Latin music, display art objects or present movies and several offer patrons freedom to scribble on blackboard walls.

Some even specialize in nothing but coffee, and have developed it into a highly evolved cult leaving the average Westerner in slack-jawed amazement. Check this advice by Tokyo expert, Ichiro Sekiguchi:

"Know your coffee and pick your blend. Weigh each part exactly. Mix. Weigh again. Place in a filter (drip arrangement), add near boiling water, slowly . . . drop by drop at first . . . then more rapidly.

"Weigh cream and sugar, too. Sugar in first. Stir. Cream next. Don't stir. Sip. Don't gulp. Let the cream and coffee mix in your mouth to get the full flavor. That's the only way to get a good cup of coffee."

What you come out with is a heady, potent brew that will crinkle the hair of the average American and send his stomach into rumbling, gastronomic flip-flops. But it's coffee that will give you drive for many hours if you can take it.

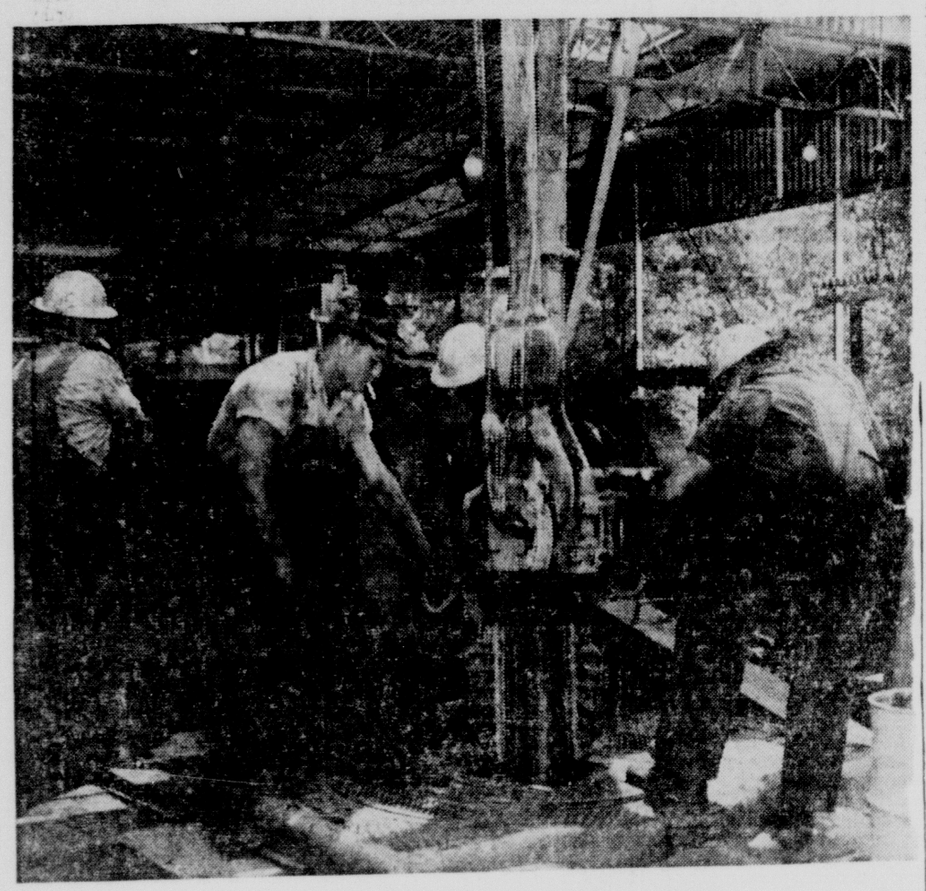

COFFEE AND: Japanese girls in split toreador pants and low-cut tops serve patrons of the "Albion," a Tokyo coffee house that features hi-fi jazz, sexy waitresses and, incidentally, a good cup of coffee. The coffee shops are a craze in postwar Japan.

Contradictory? "Frontier resettlement" is the keyword denoting the problem. It means the resettlement of the areas from which nearly two million Sudeten - Germans fled or were expelled after World War II.

Up to now, frantic Czech repopulation efforts have had little sucess. Most of the Sudeten towns now have half or even less of their prewar population.

The latest edition of the municipal directory of the Czechoslovak Republic lists 348 communities as no longer in existence. These include towns of 2,000 and more inhabitants.

Villages immediately adjacent to the border were razed to eliminate hideaways for refugees fleeing the country. Other abandoned communities are slowly crumbling or form part of large military training areas. The government has denied published reports that Soviet rocket bases have been set up in these areas.

Why are people hesitating to move into the frontier areas? Most Czechs agreed with the answer of a former Nazi persecutee: "People don't feel safe there."

This feeling is fanned by recurrent warnings of German "revisionism" and is apparently the chief motive keeping people away from the "fine little houses."

Revisionism, in Czech official terminology, may mean either a revision of the present border — although the Western Big Three have given assurance it is final —or a return of the Sudeten Germans to their former homes.

RED GHOST TOWN: A lone woman carries kindling wood through a street of deserted Cheb, a once thriving Czech border town whose pre-war population of 35,000 Germans was expelled or fled. Czechs are having trouble repopulating border towns.

100 TOLAS

'Tola Or Not Tola' Is Indian Question

By SAM JOHNSON

NEW DELHI (AP) — India is beating the drums to lead its people out of the jungle of Indian weights and measures and into the promised land — the metric system.

The present situation "is literally chaotic," a government spokesman says.

After looking into 1,100 villages throughout the country, the government found at least 143 different systems of weighing goods.

In the measurement of volume and area, the situation was found to be worse still.

A "maund" is 82 2-7 pounds, 37.3242 kilograms. Or is it?

More than 100 types of maunds exist, with weights varying from 280 to 8,300 standard tolas. A tola usually is 180 grains troy.

"The 'seer' ranges in weight from 8 to 160 standard tolas, compared to the standard seer of 80 tolas (2.2 pounds)," the government said.

Different Names

Across the country, there are different units with the same name, and different names for the same unit.

The farmer, the bulk of India's population, is hardest hit. In the government's words:

"The absence of a standard weight prejudices the chances of his getting a fair price . . . Farmers are easily duped by unscrupulous middlemen and traders."

The metric system is the answer to these problems, the government said.

The system devised in France "has already conquered the greater part of the world and if we open our gates, it will come in as a friend and help us flush away the chaos and mire of the existing system."

Official Change

India's parliament has already decreed that the meter will become the official unit of length after next April 1. And the kilogram will become the basic measure of weight, with the liter taking over the field of measuring volume.

The new system, however, will be introduced slowly. The government hopes it will replace all other systems by 1966.

With the April 1, 1958, starting date still a long way off, the government is cranking up its publicity machine to make the change acceptable to India's 380 million people, some 82 per cent of them illiterate.

Is It A Highway Or A Building? Artful Tokyo Combines Both

By RENE GEORGES INAGAKI

TOKYO (AP) — The longest building in Tokyo is a road — and the city's only expressway is a building.

This Oriental paradox is the result of combining a two-story building with an elevated highway: the road runs on the roof and the building curves as dictated by the course of the road.

Arising from the bed of a drained canal, the building - highway will run for almost a mile through the heart of downtown Tokyo.

Charge of Profiteering

Begun in 1953, the project now is scheduled for completion next year — one year late. It has been dubbed "the long castle of profits," and made the object of loud criticism and public investigations.

A private firm headed by Minoru Higuchi is building it. When completed, the building — interrupted by six bridges carrying its roof - road over intersections — will provide some 650,000 square feet of rentable space.

Higuchi's firm is collecting eight dollars per square foot as a "loan" from tenants, reimbursable in 15 years at a low interest rate.

It is estimated that the total "loans" will amount to five million dollars. Annual rents charged users will bring in $800,000. Estimated total construction cost is seven million dollars.

Despite its location in the heart of the downtown area where land is more precious than gold, the city of Tokyo is paid only a small rent for use of the land, which, as a one - time canal, is public property.

Higuchi's company started with a paid capital of $33,000 and its shares are held by 39 stockholders, including the presidents of two giant Tokyo department stores, the president of a large radio station, and president of two of Japan's largest newspapers.

Takehisa Hayashi, a director of the company, denies charges of high profits.

"Look around you," he says, waving a hand at the company's drab and crowded two - room office. "We don't even have an electric fan here. That should prove to you that we are not making money. We only rent the office space in order to be able to provide the elevated highway as a free public service.

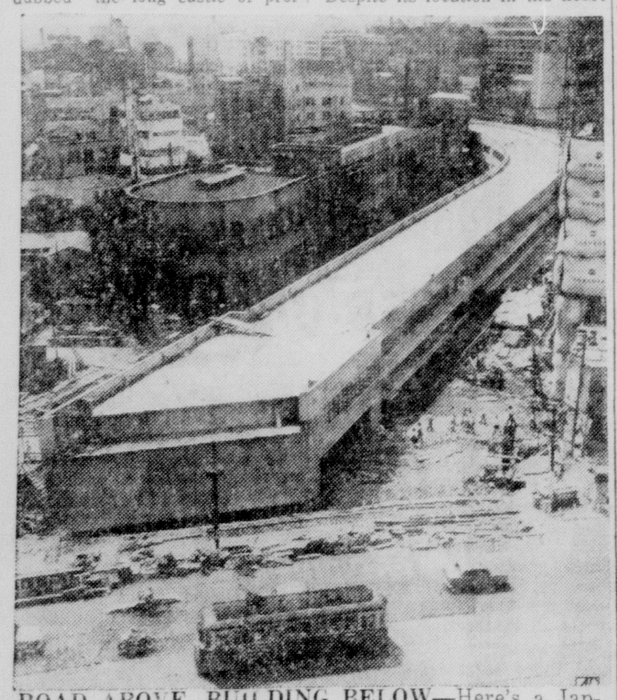

"Another proof that we are not trying to make money is that we will turn over the highway to Tokyo city as soon as it pays for itself, at the latest in 35 years."

Last month a section of the road ending at Sukiyabashi Bridge, the real heart of Tokyo, was completed and a 200 - yard - long all air - conditioned smart shopping arcade opened for business.

The company rented this section to the Ginza Shopping Center Assn. which has leased space to some 80 swanky coffee - bars, tea parlors, dressmakers, restaurants, camera, stationery, sporting goods and other specialty shops.

While construction of the new highway has created criticism and some scandal, no one argues that the shopping center and elevated highway are anything but a great asset to this metropolis which claims to be the world's largest city.

This is also the view of the city planners who visualize this short-mile elevated highway as a model and link in a five - road elevated network to be constructed at an expected cost of 200 million dollars in the next 10 days.

ROAD ABOVE, BUILDING BELOW—Here's a Japanese method for conquering city traffic problems—an expressway on the roof of a serpentine building. The roadway will not be complete until next year, but stores and tea shops already occupy parts of the building which winds through the heart of Tokyo.

THE HORNS SOUND

Tokyo Coffee Shops Offer Sex, Music, Art

By JAMES CARY

TOKYO (AP)— The music blares raucously. Hip - swaying waitresses in split skirts and low cut gowns shuffle by in time to the beat. Students, businessmen and passersby crowd booths along the garishly painted walls, relaxing over cups of pungent, dark brew.

They are enjoying one of the modern crazes of this traditional land of tea — the coffee shop.

Coffee has been drunk in Japan for decades in tea rooms and milk bars. But the 72,412 coffee shops now licensed in Japan — 6,632 of them in Tokyo — are largely a postwar institution.

They offer almost every conceivable appeal to customers — jazz, classical music, fashion shows, art and pretty girls.

These unique establishments are a strange combination of the American soda fountain, street corner, pool hall and record shop where Japanese gather to gossip, talk business or meet a date. The advent in Japan produced many problems.

"Nude" coffee shops, with hostesses dressed in translucent outer garments, have only recently disappeared from lusty Osaka and Kyoto. Hostesses in bathing suits are also gone.

Women's civic groups charged conditions in Tokyo's 852 all night shops were equally bad. Last August they forced through a new regulation barring persons under 19 from such establishments, requiring adequate lighting, forbidding locked rooms and requiring removal of major obstructions to observation.

But still the sexy joints continue. In Tokyo, the "Albion" features blaring, pounding, hi-fi jazz, a circling chorus line of slinky, suggestively dressed waitresses and an excellent cup of American-style coffee.

The most common coffee shops now feature good hi-fi music, aimed for a particular taste. 'L'Ambre" in downtown Tokyo lays out full classical concerts for weeks ahead, prints a program for its patrons and offers every conceivable type of coffee in an Old English atmosphere.

A recent, typical program included records of Arturo Toscanini leading the NBC Symphony Orchestra in Rossini's Cinderella Overture, Beethoven Symphony No. 4 and Wagner's Siegfrid funeral music.

Other coffee shops specialize in Latin music, display art objects or present movies and several offer patrons freedom to scribble on blackboard walls.

Some even specialize in nothing but coffee, and have developed it into a highly evolved cult leaving the average Westerner in slack-jawed amazement. Check this advice by Tokyo expert, Ichiro Sekiguchi:

"Know your coffee and pick your blend. Weigh each part exactly. Mix. Weigh again. Place in a filter (drip arrangement), add near boiling water, slowly . . . drop by drop at first . . . then more rapidly.

"Weigh cream and sugar, too. Sugar in first. Stir. Cream next. Don't stir. Sip. Don't gulp. Let the cream and coffee mix in your mouth to get the full flavor. That's the only way to get a good cup of coffee."

What you come out with is a heady, potent brew that will crinkle the hair of the average American and send his stomach into rumbling, gastronomic flip-flops. But it's coffee that will give you drive for many hours if you can take it.

COFFEE AND: Japanese girls in split toreador pants and low-cut tops serve patrons of the "Albion," a Tokyo coffee house that features hi-fi jazz, sexy waitresses and, incidentally, a good cup of coffee. The coffee shops are a craze in postwar Japan.

U.S. Keeps Eye On Eavesdropper

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Air Force is taking cognizance of the possibility that some satellites launched by Russia may be equipped to spy from the sky.

The Army and Navy presumably also have moved to keep really top secret equipment installations or bases shielded from probing electronic and photographic eyes in the skies.

The probability that one of the first uses of a full-scale satellite would be as a platform for television cameras, infrared photography and scanning radar has been considered in the United States, in Russia and elsewhere for some time.

Defensively, what is the U.S. Air Force doing about that?

A spokesman gave a cryptic answer today:

"We have been aware for several years of the possibilities of satellite reconnaissance," he said, "therefore, we have been 'cranking in to' our base programs and dispersal plans this type of thinking."

This seemed to mean that while the location of such a thing as a big Strategic Air Command bomber base is known to everyone at home and abroad, certain features of the base require concealment. Also, it should be assumed that at some points outside the United States as well as inside there may be installations or activities known only to the military service which operates them—including missile launching areas as those weapons begin to appear in the arsenal.

Camouflage and other countermeasures thus would appear to have been "cranked in to" the location and construction of these places.

WHAT KEEPS IT UP?

Scientist Gives Satellite Facts

By DR. J. ALLEN HYNEK
FOR The Associated Press

The Russian satellite has now made well over 100 revolutions around the earth without any additional power beyond the final push it received from its rocket.

Once launched, it would never come down if there were no atmospheric drag.

What makes it stay up?

Choose your answer, both are correct, even if over-simplified.

First, for the same reason the Moon, the earth's well known natural satellite, stays up; there's nothing to bring it down.

Second, suppose you dropped a ball from a tower 350 miles high.

The ball would fall close to the base of the tower.

Now toss the ball away from the top of the tower as hard as you can. It falls further from the base of the tower this time.

Now shoot it from a high powered gun.

It falls still further from the base of the tower.

Now shoot it away from the top of the tower so fast (18,000 miles per hour will just do it) that as it falls (oh yes, it continues to fall) its downward curve just matches the curvature of the earth.

In short, the earth's surface "falls away" from the satellite at the same rate the satellite falls toward the earth.

Result, the stalemate: The satellite tries to fall to earth but it never can make it -so long as it maintains its speed.

When the atmospheric drag saps the satellite's energy, the satellite begins to spiral in towards the earth.

The ball—or satellite—eventually ends its life in flames caused by friction with the denser atmosphere nearer the earth.

BY INSURANCE FIRMS

New Measure Would Force Payoff In Charity Cases

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 12 (AP)—An administration legislator said today he will sponsor 1958 legislation requiring insurance companies to pay for all insured accident cases cared for at charity hospitals.

Rep. Jesse McLain, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, a key legislative post, estimated the step will add four million dollars a year to state revenues.

At the proper time, the St. Tammany Parish legislator said, "I will discuss the legislation with Gov. Earl Long and other administration leaders."

Background for his proposal, McLain said, is that some insurance companies selling health and accident policies have a clause saying they will not pay benefits if the insured is cared for at a charity hospital.

This takes advantage of the generous charity hospital service provided in Louisiana, McLain said. He emphasized the state law now requires treatment of any emergency case whether destitute or not.

The law says: "the boards of administrators of hospitals supported by the state shall refuse admission for treatment of persons not poor and destitute — provided that in no case shall persons of any description be refused emergency treatment."

McLain said he is announcing his bill at this time in order to give the public plenty of time to understand it.

Wins Support

And he won quick support of state hospital Director Jesse Bankston, who said, "It is a good idea. It would provide the state with a source of revenue it is entitled to receive."

Bankston said where a third party is involved in a traffic accident, for instance, liability insurance covers and provides payment. But in other cases, Bankston said, should an accident victim with an accident policy be carried to a charity hospital unconscious, he would be treated and hospitalized. The insurance company might refuse to pay, he added, because free service was provided.

"The insurance companies should cover such situations," Bankston continued. "The way it is now, the state is paying for part of the accident injuries on which the insurance companies base their rates in Louisiana, since rates are based on such statistics.

Rep. McLain said, in his opinion, this amounted to double taxation against the holder of a health and accident policy.

New Orleans Charity Hospital recently reached an agreement with one insurance firm for payment in such instances, McLain said. New Orleans Charity alone handled about 130,000 accident cases last year. He estimated 60 per cent were insured with the hospital receiving only $290,000 from paying patients.

McLain's legislative proposals call for insurance companies to determine in writing before acting on any claims, whether the insured received treatment at a state charity hospital.

In such instances, the insurance firm would be required to make a check payable jointly to the insured and the state owned hospitals involved.

Fines and jail terms would be provided for insurance officials refusing or failing to comply.

7 Who Seek 'Miss World' Title Are Ill

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Seven of the 23 finalists in the 1957 Miss World contest came down with Asian flu tonight.

The sneezing, coughing collection of international beauties—fussed over like a prize collection of ailing thoroughbreds on the eve of a big race—were bedded down in their hotel rooms.

Contest officials, deprived of almost a third of their finalists, brought in teams of doctors to help put the beautie back on their feet within the 48-hour deadline. The showdown in London's seventh Miss World contest comes Monday night.

The other 16 finalists were taken out to spend the day absorbing some seaside air at a resort.

Those with the flu are Miss Belgium, Jane Chaudelle; Miss Canada, Judy Welch; Miss Denmark, Lilian Madsen; Miss Iceland, Run Brynjolfsdottir; Miss Ireland, Nessa Welsh; Miss South Africa, Adele Kruger; and Miss U.S.A., Charlotte Sheffield.

All the cases appeared mild.

A contest official, Rosemary Bunker, told newsmen that, barring further outbreaks, she expected all 23 to be on stage for the climax.

Nixon Says Red Success Good Lesson

By HARRY CULVER
United Press Staff Correspondent

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 12 (UP)— Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today Russia's launching of the first man-made moon is a "good lesson" the United States should never underestimate the ability of the Soviet Union.

The vice president described the Russian feat as a "very real accomplishment" but at the same time emphasized the Soviet Union is not ahead of this country from a military standpoint.

"In the event of a conflict at this time we are confident we have the greater strength," he said.

Don't Underestimate

"I think one of the good lessons from this," he said, "is for us not to underestimate the ability of other peoples, particularly the Soviet people."

He added there is a tendency in this country to overestimate our capabilities.

Nixon said the Russian Sputnik was "a very helpful development as far as the attitude of the people of the United States is concerned."

"It is necessary for us to be reminded," he said, "that in national security, costs are high. It is necessary to think first of security and then whether we have the funds."

Spoke To Writers

Nixon staged a press conference at the Oklahoma City airport after landing from a flight from Washington. He was the featured speaker before the national Conference of Editorial Writers here tonight.

"We are behind so far as to our ability to launch a satellite," he conceded. "But we must not be pessimistic over who wins the first battle.

"The fact you can launch a missile over a number of miles doesn't mean you can use it in war."

Arkansas Native Has Children's Book Published

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) —A new book for children reaching libraries this week is "Taco, the Snoring Burro." A Junior Literary Guild selection for the year, it was written by the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Holland, of Crossett who is herself a native of Arkansas.

Author Helen Holland Graham, is a native of Arkansas, having been born in Springtown. She began writing, according to her mother, "when she first got hold of a pencil," and had her first published story in the Arkansas Methodist when she was 12. She studied literature, journalism, and radio writing at Harding College, and had several plays produced as part of the college program.

Lived in Crossett

Mrs. Graham lived with her parents in Crossett while her husband was in Germany during World War II, and now, with their four children, the Grahams make their home in Clackamas, Oregon, not far from Portland.

"Taco, the Snoring Burro," is the charming story of a Mexican boy and his dearest posession, a sleepy little burro named Taco. Helen Borten's delightful paintings are woven through the printed pages in a manner calculated to bring the words to visual life in the mind of the child reading the story.

BY INSURANCE FIRMS

New Measure Would Force Payoff In Charity Cases

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 12 (AP)—An administration legislator said today he will sponsor 1958 legislation requiring insurance companies to pay for all insured accident cases cared for at charity hospitals.

Rep. Jesse McLain, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, a key legislative post, estimated the step will add four million dollars a year to state revenues.

At the proper time, the St. Tammany Parish legislator said, "I will discuss the legislation with Gov. Earl Long and other administration leaders."

Background for his proposal, McLain said, is that some insurance companies selling health and accident policies have a clause saying they will not pay benefits if the insured is cared for at a charity hospital.

This takes advantage of the generous charity hospital service provided in Louisiana, McLain said. He emphasized the state law now requires treatment of any emergency case whether destitute or not.

The law says: "the boards of administrators of hospitals supported by the state shall refuse admission for treatment of persons not poor and destitute — provided that in no case shall persons of any description be refused emergency treatment."

McLain said he is announcing his bill at this time in order to give the public plenty of time to understand it.

Wins Support

And he won quick support of state hospital Director Jesse Bankston, who said, "It is a good idea. It would provide the state with a source of revenue it is entitled to receive."

Bankston said where a third party is involved in a traffic accident, for instance, liability insurance covers and provides payment. But in other cases, Bankston said, should an accident victim with an accident policy be carried to a charity hospital unconscious, he would be treated and hospitalized. The insurance company might refuse to pay, he added, because free service was provided.

"The insurance companies should cover such situations," Bankston continued. "The way it is now, the state is paying for part of the accident injuries on which the insurance companies base their rates in Louisiana, since rates are based on such statistics.

Rep. McLain said, in his opinion, this amounted to double taxation against the holder of a health and accident policy.

New Orleans Charity Hospital recently reached an agreement with one insurance firm for payment in such instances, McLain said. New Orleans Charity alone handled about 130,000 accident cases last year. He estimated 60 per cent were insured with the hospital receiving only $290,000 from paying patients.

McLain's legislative proposals call for insurance companies to determine in writing before acting on any claims, whether the insured received treatment at a state charity hospital.

In such instances, the insurance firm would be required to make a check payable jointly to the insured and the state owned hospitals involved.

Fines and jail terms would be provided for insurance officials refusing or failing to comply.

7 Who Seek 'Miss World' Title Are Ill

LONDON, Oct. 12 (AP)—Seven of the 23 finalists in the 1957 Miss World contest came down with Asian flu tonight.

The sneezing, coughing collection of international beauties—fussed over like a prize collection of ailing thoroughbreds on the eve of a big race—were bedded down in their hotel rooms.

Contest officials, deprived of almost a third of their finalists, brought in teams of doctors to help put the beautie back on their feet within the 48-hour deadline. The showdown in London's seventh Miss World contest comes Monday night.

The other 16 finalists were taken out to spend the day absorbing some seaside air at a resort.

Those with the flu are Miss Belgium, Jane Chaudelle Miss Canada, Judy Welch; Miss Denmark, Lilian Madsen; Miss Iceland, Run Brynjolfsdottir; Miss Ireland Nessa Welsh; Miss South Africa, Adele Kruger; and Miss U.S.A., Charlotte Sheffield.

All the cases appeared mild.

A contest official, Rosemary Bunker, told newsmen that, barring further outbreaks, she expected all 23 to be on stage for the climax.

Nixon Says Red Success Good Lesson

By HARRY CULVER
United Press Staff Correspondent

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 12 (UP)— Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today Russia's launching of the first man-made moon is a "good lesson" the United States should never underestimate the ability of the Soviet Union.

The vice president described the Russian feat as a "very real accomplishment" but at the same time emphasized the Soviet Union is not ahead of this country from a military standpoint.

"In the event of a conflict at this time we are confident we have the greater strength," he said.

Don't Underestimate

"I think one of the good lessons from this," he said, "is for us not to underestimate the ability of other peoples, particularly the Soviet people."

He added there is a tendency in this country to overestimate our capabilities.

Nixon said the Russian Sputnik was "a very helpful development as far as the attitude of the people of the United States is concerned."

"It is necessary for us to be reminded," he said, "that in national security, costs are high. It is necessary to think first of security and then whether we have the funds."

Spoke To Writers

Nixon staged a press conference at the Oklahoma City airport after landing from a flight from Washington. He was the featured speaker before the national Conference of Editorial Writers here tonight.

"We are behind so far as to our ability to launch a satellite," he conceded. "But we must not be pessimistic over who wins the first battle.

"The fact you can launch a missile over a number of miles doesn't mean you can use it in war."

Arkansas Native Has Children's Book Published

CROSSETT, Ark. (Special) —A new book for children reaching libraries this week is "Taco, the Snoring Burro." A Junior Literary Guild selection for the year, it was written by the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Holland, of Crossett who is herself a native of Arkansas.

Author Helen Holland Graham, is a native of Arkansas, having been born in Springtown. She began writing, according to her mother, "when she first got hold of a pencil," and had her first published story in the Arkansas Methodist when she was 12. She studied literature, journalism, and radio writing at Harding College, and had several plays produced as part of the college program.

Lived in Crossett

Mrs. Graham lived with her parents in Crossett while her husband was in Germany during World War II, and now, with their four children, the Grahams make their home in Clackamas, Oregon, not far from Portland.

"Taco, the Snoring Burro," is the charming story of a Mexican boy and his dearest posession, a sleepy little burro named Taco. Helen Borten's delightful paintings are woven through the printed pages in a manner calculated to bring the words to visual life in the mind of the child reading the story.

SOUND OF THUNDER

Latest Book By Caldwell Is Ranked Among Her Best

By LERA MORGAN

THE SOUND OF THUNDER by Taylor Caldwell (Doubleday & Company—$3.95).

"All the days of my life" was a quote that Edward Egger unconsciously used almost daily. He was 14 years of age when he first uttered these words, but he was almost an old man, physically if not in actual years, before he knew it was a partial quotation from the Bible.

Edward's life was a tormented one. He was the eldest of five children. His mother and father were German - American, and had brought the ways of the Old Country to America with them. Ed's father, Heinrich, especially was to cling to the Old German customs, politics and ideas of class segregation for as long as he lived. These Old World ideas were directly responsible for Ed's torment.

Maria, Heinrich's wife, early in the life of her children, convinced herself that the four youngest were geniuses. Consequently, Ed, being the only non-genius in the family would have to quit school and work with his father in the delicatessen. The geniuses would then have time and money to develop their respective talents. Dave's talent was music, Sylvia showed a definite talent in dramatic art. Ralph was considered especially good in painting and Gregory was a writer.

Ed had a special talent too, which was truly genius but was not recognized as such by his family. His special talent was business. Over the years he was to become one of America's leaders in the business world. His family hated and feared him because they were dependent upon his business sense.

Not many years went by before the geniuses discovered for themselves that they were not geniuses after all, and it was too late to do anything about it. Ed's obsession was that they would be geniuses or else, because he had worked "all the days of his life" for them. He complained constantly because they couldn't make a living with their talents. Yet when they tried to get out from under his influence Ed prevented them doing so one way or another.

All the hatred and misunderstanding with his family, together with the threat of war between America and Germany made Ed a sick old man early in his life. His pleasures were few. His wife, Margaret and William and Padraig, who worked for him were his only friends. His mother, Maria, understood this strange son of hers better than anyone else, and she realized too late that she had been responsible for his tormented life. She had made a mistake in forcing Ed to bear the burdens of the entire family.

Taylor Caldwell has done well with this complicated family. With Ed she allows the reader to hate, pity, love and above all respect him. For the so-called geniuses and Heinrich and Maria she extracts from the reader pity and sympathy, where, with a less talented author they would have been despicable parasites.

BETTINA

Friend Of Napoleon And A Woman Of Many Ideas

"Who is this fuzzy young person?" asked Napoleon in 1809 when he first saw Bettina "with coal black hair in great hanging locks around a little pale face and large brown eyes with a sharp expression."

Bettina Brentano was not only the wife and sister of the two men regarded by Heine as the leaders of the Romantic Movement in Germany but also a penetrating observer of the world around her. Born before the French Revolution, she lived through the Napoleonic wars and died when the Industrial Revolution was well under way; continually breathing in new ideas she retained a foothold in the 18th century.

Her famous and notorious friendship with Goethe culminating in the publication of her book Goethe's Correspondence With A Child — the child being herself between the ages of twenty and twenty - two — was but one aspect of a fascinating life. There was also her close friendship with Beethoven and her efforts to liberalize the King of Prussia.

She had a talent for social satire, but indeed she had a talent for almost anything; for music, for poetry, for literature in general, for drawing and painting, for politics, for adventure, for family life — she married the most attractive man of her time, Achim von Arnim, and had seven children by him; for philosophy, for pleasing and stimulating, teasing and irritating an astonishing number of remarkable men.

Arthur Helps and Elizabeth Jane Howard have gone through Bettina's letters and diaries and those of her contemporaries and from them have produced a portrait of an unforgettable woman and era and way of life that will never be known again. The present volume gives a large selection of these letters, few of which have appeared before in English.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Kane's Latest Novel Is On Mrs. Jackson

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Harnett Kane, the master of the biographical novel has produced another book which is certain to be very popular, especially in the south. The title is "The Gallant Mrs. Stonewal," and it deals with the life of Anna Jackson, wife of the great "Stonewall" Jackson. This is the third biographical novel which he has written about the great ladies of the Confederacy. "Bride of Fortune" was the story of Varina Howels, wife of Jefferson Davis and "Lady of Arlington" was the story of Mrs. Robert E. Lee. This new book is the story of lovers who met by accident, were able to marry only through the intervention of a tragedy and were separated finally through the tragic accidental shooting of Jackson by his own Confederate troops at Chancellorsville. Mr. Kane does painstaking research for all of his novels and they are valuable contributions to the history of the period as well as interesting reading.

It is an unusual fact that Mr. Kane lives in New Orleans and so does Alice Walworth Graham who has also released a novel this week. Her new book is called "Shield of Honor" and she went to England to do the research for this book. It is the story of England in the days of Simon de Montfort, when the barons were fighting for representative government. The principal event is the battle of Eversham. Mrs. Graham writes well and interestingly and those who have read her earlier books, "The Vows of the Peacock," "Natchez Woman" and "Indigo Bend" will be eagerly awaiting this one.

A perfectly delightful novel of a bygone era is called "Rogers Folly." The author is Albert Idell, who has given us such charming books as "Centennial Summer" and "The Great Blizzard." The scene of "Rogers Folly" is a small town in New Jersey and the period is the calm and happy years from 1844 to 1849 when America dressed herself prettily in bright calico and lace, when railroads were a novelty and when bringing an elephant from Africa for Phineas Barnum was so drastic an enterprise as to be an act of folly. If you want a charming book of escape reading, full of tender romance and attractive people, don't miss "Roger's Folly." Another novel of a bygone era, but of a more boisterous one is called "Sacramento Waltz." The author is Elva Williams. She paints a delightful picture of life in Sacramento in the year 1912. It is also an escape novel although a much bolder presentation.

Van Wyck Mason is the author of many fine historical novels as well as the very thrilling "Colonel North Mysteries." His latest offering belongs to that category and is called "The Gracious Lily Affair." I am not going to tell you the plot, for that ruins a mystery story, but it is an exciting one and you will surely want to read it. If you are a reader of science fiction stories you will be glad to know that Isaac Asimov has produced a new one called "Earth is Room Enough." For those who like stories of the old west and the exciting days of the frontier there is a new book by George C. Appell called "The Man Who Shot Quantrill." It offers everything for readers of this type of book.

Malabar In Brazil

All of the many readers who have enjoyed the stories which Louis Bromfield wrote about Malabar Farm will be intensely interested in "Strangers in the Valley" written by his daughter, Ellen Bromfield Geld. This is the story of the farming experiment the Gelds tried in Brazil and of the rewarding life which they found there. It is a beautifully written book and makes a strong plea for life on the farm.

A humorous book containing a good deal of common sense is called "Pay the Two Dollars." It was written by Alexander Rose and deals with the subject of how to stay out of court, but what to do if you should get there.

Three delightful biographical narratives of the week are "A View From the Hill" by Cid Ricketts Sumner, "Sweet Promised Land" by Robert Laxalt and "Baruch, My Own Story" by Bernard M. Baruch. All of these books are well written but probably the last one will be the most popular.

How To Do It Books

There is a great demand nowadays for books which give directions as how to do all sorts of things. This week's additions to the library contain three of this type. One is called "Plants Indoors" and was written by C. R. Boutard. Another is "Mosaics"; "Hobby and Art" by Edwin A. Hendrickson" and the third is "Football Fundamentals" by John F. Bateman.

If you want entertainment, knowledge or information your life can become happier and broader by using the resources of the Ouachita Parish Public Library and I give you a hearty invitation to do so at the earliest convenience.

Fall Lists Feature Unlimited Variety

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — "Cornflake Crusade," "North American Head Hunting," "The Call Girl" "The Education of a Poker Player," "Motels, Hotels, Restaurants and Bars," "Why We Behave Like Americans," "Does Man survive Death?" "How to Live with a Neurotic" — these titles give you an idea, but not really an adequate one, of the unlimited range of reading which the versatile and generous publishers are making available to you this fall.

The length of the lists seems to indicate the choice is bigger than ever — and so does the staggering number of copies under which already this month a critic's desk begins to sag and threatens to collapse.

Highlighting the lists are names with which every reader is familiar, so familiar first names may be dispensed with: Sagan, McCullers, MacLeish, Lerner, Agee, Sitwell (Edith, not one of the brothers) and many others.

Many Autobiographies

More artists than usual are writing their autobiographies, or are being written about, or are appearing in handsome picture books: Picasso, Calder, Shahn, Dali, Chagall, Rodin, Michelangelo.

Besides, some unusually fine art books are promised: Rome, Venice, Vienna, South America, the whole wide world in collections of photos, records of Flemish art, American art. In particular you will want to hear in mind "300 Years of American Painting," a Time magazine project by Time editor Alexander Eliot. Frank Lloyd Wright is doing "A Testament."

Biographies and autobiographies of a long list of leaders in various fields, the living and the dead, are upcoming also between now and Christmas: James Whitcomb Riley, Byron, Fanny Burney, Verlaine, Steinbeck, Rozer Williams, Bernard Baruch — the Margaret Coit biography following the autobiography — Walt Disney, Conrad Hilton, Branch Rickey, David Dubinsky.

Civil War Popular

Is the Civil War your pet subject? There will be "This Was Andersonville," by John McElroy. Do you lose sleep over the battle of the ideologies? Then you must read "The Naked God," Howard Fast's story of his break with communism. Do you want to know the record of the Atlantic? There is "Jubilee: 100 Years of the Atlantic," edited by editor Edward Weeks and Emily Flint. Are you interested in history? There will be "Atlas of World History?" How do you stand on Colin Wilson? The author of the popular "The Outsider" follows it up with "Religion and the Rebel."

From the writers already mentioned there are coming these books: "Those Without Shadow," Francoise Sagan; "The Square Root of Wonderful," Carson McCullers; "J. B.," Archibald MacLeish; "America as a Civilization," Max Lerner; "A Death in the Family," James Agee; "English Eccentrics," Dame Edith Sitwell.

There also will be the much touted "Not by Bread Alone," by Vladimir Dudintsev, the Communist who writes with hazardous frankness about his land.

From Edwin O'Connor comes "Benjy: A Ferocious Fairy Tale." Ogden Nash will write about "The Christmas That Almost Wasn't."

2 New Books Published By L.S.U. Press

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Two new books — one of which challenges the basis of the libertarian doctrine of civil liberties— were published by the Louisiana State University Press during last week.

The first book, "The Pacific Lowlands of Colombia," by Dr. Robert C. West, professor of geography and anthropology at LSU, will be published Tuesday.

"Freedom, Virtue and the First Amendment," written by Dr. Walter Berns, a former member of the LSU government department faculty and now assistant professor of political science at Yale, will be released Friday.

In his book, Dr. Berns contends that not freedom, but human excellence or virtue must be the paramount aim of government and law, stating that so long as freedom is defined as the highest principle in government, errors will continue to be committed in the name of justice.

One critic has termed Berns' book a "highly literate, highly readable, highly controversial book on one of the most important questions that intelligent men can differ about." The volume, the first to challenge the basis of the libertarian doctrine of civil liberties, deals with confusion in present - day legal theory and practice, and advocates the abandonment of "cherished" notions regarding the interpretation of the First Amendment.

Berns, who received his doctorate at the University of Chicago, maintains in his book that "law must recognize that unlimited freedom is as ruinous to the individual as to the state; government must accept the task of educating its citizens in virtues as the only path to genuine freedom."

Dr. West's book on Colombia describes the land and people of one of the least - known areas of the South American tropics, the jungle - covered lowlands that border the Pacific coast of Colombia. The author spent four summers traveling, principally in a dugout canoe, up the main rivers and coastal swamps of that area.

The first part of the book deals with physical aspects of the country, and contains the first detailed mapping of rainfall distribution for the area. The second phase focuses on the present Negro inhabitants, descendants of African slaves, and the remnants of primitive forest Indians. The physical and material aspects of native life are described, and over 50 photographs and 26 maps illustrate the text.

A final section of the book deals with the recent exploitation of the jungle region and its people by large foreign mining interests, and the advancement and development of commercial agriculture in the area.

Dealer Koetser Rocks Art World With Find On A Fake Painting

By RONALD THOMSON

At that moment, the value of the picture fell from $100,000 to $100.

Koester had discovered another fake or worthless copy which had previously been attributed to an Old Master.

Three times in the past two years the Dutch-born London dealer has rocked the local art world with startling verdicts on costly paintings.

His judgments were bitterly fought by other experts at first. But each time they finally accepted his opinions.

Koetser, a burly, quiet spoken man of 50 with a grave smile, looks at Old Masters with a new eye and defies the world's greatest authorities on painting if he feels they have made a mistake.

Koetser, who operates from a small, bare studio on a side street off Piccadilly, claims he uses no special methods to evaluate paintings.

"When something is wrong with a picture, I feel as though I had run into a barrier," he said in an interview. "It's like a brake suddenly being applied.

"I sense a mistake. So I look again, carefully studying the quality of the paint, the draftsmanship, the detailed construction of an ear or an eyelid. Gradually one is able to pin down the faults.

"In one respect it is easy. One knows that the great masters are incapable of error. Therefore, if one can detect error, the painting is not by a great master."

Koetser's name became front page news here recently over what has become known as the "Holbein Hullabaloo." The case concerned two portraits attributed to Hans Holbein the Younger in a Royal Academy exhibition.

Koetser went along to see the show and found himself in doubt about the authenticity of the painting and the descriptions in the Academy catalogue.

After much research and consultation with colleagues, he announced his findings that one of the portraits — of a former Archbishop of Canterbury—was a copy made by some unknown artist 20 or 30 years after the original was painted in 1527.

Koetser described it as a "very poor and worthless painting" worth about 50 pounds ($140) instead of its previous valuation of 60,000 pounds ($168,000).

The other portrait — of a 16th Century English nobleman — was described by Koetser as the work of pupils studying under Holbein, not the master himself.

Koetser admitted that this portrait, nevertheless, had artistic merit. He said it was worth about 10 per cent of its previous valuation of 50,000 pounds ($140,000).

Members of the Royal Academy's selection committee later conceded the dealer's case.

The Holbein affair was dwarfed, however, by Koetser's discovery two years ago that Britain's august National Gallery had harbored a forgery for 20 years in the belief that it was a great classic painting.

The discovery paid him handsome dividends. It tripled the value of a grimy painting he bought at a London auction for 6,000 guineas ($17,640).

Koetser decided his was the real Francis and the gallery's a fake.

Koetser took his find along to the gallery and invited experts to compare the two paintings. After a lot of argument and a series of chemical and X-ray tests, the gallery admitted that Koetser's painting was the genuine article.

Koetser's 23-year-old son, Brian, is training as a dealer under his father. "Recently he paid a small sum for a painting I believe is worth 300 guineas," Koetser said.

"The boy is coming along."

SOUND OF THUNDER

Latest Book By Caldwell Is Ranked Among Her Best

By LERA MORGAN

THE SOUND OF THUNDER by Taylor Caldwell (Doubleday & Company—$3.95).

"All the days of my life" was a quote that Edward Enger unconsciously used almost daily. He was 14 years of age when he first uttered these words, but he was almost an old man, physically if not in actual years, before he knew it was a partial quotation from the Bible.

Edward's life was a tormented one. He was the eldest of five children. His mother and father were German - American, and had brought the ways of the Old Country to America with them. Ed's father, Heinrich, especially was to cling to the Old German customs, politics and ideas of class segregation for as long as he lived. These Old World ideas were directly responsible for Ed's torment.

Maria, Heinrich's wife, early in the life of her children, convinced herself that the four youngest were geniuses. Consequently, Ed, being the only non-genius in the family would have to quit school and work with his father in the delicatessen. The geniuses would then have time and money to develop their respective talents. Dave's talent was music. Sylvia showed a definite talent in dramatic art. Ralph was considered especially good in painting and Gregory was a writer.

Ed had a special talent too, which was truly genius but was not recognized as such by his family. His special talent was business. Over the years he was to become one of America's leaders in the business world. His family hated and feared him because they were dependent upon his business sense.

Not many years went by before the geniuses discovered for themselves that they were not geniuses after all, and it was too late to do anything about it. Ed's obsession was that they would be geniuses or else, because he had worked "all the days of his life" for them. He complained constantly because they couldn't make a living with their talents. Yet when they tried to get out from under his influence Ed prevented them doing so one way or another.

All the hatred and misunderstanding with his family, together with the threat of war between America and Germany made Ed a sick old man early in his life. His pleasures were few. His wife, Margaret and William and Padraig, who worked for him were his only friends. His mother, Maria, understood this strange son of hers better than anyone else, and she realized too late that she had been responsible for his tormented life. She had made a mistake in forcing Ed to bear the burdens of the entire family.

Taylor Caldwell has done well with this complicated family. With Ed she allows the reader to hate, pity, love and above all respect him. For the so-called geniuses and Heinrich and Maria she extracts from the reader pity and sympathy, where, with a less talented author they would have been despicable parasites.

Comforting Volume Of Top Verses

HE'S STANDING BY YOU By Grace Loveless (Vantage, $2).

The ever - comforting message, "I am with you always," echoes and re-echoes through this volume of inspirational verse.

A selection of short, lovely poems that sing of God's omnipresence, it brings the light of renewed hope into the reader's consciousness.

He's Standing By You is a testimonial to proven faith . . . a faith through which the author has often found courage to surmount seemingly insuperable obstacles. Grace Loveless has attained peace of mind through prayer and through reading inspirational literature.

These poems offer you the opportunity of sharing her experience . . . for they ring with the joy to be found in awareness of God's nearness, the soul - filling richness that comes of "beholding the good in life."

Throughout this volume of verse by the author and others, brief, pertinent comments upon eternal truths appear. Always Mrs. Loveless holds to the firm belief that the sources which were at the disposal of the Apostles remain readily within reach of the Christian man or woman of today.

In these confused times, such a volume does a real service in bringing the clear light of spiritual integrity to those who seek inner harmony.

BETTINA

"Who is this fuzzy young person?" asked Napoleon in 1809 when he first saw Bettina "with coal black hair in great hanging locks around a little pale face and large brown eyes with a sharp expression."

Bettina Brentano was not only the wife and sister of the two men regarded by Heine as the leaders of the Romantic Movement in Germany but also a penetrating observer of the world around her. Born before the French Revolution, she lived through the Napoleonic wars and died when the Industrial Revolution was well under way; continually breathing in new ideas she retained a foothold in the 18th century.

Her famous and notorious friendship with Goethe culminating in the publication of her book Goethe's Correspondence With A Child the child being herself between the ages of twenty and twenty - two — was but one aspect of a fascinating life. There was also her close friendship with Beethoven and her efforts to liberalize the King of Prussia.

She had a talent for social satire, but indeed she had a talent for almost anything; for music, for poetry, for literature in general, for drawing and painting, for politics, for adventure, for family life — she married the most attractive man of her time, Achim von Arnim, and had seven children by him; for philosophy, for pleasing and stimulating, teasing and irritating an astonishing number of remarkable men.

Arthur Helps and Elizabeth Jane Howard have gone through Bettina's letters and diaries and those of her contemporaries and from them have produced a portrait of an unforgettable woman and era and way of life that will never be known again. The present volume gives a large selection of these letters, few of which have appeared before in English.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Kane's Latest Novel Is On Mrs. Jackson

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Harnett Kane, the master of the biographical novel has produced another book which is certain to be very popular, especially in the south. The title is "The Gallant Mrs. Stonewall," and it deals with the life of Anna Jackson, wife of the great "Stonewall" Jackson. This is the third biographical novel which he has written about the great ladies of the Confederacy. "Bride of Fortune" was the story of Varina Howels, wife, of Jefferson Davis and "Lady of Arlington" was the story of Mrs. Robert E. Lee. This new book is the story of lovers who met by accident, were able to marry only through the intervention of a tragedy and were separated finally through the tragic accidental shooting of Jackson by his own Confederate troops at Chancellorsville. Mr. Kane does painstaking research for all of his novels and they are valuable contributions to the history of the period as well as interesting reading.

It is an unusual fact that Mr. Kane lives in New Orleans and so does Alice Walworth Graham who has also released a novel this week. Her new book is called "Shield of Honor" and she went to England to do the research for this book. It is the story of England in the days of Simon de Montfort, when the barons were fighting for representative government. The principal event is the battle of Eversham. Mrs. Graham writes well and interestingly and those who have read her earlier books, "The Vows of the Peacock," "Natchez Woman" and "Indigo Bend" will be eagerly awaiting this one.

A perfectly delightful novel of a bygone era is called "Rogers Folly." The author is Albert Idell, who has given us such charming books as "Centennial Summer" and "The Great Blizzard." The scene of "Rogers Folly" is a small town in New Jersey and the period is the calm and happy years from 1844 to 1849 when America dressed herself prettily in bright calico and lace, when railroads were a novelty and when bringing an elephant from Africa for Phineas Barnum was so drastic an enterprise as to be an act of folly. If you want a charming book of escape reading, full of tender romance and attractive people, don't miss "Roger's Folly." Another novel of a bygone era, but of a more boisterous one is called "Sacramento Waltz." The author is Elva Williams. She paints a delightful picture of life in Sacramento in the year 1912. It is also an escape novel although a much bolder presentation.

Van Wyck Mason is the author of many fine historical novels as well as the very thrilling "Colonel North Mysteries." His latest offering belongs to that category and is called "The Gracious Lily Affair." I am not going to tell you the plot, for that ruins a mystery story, but it is an exciting one and you will surely want to read it. If you are a reader of science fiction stories you will be glad to know that Isaac Asimov has produced a new one called "Earth is Room Enough." For those who like stories of the old west and the exciting days of the frontier there is a new book by George C. Appell called "The Man Who Shot Quantrill." It offers everything for readers of this type of book.

Malabar In Brazil

All of the many readers who have enjoyed the stories which Louis Bromfield wrote about Malabar Farm will be intensely interested in "Strangers in the Valley" written by his daughter, Ellen Bromfield Geld. This is the story of the farming experiment the Gelds tried in Brazil and of the rewarding life which they found there. It is a beautifully written book and makes a strong plea for life on the farm.

A humorous book containing a good deal of common sense is called "Pay the Two Dollars." It was written by Alexander Rose and deals with the subject of how to stay out of court, but what to do if you should get there.

Three delightful biographical narratives of the week are "A View From the Hill" by Cid Ricketts Sumner, "Sweet Promised Land" by Robert Laxalt and "Baruch, My Own Story" by Bernard M. Baruch. All of these books are well written but probably the last one will be the most popular.

How To Do It Books

There is a gread demand nowadays for books which give directions as how to do all sorts of things. This week's additions to the library contain three of this type. One is called "Plants Indoors" and was written by C. R. Boutard. Another is "Mosaics"; "Hobby and Art" by Edwin A. Hendrickson" and the third is "Football Fundamentals" by John F. Bateman.

If you want entertainment, knowledge or information your life can become happier and broader by using the resources of the Ouachita Parish Public Library and I give you a hearty invitation to do so at the earliest convenience.

ON FALL BOOK LISTS—Archibald MacLeish (left) and Francoise Sagan are among the prominent writers whose books will be published this fall. MacLeish has written "J. B." and Miss Sagan "Those Without Shadow."

GOOD READING

Fall Lists Feature Unlimited Variety

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — "Cornflake Crusade," "North American Head Hunting," "The Call Girl" "The Education of a Poker Player," "Motels, Hotels, Restaurants and Bars," "Why We Behave Like Americans," "Does Man survive Death?" "How to Live with a Neurotic" — these titles give you an idea, but not really an adequate one, of the unlimited range of reading which the versatile and generous publishers are making available to you this fall.

The length of the lists seems to indicate the choice is bigger than ever — and so does the staggering number of copies under which already this month a critic's desk begins to sag and threatens to collapse.

Highlighting the lists are names with which every reader is familiar, so familiar first names may be dispensed with: Sagan, McCullers, MacLeish, Lerner, Agee, Sitwell (Edith, not one of the brothers) and many others.

Many Autobiographies

More artists than usual are writing their autobiographies, or are being written about, or are appearing in handsome picture books: Picasso, Calder, Shahn, Dali, Chagall, Rodin, Michelangelo.

Besides, some unusually fine art books are promised: Rome, Venice, Vienna, South America, the whole wide world in collections of photos, records of Flemish art, American art. In particular you will want to bear in mind "300 Years of American Painting," a Time magazine project by Time editor Alexander Eliot. Frank Lloyd Wright is doing "A Testament."

Biographies and autobiographies of a long list of leaders in various fields, the living and the dead, are upcoming also between now and Christmas: James Whitcomb Riley, Byron, Fanny Burney, Verlaine, Steinbeck, Roger Williams, Bernard Baruch — the Margaret Coit biography following the autobiography — Walt Disney, Conrad Hilton, Branch Rickey, David Dubinsky.

Civil War Popular

Is the Civil War your pet subject? There will be "This Was Andersonville," by John McElroy. Do you lose sleep over the battle of the ideologies? Then you must read "The Naked God," Howard Fast's story of his break with communism. Do you want to know the record of the Atlantic? There is "Jubilee: 100 Years of the Atlantic," edited by editor Edward Weeks and Emily Flint. Are you interested in history? There will be "Atlas of World History?" How do you stand on Colin Wilson? The author of the popular "The Outsider" follows it up with "Religion and the Rebel."

From the writers already mentioned there are coming these books: "Those Without Shadow," Francoise Sagan; "The Square Root of Wonderful," Carson McCullers; "J. B.," Archibald MacLeish; "America as a Civilization" Max Lerner; "A Death in the Family," James Agee; "English Eccentrics," Dame Edith Sitwell.

There also will be the much touted "Not by Bread Alone," by Vladimir Dudintsev, the Communist who writes with hazardous frankness about his land.

From Edwin O'Connor comes "Benjy: A Ferocious Fairy Tale." Ogden Nash will write about "The Christmas That Almost Wasn't."

2 New Books Published By L.S.U. Press

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Two new books — one of which challenges the basis of the libertarian doctrine of civil liberties—were published by the Louisiana State University Press during last week.

The first book, "The Pacific Lowlands of Colombia," by Dr. Robert C. West, professor of geography and anthropology at LSU, will be published Tuesday.

"Freedom, Virtue and the First Amendment," written by Dr. Walter Berns, a former member of the LSU government department faculty and now assistant professor of political science at Yale, will be released Friday.

In his book, Dr. Berns contends that not freedom, but human excellence or virtue must be the paramount aim of government and law, stating that so long as freedom is defined as the highest principle in government, errors will continue to be committed in the name of justice.

One critic has termed Berns' book a "highly literate, highly readable, highly controversial book on one of the most important questions that intelligent men can differ about." The volume, the first to challenge the basis of the libertarian doctrine of civil liberties, deals with confusion in present - day legal theory and practice, and advocates the abandonment of "cherished" notions regarding the interpretation of the First Amendment.

Berns, who received his doctorate at the University of Chicago, maintains in his book that "law must recognize that unlimited freedom is as ruinous to the individual as to the state; government must accept the task of educating its citizens in virtues as the only path to genuine freedom."

Dr. West's book on Colombia describes the land and people of one of the least - known areas of the South American tropics, the jungle - covered lowlands that border the Pacific coast of Colombia. The author spent four summers traveling, principally in a dugout canoe, up the main rivers and coastal swamps of that area.

The first part of the book deals with physical aspects of the country, and contains the first detailed mapping of rainfall distribution for the area. The second phase focuses on the present Negro inhabitants, descendants of African slaves, and the remnants of primitive forest Indians. The physical and material aspects of native life are described, and over 50 photographs and 26 maps illustrate the text.

A final section of the book deals with the recent exploitation of the jungle region and its people by large foreign mining interests, and the advancement and development of commercial agriculture in the area.

By RONALD THOMSON

At that moment, the value of the picture fell from $100,000 to $100.

Koester had discovered another fake or worthless copy which had previously been attributed to an Old Master.

Three times in the past two years the Dutch-born London dealer has rocked the local art world with startling verdicts on costly paintings.

His judgments were bitterly fought by other experts at first. But each time they finally accepted his opinions.

Koetser, a burly, quiet spoken man of 50 with a grave smile, looks at Old Masters with a new eye and defies the world's greatest authorities on painting if he feels they have made a mistake.

Koetser, who operates from a small, bare studio on a side street off Piccadilly, claims he uses no special methods to evaluate paintings.

"When something is wrong with a picture, I feel as though I had run into a barrier," he said in an interview. "It's like a brake suddenly being applied.

"I sense a mistake. So I look again, carefully studying the quality of the paint, the draftsmanship, the detailed construction of an ear or an eyelid. Gradually one is able to pin down the faults.

"In one respect it is easy. One knows that the great masters are incapable of error. Therefore, if one can detect error, the painting is not by a great master."

Koetser's name became front page news here recently over what has become known as the "Holbein Hullabaloo." The case concerned two portraits attributed to Hans Holbein the Younger in a Royal Academy exhibition.

Koetser went along to see the show and found himself in doubt about the authenticity of the painting and the descriptions in the Academy catalogue.

After much research and consultation with colleagues, he announced his findings that one of the portraits — of a former Archbishop of Canterbury—was a copy made by some unknown artist 20 or 30 years after the original was painted in 1527.

Koetser described it as a "very poor and worthless painting" worth about 50 pounds ($140) instead of its previous valuation of 60,000 pounds ($168,000).

The other portrait — of a 16th Century English nobleman — was described by Koetser as the work of pupils studying under Holbein, not the master himself.

Koetser admitted that this portrait, nevertheless, had artistic merit. He said it was worth about 10 per cent of its previous valuation of 50,000 pounds ($140,000).

Members of the Royal Academy's selection committee later conceded the dealer's case.

The Holbein affair was dwarfed, however, by Koetser's discovery two years ago that Britain's august National Gallery had harbored a forgery for 20 years in the belief that it was a great classic painting.

The discovery paid him handsome dividends. It tripled the value of a grimy painting he bought at a London auction for 6,000 guineas ($17,640).

Koetser decided his was the real Francis and the gallery's a fake.

Koetser took his find along to the gallery and invited experts to compare the two paintings. After a lot of argument and a series of chemical and X-ray tests, the gallery admitted that Koetser's painting was the genuine article.

Koetser's 23-year-old son, Brian, is training as a dealer under his father. "Recently he paid a small sum for a painting I believe is worth 300 guineas," Koetser said.

"The boy is coming along."

CITE RUSSIAN LEAD

Top-Priority U.S. Expected In The

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP)—An administration source predicted today the United States will swing into a top-priority program of missile-building as soon as an intermediate range rocket is perfected.

That could come as early as the end of this year or as late as the middle of 1958.

Until then, these sources said, the Defense Department will resist public and congressional pressure to pour more money into the missile race with Russia. Already, about 10 per cent of all defense spending is going into missiles.

Ultimate Weapon

Perfection of a U. S. inter-continental ballistic missile (ICBM)—the 5,000-mile "ultimate weapon"—is still further in the future. Russia claims to have successfully fired one, and U. S. scientists now believe the claim.

Most of the problems which have slowed U. S. efforts in the deadly missile race are a matter of scientific know - how, Defense Department officials insist. They deny that penny-wise economies or inter-service rivalry has been a serious factor.

"There are certain technical answers that we have to get that money won't buy," one official told the United Press.

He was commenting on the mounting demands for scrapping the defense budget and "shooting the works" on spending to catch up with apparent Russian advances in rocket development.

Several dozen test firings of the Army Jupiter and the Air Force's Thor - the 1,500 to 2,500 mile ICBM's—are still scheduled before a decision is made on what may become America's main offensive weapon in the next several years.

Orders Speed up

New Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy has ordered a speed-up in test firings, preliminary to a decision between the competing missiles or a selection of the best features of each.

Most defense officials still talk of a decision and a go-ahead on quantity production of ICBM's no earlier than January—about the time a missile-conscious Congress will reconvene.

That session now seems likely to be dominated by debate on changes in the nation's defense forces which will be required by the headlong rush into the missile age.

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—Don Adams explained that a dog "spooked" his horse and that was the reason his mount "ran over" a car on U.S. Highway 66 east of Albuquerque, smashing in one side of the vehicle. Adams was unhurt, the horse recovered and insurance paid for the damage to the car.

Son Of Syrian Diplomat Killed In Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The 20-year-old son of a Syrian diplomat was found shot to death in a hotel room here today after receiving a telegram which urged his return to his troubled homeland immediately.

The dead youth was Fawwaz F. El-Khouri, son of a former ambassador to the United States, Fayez El-Khouri. He was an engineering student at Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Va., but was staying in the Dupont Plaza Hotel.

Homicide squad Lt. Lawrence Hartnett said the youth was found dead about 4:10 p.m. by a maid. The body was sitting upright in a chair. There was a .45 caliber pistol gripped in the right hand and a bullet hole in his right temple, Hartnett said.

No notes were found in the $11-a-day hotel room, Hartnett said, but he called the death an apparent suicide.

Police quoted Ali Bakri, 24, a secretary to the military attache at the Syrian Embassy, as saying he saw Fawwaz El-Khouri at noon Friday in a restaurant frequented by Levantines. Bakri told Hartnett he gave the youth a telegram from his father.

The young man appeared visibly upset, Bakri told Hartnett, because the telegram urged him to come home immediately due to serious illness in the family. Police said they were not informed who was ill.

67TH

Ike Celebrates Birthday Monday

By HERBERT W. CHESHIRE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP)—President Eisenhower celebrates his 67th birthday Monday in apparent good health but with the problems of a restless nation and world weighing on him more heavily than ever before.

The President will spend much of the day in his office working. The White House said it would announce later whether he and his family will mark the occasion with any special celebration, in addition to one planned by Republican leaders.

For any man a birthday is a time for taking stock. And as Eisenhower enters his 67th year of life, here are some of the questions the people are pondering:

What is the state of the President's health?

Important Matter

This is a matter of great importance because Eisenhower has been stricken with two major afflictions and is one of the oldest men ever to occupy the White House. When he completes his second term he will be 70.

The doctors term his health good for a man of his age. He made remarkable recoveries from the heart attack he suffered Sept. 24, 1955, and from an intestinal operation in June of the following year.

Recovered from Heart Attack

In a report emphasizing his recovery from his 1955 heart attack, his doctors at that time said:

"Medically, the chances are that the President should be able to carry on an active life satisfactorily for another five to 10 years."

It was on the basis of this assessment that Eisenhower decided to run for a second term.

What are the major problems he faces?

The most immediate are Russia's demonstrated advance in the fields of science and technology, which means the Soviet poses a greater military threat than ever before, and the troubled Middle East where there is danger that some sort of local military action could touch off World War III.

Part of the President's birthday work schedule is set aside for an appointment with new Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy. They are expected to discuss the military overtones of Russia's launching of an earth satellite and the U. S. lag in the missile-satellite field.

GOP UPSET

Egg-Tossing Casting New Spotlight On Sec'y Benson

By BERNARD BRENNER
United Press taff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP)—The half-dozen eggs tossed at Ezra T. Benson Thursday cast a new spotlight today on the embattled secretary of agriculture's troubles with farm belt politicians.

A Republican source here told the United Press that most GOP leaders and legislators in the Midwest farm area west of the Mississippi want Benson replaced before next year's congressional election campaign.

Benson, physically untouched by the eggs flung by a group of angry farmers at Sioux Falls, S. D., has sharply contradicted this view. He vehemently insists his policies have more backing among farmers and politicians than ever before, a belief apparently shared by President Eisenhower.

Republican Counters

Another Republican, a man close to the Midwest farm picture but who insisted on remaining anonymous, countered:

"A lot of local politicians out there say Ezra is probably right in what he is trying to do for agriculture but they still think he's a political liability."

This opinion has been presented strongly to White House staff officials, including residential Assistant Sherman Adams, an informed source said. Eisenhower recently asked Benson to remain in office "indefinitely." This posed the question of why Benson is in continuing hot water with at least some farm belt legislators and farmers? The answers include:

Farm income, despite some recovery in the last 18 months, remains far below the levels of the late 1940's and early 1950's.

Anti-Support Campaign

Benson's campaign to reduce price support floors and his insistence that lower government supports will help farmers sell more products and make more money.

A waning Republican vote in normally strongly-Republican farm belt areas in 1956, blamed by some politicians on farmer resentment against administration policies.

"There are certainly vocal critics of Benson in the upper Midwest," one of the secretary's friends here conceded. "But that's because there's an element there which has been virtually brain-consistent critic of administration farm policy.

"In the next two or three years, he (Benson) can prove he's basically right," the secretary's friend added.

The National Farmers Union, which has its greatest strength in the Dakotas and other areas of the upper Midwest, has been a washed by getting a one-sided story from the Farmers Union."

As the story goes, the miners considered those prices reasonable as everything was brought in by mule pack train, often the last leg of a journey that began by ship out of New York.

Array Of Vivid Colors At Show

By JOHN CALE

COLUMBIA — Clear skies and the vivid colors of paintings hung out of doors attracted top attendance at the second annual art festival held at the Caldwell Parish Community center yesterday.

The event —sponsored by the Caldwell Parish Library, Miss Willie Mae Seab, librarian—featured 13 categories of art and craft competitions, guest speakers and a high noon style show.

Mrs. Roland Brown, president of the Monroe Penwomen, spoke on selling free lance stories. She emphasized the importance of reading many types of publications before submitting writings to them. "It is advisable to have a market in mind as you write," she noted.

Miss Louise Oliver, field representative for LSU Acadian handicraft, showed examples of the South Louisiana art and sang some 'Cajun folk songs. "Social Security payments are causing many of the old timers to put aside the native crafts," she said. "They must not have a separate source of income, and this causes the arts and handicrafts to suffer."

Chalk Talk

John Chase, Cartoonist for the New Orleans States, presented a chalk talk of the historical growth of humorous cartoons in America. He described such early characters of the early 1900's as the Yellow Kid and the Katzenjammer Kids. He noted Uncle Sam had his origin in the historical figure, Sam Wilson, who furnished supplies to American troops in the war of 1812.

Stories were presented in the early afternoon by winners of the Madison Parish story telling contest.

Miss Elizabeth Bethea of the fine arts faculty of Louisiana Tech presented a slide lecture and showed examples of modern and traditional domestic crafts.

Dr. Garland F. Taylor, director of libraries at Tulane University summarized current attitudes towards reading in the nation today. "A recent Gallup poll pointed out only 29 per cent of Americans were engaged — at the time the inquiry was made — in reading a book," he declared. Taylor cited television and the decline of "family reading" as two reasons for the low percentage of readers in the country at the present time.

"With a little encouragement, however," Taylor stated, "People in all walks of life show willingness, even enthusiasm to pick up a good book."

Long Removes Poche From Pontchartrain Levee Board

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Emile Poche of Convent, president of the Pontchartrain Levee Board, was notified today by letter from Gov. Earl K. Long that he had been removed as a board member.

Poche, in a prepared statement, charged the governor with seeking to re-arrange the board to gain "complete and absolute control" and he said he would fight the ouster.

The board's operation has been under fire since last August when the St. James Parish grand jury began an investigation. A state audit of the levee board was highly critical of the way the board spent its money and in particular hit at the salaries paid Poche and board secretry Nasser N. Nasser.

The grand jury investigation resulted in indictments against Lester I. Bloomensteil, a member of the board from Baton Rouge, Nasser, who lives in Convent, and two Baton Rouge contractors. Bloomensteil was charged with public bribery and the other three on counts of perjury by the grand jury.

Nolle Prossed

The indictments were nolle prossed and bills of information filed charging Bloomensteil with bribery and Nasser, Bruce Hunt and Tom Conner with perjury. Hunt was charged in the bills with two counts of perjury.

Poche said the governor gave no reason for the removal.

"Could it be because I tried to improve the administration of the previous president, the same president who served during Gov. Long's administration," he said.

"I feel that the governor is trying to re-arrange the board in order to attain complete and absolute control of all the board functions, some of which he has shown a personal interest in.

"I seriously doubt the authority by which the governor seeks to remove me as a member of the board. I will pursue whatever legal action possible after consulting my attorneys on Monday."

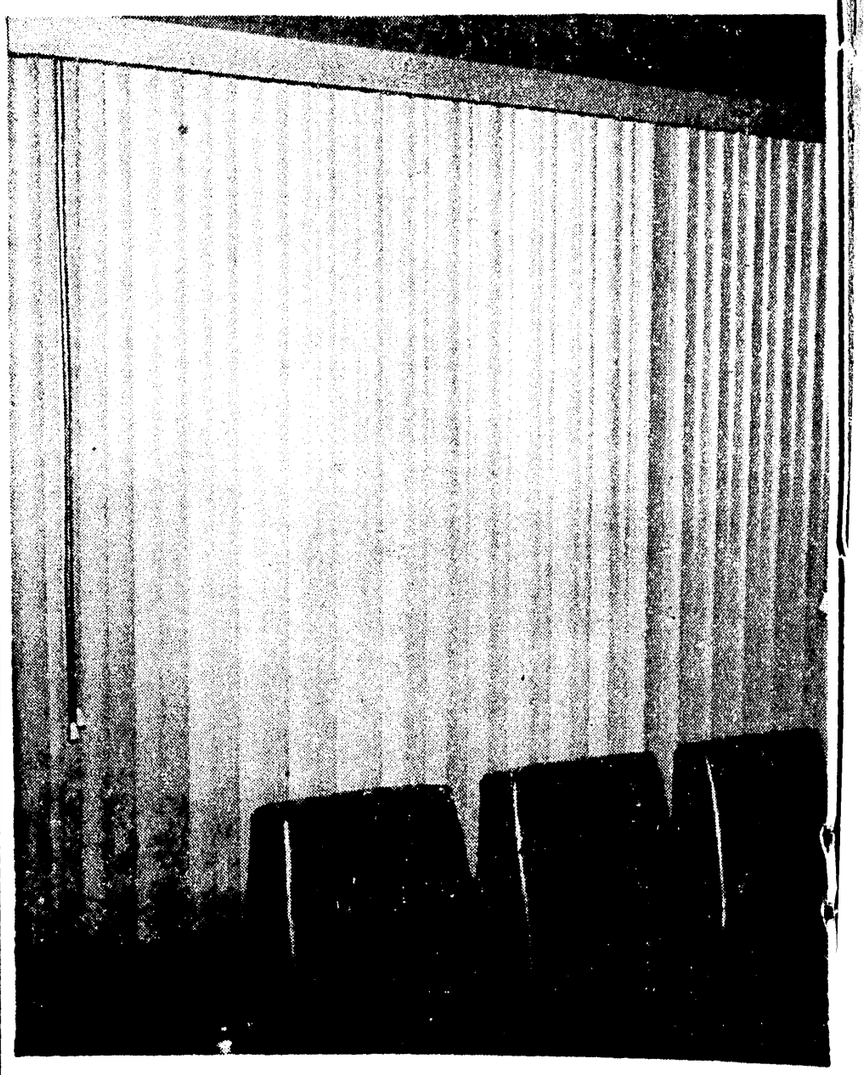

Poche said Long said he removed him effective Friday as a member under the authority vested in him under the Louisiana revised statutes of 1950.

The letter was dated Oct. 11.

L. G. Peytavin of Union served as president prior to Poche's election Sept. 12, 1956. Poche was appointed by Long to the board Aug. 9, 1956.

CITE RUSSIAN LEAD

Top-Priority U.S. Expected In The

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP)—An administration source predicted today the United States will swing into a top-priority program of missile-building as soon as an intermediate range rocket is perfected.

That could come as early as the end of this year or as late as the middle of 1958.

Until then, these sources said, the Defense Department will resist public and congressional pressure to pour more money into the missile race with Russia. Already, about 10 per cent of all defense spending is going into missiles.

Ultimate Weapon

Perfection of a U. S. inter-continental ballistic missile (ICBM)—the 5,000-mile "ultimate weapon"—is still further in the future. Russia claims to have successfully fired one, and U. S scientists now believe the claim.

Most of the problems which have slowed U. S. efforts in the deadly missile race are a matter of scientific know - how, Defense Department officials insist. They deny that penny-wise economies or inter-service rivalry has been a serious factor.

"There are certain technical answers that we have to get that money won't buy," one official told the United Press.

He was commenting on the mounting demands for scrapping the defense budget and "shooting the works" on spending to catch up with apparent Russian advances in rocket development.

Several dozen test firings of the Army Jupiter and the Air Force's Thor - the 1,500 to 2,500 mile ICBM's—are still scheduled before a decision is made on what may become America's main offensive weapon in the next several years.

Orders Speed up

New Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy has ordered a speed-up in test firings, preliminary to a decision between the competing missiles or a selection of the best features of each.

Most defense officals still talk of a decision and a go-ahead on quanity production of ICBM's no earlier than January—about the time a missile-conscious Congress will reconvene.

That session now seems likely to be dominated by debate on changes in the nation's defense forces which will be required by the headlong rush into the missile age.

Son Of Syrian Diplomat Killed In Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The 20-year-old son of a Syrian diplomat was found shot to death in a hotel room here today after receiving a telegram which urged his return to his troubled homeland immediately.

The dead youth was Fawwaz F. El-Khouri, son of a former ambassador to the United States, Fayez El-Khouri. He was an engineering student at Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Va., but was staying in the Dupont Plaza Hotel.

Homicide squad Lt. Lawrence Hartnett said the youth was found dead about 4:10 p.m. by a maid. The body was sitting upright in a chair. There was a .45 caliber pistol gripped in the right hand and a bullet hole in his right temple, Hartnett said.

No notes were found in the $11-a-day hotel room, Hartnett said, but he called the death an apparent suicide.

Police quoted Ali Bakri, 24, a secretary to the military attache at the Syrian Embassy, as saying he saw Fawwaz El-Khouri at noon Friday in a restaurant frequented by Levantines. Bakri told Hartnett he gave the youth a telegram from his father.

The young man appeared visibly upset, Bakri told Hartnett, because the telegram urged him to come home immediately due to serious illness in the family. Police said they were not informed who was ill.

Ike Celebrates Birthday Monday

By HERBERT W. CHESHIRE
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (UP)—President Eisenhower celebrates his 67th birthday Monday in apparent good health but with the problems of a restless nation and world weighing on him more heavily than ever before.

The President will spend much of the day in his office working. The White House said it would announce later whether he and his family will mark the occasion with any special celebration, in addition to one planned by Republican leaders.

For any man a birthday is a time for taking stock. And as Eisenhower enters his 67th year of life, here are some of the questions the people are pondering:

What is the state of the President's health?

Important Matter

This is a matter of great importance because Eisenhower has been stricken with two major afflictions and is one of the oldest men ever to occupy the White House. When he completes his second term he will be 70.

The doctors term his health good for a man of his age. He made remarkable recoveries from the heart attack he suffered Sept. 24, 1955, and from an intestinal operation in June of the following year.

Recovered from Heart Attack

In a report emphasizing his recovery from his 1955 heart attack, his doctors at that time said:

"Medically, the chances are that the President should be able to carry on an active life satisfactorily for another five to 10 years."

It was on the basis of this assessment that Eisenhower decided to run for a second term.

What are the major problems he faces?

The most immediate are Russia's demonstrated advance in the fields of science and technology, which means the Soviet poses a greater military threat than ever before, and the troubled Middle East where there is danger that some sort of local military action could touch off World War III.

Part of the President's birthday work schedule is set aside for an appointment with new Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy. They are expected to discuss the military overtones of Russia's launching of an earth satellite and the U. S. lag in the missile-satellite field.

REV. DAVID MASON

Travel Abroad Told By Pastor, Reverend Mason

JONESBORO, La. (Special) — A first book by the Rev. David Mason, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Jonesboro, tells of his extensive, world wide travels in his sketches, "Now and Then." Before he became pastor here, he held a similar post with a church in Jefferson, Ga., and he came from there here in 1955. He is a graduate of Louisiana State University, Southern seminary in Louisville; and did graduate work in Golden Gate Seminary and in the University of Alabama.

This 29-year-old minister wrote much of this novel before he came to Jonesboro, putting on finishing touches recently. Refreshing humor and keen insight make the new book one that will be well received by its readers.

Harvest Day Is Here; Orphans Home Is Needy

Today is "Harvest Day" for the Methodist Orphans home in Ruston and every church of this denomination will receive donations. Twice a year, at "Harvest Day" and Easter, this home depends on the support of the public for its existence. At no other time does it make request for vital financial aid.

This time the home needs help of each and every Methodist far more than in years past. Prices are soaring and needs of all kinds are more urgent than ever before.

For nine years there has been quite an expansion and building program. Seven new buildings are added, only one was a replacement. This means that an overhead expanded program is facing the home and must someway be met. The personnel force is double what it was formerly. Higher salaries and greater upkeep is everywhere.

The infirmary has been erected and a full time nurse is on duty. A full time case worker and social worker with private office and auto also add to the cost.

In each Methodist church in the state, when the collection plate is passed Sunda morning and at the night service, be sure to make a special offering for this home that means so much to those there and to the entire community! This is a real must cause!

Sunday Sermons By Dr. Boddie

The First Methodist Church will hear their pastor, the Rev. W. D. Boddie at the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning. His theme will be: "On Getting Life in Gear." The service will be broadcast. The chancel choir will participate.

At the 7 p.m. service Sunday, the pastor's sermon theme will be "That Pain Not To Be Wasted."

Methodist men of this church will meet Wednesday at 7 p.m. in Fellowship Hall. This is to be as usual a supper meeting.

DODSON HOMECOMING

DODSON, La. (Special) — The annual homecoming at the Harmony Grove Baptist Church will be held Sunday. The Rev. Charles Christi of Winnfield will speak at the 11 o'clock hour. Lunch will be spread on tables near the church at noon.

M'Guire Church Holds Its 8th Annual Event

A dinner, recently held, commemorated the eighth anniversary of the founding of McGuire Methodist Church in West Monroe. The pastor, the Rev. Don Wininger, estimates that fully 250 attended two services held and the noontime dinner was served to 100 guests.

Special guests for the observance were two former pastors, the Rev. Ira A. Love, now pastor of a church in Delhi, and the Rev. George P. Goodwin, pastor of Choudrant Methodist church. Special honor was accorded the Rev. R. H. Staples, who was pastor of the First Methodist church in West Monroe when the organization of this new church was sponsored. Two men named to secure the location of this church were F. C. McConnell and H. J. Eyre.

The temporary building, first church home, was built in 1949 on a site donated by Mrs. Kate McGuire, and three adjacent lots were later purchased.

Early in 1950, the First Methodist church in West Monroe deeded the property of the McGuire Church which was then formally organized. The present church building was completed in 1952.

The present pastor states that 20 of the 44 charter members were present at this anniversary service.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have lived among drinking people for many years and know the evils of drink. The young people of our school will be permitted to drink this year on their senior trip. What do you think we can do about this? H. A.

ANSWER: There are two things you can do. You can make a formal protest to the school authorities, for that is your privilege as an American and a taxpayer. They may heed your protest, especially if others do likewise. But more important, you can prepare the young people for such exposure to sin and every evil practice. Christians are not hot-house plants who must always be sheltered. Christians are virile believers and are ready and able to withstand temptation. Give to your children the thorough Christian training. Then when they go out into the world, even on a senior trip, they will have within them a power to overcome temptation and they will be strengthened through the experience.

The Sunday School of the Central Baptist Church of Monroe will occupy their new modern educational building on Sunday, October 13. This beautiful building was designed by Alan Turpin, local architect and was constructed by Tommie Clark, local contractor.

This building will accomadate approximately 600 more people than the present buildings, some of which will later be removed. There are four nursery departments. There are two departments for the beginners, primaries, juniors and intermediates. Space is also provided for adequate young people's department and the Young Married People's Department.

On Sunday, October 27, Central Baptist Church will have special open house ceremonies which will be announced later, and to which they extend a cordial invitation to all those who may be interested in coming.

The Brotherhood of the Church is sponsoring a special laymen's day service next Sunday morning, October 13 at which time J. C. Crawford, of the First Baptist Church of Monroe, will be the guest speaker and the Men's Chorus of the Church, under the direction of Lee Baxter, will render the special music. REV. DAVID MASON

JONESBORO, La. (Special) — A first book by the Rev. David Mason, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Jonesboro, tells of his extensive, world wide travels in his sketches, "Now and Then." The book is now on sale in a Shreveport book store. Later this month he will be presented on KNOE-TV in Monroe.

Before he became pastor here, he held a similar post with a church in Jefferson, Ga., and he came from there here in 1955. He is a graduate of Louisiana State University, Southern seminary in Louisville; and did graduate work in Golden Gate Seminary and in the University of Alabama.

This 29-year-old minister wrote much of this novel before he came to Jonesboro, putting on finishing touches recently. He has written various articles for religious publications, and also writes lessons for Intermediate and Young People Training Union Quarterlies. His satire is said to be piercing and hilarious. Refreshing humor and keen insight make the new book one that will be well received by its readers.

TAPE PREVENTS MARS

Rubber electrician's tape or a strip from an old inner tube wrapped around the head of a hammer prevents marring the surface of wood when removing nails.

Harvest Day Is Here; Orphans Home Is Needy

Today is "Harvest Day" for the Methodist Orphans home in Ruston and every church of this denomination will receive donations. Twice a year, at "Harvest Day" and Easter, this home depends on the support of the public for its existence. At no other time does it make request for vital financial aid.

This time the home needs help of each and every Methodist far more than in years past. Prices are soaring and needs of all kinds are more urgent than ever before.

For nine years there has been quite an expansion and building program. Seven new buildings are added, only one was a replacement. This means that an overhead expanded program is facing the home and must someway be met. The personnel force is double what it was formerly. Higher salaries and greater upkeep is everywhere.

The infirmary has been erected and a full time nurse is on duty. A full time case worker and social worker with private office and auto also add to the cost.

In each Methodist church in the state, when the collection plate is passed Sunda morning and at the night service, be sure to make a special offering for this home that means so much to those there and to the entire community! This is a real must cause!

Sunday Sermons By Dr. Boddie

The First Methodist Church will hear their pastor, the Rev. W. D. Boddie at the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning. His theme will be: "On Getting Life in Gear." The service will be broadcast. The chancel choir will participate.

At the 7 p.m. service Sunday, the pastor's sermon theme will be "That Pain Not To Be Wasted."

Methodist men of this church will meet Wednesday at 7 p.m. in Fellowship Hall. This is to be as usual a supper meeting.

DODSON HOMECOMING

DODSON, La. (Special) — The annual homecoming at the Harmony Grove Baptist Church will be held Sunday. The Rev. Charles Christi of Winnfield will speak at the 11 o'clock hour. Lunch will be spread on tables near the church at noon.

An electrochemical has been developed that may rival the vacuum tube and the transistor as a basic electronic component. It depends on the movement of ions in a solution instead of in a gas, vacuum or solid.

MRS. GOOSTREE

Church Women To Be Sponsor Of Institute

The United Church Women of the Twin Cities will sponsor a leadership institute at St. Paul's Methodist Church, October 16 from 10 a. m. to 2:45 p. m. She was a delegate to the national assembly and aided in the establishment of the Bethlehem Center in Fort Worth which was the first work for Negroes west of the Mississippi river that was undertaken by Methodist women.

She served on the organizing committee and the committee to draft the constitution for the Texas Council of Churches and served as vice - president for two years. She is the daughter of a pioneer Methodist minister in Texas and is married, mother of a son and daughter and four grandchildren.

M'Guire Church Holds Its 8th Annual Event

A dinner, recently held, commemorated the eighth anniversary of the founding of McGuire Methodist Church in West Monroe. The pastor, the Rev. Don Wininger, estimates that fully 250 attended two services held and the noontime dinner was served to 100 guests.

Special guests for the observance were two former pastors, the Rev. Ira A. Love, now pastor of a church in Delhi, and the Rev. George P. Goodwin, pastor of Choudrant Methodist church. Special honor was accorded the Rev. R. H. Staples, who was pastor of the First Methodist church in West Monroe when the organization of this new church was sponsored. Two men named to secure the location of this church were F. C. McConnell and H. J. Eyre.

The temporary building, first church home, was built in 1949 on a site donated by Mrs. Kate McGuire, and three adjacent lots were later purchased.

Early in 1950, the First Methodist church in West Monroe deeded the property of the McGuire Church which was then formally organized. The present church building was completed in 1952.

The present pastor states that 20 of the 44 charter members were present at this anniversary service.

Rev. Burleson Heads Revival Being Planned

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I have lived among drinking people for many years and know the evils of drink. The young people of our school will be permitted to drink this year on their senior trip. What do you think we can do about this? H. A.

ANSWER: There are two things you can do. You can make a formal protest to the school authorities, for that is your privilege as an American and a taxpayer. They may heed your protest, especially if others do likewise. But more important, you can prepare the young people for such exposure to sin and every evil practice. Christians are not hot-house plants who must always be sheltered. Christians are virile believers and are ready and able to withstand temptation. Give to your children the thorough Christian training. Then when they go out into the world, even on a senior trip, they will have within them a power to overcome temptation and they will be strengthened through the experience.

It makes us very proud to live in a community and to have had a part in the phenomenal growth that the Sterlington Bank has enjoyed during its brief eight years of existence. We recall the formal opening of the Sterlington Bank October 4, 1949, with total resources of $196,339.36 and only two employees. Today, only eight years later, this bank has nine employees and total resources of $3,362,970.16. There is always a reason for an outstanding record in any business. We have strived to give a better banking service and to operate a more friendly bank during these years. We earnestly believe this policy has been the main factor in our tremendous growth. The new addition to the Sterlington Bank exactly doubles the size of the original building. We renew our pledge to our friends and patrons to give you an even better banking service in the years to come.

Miss Linda Noe Exchanges Vows With Hugh Laine In TwilightGardenCeremony

The spacious gardens of the James A. Noe home was the setting last evening for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Linda McRae Noe, and Hugh Carter Laine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Crawley Allen Laine of Wakefield, Va.

The Reverend George W. Pomeroy, of the First Methodist Church officiated at the marriage in the presence of the two families and a large number of friends. Prior to the ceremony, Schubert's "Ave Maria" and DeRoven's, "Oh Promise Me," was sung by the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. James A. Noe, Jr. She was accompanied at the organ by Leon Hammond who rendered the traditional nuptial music. The marriage was performed before an improvised altar in an arbor in the garden, banked with glowing white candles in tall spiral standards and flanked by flower trees of Buckingham chrysanthemums in Grecian urns.

The bride was escorted through the garden to the altar by her father who gave her in marriage. Her gown of pale ivory peau de soie was fashioned with an Empire bodice featuring a scooped neckline and three quarter length sleeves. Pointe de Lyon lace trimmed the neckline and fell into a curved pattern extending over the hips. The full skirt, made with unpressed pleats in the back, formed a long train. Trimming the back of the skirt was a wide band of similar lace appliqued mid way to follow the sloping waistline of the dress. A Juliet cap of lace held her long veil of French illusion which fell over the train of the bridal dress. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a bouquet of white phaelnopis orchids and valley lilies.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Gordon McLendon, the bride's sister, and the bridesmaids all wore gowns of autumn gold slipper satin made princess style with plaited standup collars. The flowing back panels fell into a Queen's train and each carried arm bouquets of champagne colored Fugi chrysanthemums interspersed with wisps of wheat entwined with streamers of autumn gold satin. In their hair they wore flat bows of matching satin. The bridesmaids included Mrs. Anthony Winn, of New Haven, Conn. Miss Suzanna Kay Horring, of Kent, Ohio, Miss Jo Marie Ellett, Miss Beverly Ann Hatton, of Pensacola, Fla., Miss Carolyn Dansby, of Lafayette and Miss Sylvia Gentry. Miss Kristen and Anna Gray McLendon, nieces of the bride, were the flower girls. Their frocks were of pale gold organdy and they carried natural straw baskets filled with rose petals. Thomas Nash served as ring bearer.

Frederick Henry Wittel was best man to his brother-in-law. The groomsmen and ushers included, James A. Noe, Jr., Gordon McClendon, David Nelson Roberts, Jack Ratliff and Fred Huenefeld, Jr., Henry Wittell, Jr.

The reception, held in the second garden of the home, was indirectly lighted with white and gold lanterns and soft lights designed like flowers outlining the flower beds. Miss Linda Noe Exchanges Vows With Hugh Laine In TwilightGardenCeremony

The spacious gardens of the James A. Noe home was the setting last evening for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Linda McRae Noe, and Hugh Carter Laine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Crawley Allen Laine of Wakefield, Va.

The Reverend George W. Pomeroy, of the First Methodist Church officiated at the marriage in the presence of the two families and a large number of friends. Prior to the ceremony, Schubert's "Ave Maria" and DeRoven's, "Oh Promise Me," was sung by the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. James A. Noe, Jr. She was accompanied at the organ by Leon Hammond who rendered the traditional nuptial music. The marriage was performed before an improvised altar in an arbor in the garden, banked with glowing white candles in tall spiral standards and flanked by flower trees of Buckingham chrysanthemums in Grecian urns.

The bride was escorted through the garden to the altar by her father who gave her in marriage. Her gown of pale ivory peau de soie was fashioned with an Empire bodice featuring a scooped neckline and three quarter length sleeves. Pointe de Lyon lace trimmed the neckline and fell into a curved pattern extending over the hips. The full skirt, made with unpressed pleats in the back, formed a long train. Trimming the back of the skirt was a wide band of similar lace appliqued mid way to follow the sloping waistline of the dress. A Juliet cap of lace held her long veil of French illusion which fell over the train of the bridal dress. She wore a single strand of pearls and carried a bouquet of white phaelnopis orchids and valley lilies.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Gordon McLendon, the bride's sister, and the bridesmaids all wore gowns of autumn gold slipper satin made princess style with plaited standup collars. The flowing back panels fell into a Queen's train and each carried arm bouquets of champagne colored Fugi chrysanthemums interspersed with wisps of wheat entwined with streamers of autumn gold satin. In their hair they wore flat bows of matching satin. The bridesmaids included Mrs. Anthony Winn, of New Haven, Conn. Miss Suzanna Kay Horring, of Kent, Ohio, Miss Jo Marie Ellett, Miss Beverly Ann Hatton, of Pensacola, Fla., Miss Carolyn Dansby, of Lafayette and Miss Sylvia Gentry. Miss Kristen and Anna Gray McLendon, nieces of the bride, were the flower girls. Their frocks were of pale gold organdy and they carried natural straw baskets filled with rose petals. Thomas Nash served as ring bearer.

Frederick Henry Wittel was best man to his brother-in-law. The groomsmen and ushers included, James A. Noe, Jr., Gordon McClendon, David Nelson Roberts, Jack Ratliff and Fred Huenefeld, Jr., Henry Wittell, Jr.

You'll need about half a cup of sugar when you're baking a half-dozen pears. Core and peel the pears, then sprinkle them with the sugar and add just enough water to cover the bottom of the dish; cover and bake in a moderate oven for 20 to 30 minutes or until the fruit is tender. Wonderful served quite warm with vanilla ice cream.

Lake Charles Wedding Of Olive Moss, Ryan Sartor Holds Interest Here

An out-of-town wedding of much interest here is that of Miss Olive Guthrie Moss and Daniel Ryan Sartor, Jr., which was celebrated yesterday in Lake Charles.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Olin Moss and Mr. Sartor is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Sartor, of Alto.

The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the First Methodist Church with the Reverend Carl Frederick Lueg officiating. The wedding music was presented by Miss Bertha Moss, aunt of the bride, organist.

Rows of lighted white cathedral tapers banked the chancel and at either side of the altar stood white Grecian columns entwined with garlands of smilax, holding urns of fan shaped white chrysanthemums with pink centers. Clusters of white mums tied with satin ribbons marked the family pews.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of re-embroidered Alencon lace on deep lustre satin. The Empire bodice of lace had long sleeves and was fashioned with a Sabrina neckline. Her skirt of lace enhanced by a back pouf ended in a chapel train. On her head she wore a long heirloom veil of Brussels lace which fell over the train of the bridal dress. She carried a bouquet of white butterfly roses.

Maid of honor to the bride was her sister, Miss Mary Murphy Moss and the other attendants included Miss Elizabeth Ann Moss, Miss Jeanne Bel, of Lake Charles and Miss Fran Guthrie and Mrs. Aylmer Eugene Montgomery, Jr. of Monroe, all cousins of the bride and Mrs. Richard Wilson Calhoun, of New Orleans. They wore dresses of emerald green taffeta made with scoop necklines and short flared skirts with bustle back. They wore coronets of banded green on their heads and carried cascade bouquets of Better Times roses. They wore matching satin slippers. Katherine Bel Thielen and Ann Knight, of Lake Charles, cousins of the bride, and Marjorie Leigh Goggans, of Fort Worth, Texas, niece of the bridegroom, acted as flower girls.

Mrs. Moss received her guests in a gown of blush pink chiffon featuring a sunburst cutout design at the neck. A wide crushed cummerbund encircled her waist and the skirt was gathered and very full. Her satin hat was shaded to match the color of her dress.

THE NEWS IS PRINT HATS

In a fall of fabric hats, fashion experts predict a new interest in printed fabrics for wintertime. Patterned jerseys, Paisleys, velvet - printed satins, multi - color wools and flowered velvets give new interest to the soft, crushable hat shapes.

You'll need about half a cup of sugar when you're baking a half-dozen pears. Core and peel the pears, then sprinkle them with the sugar and add just enough water to cover the bottom of the dish; cover and bake in a moderate oven for 20 to 30 minutes or until the fruit is tender. Wonderful served quite warm with vanilla ice cream.

Keeper Of Great Seal Has Complicated Job

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — To Mrs. Clydia Mae Richardson the Great Seal of the United States is second only to our flag in symbolizing the "sacred heritage of this country and its great strength and vision."

This little woman, born and raised in Highmore, S. D., has been the dedicated keeper of the seal since 1943. The seal is affixed to proclamations of the President, ratifications of treaties, the commissions of members of the Cabinet, and of American ambassadors, ministers and foreign service officers, and to certain other documents.

All the above documents must first be signed by the President and the Secretary of state before the design is impressed on a paper wafer which has been glued to the document.

Celebration of the earliest impression of the seal, 175 years ago, was observed recently in the mezzanine of the State Department building where the original Great Seal, with its press and cabinet, are housed in a glass cabinet.

As chief of the presidential commissions branch of the titles and commissions staff of the State Department, Mrs. Richardson's job is a complicated one.

When Congress is in session, the section prepares the nomination of a government official on a handsome handwritten form which is signed by the President.

A presidential secretary then takes it up to the Senate. The secretary of the Senate takes it to the president of the Senate, who interrupts Senate business to announce that a message has been received from the President of the United States.

When the nomination is confirmed, another paper called a "Senate resolution" is drawn up and stamped by the White House and State Department where it is filed. A commission is prepared, equally beautifully engrossed, again sent from State Department to White House and back, for the secretary of state's countersignature. Finally the seal is affixed.

Mrs. Richardson has the sole privilege of using the keys to open the locks guarding the seal. Accompanied by two aides, she first unlocks the doors to the doors to the glass room. She uses two keys to unlock the cherrywood cabinet in which the seal is kept. Then she unlocks the press and finally the special lock on the seal itself. The keys are locked in a safe when not in use.

"My work is far from humdrum," Mrs. Richardson said. "Every time I swing the arms of the press into position, and impress the Great Seal of the United States on an official document, I feel that I am taking part in the making of history and the progress of this nation.

"For me the seal has great spiritual significance — a great reminder of what the Lord has given us."

When you are having company for supper and you don't want to serve a salad, have a bowl of watercress, carrot curls or strips and black olives instead.

A LATE DECEMBER CEREMONY will unite in marriage Miss Marilyn Sue Warren and James Philip Fentress. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Warren, of Owenboro, Kentucky, formerly of Sterlington. Mr. Fentress is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Fentress, of Owensboro.

Olla Church Scene Of Recent Nuptials

The Olla Methodist Church was the scene October 5 of the marriage of Miss Linda Teal and Robert Allen Weaver. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Violet Teal, of Olla and Mr. Weaver is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Weaver. The Reverend A. D. St. Amant, performed the 7:30 nuptials before an altar banked with tall white baskets of white gladioli and myriads of burning white tapers.

Wearing a gown of white satin and tulle, the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Carl Illing. The sculptured bodice was fashioned with a round neckline trimmed with satin medallions. The flowing skirt had an over skirt of tulle and her finger tip veil of illusion cascaded from a cap of satin embroidered in sequins and pearls. She carried a Bible topped with white baby carnations tied with satin streamers.

Attendants to the bride were Miss Joy Gale Bruce, Miss Jerry Nell Miles, Miss Pat McCall, and Miss Janis Gwinn. They wore dresses in pastel shades and carried bouquets of white carnations tied with satin ribbons.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Teal wore a black sheath dress with white accessories and flowers. Mrs. Weaver was wearing a black and white sheer, with corsage of white split carnations.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall of the church. Miss Jerry Nell Miles registered the guests and Mrs. Carl Illing and Mrs. A. D. St. Amant served the cake and punch.

For their wedding trip to Shreveport the bride traveled in a gray sheath dress with black velvet trim and velvet accessories. On their return they will make their home in Olla.

Keeper Of Great Seal Has Complicated Job

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — To Mrs. Clydia Mae Richardson the Great Seal of the United States is second only to our flag in symbolizing the "sacred heritage of this country and its great strength and vision."

This little woman, born and raised in Highmore, S. D., has been the dedicated keeper of the seal since 1943. The seal is affixed to proclamations of the President, ratifications of treaties, the commissions of members of the Cabinet, and of American ambassadors, ministers and foreign service officers, and to certain other documents.

All the above documents must first be signed by the President and the Secretary of state before the design is impressed on a paper wafer which has been glued to the document.

Celebration of the earliest impression of the seal, 175 years ago, was observed recently in the mezzanine of the State Department building where the original Great Seal, with its press and cabinet, are housed in a glass cabinet.

Queen Bee Makes Good In Fountain Of Youth

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Today's beauty chemist toils over his bubbling brew hoping to concoct a new cream or lotion, a beauty saver that will appeal to women.

Sometimes he gets an assist, such as the recent one given by the queen bee, who seems to have become an exalted insect in the modern world of glamor. Women are told that certain bees produce a rich jelly that has something to do with long life. Now a number of manufacturers have packaged the jelly for use on the skin to help keep it moist and smooth.

But they haven't stopped there. It now goes into bottles and is mixed with fluid to be used as a makeup base. Whether or not the bee is the missing link to ageless beauty remains to be seen. But meanwhile the bee is being touted as the answer to Ponce de Leon's dream.

The new fluid makeup combines royal jelly and vitamin A designed to keep the complexion moist, and encourage a more radiant appearance. If it accomplishes nothing else it succeeds in improving the natural skin tone, rather than giving the appearance of artificiality that does come from pasty type makeup bases that slather the skin in unnatural fashion. We seldom see any more complexions that look like tanned leather or white parchment, fads that come and go. It is the natural look that seems to make women look younger whether or not it is a formula of good living or one concocted by a laboratory.

The over-35 set seems to be the likely candidates for skin treatments, and women who concentrate on those areas that show age first — neck, forehead, eyes, nose, mouth — seem to postpone the inevitable day of reckoning with their mirrors.

Most cosmeticians seem to agree that this older set needs a nightly massage of those vulnerable areas with good rich nourishing cream, that they must be constantly alert to blackheads and pimples, using a good face mask occasionally to remove facial impurities. This is the set, too, that must be especially careful about powdering over a dirty face.

The bidding:

Opening lead: Deuce of hearts.

Where tricks must eventually be yielded to the opposition, it is frequently good policy to give them up at an early stage in the play. In today's hand, a trick invested early in the day by East would have brought in a net yield of two additional tricks.

South, with 17 points and a balanced hand, properly opened with one no trump despite the lack of a spade stopper. No trump openings are acceptable with only three suits protected provided the unstopped suit contains at least three cards. North with 10 points naturally raised to three no trump.

West opened the deuce of hearts, and when East won with the ace he realized the futility of continuing the attack in that suit. One of the early slogans he had adopted as a student was "Lead through strength and up to weakness." The only thing resembling weakness that he could observe in dummy was the diamond holding, so he returned the top of his three worthless cards in that suit. This seemed to be the course of least resistance. It is to be noted that on this line of defense East must hope that partner can win two tricks somehow, for East can win only three on this line of play. West won with the king of diamonds, but declarer was now assured of nine winners.

East was much to sanguine in playing partner for two tricks, but on the assumption that West could win a trick early in the play, East had available to him a play which would almost surely defeat the contract. It required merely that West hold two spades.

At trick two, East should return a spade, permitting dummy to win with the ten. This is a trick which declarer could eventually build up for himself in any event. Now declarer can run no more than eight tricks without attempting the diamond finesse. In an effort to make the hand, South will surely try the diamonds, and when West is in with the king, a spade return yields four tricks to East and results in a two trick set of the contract.

CLOTHES QUIZ

Wear What Hat For Pony Tail?

By BETH BLAIR

The popular ponytail hair-do is pretty and flattering, but it does present a problem as far as a hat is concerned. A reader writes—

Dear Miss Blair:

I am 26 years old and wear glasses (plastic frames). I wear my hair in a ponytail with curly bangs. My hair hangs shoulder length. I'd like to know what size and style of hat to wear, if any, to look my best. I am a housewife, and don't often wear hats.

The ponytail hair-do isn't really meant to accommodate a hat. True, there are little half-hats to wear over the crown to your head, with the ponytail springing out behind, but these are a little too teen age for you, I think.

I'd suggest that you go hatless when you wear your hair in a ponytail. For occasions which demand a hat—church for example—coil your ponytail into a chignon and wear one of the pretty chignon caps designed to fit over such a coiffure.

Dear Miss Blair:

I have bought a pastel mink stole. What colors can I wear it with?

Pastel mink goes beautifully with all of the browns and beiges, with gray, with pale grayed blues and greens. It is also good with black and navy, although it does not show off as handsomely with these dark colors as with lighter shades. Bright, strong colors don't do much for it, either.

Use a deep - fat thermometer when you are frying doughnuts or fritters. If the temperature is too high these good foods will brown before they are cooked through; if the temperature is too low they may soak up grease. A thermometer will enable you to keep the fat at a temperature of 365 to 375 degrees.

Don't Let Bad Skin Spoil Fun

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

There is nothing that can throw a popular co-ed for a loss like having skin trouble on the night of a big party.

It may be a full-scale breakout over all the face.

It may be a few pimples or blackheads.

Or perhaps it is chapped lips that cause her to feel she doesn't know why it had to happen to her.

But sometimes the effect is to ruin her entire evening, even after weeks of plans.

A girl who has had the experience of having her skin break out at some crucial moment should avoid food and makeup to which she is sensitive for days before a big event. A dirty powder puff is a prime offender too, and the girl with skin trouble should make sure she uses a fresh cotton puff in her compact each day.

The skin should be cleansed carefully too, as delicate skins often may be allergic to a brand of soap that is too alkali or the harsh abrasiveness of a turkish towel. Sometimes it is best just to pat the skin dry with a soft cloth.

Cold weather isn't the only cause of chapped lips, one reason why we may be caught unawares during a brisk autumn and before a big social season. The dryness, cracking and parching that leaves your lips uncomfortable and lipstick impossible to apply, may come from any temperature change. Lips have no perspiration glands, the experts remind us, so they have no means of supplying their own moisture, one reason why a dry lipstick may feel particularly comfortable in fall.

It's a good idea to start using a chap stick early in fall, continuing it through the winter when you spend a good deal of time outdoors. A thin layer of lip balm may be applied before your lipstick to help keep lips moist regardless of the type of lipstick worn. At night when all traces of lipstick are removed with suds or cream, apply lip balm before going to bed, particularly for a week or so before a big date.

Some girls like to apply these little camphorated sticks at heels and elbows to keep those areas from becoming rough, red and chapped. These areas should be worked on long in advance of the party if you are planning to wear evening clothes. Scrub elbows and heels with a complexion brush, soap and water. Dry thoroughly, then apply smoothing lip balm.

WHY GROW OLD?

Exercise To Make Legs Lovely For New Fashions

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Very short skirts are not flattering to many women. The chopped off silhouette itself is awkward but most important, few women have legs which are that good looking, and let's not even mention knees!

No doubt some women will wear the knee-length mode. Even more usual, skirts as a whole will shorten an inch or so. However, we all know now that the most becoming length for legs is mid-calf. Since women have become so much more independent and individual in their dress, they will probably not take their skirt lengths all the way to the knee.

Just the same the leg will be more prominent as a part of your figure ensemble this season than it has been for some time. Therefore, "Why Grow Old?" is here today to take you a step or two toward leg beauty.

Deep Knee Bends

2. Lie on the floor on your back or sit in a chair. Raise your left leg up in front of you. Bend the knee slightly and make circles with your lower left leg. Circle for a while in one direction and then in the other. When circling lead with your toe. After a while do the same thing with your right leg. This is beautifying to ankle and calf.

3. One of the best exercises for the ankle is circling with the foot, first in one direction and then in the other.

4. The best calf slimming exercises take stretching into account. For instance this one. Lie on the floor on your back. Raise your left leg up as far as you can with a stiff knee. As you raise the leg pull back with the toe, or the toe points back toward the head. Alternate left and right. Feel your way along with this one. It is painful if you do it too suddenly and strenuously.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Take Steps Toward Lovely Legs" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 13. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Queen Bee Makes Good In Fountain Of Youth

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Today's beauty chemist toils over his bubbling brew hoping to concoct a new cream or lotion, a beauty saver that will appeal to women.

Sometimes he gets an assist, such as the recent one given by the queen bee, who seems to have become an exalted insect in the modern world of glamor. Women are told that certain bees produce a rich jelly that has something to do with long life. Now a number of manufacturers have packaged the jelly for use on the skin to help keep it moist and smooth.

But they haven't stopped there. It now goes into bottles and is mixed with fluid to be used as a makeup base. Whether or not the bee is the missing link to ageless beauty remains to be seen. But meanwhile the bee is being touted as the answer to Ponce de Leon's dream.

The new fluid makeup combines royal jelly and vitamin A designed to keep the complexion moist, and encourage a more radiant appearance. If it accomplishes nothing else it succeeds in improving the natural skin tone, rather than giving the appearance of artificiality that does come from pasty type makeup bases that slather the skin in unnatural fashion. We seldom see any more complexions that look like tanned leather or white parchment, fads that come and go. It is the natural look that seems to make women look younger whether or not it is a formula of good living or one concocted by a laboratory.

The over-35 set seems to be the likely candidates for skin treatments, and women who concentrate on those areas that show age first — neck, forehead, eyes, nose, mouth — seem to postpone the inevitable day of reckoning with their mirrors.

Most cosmeticians seem to agree that this older set needs a nightly massage of those vulnerable areas with good rich nourishing cream, that they must be constantly alert to blackheads and pimples, using a good face mask occasionally to remove facial impurities. This is the set, too, that must be especially careful about powdering over a dirty face.

The bidding:
South, 1 no trump; West, pass; North, 3 no trump; East, pass. South, pass; West, pass.

Opening lead: Deuce of hearts.

Where tricks must eventually be yielded to the opposition, it is frequently good policy to give them up at an early stage in the play. In today's hand, a trick invested early in the day by East would have brought in a net yield of two additional tricks.

South, with 17 points and a balanced hand, properly opened with one no trump despite the lack of a spade stopper. No trump openings are acceptable with only three suits protected provided the unstopped suit contains at least three cards. North with 10 points naturally raised to three no trump.

West opened the deuce of hearts, and when East won with the ace he realized the futility of continuing the attack in that suit. One of the early slogans he had adopted as a student was "Lead through strength and up to weakness." The only thing resembling weakness that he could observe in dummy was the diamond holding, so he returned the top of his three worthless cards in that suit. This seemed to be the course of least resistance. It is to be noted that on this line of defense East must hope that partner can win two tricks somehow, for East can win only three on this line of play. West won with the king of diamonds, but declarer was now assured of nine winners.

East was much to sanguine in playing partner for two tricks, but on the assumption that West could win a trick early in the play, East had available to him a play which would almost surely defeat the contract. It required merely that West hold two spades.

At trick two, East should return a spade, permitting dummy to win with the ten. This is a trick which declarer could eventually build up for himself in any event. Now declarer can run no more than eight tricks without attempting the diamond finesse. In an effort to make the hand, South will surely try the diamonds, and when West is in with the king, a spade return yields four tricks to East and results in a two trick set of the contract.

CLOTHES QUIZ

Wear What Hat For Pony Tail?

By BETH BLAIR

The popular ponytail hair-do is pretty and flattering, but it does present a problem as far as a hat is concerned. A reader writes—

Dear Miss Blair:

I am 26 years old and wear glasses (plastic frames). I wear my hair in a ponytail with curly bangs. My hair hangs shoulder length. I'd like to know what size and style of hat to wear, if any, to look my best. I am a housewife, and don't often wear hats.

The ponytail hair-do isn't really meant to accommodate a hat. True, there are little half-hats to wear over the crown to your head, with the ponytail springing out behind, but these are a little too teen age for you, I think.

I'd suggest that you go hatless when you wear your hair in a ponytail. For occasions which demand a hat—church for example—coil your ponytail into a chignon and wear one of the pretty chignon caps designed to fit over such a coiffure.

Dear Miss Blair:

I have bought a pastel mink stole. What colors can I wear it with?

Pastel mink goes beautifully with all of the browns and beiges, with gray, with pale grayed blues and greens. It is also good with black and navy, although it does not show off as handsomely with these dark colors as with lighter shades. Bright, strong colors don't do much for it, either.

Use a deep - fat thermometer when you are frying doughnuts or fritters. If the temperature is too high these good foods will brown before they are cooked through; if the temperature is too low they may soak up grease. A thermometer will enable you to keep the fat at a temperature of 365 to 375 degrees.

Don't Let Bad Skin Spoil Fun

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

There is nothing that can throw a popular co-ed for a loss like having skin trouble on the night of a big party.

It may be a full-scale breakout over all the face.

It may be a few pimples or blackheads.

Or perhaps it is chapped lips that cause her to feel she doesn't know why it had to happen to her.

But sometimes the effect is to ruin her entire evening, even after weeks of plans.

A girl who has had the experience of having her skin break out at some crucial moment should avoid food and makeup to which she is sensitive for days before a big event. A dirty powder puff is a prime offender too, and the girl with skin trouble should make sure she uses a fresh cotton puff in her compact each day.

The skin should be cleansed carefully too, as delicate skins often may be allergic to a brand of soap that is too alkali or the harsh abrasiveness of a turkish towel. Sometimes it is best just to pat the skin dry with a soft cloth.

Cold weather isn't the only cause of chapped lips, one reason why we may be caught unawares during a brisk autumn and before a big social season. The dryness, cracking and parching that leaves your lips uncomfortable and lipstick impossible to apply, may come from any temperature change. Lips have no perspiration glands, the experts remind us, so they have no means of supplying their own moisture, one reason why a dry lipstick may feel particularly comfortable in fall.

It's a good idea to start using a chap stick early in fall, continuing it through the winter when you spend a good deal of time outdoors. A thin layer of lip balm may be applied before your lipstick to help keep lips moist regardless of the type of lipstick worn. At night when all traces of lipstick are removed with suds or cream, apply lip balm before going to bed, particularly for a week or so before a big date.

Some girls like to apply these little camphorated sticks at heels and elbows to keep those areas from becoming rough, red and chapped. These areas should be worked on long in advance of the party if you are planning to wear evening clothes. Scrub elbows and heels with a complexion brush, soap and water. Dry thoroughly, then apply smoothing lip balm.

WHY GROW OLD?

Exercise To Make Legs Lovely For New Fashions

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Very short skirts are not flattering to many women. The chopped off silhouette itself is awkward but most important, few women have legs which are that good looking, and let's not even mention knees!

No doubt some women will wear the knee-length mode. Even more usual, skirts as a whole will shorten an inch or so. However, we all know now that the most becoming length for legs is mid-calf. Since women have become so much more independent and individual in their dress, they will probably not take their skirt lengths all the way to the knee.

Just the same the leg will be more prominent as a part of your figure ensemble this season than it has been for some time. Therefore, "Why Grow Old?" is here today to take you a step or two toward leg beauty.

Deep Knee Bends

2. Lie on the floor on your back or sit in a chair. Raise your left leg up in front of you. Bend the knee slightly and make circles with your lower left leg. Circle for a while in one direction and then in the other. When circling lead with your toe. After a while do the same thing with your right leg. This is beautifying to ankle and calf.

3. One of the best exercises for the ankle is circling with the foot, first in one direction and then in the other.

4. The best calf slimming exercises take stretching into account. For instance, this one. Lie on the floor on your back. Raise your left leg up as far as you can with a stiff knee. As you raise the leg pull back with the toe, or the toe points back toward the head. Alternate left and right. Feel your way along with this one. It is painful if you do it too suddenly and strenuously.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Take Steps Toward Lovely Legs" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 13. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Just Stop Typing, Turn Around And Look Snooper Square In The Face

Question: Is it in bad taste for members of a bereaved family to use make-up during the wake and at the funeral? My father died recently and I was severely criticized by my aunt (father's sister) because I used lipstick and rouge. I would appreciate your opinion.

Mrs. Post: Today when lipstick and other make-up is so almost universally used a woman would seem not entirely dressed even at a funeral if she used none at all. But she must put it on with discretion.

Question: There is an individual in our office who is a "snooper." I mean by this that he has the very annoying habit of peeking over the girls' shoulders as they are typing. It is driving us all to distraction, and we are appealing to you to tell us what we might do to correct this unpleasant habit.

Mrs. Post: The only thing to do is to stop typing, turn around and look at him and say, "I'm sorry but it makes me very nervous to have someone look over my shoulder while I am typing."

Question: Recently we had a discussion on the proper way to refuse a cigarette when one does not smoke. I always say, no thank you, I don't smoke." I feel that ends that and I won't have to refuse again in a short while. A friend of mine thinks this is wrong as it tends to show disapproval and also sets me up as someone special for not having acquired the habit. He thinks "no thank you" or "I don't care for a cigarette" is sufficient refusal. Can you tell me the proper way to refuse?

Mrs. Post: Whether you disapprove or not is shown by your tone of voice and your smile as you refuse. To make sure, you might add to your "No thank you" something like "Doctor's orders" or "I only wish I could."

Question. I am going to be married soon and after the rehearsal at church I intend to have a buffet supper at my house for the wedding party. Four of the attendants are married. Is it necessary to invite their wives (and husbands) to this gathering?

Mrs. Post: You should ask them, unless you can truthfully say, "I wish I could invite John (or Mary) to the supper but there just isn't room in our tiny house for the four extra your husband and wives would make."

Question: What is the proper behavior for a guest who finds herself a stranger at a large party? I was invited to a semi-business cocktail party last week and found that I knew no one at the party but the hostess. I felt very unnecessary and after about fifteen minutes I left. I would like to know if it would have been proper for me to go up to other guests without being introduced, and start a conversation. I would very much appreciate hearing from you on this matter.

Mrs. Post: You can't very well walk up to two strangers who are talking together unless they speak directly to you. But you can quite properly start a conversation with either a man or woman who is seated or standing next to you. You must not, however, let it run on without response from your listener.

Question: Is it proper for all of the bride's girl friends to gather round when she leaves the reception and throws her bouquet, or is this just for the members of the wedding party?

Mrs. Post: Everyone at the reception may gather round to see her throw her bouquet but she throws it to her bridesmaids who are standing in a group together to catch it.

Question: After a bridge game the other evening I served what I thought was delicious home-made pie and coffee. My feelings were very much hurt when I saw one of my guests eat just the fruit in the pie and leave all of the pastry uneaten on the plate. Don't you think she showed very bad manners. I would very much like to know what you think of this behavior.

Mrs. Post: Your feelings should not have been hurt. There are many people on diets that forbid such delights as pie crust.

Question: Will you please tell me the correct way to eat an olive? Is the whole olive put into the mouth at once or does one take small bites out of it, holding it in the fingers?

Mrs. Post: You put a very small stuffed olive in your mouth whole. A larger stuffed one is eaten in two bites. A plain olive is held in the fingers and pieces are bitten off around the stone.

Question: I received a very beautiful cigarette case and lighter on my birthday from my fiancee. We'll not be married until late December but he had these items marked with my future initial. Would it be wrong to use these items now or must I put them away until after I am married?

Mrs. Post: As they were given to you for your birthday and they are not wedding presents you certainly can use them now. The practical choice of your future initials can easily be explained to anyone who asks about them.

Question: I have recently broken my engagement and am about to return the presents I received from friends and relatives. I would like to know if it is necessary to send a written explanation along wih each present; and if so, will you please tell me what to say?

Mrs. Post: A brief note of explanation should accompany each present. For example: "I know you will be sorry to learn that John and I have broken our engagement and I am therefore returning your lovely gift."

MORE

Question: Will you please tell me if a hostess is supposed to consult a guest for whom she is giving a party as to the people she would like invited?

Mrs. Post: There are times, when, for example, an older hostess wanting to give a party for a young person and not knowing younger people herself, must ask the guest of honor for a list of her young friends. But under most circumstances, a hostess giving a party for someone gives it entirely by herself and the guest of honor has nothing whatever to do with the arrangements.

Wedding details from the engagement to the ceremony are listed in Mrs. Post's booklet No. 501, "The Etiquette of Weddings." Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 25 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c-o this paper, P.O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

What are the most important manners for popular students in school? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, her leaflet E-11, "Do You Know Your ABC's in Manners?" includes questions and answers for boys and girls of high-school age. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c-o this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York, N. Y.

Fake fur hats are as newsworthy as those made of the real thing. Pile fabrics simulate beaver, seal, broadtail and leopard. But some milliners are also using exciting "synthetic" furs — these were usually born a humble bunny, but are printed to resemble leopard and even shaded in the soft greys of precious chinchilla.

Girl Scout News

Perhaps the most important news concerns plans for the work-p.ay day at Pine Wood Saturday. Permission slips have gone out, no doubt, with many troops planning to take part. Newly organized troops, as well as old ones, may take part. There will be room for everybody who can get transportation. Remember, every body should wear her oldest clothes, bring her lunch, drinking cup, and a paint brush. It's never so cold that campers can't have a good time and keep warm. If it pours rain, the event will be postponed until Saturday, the 26th.

Last week the three troops connected with Our Lady of Fatima School met together to hear Fire Chief Hales tell them how Scouts can help keep their homes and community free of fire hazards. Wonder how many other troops observed Fire Prevention Week?

Most troops feel that they need to take advantage of fall weather by having as many out of door activities as possible. Troop 12, Brownie Scouts at Mitchell School was lucky enough to be invited by Nancy Phillips, one of their members, to go on a boat ride up the river. Good food added to the pleasure of a trip on the beautiful Ouachita. Mrs. G. P. Jordan and Mrs. E. R. Cunningham are leaders of the troop.

Troop 44 spent a most exciting time at Pine Wood on their first overnight, Mrs. Louis Breard and Mrs. O. H. Lyon report. The girls enjoyed archery, outdoor cooking, a hike, and the usual kapers associated with a trip to camp. Nancy Clair Noland, who worked as program aide with Mrs. Breard and many of the troops at day camp, accompanied the troop and was a great deal of help with camping skills, especially with the breadtwists for breakfast.

One of the first of the new troops to register is Brownie Troop 5, with Mrs. J. M. Russell, Jr., and Mrs. J. E. Murphy as leaders. Taking training last spring, they were ready at the start of school. Registered on the troop committee are Mrs. I. W. Kilpatrick, Mrs. Harry L. Stone, Mrs. Van Odom, and Mrs. Richard Taylor, and girl members are: Debra Joy Beaver, Emelyn Cason, Mary Beth Crossland, Kitty Hill, Susan Kilpatrick, Ann Murphy, Kay Odom, Leigh Sinclair Russell, Susan Stone, Sally Ann Taylor, Judy Turner.

Training for new leaders begun last Friday, continues on Wednesday and Friday mornings this week. They are open to any adult without obligation. They are a part of the training program offered by the Silver Waters Council, an agency of United Givers of Ouachita Parish.

Music Guild Have Program Of Gershwin Music

The Music Guild met in the home of Mrs. J. Norman Coon Wednesday morning and Mrs. Robert Davis served as co-hostess for the occasion. After a brief visit over coffee and canapes Mrs. Rabun Wroten opened the program with the reading of the collect, Mrs. J. M. Shipp sang the Hymn of the Month, O Jesus Thou Art Standing, by William Howe.

The group enjoyed a summary of the opera, Porgy and Bess, by George Gershwin, as presented by Mrs. Dan Cox. Mrs. J. R. Oldenburg sang Summertime, from the same opera. A trio composed of Mrs. Leon Noland, Jr., Mrs. Wayne Miley, and Mrs. Tom Spurlock and accompanied by Miss Betty Pope at the piano sang I Got Plenty of Nuttin'. Continuing in the same Gershwin theme, Mrs. Earl Ogg played Rhapsody in Blue, a piano solo.

The meeting was adjourned after a business session. Members who enjoyed the affair were Mrs. Marvin Shipp, Mrs. Wayne Medley, Mrs. R. L. Morgan, Mrs. Bullard Jones, Mrs. C. L. Dillingham, Mrs. T. Earl Ogg, Mrs. Dan Cox, Mrs. Harold Sikes, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. Rabun Wroten, Mrs. Wayne Miley, Miss Betty Pope, Mrs. J. R. Oldenburg, Mrs. Tom Spurlock, Mrs. Leon Noland, Jr., Mrs. J. SOUTHERN GARDENER

Try New Variety Of Colorful Tulips

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

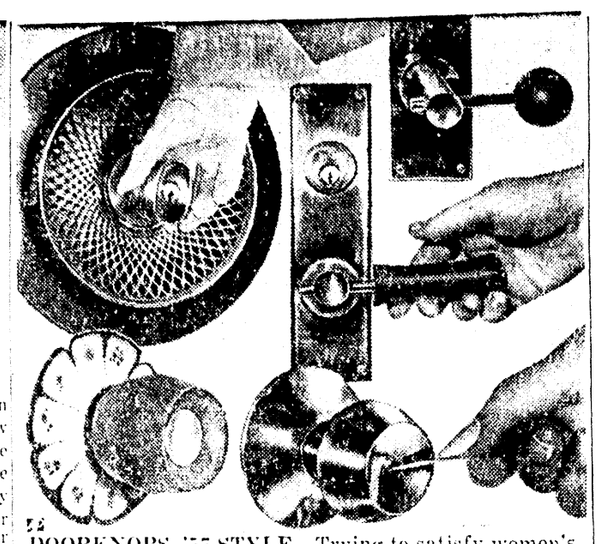

During the past few years, bulb catalogues have begun to feature several groups of new tulips which have turned out to be very easy to grow in southern gardens if they are properly planted. The dazzling color pictures of the tulip called Red Emperor lured everyone into buying it. Then the new water - lily tulips began to show up in the catalogues and were immediately popular as novelties.

Red Emperor was just the first variety of a long list of early tulips bred from two wild species from the deserts of Asia. You can now find a number of these new creations listed as Masterpiece Tulips in the catalogues. Both the Masterpiece and the Water-lily Tulips are very early in their blooming season. They flower while crocuses are still in bloom! Their resistance to cold weather and determination to bloom almost before winter is over here in the south make them very cheerful flowers with which to bring in the spring in southern gardens.

The drouths and high soil temperature in the south are just what both of these new groups of tulips are accustomed to at home in the more or less desert country around Samarkand and in Turkestan. They are found growing deep in the soil, and this is where we must plant them here if they are to be anything like permanent dwellers in a garden.

Some years back, the Tulip Society got onto the fact that deeply planted tulips would not break up into numerous little ones which were too small to flower. People began to plant tulips nine inches deep and where the soil was well drained and was really fertile from nine inches on down to twelve inches or more, the results of deep planting paid off in a big way. The bulbs are still flowering each spring.

In places where the soil was not really rich below nine inches, tulips planted at this depth have starved to death. Also, in stiff soil that was not really garden soil but undeveloped clay, some people's bulbs never even got to the top to see the light of day! Even in rich soil at nine to twelve inches down, tulips will have to be lifted every four or five years unless enough fertility is added regularly each year to trickle down to the tulips. The only place your columnist ever saw tulips that had been there for years and years and still flowered was in some rich, rich old boxwood gardens of Virginia. The lily - flowered tulips have proved to be the very longest lasting kinds here in the south until the new Waterlily and Masterpiece strains were developed. You should try some of these wonderful early tulips. Their foliage is gorgeous if they never had a single flower!

Garden Clubs Plan Number Of Projects

By Mildred Swift

Husbands are nice people. Which is a prelude to saying the many fine garden clubs that meet at night are made possible because the head of the household keeps the little ones while Mom attends. Two such flourishing clubs are the Lakeshore and Bayou Vista. I was amazed at the number of projects they have set up for their new Lakeshore subdivision. Plantings for schools, churches, flowers for the sick and the May school graduates. Sunday arrangements for their churches and cooperation with the Garden Center. That's just a few.

Gardening and Gardens

A neat, attractively landscaped office is that of Dr. N. G. Gaston, 701 Walnut St. Not too much — just enough. The tree roses on the south side are really lovely.

Just a reminder — Dig the caladiums up, let the tops die, then store in a dry place where they'll not freeze, should we have a freeze this winter.

When clematis blooms out, you can prune the vine if it has taken over. The old fashioned white one will do this after a few years.

Transplant and divide pineapple lily bulbs, watsonia, agapanthus, oxalis, lirope, daylilies, crocus and crinums. That is — if they need dividing.

Make the compost heap for which we have given you instructions before. You'll love having that well decomposed humus, next spring and summer. Plants need this organic matter and they never out grow this need. Humus encourages the growth of beneficial micro-organisms, helps hold moisture in the soil, keeps soil from packing, helps drainage.

Ranunculus and anemones bloom early next year, so they should be planted now. The claws of the ranunculus are planted down. They're kind of confusing looking bulbs. Also, you'll find scilla bulbs in the stores. The blue is the hardiest and comes back every year. It's one of the few bulbs that likes acid soil. I use these as a ground cover in two beds that are kept heavily mulched. This doesn't worry the scilla at all. Up they pop every spring and bloom and bloom.

Food in the News

It's mighty fine that both beef and pork have dropped in price. Those pigs trotting to market will give us more pork for the next few months. That southern favorite, pork and sweet potatoes can be featured without stretching the budget.

Now the beef situation. Grass-fed cattle are coming to market. This meat is bought as USDA standard and commercial. It is easily recognized by its small amount of fat and this fat is creamy in color. These grades must be cooked with moist heat, but you get the same fine food values in this not - so - tender grade as you do in your prime and choice. Outlook reports indicate that Mr. and Mrs. Consumer buying beef in October, will probably fare better than at any time remaining this year.

Smaller beef supplies in 1958 are expected. Farmers in the southwest are planning to restock their ranches and send fewer beef animals to market next year. This is necessary after last year's severe drought which destroyed thousands of animals.

Beef short ribs are a favorite in most households. One of my favorite recipes is Cantonese short ribs. Be sure to serve them on the Chinese noodles. It's different. These noodles can be purchased in most food stores.

Cantonese Short Ribs

3 pounds beef short ribs
3 tablespoons lard or drippings.
1 teaspoon salt.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
¼ teaspoon ginger.
1 cup water.
tablespoon soy sauce.
2 medium onions, cut in ¼ inch slices.
½ cup sliced celery
1 green pepper, cut in strips can (3 to 4 oz.) sliced mushrooms.
¼ cup mixed sweet pickles.
1 teaspoon honey.
2 tablespoons pimiento strips
4 tablespoons water
3 tablespoons flour
Chinese noodles or cooked rice

Brown short ribs on all sides in own fat or in lard or drippin Pour off drippings. Season with salt, pepper and ginger. Add 1 cup water, soy sauce and onions. Cover tightly and cook slowly for 2 hours or until meat is tender. Add celery, green pepper, mushrooms and pickles. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Remove meat to hot platter. Add honey and pimiento to cooking liquid. Combine water and flour and add to liquid. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Serve ribs with noodles or rice . . . 4 to 6 servings.

Two-Way Closets Save Many Steps Provide Storage

There are times when being two-faced is a virtue, especially in the case of a two - faced linen closet.

This step - saving device is built into the wall separating the bath room from the hallway. Sliding doors enclose it on either side so that the towel section may be reached from the bathroom, other linens from the hall.

Although a new - fangled design, all the advantages of an old-fashioned linen closet may be had, including a lining of western red cedar. This wood is not only decorative, but it comes with a built-in sachet which will impart a delightfully fresh, outdoors and sunshine aroma to the linens.

The sliding or hinged doors of the closet should match the woodwork in the hall and the built-ins in the bathroom. Among popular woods for all types of built-ins, Douglas fir and west coast hemlock have many advantages in color, texture and grain. Cedar is a lovely wood which would also work out well for the cabinets.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Dahlias, Celosias Brighten Exhibits

By Mary M. Jardine

The Garden Center has been aglow with the beautiful cut flowers exhibited by gardeners in this area. Mrs. M. N. Bates of West Monroe displayed a large purple dahlia of wonderful proportions. Mrs. C. A. Stratford, Monroe exhibited the largest yellow dahlia we have ever seen. From Winnsboro we had the following: Mrs. John Lee Kincaid, large velvety red celosia (cockscomb type), Mrs. B. T. Lanier exhibited deep purple salvia, and Mrs. W. O. Gwin, yellow celosia (cockscomb type.) Mrs. Marie Anderson, West Monroe exhibited a wide variety of celosia in all types and colors. Mrs. J. D. Gilbert's celosia gardens has been at work developing this delightful plant family for many years. There are new colors from pale chartreuse into shades of pink and salmon. Then too, there are so many varietal ferns, the crested or cockscomb, semi - dwarf crested, plumed (pampas type), Chinese wool flower type - each branch terminated in a ball of brightly colored wool and the Plumosa or Parrott's Feather type. This is one of our best annuals for our hot dry summers. Be sure to have some next year. Seeds are available at all the seed stores.

Arrangers Show

Mrs. Victor Kelly was awarded high score blue ribbon in the arrangement section. Fall colors of yellow, orange and bronze were effectively combined in the right argle triangle design created by Mrs. Kelly. The container was a soft green rectangular bowl. Background material for the triangular pattern was golden privet followed by a line of golden yellow marigolds. Deeper orange marigold were grouped as a center of interest with bronze acalypha foliage framing them. This lovely arrangement was staged against a soft gray background.

Mrs. J. H. Netherland was awarded second place. For her triangular arrangement Mrs. Netherland selected a modern black compote. The color harmony was yellow and yellow green. The line placements were of variegated elaeagnus enhanced with yellow marigolds. Buds were placed high in the design and graduated sizes of marigolds followed the line with the larger blooms in the focal area. Yellow green hydrangea foliage was placed on the rim of the container thus unifying the plant material and the bowl. This attractive design would look well against yellow or green background Mrs. Alfred Brin was awarded third place. A square gray white vase was selected by Mrs. Brin for her unusual diagonal design. The line material of pyracantha foliage was placed in a diagonal manner in the container with one of the corners facing forward. Brilliant red pyracantha berries were effectively grouped within the established line. This was displayed against a chartreuse background, and the arrangement was most distinctive because of effective handling of usual material.

Copper and Pink

Have you thought about copper against soft pink? Mrs. Brin designed our "extra" arrangement of the week using a copper pitcher with brass bands. This was displayed against a soft rosy pink background. The dried materials were in beige and brown tones and the whole design had an airy quality. Following the lines of the container in a sweeping motion were brown dock, broom sage in shades of brown, a spray of wheat, curly caustiz, delicate adiantum fern, deodar rose and three wood roses in the focal area, backed by pink dock. Be sure to see these unusual dried materials at your favorite florist.

Demonstration Clubs To Relist Members

By Euna Spielman

Yes, 1957 fair is over and it was a good one. Twenty - two home demonstration clubs put up one booth each on homemaking and farming. Each booth taught a lesson of value to the people of Ouachita parish. There were many exhibits in clothing, house furnishing, pantry products, fresh vegetables and baking. This friendly competition is a stimulus to better work.

Demonstration Clubs

Each Home Demonstration Club will make a new roll for 1958 either in October or November, (when leader is in charge of demonstration.) Each homemaker in Ouachita parish, rural or urban, is eligible to be a member of a home demonstration club. Among the activities planned for the 1958 program at clubs are: Demonstrations on soils and fertilizers needs for plants life; making our home ground more useful and beautiful for family living; care and repair of family clothing; saving yourself time, and energy through kitchen arrangement and storage; posture and grooming for work; home management, how to give yourself a raise; freezing foods for special occasions; furniture arrangement for family living; entertaining and serving in the home. These programs are not confined to club members. Everyone is invited.

Workshops for women interested in the new and better methods of clothing construction will be held in January and Feburary. Each workshop will require two days to complete work.

One workshop on re - upholstering furniture will be held in March, requiring several meetings until work is completed.

A workshop on reseating chairs by pencil or Russian weaving will be held in February. Reed basketry will also be included in this workshop. These workshops, too, are for all women both urban and rural. If you are interested in any of these demonstrations or workshops you are invited to get in touch with the president of your club or call me.

It's time to get strawberry beds ready and to order your plants. The list of strawberry growers who have plants for sale has been received in the extension office. You may call Mrs. Fite for names, addresses and prices at FA 3-2251.

Ground should be prepared and fertilizer should be worked into the soil three weeks in advance of planting. Many people plant strawberries too late to get a crop of fine fruit. All strawberries should be planted by November 10th according to information given in the bulletin prepared by horticultural specialist of LSU extension service. For further information on growing strawberries get this bulletin.

Best Club of 1957

It's time to get those club records ready. Records will be posted November 8th. Best club will be announced at the next council meeting Friday morning, Nov. 22 in auditorium of agricultural building, West Monroe, by Mr. G. E. Tyner, representative of the firm which donates the prize. Each club president (or one who kept score) will post the record made by her club and bring to the office the history of club.

Cotton Valuable Fiber

Shirts continued to be cotton's best customer in 1956. Shirt production consumed almost 600 thousand bales of cotton last year. Sheets and drapery and upholstery fabrics ranked close behind with each accounting for more than half a million bales. The other seven top uses of cotton were men's and boys' trousers, towels, men's and boys' underwear, automobile uses, dresses, rugs and carpets retail piece goods.

Bulb Time Is in the Fall

Have you been "eyeing" the color in your neighbor's garden? If you're wished for an array of color and beauty that looks as if it were transplanted from a magazine to your own garden, some of your wishes can come true if you will start digging. October is planting time for many bulbs that can give you wonderful color. Among those to plant are daffodils, lilies, amarylis, tulip, hyacinths, Dutch iris. Visit your local dealers and learn how many varieties are available.

See you next Sunday.

Prepare Now To Protect Lawns, Bulbs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Spring bulb planting, lawn care and putting the flower borders to bed for the winter are the important orders of garden work at this season, and for these reasons, it is the time when many gardeners, who have postponed starting a compost pile, get going on the job. Actually, not much will start happening in the pile until spring, for in composting, the rule is that the warmer the weather, the faster light garden debris and leaves will work themselves down into food - rich material.

As far as the lawn itself is concerned, during this cool period, it should be mowed with perhaps more attention to cutting height than at any other time. During warm periods, the grass will grow. And it will stop growing — while remaining green — when the thermometer gets down low. By all means, keep the grass clipped, and try to arrange things so that when you put the mower away for the winter the grass is sheared at no less than two inches from the ground. If it is longer than that, a blanket of snow may mat and smother the roots. If so later, the lack of protection may result in winter - kill.

Timing is important, too, for another fall chore: Fertilizing the lawn. Possibly the best time to feed the grass is late - after the growth has stopped, because the purpose of the feeding is to provide the lawn with spring food which will give the plants a chance to get growing ahead of the weeds. There are many types of lawn fertilizers — organic, inorganic and combinations of both. All are good — provided the company making the preparations is repatable — and the accompanying instructions should be followed carefully. The main reason for waiting to apply the food is to avoid stimulating grass into strong, fall growth.

Incidentally, this is a good time, too, to start discouraging persons who like to take shortcuts across the lawn. Tracked - down snow is an almost guaranteed grass-killer. You'll have to decide yourself whether it is worth risking a neighborhood reputation as an old crank.

In the course of the weekly leaf-raking job, save an adequate supply to mulch over roots of trees, shrubs and garden beds. And if at all possible, start that compost pile in an out - of - the-way, shady corner. Leaf - mold, containing plenty of the three important elements of fertilizer — ash, which are the elements indicated in the familiar formula 5-10-5 is also a fine soil conditioner.

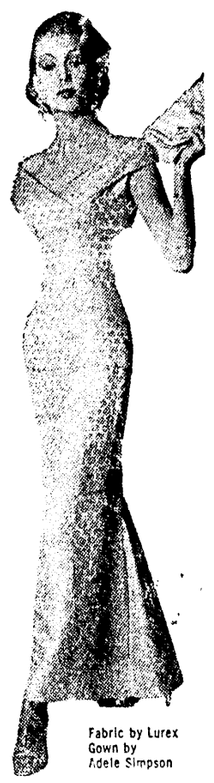

Best method is to dig a large, shallow pit, saving the soil for future use. Speed up decomposition by spreading a thin layer of garden soil and a thin layer of plant food between each 6- or 8-inch layer of light vegetable material.

Two such flourishing clubs are the Lakeshore and Bayou Vista. I was amazed at the number of projects they have set up for their new Lakeshore subdivision. Plantings for schools, churches, flowers for the sick and the May school graduates. Sunday arrangements for their churches and cooperation with the Garden Center. That's just a few.

Gardening and Gardens

A neat, attractively landscaped office is that of Dr. N. G. Gaston, 701 Walnut St. Not too much — just enough. The tree roses on the south side are really lovely.

Just a reminder — Dig the caladiums up, let the tops die, then store in a dry place where they'll not freeze, should we have a freeze this winter.

When clematis blooms out, you can prune the vine if it has taken over. The old fashioned white one will do this after a few years.

Transplant and divide pineapple lily bulbs, watsonia, agapanthus, oxalis, lirope, daylilies, crocus and crinums. That is — if they need dividing.

Make the compost heap for which we have given you instructions before. You'll love having that well decomposed humus, next spring and summer. Plants need this organic matter and they never out grow this need. Humus encourages the growth of beneficial micro-organisms, helps hold moisture in the soil, keeps soil from packing, helps drainage.

Ranunculus and anemones bloom early next year, so they should be planted now. The claws of the ranunculus are planted down. They're kind of confusing looking bulbs. A'so, you'll find scilla bulbs in the stores. The blue is the hardiest and comes back every year. It's one of the few bulbs that likes acid soil. I use these as a ground cover in two beds that are kept heavily mulched. This doesn't worry the scilla at all. Up hey pop every spring and bloom and bloom.

Food in the News

It's mighty fine that both beef and pork have dropped in price. Those pigs trotting to market will give us more pork for the next few months. That southern favorite, pork and sweet potatoes can be featured without stretching the budget.

Now the beef situation. Grass-fed cattle are coming to market. This meat is bought as USDA standard and commercial. It is easily recognized by its small amount of fat and this fat is creamy in color. These grades must be cooked with moist heat, but you get the same fine food values in this not - so - tender grade as you do in your prime and choice. Outlook reports indicate that Mr. and Mrs. Consumer buying beef in October, will probably fare better than at any time remaining this year.

Smaller beef supplies in 1958 are expected. Farmers in the southwest are planning to restock their ranches and send fewer beef animals to market next year. This is necessary after last year's severe drought which destroyed thousands of animals.

Beef short ribs are a favorite in most households. One of my favorite recipes is Cantonese short ribs. Be sure to serve them on the Chinese noodles. It's different. These noodles can be purchased in most food stores.

Cantonese Short Ribs

3 pounds beef short ribs
3 tablespoons lard or drippings.
1 teaspoon salt.
⅛ teaspoon pepper.
¼ teaspoon ginger.
1 cup water.
tablespoon soy sauce.
2 medium onions, cut in ¼ th slices.
½ cup sliced celery
1 green pepper, cut in strips can (3 to 4 oz.) sliced ushrooms.
¼ cup mixed sweet pickles.
1 teaspoon honey.
2 tablespoons pimiento strips
4 tablespoons water
3 tablespoons flour

Chinese noodles or cooked rice

Brown short ribs on all sides in own fat or in lard or drippin\. Pour off drippings. Season with salt, pepper and ginger. Add 1 cup water, soy sauce and onions. Cover tightly and cook slowly for 2 hours or until meat is tender. Add celery, green pepper, mushrooms and pickles. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Remove meat to hot platter. Add honey and pimiento to cooking liquid. Combine water and flour and add to liquid. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Serve ribs with noodles or rice . . . 4 to 6 servings.

Two-Way Closets Save Many Steps Provide Storage

There are times when being two-faced is a virtue, especially in the case of a two - faced linen closet.

This step - saving device is built into the wall separating the bathroom from the hallway. Sliding doors enclose it on either side so that the towel section may be reached from the bathroom, other linens from the hall.

Although a new - fangled design, all the advantages of an old-fashioned linen closet may be had, including a lining of western red cedar. This wood is not only decorative, but it comes with a built-in sachet which will impart a delightfully fresh, outdoors and sunshine aroma to the linens.

The sliding or hinged doors of the closet should match the woodwork in the hall and the built-ins in the bathroom. Among popular woods for all types of built-ins, Douglas fir and west coast hemlock have many advantages in color, texture and grain. Cedar is a lovely wood which would also work out well for the cabinets.

Demonstration Clubs To Relist Members

By Euna Spielman

Yes, 1957 fair is over and it was a good one. Twenty - two home demonstration clubs put up one booth each on homemaking and farming. Each booth taught a lesson of value to the people of Ouachita parish. There were many exhibits in clothing, house furnishing, pantry products, fresh vegetables and baking. This friendly competition is a stimulus to better work.

Demonstration Clubs

Each Home Demonstration Club will make a new roll for 1958 either in October or November, (when leader is in charge of demonstration.) Each homemaker in Ouachita parish, rural or urban, is eligible to be a member of a home demonstration club. Among the activities planned for the 1958 program at clubs are: Demonstrations on soils and fertilizers needs for plants life; making our home ground more useful and beautiful for family living; care and repair of family clothing; saving yourself time, and energy through kitchen arrangement and storage; posture and grooming for work; home management, how to give yourself a raise; freezing foods for special occasions; furniture arrangement for family living; entertaining and serving in the home. These programs are not confined to club members. Everyone is invited.

Workshops for women interested in the new and better methods of clothing construction will be held in January and Feburary. Each workshop will require two days to complete work.

One workshop on re - upholstering furniture will be held in March, requiring several meetings until work is completed.

A workshop on reseating chairs by pencil or Russian weaving will be held in February. Reed basketry will also be included in this workshop. These workshops, too, are for all women both urban and rural. If you are interested in any of these demonstrations or workshops you are invited to get in touch with the president of your club or call me.

It's time to get strawberry beds ready and to order your plants. The list of strawberry growers who have plants for sale has been received in the extension office. You may call Mrs. Fite for names, addresses and prices at FA 3-2251.

Ground should be prepared and fertilizer should be worked into the soil three weeks in advance of planting. Many people plant strawberries too late to get a crop of fine fruit. All strawberries should be planted by November 10th according to information given in the bulletin prepared by horticultural specialist of LSU extension service. For further information on growing strawberries get this bulletin.

Best Club of 1957

It's time to get those club records ready. Records will be posted November 8th. Best club will be announced at the next council meeting Friday morning, Nov. 22 in auditorium of agricultural building, West Monroe, by Mr. G. E. Tyner, representative of the firm which donates the prize. Each club president (or one who kept score) will post the record made by her club and bring to the office the history of club.

Cotton Valuable Fiber

Shirts continued to be cotton's best customer in 1956. Shirt production consumed almost 600 thousand bales of cotton last year. Sheets and drapery and upholstery fabrics ranked close behind with each accounting for more than half a million bales. The other seven top uses of cotton were men's and boys' trousers, towels, men's and boys' underwear, automobile uses, dresses, rugs and carpets retail piece goods.

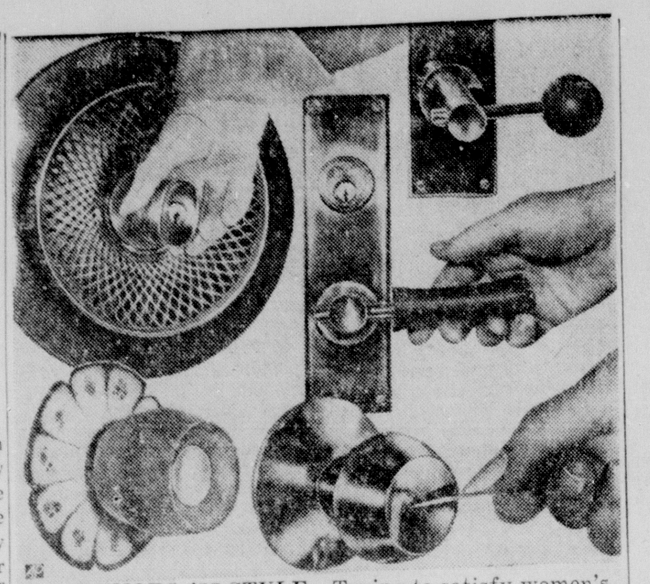

Bulb Time Is in the Fall

Have you been "eyeing" the color in your neighbor's garden? If you're wished for an array of color and beauty that looks as if it were transplanted from a magazine to your own garden, some of your wishes can come true if you will start digging. October is planting time for many bulbs that can give you wonderful color. Among those to plant are daffodils, lilies, amarylis, tulip, hyacinths, Dutch iris. Visit your local dealers and learn how many varieties are available.

See you next Sunday.

USE FOR PIANO BENCH

An old piano bench with a hinged top makes an ideal work and play table for a child's room. About 8 inches should be cut off legs to make the table a good height. The compartment in the top holds crayons, coloring books, scissors, and other equipment.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Dahlias, Celosias Brighten Exhibits

By Mary M. Jardine

The Garden Center has been aglow with the beautiful cut flowers exhibited by gardeners in this area. Mrs. M. N. Bates of West Monroe displayed a large purple dahlia of wonderful proportions. Mrs. C. A. Stratford, Monroe exhibited the largest yellow dahlia we have ever seen. From Winnsboro we had the following: Mrs. John Lee Kincaid, large velvety red celosia (cockscomb type), Mrs. B. T. Lanier exhibited deep purple salvia, and Mrs. W. O. Gwin, yellow celosia (cockscomb type.) Mrs. Marie Anderson, West Monroe exhibited a wide variety ol celosia in all types and colors. Mrs. J. D. Gilbert's celosia gardens has been at work developing this delightful plant family for many years. There are new colors from pale chartreuse into shades of pink and salmon. Then too, there are so many varietal forms, the crested or cockscomb, semi - dwarf crested, plumed (pampas type), Chinese wool flower type - each branch terminated in a ball of brightly colored wool and the Plumosa or Parrott's Feather type. This is one of our best annuals for our hot dry summers. Be sure to have some next year. Seeds are available at all the seed stores.

Arrangers Show

Mrs. Victor Kelly was awarded high score blue ribbon in the arrangement section. Fall colors of yellow, orange and bronze were effectively combined in the right angle triangle design created by Mrs. Kelly. The container was a soft green rectangular bowl. Background material for the triangular pattern was golden privet followed by a line of golden yellow marigolds. Deeper orange marigold were grouped as a center of interest with bronze acalypha foliage framing them. This lovely arrangement was staged against a soft gray background.

Mrs. J. H. Netherland was awarded second place. For her triangular arrangement Mrs. Netherland selected a modern black compote. The color harmony was yellow and yellow green. The line placements were of variegated elaeagnus enhanced with yellow marigolds. Buds were placed high in the design and graduated sizes of marigolds followed the line with the larger blooms in the focal area. Yellow green hydrangea foliage was placed on the rim of the container thus unifying the plant material and the bowl. This attractive design would look well against yellow or green background Mrs. Alfred Brin was awarded third place. A square gray white vase was selected by Mrs. Brin for her unusual diagonal design. The line material of pyracantha foliage was placed in a diagonal manner in the container with one of the corners facing forward. Brilliant red pyracantha berries were effectively grouped within the established line. This was displayed against a chartreuse background, and the arrangement was most distinctive because of effective handling of usual material.

Copper and Pink

Have you thought about copper against soft pink? Mrs. Brin designed our "extra" arrangement of the week using a copper pitcher with brass bands. This was displayed against a soft rosy pink background. The dried materials were in beige and brown tones and the whole design had an airy quality. Following the lines of the container in a sweeping motion were brown dock, broom sage in shades of brown, a spray of wheat, curly caustiz, delicate adiantum fern, deodar rose and three wood roses in the focal area, backed by pink dock. Be sure to see these unusual dried materials at your favorite florist.

Prepare Now To Protect Lawns, Bulbs

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Spring bulb planting, lawn care and putting the flower borders to bed for the winter are the important orders of garden work at this season, and for these reasons, it is the time when many gardeners, who have postponed starting a compost pile, get going on the job. Actually, not much will start happening in the pile until spring, for in composting, the rule is that the warmer the weather, the faster light garden debris and leaves will work themselves down into food - rich material.

As far as the lawn itself is concerned, during this cool period, it should be mowed with perhaps more attention to cutting height than at any other time. During warm periods, the grass will grow. And it will stop growing — while remaining green — when the thermometer gets down low. By all means, keep the grass clipped, and try to arrange things so that when you put the mower away for the winter the grass is sheared at no less than two inches from the ground. If it is longer than that, a blarket of snow may mat and smother the roots. If shorter, the lack of protection may result in winter - kill.

Timing is important, too, for another fall chore: Fertilizing the lawn. Possibly the best time to feed the grass is late - after the growth has stopped, because the purpose of the feeding is to provide the lawn with spring food which will give the plants a chance to get growing ahead of the weeds. There are many types of lawn fertilizers — organic, inorganic and combinations of both. All are good — provided the company making the preparations is reputable — and the accompanying instructions should be followed carefully. The main reason for waiting to apply the food is to avoid stimulating grass into strong fall growth.

Incidentally, this is a good time, too, to start discouraging persons who like to take shortcuts across the lawn. Tracked - down snow is an almost guaranteed grass-killer. You'll have to decide yourself whether it is worth risking a neighborhood reputation as an old crank.

In the course of the weekly leaf-raking job, save an adequate supply to mulch over roots of trees, shrubs and garden beds. And if at all possible, start that compost pile in an out - of - the-way, shady corner. Leaf - mold, containing plenty of the three important elements of fertilizer — ash, which are the elements indicated in the familiar formula 5-10-5 is also a fine soil conditioner.

Best method is to dig a large, shallow pit, saving the soil for future use. Speed up decomposition by spreading a thin layer of garden soil and a thin layer of plant food between each 6- or 8-inch layer of light vegetable material.

Moviegoers To Get Chance See How Russians Live

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — American moviegoers will get a chance to see how the Russians really live, thanks to a tough little capitalist who roamed behind the Iron Curtain with cameras and film.

The man is Sid Feder, and he has brought forth a documentary called "This Is Russia" which Universal-International is releasing. A vaudeville actor as a child, Feder has some film theaters and other interests.

Feder's Iron Curtain caper arose while he was in London during the B&B visit. He figured he would test whether the Kremlin leaders were serious in their offers of friendship, so he applied for permission to photograph Russia.

"I was lucky," he admitted. "The Russians have a great respect for inventions. I happened to have been in on the first 3D picture, 'Bwana Devil.' I put up the money. Since the Russians have a theater where 3D movies are shown without glasses, they were interested in my visit."

After much red tape, Feder was admitted to Russia. He wasn't allowed to bring a cameraman, so he had to shoot the film himself. He brought along three cameras and lugged 160 pounds of equipment all over the vast country.

The Russians had firm notions of what he should photograph, he said, but he had other ideas.

"They showed me the huge factories, which were impressive but not what I was interested in," he said. "I wanted to see the faces of the people—see them at work and at play, in their homes, at the theaters and on vacation.

"They arranged for me to visit a model apartment—and it was a model! It was all fixed up with a refrigerator, television set and electric toaster. There was only one trouble. There was no electricity in the building, nothing to plug into.

"I used my camera for all of the things they wanted me to shoot. I always kept one with no film in it just for that purpose."

Though often harassed by the police, Feder managed to get what he wanted. He saw another sight forbidden to most Western visitors—the slave labor camp of Siberia.

With some hairbreadth escapes, he managed to get his film out of Russia. Most of it was in good shape, he reported, although part of it appears to have been exposed to X-rays by the crafty Reds.

A new short-wave transmitter is said to be 50 times as effective as the most powerful commercial broadcasting station and capable of beaming its messages to any spot on earth despite severe interference.

George London Is Guest On Telephone Hour

George London, the distinguish bass - baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, will sing selections from opera, lieder, and musical comedy when he appears as the Telephone Hour soloist over NBC radio from 8 to 8:30 p.m. He will be accompanied by Donald Voorhees and the Bell Telephone Orchestra in this broadcast, which originates live from Radio City.

Mr. London's principal selection will be the haunting soliloquy, "Pieta, rispetto, onore," from Verdi's "Macbeth," based on the familiar Shakespearean tragedy. Rarely performed on the stage, this opera offers a rich selection of arias for the concert hall.

Franz Schubert's majestic song, "Die Allmacht," will be Mr. London's first selection on the program. His other number will be "They Call the Wind Maria" from the Loewe musical comedy, "Paint Your Wagon."

The featured selection by Donald Voorhees and the orchestra will be the stirring "Prelude to Act III" from Wagner's opera, "Lohengrin." The orchestra will open the broadcast with Anderson's rhythmical "Blue Tango", and their other selection on the program will be Claude Debussy's "En bateau."

Mr. London's appearance on the Oct. 14 Telephone Hour will be his first radio broadcast of the season. He will return to the program for another broadcast in 1958.

STAGE SHOW— A giant triple scream show will be held at the Paramount Theatre Thursday at 7 and 9 p.m. It will feature two horror films plus a stage show that will feature the marterialization of James Dean in honor of the late star.

Fourth Wildlife Conservation Issue Slated

The fourth stamp in the "Wildlife Conservation" series will be placed on first day sale simultaneously at post offices in Corpus Christi, Tex., and New York City Nov. 22.

The 3-center will feature a pair of whooping cranes and their young. One hundred million of these stamps will be printed in three colors — blue, green and yellow.

Whooping cranes have become international symbols of conservations, having dwindled from thousands to a small flock of approximately 30 birds. On their winter grounds at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge they are under the protection of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Corpus Christi was selected as one of the first day sale sites because the cranes spend their winters along the nearby coastal area.

New York City was named as the other site to mark the opening of Ninth National Postage Stamp Show of the ASDA to be held Nov. 22 through 24. The theme of the show will be "wildlife Conservation."

France has been issuing stamps at a prolific rate in recent years. Word from Paris reveals that eight new issues with an architectural theme are soon to be released. The designs include the Court of Honor of the Palace of Elysees, a castle on the Dordogne River, the Chateau of Valency at Indre, the Cathedral at Rouen, Gallo - Roman relics of ancient Glanum, a triumphal arch, a three storied mausoleum and a Roman theatre.

Belgium has issued a new 4-franc - plus 2 semi - postal honoring the Belgian Antarctic Expedition. The tri - color adhesives depict a group of Eskimo dogs. A souvenir sheet also was issued. The additional values will go towards the expedition, reports the Philatelic Club of Belgium.

Nationalist China has issued three new stamps from Formosa to commemorate the 30th anniversary of its radio service. The design depicts a globe, a broadcasting tower and microphone surrounded by radio waves. All the stamps are ungummed.

'The Helen Morgan Story' Opens Today At Paramount

The film was well received two weeks ago when it was shown at a special "Sneak Preview" at the theatre.

Ann Blyth stars in the title role with Paul Newman and Richard Carlson. "The Helen Morgan Story" depicts the meteoric rise to fame and subsequent fall to near-tragedy of the famed torch singer. The film begins with Miss Morgan's early attempts to reach the heights of show business stardom. The great loves of her life are portrayed by Newman as the notorious bootleg racketeer and Carlson as one of New York's leading citizens. As stardom comes within her grasp, true happiness evades her and the story of her despair is unfolded in dramatic form by the CinemaScope cameras.

Also starred in the story are Gene Evans, Alan King and Cara Williams. Seen in the film, too, are some of show business' best-known personalities of yesterday and today; Jimmy McHugh, Miss Morgan's acompanist and song writer; Rudy Vallee, seen re-enacting his true-life role; and America's most famous columnist, Walter Winchell.

All of the famous songs that Helen Morgan made famous are heard again in the feature which was directed by Michael Curtiz.

Cowboy Heroes Of Yesteryear Aid Promotion

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Paramount Studios reached back into the past and hauled out a bunch of old-time cowboy stars for promotion of the current movie, "The Tin Star." If studio people saw right, a lot of the oldtimers were still looking like themselves.

The group of former Saturday matinee heroes included Ken Maynard, Hoot Gibson, Tom Keene, Bob Steele, Raymond Hatton—he made his first giddyap movie in 1920 — Guinn (Big Boy) Williams and Rex Lease.

The boys rolled up to Paramount and stepped out of their large, late model cars, wearing 10-gallon hats and boots along with their "civilian" clothing. Ken Maynard had his trademark, a large white stetson. He appeared in 150 westerns, incidentally.

There was a fair amount of joshing and reminiscing anl finding out who was doing what these days. Steele, for example, has continued in the entertainment field and plays character roles on TV, and Ken Maynard said he'd like to try it, too. Maynard said he was in something resembling retirement, but that he's been itching to face cameras for some time.

The boys noticed that they weren't getting any slimmer, although Gibson insisted that he has picked up only 10 pounds since turning out his celluloid oat operas. Maynard, on the other hand, said his retirement brought him to 235 pounds, 40 more than he used to drop into a saddle.

The studio people did some adding and found the seven cowboys had turned out about 1,300 movies. Gibson and Maynard each accounted for more than 200, and Hatton, whose career dates from 1916, appeared in more than 300.

Moviegoers To Get Chance See How Russians Live

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — American moviegoers will get a chance to see how the Russians really live, thanks to a tough little capitalist who roamed behind the Iron Curtain with cameras and film.

The man is Sid Feder, and he has brought forth a documentary called "This Is Russia" which Universal-International is releasing. A vaudeville actor as a child, Feder has some film theaters and other interests.

Feder's Iron Curtain caper arose while he was in London during the B&B visit. He figured he could test whether the Kremlin leaders were serious in their offers of friendship, so he applied for permission to photograph Russia.

"I was lucky," he admitted. "The Russians have a great respect for inventions. I happened to have been in on the first 3D picture, 'Bwana Devil.' I put up the money. Since the Russians have a theater where 3D movies are shown without glasses, they were interested in my visit."

After much red tape, Feder was admitted to Russia. He wasn't allowed to bring a cameraman, so he had to shoot the film himself. He brought along three cameras and lugged 160 pounds of equipment all over the vast country.

The Russians had firm notions of what he should photograph, he said, but he had other ideas.

"They showed me the huge factories, which were impressive but not what I was interested in," he said. "I wanted to see the faces of the people—see them at work and at play, in their homes, at the theaters and on vacation.

"They arranged for me to visit a model apartment—and it was a model! It was all fixed up with a refrigerator, television set and electric toaster. There was only one trouble. There was no electricity in the building, nothing to plug into.

"I used my camera for all of the things they wanted me to shoot. I always kept one with no film in it just for that purpose."

Though often harassed by the police, Feder managed to get what he wanted. He saw another sight forbidden to most Western visitors—the slave labor camp of Siberia.

With some hairbreadth escapes, he managed to get his film out of Russia. Most of it was in good shape, he reported, although part of it appears to have been exposed to X-rays by the crafty Reds.

A new short-wave transmitter is said to be 50 times as effective as the most powerful commercial broadcasting station and capable of beaming its messages to any spot on earth despite severe interference.

George London Is Guest On Telephone Hour

George London, the distinguish bass - baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, will sing selections from opera, lieder, and musical comedy when he appears as the Telephone Hour soloist over NBC radio from 8 to 8:30 p.m. He will be accompanied by Donald Voorhees and the Bell Telephone Orchestra in this broadcast, which originates live from Radio City.

Mr. London's principal selection will be the haunting soliloquy, "Pieta, rispetto, onore," from Verdi's "Macbeth," based on the familiar Shakespearean tragedy. Rarely performed on the stage, this opera offers a rich selection of arias for the concert hall.

Franz Schubert's majestic song, "Die Allmacht," will be Mr. London's first selection on the program. His other number will be "They Call the Wind Maria" from the Loewe musical comedy, "Paint Your Wagon."

The featured selection by Donald Voorhees and the orchestra will be the stirring "Prelude to Act III" from Wagner's opera, "Lohengrin." The orchestra will open the broadcast with Anderson's rhythmical "Blue Tango", and their other selection on the program will be Claude Debussy's "En bateau."

Mr. London's appearance on the Oct. 14 Telephone Hour will be his first radio broadcast of the season. He will return to the program for another broadcast in 1958.

Cowboy Heroes Of Yesteryear Aid Promotion

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Paramount Studios reached back into the past and hauled out a bunch of old-time cowboy stars for promotion of the current movie, "The Tin Star." If studio people saw right. a lot of the oldtimers were still looking like themselves.

The group of former Saturday matinee heroes included Ken Maynard, Hoot Gibson, Tom Keene, Bob Steele, Raymond Hatton—he made his first giddyap movie in 1920 — Guinn (Big Boy) Williams and Rex Lease.

The boys rolled up to Paramount and stepped out of their large, late model cars, wearing 10-gallon hats and boots along with their "civilian" clothing. Ken Maynard had his trademark, a large white stetson. He appeared in 150 westerns, incidentally.

There was a fair amount of joshing and reminiscing anl finding out who was doing what these days. Steele, for example, has continued in the entertainment field and plays character roles on TV, and Ken Maynard said he'd like to try it, too. Maynard said he was in something resembling retirement, but that he's been itching to face cameras for some time.

The boys noticed that they weren't getting any slimmer, although Gibson insisted that he has picked up only 10 pounds since turning out his celluloid oat operas. Maynard, on the other hand, said his retirement brought him to 235 pounds, 40 more than he used to drop into a saddle.

The studio people did some adding and found the seven cowboys had turned out about 1,300 movies. Gibson and Maynard each accounted for more than 200, and Hatton, whose career dates from 1916, appeared in more than 300.

Fourth Wildlife Conservation Issue Slated

The fourth stamp in the "Wildlife Conservation" series will be placed on first day sale simultaneously at post offices in Corpus Christi, Tex., and New York City Nov. 22.

The 3-center will feature a pair of whooping cranes and their young. One hundred million of these stamps will be printed in three colors — blue, green and yellow.

Whooping cranes have become international symbols of conservations, having dwindled from thousands to a small flock of approximately 30 birds. On their winter grounds at the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge they are under the protection of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Corpus Christi was selected as one of the first day sale sites because the cranes spend their winters along the nearby coastal area.

New York City was named as the other site to mark the opening of Ninth National Postage Stamp Show of the ASDA to be held Nov. 22 through 24. The theme of the show will be "wildlife Conservation."

France has been issuing stamps at a prolific rate in recent years. Word from Paris reveals that eight new issues with an architectural theme are soon to be released. The designs include the Court of Honor of the Palace of Elysees, a castle on the Dordogne River, the Chateau of Valency at Indre, the Cathedral at Rouen, Gallo - Roman relics of ancient Glanum, a triumphal arch, a three storied mausoleum and a Roman theatre.

Belgium has issued a new 4-franc - plus 2 semi - postal honoring the Belgian Antarctic Expedition. The tri - color adhesives depict a group of Eskimo dogs. A souvenir sheet also was issued. The additional values will go towards the expedition, reports the Philatelic Club of Belgium.

Nationalist China has issued three new stamps from Formosa to commemorate the 30th anniversary of its radio service. The design depicts a globe, a broadcasting tower and microphone surrounded by radio waves. All the stamps are ungummed.

'The Helen Morgan Story' Opens Today At Paramount

The film was well received two weeks ago when it was shown at a special "Sneak Preview" at the theatre.

Ann Blyth stars in the title role with Paul Newman and Richard Carlson. "The Helen Morgan Story" depicts the meteoric rise to fame and subsequent fall to near-tragedy of the famed torch singer. The film begins with Miss Morgan's early attempts to reach the heights of show business stardom. The great loves of her life are portrayed by Newman as the notorious bootleg racketeer and Carlson as one of New York's leading citizens. As stardom comes within her grasp, true happiness evades her and the story of her despair is unfolded in dramatic form by the CinemaScope cameras.

Also starred in the story are Gene Evans. Alan King and Cara Williams. Seen in the film, too, are some of show business' best-known personalities of yesterday and today; Jimmy McHugh, Miss Morgan's acompanist and song writer; Rudy Vallee, seen re-enacting his true-life role; and America's most famous columnist, Walter Winchell.

All of the famous songs that Helen Morgan made famous are heard again in the feature which was directed by Michael Curtiz.

Quiet Lady Barbers Keep Russian Beards Trimmed

By STERLING SLAPPEY

MOSCOW (AP) — Beards and Communists—often in conjunction—currently are highly popular in the Soviet Union.

The reason for the popularity of Communists is that they own the joint. Much of the popularity of beards, however, is because of the barbering.

Most Moscow beards and practically all heads are taken to barber shops for trimming. Lady barbers do much of the work. They charge 20 cents per beard, 20 cents per head and they use meticulous care.

Moscow's plushiest tonsorial establishment is an Hoscator on Gorky Street. You sit facing the mirror, not with your back towards it, and on most occasions the emporium is still and quiet.

The lady barbers seldom talk politics, the weather, why Dynamo is in the second division of the Soviet Soccer League or how many goals Alexei Alexandrovich Abakumov has kicked for Spartak.

Instead they let you sit in peace while they shape up the head and weed out the beard and they send you away not much poorer and smelling wonderfully of old fashioned lilac water.

Moscow barberesses get a range of hair to work on which is unmatched in the United States and possibly the world.

Hundreds of geatees come in for trimming.

There are still devotees of the Stalin mustache droop, proving just how deep went the roots of the "Cult of the Personality."

Lenin has been dead for 33 years but you still see dozens of little shovel shaped turfs of hair on the chin and the blob on the upper lip which he favored.

One of the Soviet Union's top nuclear scientists has let his chin whiskers run for years. All he ever seems to do is brush them into two long strips — one flowing down near his right hip and the other near his left hip.

Chin Camouflage

An imminent chemical scientist favors letting his chin be covered completely with a growth shaped like the blade of a bulldozer. This type of thing makes for a forceful appearance and in some cases has been known to camouflage a receding chin.

Many members of the government and Communist party favor some sort of face hair, either a bit on the lip or the full works.

To curb unwanted growth barberesses have various size special scissors with curved cutting blades. They nip smoothly around the edges of the beard on the Uzbekstan collective farmer and on the mustache of the Turkman steppe rider.

Group Therapy Proving Mental Illness Help

By P. D. ELDRED

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Army is sending more and more men with emotional disorders back to duty with a method of treatment only now coming into widespread use: group therapy.

The treatment, as used at Letterman Army Hospital here involves group discussions of the patients' problems "with most of the therapy done by the other patients."

The method has been developing for perhaps a dozen years.

"In group therapy the patient learns to recognize his debility and assists in determining the method of controlling or off-setting it," explains Lt. Col. W. R. Wilkin, chief of the Clinical Psychology Service at Letterman.

"It is very useful, for it helps a patient to work through his problems, to find himself. It helps to restore him to life as an efficient, stable person; one able to cope with his own problems and those of the world.

"Patients get to know there are others who have problems simila to their own. This gives them emotional support, makes them feel less isolated, less alone."

A group is operated on a "permissive" basis under the tactful guidance of a therapist, with individuals saying or doing anything they want, so long as they don't resort to violence.

This "permissive" approach almost invariably results in some members of the group talking about sex. They belabor the subject excessively, until it is exhausted. This takes time, sometimes several discussion meetings, before they drop it.

Leading questions from the therapist prompt the patients to talk about personal problems, personal outlook. The others enter into it, a surprisingly wise and understanding group despite their own mental conditions.

"I think most of the therapy is done by the other patients," Col. Wilkin said. "If a patient is abusive and belligerently claims there is nothing wrong with him, the others will tell him where he is wrong and why.

t the same time, they will endorse the correct things he says, thus helping him to get his thinking into focus. In time, it may take as many as 30 or 40 talks like this, his trouble may clear up and he can return to duty."

BUYERS GO TO SCHOOL

The Home Builders Association of Metropolitan Washington, D. C., conducts a "school for home buyers" where potential home-owners can learn about financing, space for family needs, and other problems of purchasing a house.

FIRST QUARTERLY MEET

DODSON — The Rev. A. W. Townsend held the first quarterly conference at the Dodson Methodist Church, during the past week and reports were given on the various phases of the works of Davis Springs, and Dodson. Delegates were elected to the district conference which will be held in Oakdale November 21, they were Mrs. J. E. Terrell, C. H. Rushing, Mrs. J. M. Gaar and Mrs. Grover Jeter.

Group Therapy Proving Mental Illness Help

By P. D. ELDRED

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Army is sending more and more men with emotional disorders back to duty with a method of treatment only now coming into widespread use: group therapy.

The treatment, as used at Letterman Army Hospital here involves group discussions of the patients' problems "with most of the therapy done by the other patients."

The method has been developing for perhaps a dozen years.

"In group therapy the patient learns to recognize his debility and assists in determining the method of controlling or off-setting it," explains Lt. Col. W. R. Wilkin, chief of the Clinical Psychology Service at Letterman.

"It is very useful, for it helps a patient to work through his problems, to find himself. It helps to restore him to life as an efficient, stable person; one able to cope with his own problems and those of the world.

"Patients get to know there are others who have problems simila to their own. This gives them emotional support, makes them feel less isolated, less alone."

A group is operated on a "permissive" basis under the tactful guidance of a therapist, with individuals saying or doing anything they want, so long as they don't resort to violence.

This "permissive" approach almost invariably results in some members of the group talking about sex. They belabor the subject excessively, until it is exhausted. This takes time, sometimes several discussion meetings, before they drop it.

Leading questions from the therapist prompt the patients to talk about personal problems, personal outlook. The others enter into it, a surprisingly wise and understanding group despite their own mental conditions.

"I think most of the therapy is done by the other patients," Col. Wilkin said. "If a patient is abusive and belligerently claims there is nothing wrong with him, the others will tell him where he is wrong and why.

t the same time, they will endorse the correct things he says, thus helping him to get his thinking into focus. In time, it may take as many as 30 or 40 talks like this, his trouble may clear up and he can return to duty."

Tigers Puncture Jackets, 20-13

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

New York City should be all shook up. Baseball-wise, that is. The Big Town not only saw its proud Yankees spilled by the upstart Milwaukee Braves in the World Series, but was jarred loose from two of its big league clubs, the straight-laced Giants and the brawdy Brooklyn Dodgers.

Biggest jolt to New York's pride should be the loss of two franchises at the same time as the Giants have elected to move to San Francisco and the Dodgers to Los Angeles, pulling the National League out of the city entirely.

We can see the need for at least two clubs out west to help cut down traveling expenses, but it's hard to figure New York at a turn in the road where it can support no more than one team. If so, then baseball's ills are worse than even the minor leagues have been bemoaning. But not every town can be expected to prove a Milwaukee.

The Yankees are taking their series loss to the Braves gracefully. Sorest spot with them, however, must be that they were beaten practically singlehandedly by a Yankee castoff, pitcher Lew Burdette, who stopped them three times, the last two by shutouts.

Milwaukee fans rightly should be proud of their Braves, but they shouldn't count their success by how deep the beer bottles and cans were piled in the streets after their victory celebration.

Saddest World Series fans were those who "wanted" the Braves to win but were "betting" on the Yankees.

The California Chamber of Commerce will find the Los Angeles Dodgers—or Angels—a touchy subject come spring.

Sunny California will be reading about their Dodgers doing their spring training in Florida as a Dodger club official has already indicated they intend to continue operation of their spring camp at Vero Beach.

Florida and California have long feuded over which has the most winter—and spring— sunshine, the most approved climate, the best oranges and finest tropical fruits, etc.

Florida certainly can make much of the Brooklyns-turned-Californians coming to the southern peninsula for their spring work. Naturally California's C. of C. will claim Dem Bums are just working out a contract. The blow comes to the west's C. of C. if and when the Dodgers renew their Florida contract.

Taylor Fires LSU Offense To Upset Win

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 12 (AP) — Louisiana State's rugged ground game, triggered by burly Jimmy Taylor, bulldozed Georgia Tech's vaunted defense tonight as the Tigers rolled to a 20-13 Southeastern Conference victory.

Taylor, 201-pound senior fullback, scored all LSU points as the Tigers beat Tech for the first time since 1945 and the second time in the series dating back to 1915. The Yellow Jackets have won 11 times.

The powerful fullback combined with sophomore halfback Billy Cannon to rock the Tech line with a vicious ground attack. Taylor gained 91 yards in 25 carries for a 3.6 yard average and was deadly when LSU needed a few yards for a first down. Cannon carried 17 times for 97 yards and a 5.7 yard average.

The LSU defense, leaky in earlier games, almost completely stymied the visitors on the ground.

Sophomore quarterback Fred Braselton connected on 9 of 13 passes for 91 yards to provide Tech's only offensive threat. He sneaked over from the one in the second period for the first Tech touchdown, then pitched five yards to end Jerome Green for the second one in the fourth period.

LSU, with Cannon and Taylor alternating, drove 81 yards in 17 plays in the first period for its first touchdown. Taylor went over from the one for the score.

In the second quarter, LSU guard Ed Cassidy grabbed a fumble on the Tech 29. The Tigers scored in five plays with Taylor going over from the three. LSU's final score came after a short Tech kick in the third period rolled dead on the Tech 30. In seven plays, LSU made its final score with Taylor sliding outside left tackle from the three for his third touchdown

LSU now has a 3-1 record with two straight SEC victories. Tech has a 1-1 SEC mark, with one tie in non-conference play.

For Georgia Tech, center Don Stephenson was almost the only standout on defense. At least 13 individual tackles were counted by pressbox observers as Tech's all-America candidate sparked two goalline stands that halted LSU inside the five yard line.

Braselton went all the way for Yellow Jackets, calling signals brilliantly and showing great poise under heavy pressure.

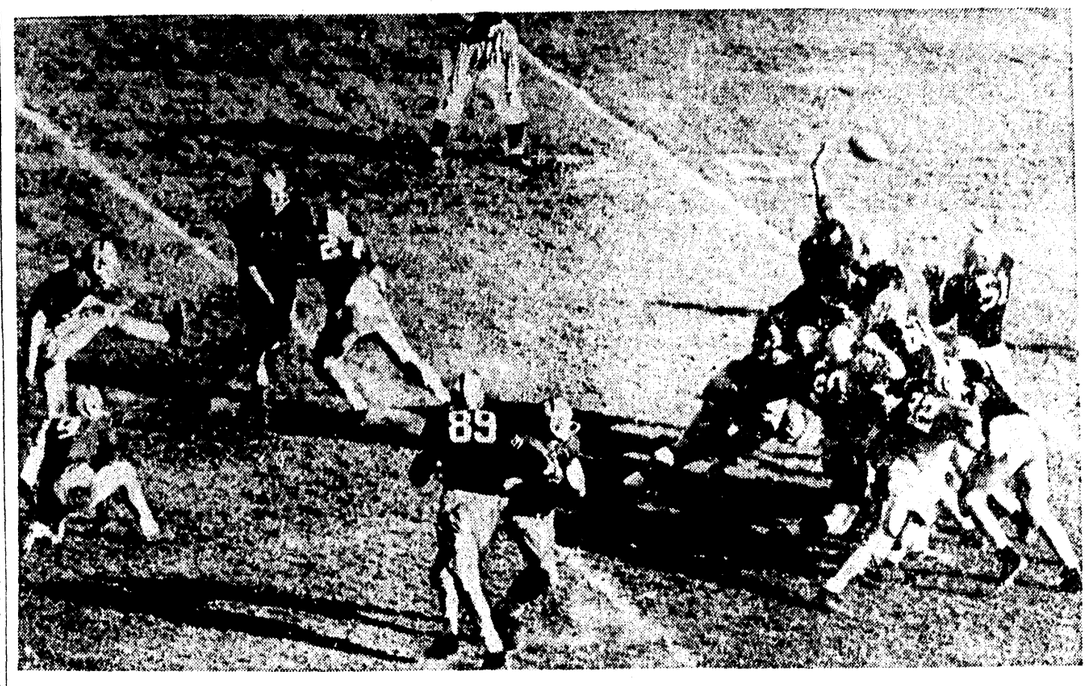

In addition to his fine running, Cannon completed two of four passes for 17 yards. In the fourth period, the triple-threat sophomore rolled two kicks on the Tech seven, putting the visitors in the hole when they needed desperately to score.

LSU's first team line, led by end Billy Hendrix, played well against the Tech offense and blocked brilliantly in the third period when LSU completely dominated the play.

NOTRE DAME'S FIELD GOAL UPSETS ARMY— The ball heads goalward from the toe of Notre Dame end Monte Stickles to give the Irish a 23-21 victory over Army in yesterday's battle at Philadelphia, first game in ten years between the two teams. With nine minutes left, Stickles kicked from the 29 as Army players try futiley to block the ball. Identifiable players, Notre Dame, are back Bob Williams (9), back Dick Lynch (25), back Frank Reynolds (27); end Gary Myers (82); guard Allen Ecuyer (60); and Army, end Bill Graf (81), guard Charles Lytle (60), and center Jim Kernan (51). Irish Field Goal Nips Army

By RUSS GREEN

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12 (UP) — Monty Stickles, a dreary and dejected sophomore who missed the point in the fourth period, became an all-time Notre Dame hero today when he kicked a field goal from the 29-yard line with 6½ minutes left to give the fighting Irish an upset 23-21 victory over Army.

The towering, 19-year old from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., made as great a comeback as his team did in a matter of two minutes after his big flub, for his winning-kick climaxed a brilliant Irish resurge which came when the West Pointers had a two-touchdown lead with only one minute left in the third period.

The Irish, staggered in the first minutes by Bob Anderson's 81-yard touchdown run and reeling from the West Pointers' two scores in the third period, bolted back with two touchdowns to come within one point of knotting the score at 1-20 with six minutes played in the final period.

The Stickles plunged to the depths, for the big kid's boot went to the right of the goalpost and the Cadets gloried in their one point lead.

It could have been the ball game. But one of those quirks which follow Notre Dame came to pass. On the second play after kickoff, quarterback Dave Bourland of West Point, attempted to jump pass — a questionable call for a team leading by one point deep in its own territory.

Notre Dame lineman Frank Geremia leaped up and deflected the ball. It popped into the hands of teammate Nick Pietrosante who already had scored two touchdowns.

Three plays, with a penalty mixed in, left it fourth down and six to go. Stickles, with 95,000 silent fans watching the resumption of the famed series, stepped back and kicked. It was straight as a die and a roar rose up from Municipal Stadium as the referee's hands went up.

The field goal was the first ever attempted by Stickles, a third-string end, in his entire football career, including high school play.

Under college rules, which measure a kick from the line of scrimmage plus 10 yards of end zone, it was officially a 32-yard field goal.

That was the ball game, the first in 10 years for the teams, the third in the 35-game series decided by the foot, and Notre Dame's 24th victory against seven losses, with four ties. It also was the first time in history each team scored three touchdowns.

REBS UNBEATEN

Ole Miss Whips Vanderbilt, 28-0

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 12 (AP) —Senior halfbacks Leroy Reed and Billy Lott led a classy pack of Mississippi ball carriers to a solid 28-0 victory over Vanderbilt in a Southeastern Conference football game tonight.

The undefeated Rebels, held to a scant 7-0 lead at halftime, broke the game wide open in the last two periods to more than justify their 10-point pre-game favorite's role.

Vanderbilt threatened seriously only once—in the second period and moved to the Rebel nine, from where Reed intercepted a pass in the end zone.

Mississippi rolled 90 yards in 11 plays for its first touchdown in the first period, with Reed skirting end for the last 15. He promptly booted the extra point.

Gene Hickerson put the Rebels in business again early in the third by pouncing on a Vandy fumble at the Commodore 20. Four plays later Lott scampered the final two yards for a touchdown.

The Mississippi scatbacks turned on the steam for a pair of touchdowns in the final period. Quarterback Raymond Brown hit end Don Williams for the third TD, good for 11 yards.

Center Billy Pruett recovered another Vandy fumble a few moments later and the Rebels started from the Commodore 17. Four plays deeper in the period Cowboy Woodruff smacked three yards for the score.

The Rebels, playing like possible conference champions, turned loose two fast backfields and a pair of hard charging lines tonight, as they threw back every Commodore challenge.

Tonight's loss was Vandy's first, against two ties and a victory over Georgia. It was Mississippi's fourth straight victory of the season.

Mississippi scoring — Touchdowns: Reed (15, run), Lott (2, run), Williams (11, pass from Brown), Woodruff (5, plunge). Conversions: Reed 2, Khayat, Burke.

Terps Defeat Wake Forest For 1st Win

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 12 (UP) — Maryland won its first football game of the year, 27-0, over Wake Forest today, thanks to an almost forgotten third string quarterback who had trouble making the squad.

The Terps' hero was senior John Fritsch, a first tringer last year but demoted to the third team this season and used previously only for conversions.

While kicking three of these extra points today, he also set up two of Maryland's touchdowns passes and scored once himself as he almost single - handedly sent the Deacons down to their fourth straight licking before 18,000.

Fritsch came off the bench late in the second quarter and lit a fire under the Terps' sluggish offense. He pitched a 40 yard pass to sophomore halfback Gene Verardi on the Wake Forest 18 and then got a break when the Deacs' Pete Barham interferred with Ed Cooke on another pass, giving the Terps a first down on the one. Fritsch himself sneaked over with only 19 second to go before intermission.

Maryland's regular quarterbacks again failed to move the team and Fritsch took over late in the third period. This time he completed four of five passes and ran nine yards for a first down in steering the Terps 72 yards to their second and clinching score. Soph fullback John Forbes punched over the six-pointer from one yard out.

Score by periods:

Maryland	0	7	0	20	—27

Maryland scoring: Touchdowns, Fritsch (1, plunge); Forbes (1, plunge); Dare (19, pass-run from Kusevlyan); Verardi (61, pass-run from Lewis). Conversions, Fritsch (3).

It is regarded as one of Australia's greatest athletic hopes for years.

DICKINSON, MEEKS SCORE

Miss. Southern Defeats Southeastern La., 14-0

HAMMOND, La., Oct. 12 (AP) — Mississippi Southern sent two powerful drives down the field for touchdowns tonight for a 14-0 victory over Southeastern Louisiana.

After a 49-yard drive in the second quarter, Dick (Bo) Dickinson scored on a 14 yard run without being touched by a SLC man. Quarterback Ollie Yates kicked the extra point.

In the fourth quarter, Southern marched 62 yards for the second score. Dickinson was a powerhouse in the drive, running the ball 32 yards to the SLC 22. Right halfback Larry Meeks plunged across from two yards out and Yates converted.

Southeastern threatened late in the second quarter after taking the kickoff on its own 37. SLC drove to the Southern 15 only to lose the ball on downs. A field goal attempt was no good.

King Boys Lead South Carolina

COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 12 (UP) —It was "King" day for South Carolina today as King Dixon raced 89 yards with the opening kickoff and Heyward King stomped 82 yards with another to pace a 58- 3 romp over Furman before 15,000.

Dixon, who set an Atlantic Coast Conference record by returning the opening kickoff 98 yards against Texas a week ago, started in the same manner to touch off a 19-point first period in which each of the Gamecock's first three teams scored once each.

SCORE IN EACH PERIOD

La. Tech Rolls By SLI, 28-13

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech jumped off to an early lead and, scoring a touchdown each quarter, rolled past Southwestern Louisiana, 28 - 13, in a Gulf States Conference battle here Saturday night.

The loss was SLI's first conference setback and left the visitors with a 1-1-1 record in GSC play. The Techers have now won one and lost one in conference competition.

Tech turned in a fast ground game to score three times on runs and once through the air. SLI scored in the second period on a run and again on a pass in the closing moments of the contest.

Tech drew first blood in the game on a 42 - yard drive in the first period. Fullback B. K. Miller plunged over from the 2 with six minutes gone ir the contest. Wayne Bourgeois kicked the PAT and Tech held an early 7-0 lead.

Key plays in the drive were a 16 - yard pass from Tech quarterback James McCabe to Miller on the SLI 22 and halfback J. W. Slack reeled off a 15 - yard run two plays later to put the pigskin on the Southwestern 5. On fourth down and 2 to go, Miller scored.

In the second period Southwestern got within one point by taking advantage of a Tech fumble on the Bulldog 25. Going over for the score was halfback Ralph Davis who skirted right end for 13 yards. Davis' conversion attemp was blocked by Tech's Max Rudd. A 12 - yard pass by Joe Calloway to Ray Lancon put SLI in scoring range.

Seven minutes before halftime, Tech halfback Slack capped a 54-yard drive with a 6 - yard TD run. Rudd converted and the Bulldogs had a 14-6 lead. Tech took the kickoff after the SLI touchdown and used 9 plays to score. The longest run came on a 17-yard dash by quarterback James McCabe.

Tech turned an intercepted pass into a 54 - yard scoring drive midway of the third period. Wayne Bourgeois plunged for one yard to score and also kicked the extra point. McCabe started the drive by intercepting Joe Calloway's pass and returning 18 yards to Tech's 46. Bourgeois, Miller and Slack churned up yardage to make the TD in 11 plays.

Both teams put across scores in the final quarter. With six minutes left in the game, Tech's Taylor McNeel tossed 18 yards to end Robby Smith. Slack converted. Southwestern took to the air in the closing minutes and scored on a 15 - yard aerial from Steve Gossen to halfback Ralph Davis with only five seconds remaining. Davis kicked the PAT and that was the game.

Topping Tech's rushing department was Slack with 68 yards. Bourgeois had 57. Top groundgainer for SLI was fullback Charley Nunez with 55 yards rushing.

Arkansas Fights Off Jinx To Defeat Baylor, 20-17

WACO, Tex., Oct. 12 (UP)—The Arkansas Razozrbacks fought off a 53-year-old jinx after a sputtering start tonight to defeat the Baylor Bears 20-17 to take a heavy lead in Southwest Conference play.

The victory was the first for the Razorbacks in Waco since the two teams first met in 1904. It gave Arkansas two conference wins and left the Razorbacks undefeated in four starts.

Arkansas left halfback Billy Kyser intercepted a Doyle Traylor pass with only 15 seconds to go to stop a desperate drive by the Bears. Baylor had started the drive from its own 39 and reached the Arkansas 24 when Kyser nabbed the aerial to end the game.

Arkansas had got off to a sputtering start, failing to make a single first down in the opening quarter, while the Bears were racking up eight straight.

Baylor scored within six minutes after the game opened. The drive started on the Bears' 24-yard line with fullback Larry Hickman picking up most of the yardage to the Arkansas 46-yard line.

Traylor then hurled a 46-yard scoring pass to end Earl Miller. Halfback Arthur Beall kicked the point to put the Bears in front 7-0.

Arkansas	0	14	0	6	—20

Tigers Puncture Jackets, 20-13

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

New York City should be all shook up. Baseball-wise, that is. The Big Town not only saw its proud Yankees spilled by the upstart Milwaukee Braves in the World Series, but was jarred loose from two of its big league clubs, the straight-laced Giants and the brawdy Brooklyn Dodgers.

Biggest jolt to New York's pride should be the loss of two franchises at the same time as the Giants have elected to move to San Francisco and the Dodgers to Los Angeles, pulling the National League out of the city entirely.

We can see the need for at least two clubs out west to help cut down traveling expenses, but it's hard to figure New York at a turn in the road where it can support no more than one team. If so, then baseball's ills are worse than even the minor leagues have been bemoaning. But not every town can be expected to prove a Milwaukee.

The Yankees are taking their series loss to the Braves gracefully. Sorest spot with them, however, must be that they were beaten practically singlehandedly by a Yankee castoff, pitcher Lew Burdette, who stopped them three times, the last two by shutouts.

Milwaukee fans rightly should be proud of their Braves, but they shouldn't count their success by how deep the beer bottles and cans were piled in the streets after their victory celebration.

Saddest World Series fans were those who "wanted" the Braves to win but were "betting" on the Yankees.

The California Chamber of Commerce will find the Los Angeles Dodgers—or Angels—a touchy subject come spring.

Sunny California will be reading about their Dodgers doing their spring training in Florida as a Dodger club official has already indicated they intend to continue operation of their spring camp at Vero Beach.

Florida and California have long feuded over which has the most winter—and spring— sunshine, the most approved climate, the best oranges and finest tropical fruits, etc.

Florida certainly can make much of the Brooklyns-turned-Californians coming to the southern peninsula for their spring work. Naturally California's C. of C. will claim Dem Bums are just working out a contract. The blow comes to the west's C. of C. if and when the Dodgers renew their Florida contract.

Taylor Fires LSU Offense To Upset Win

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 12 (AP) — Louisiana State's rugged ground game, triggered by burly Jimmy Taylor, bulldozed Georgia Tech's vaunted defense tonight as the Tigers rolled to a 20-13 Southeastern Conference victory.

Taylor, 201-pound senior fullback, scored all LSU points as the Tigers beat Tech for the first time since 1945 and the second time in the series dating back to 1915. The Yellow Jackets have won 11 times.

The powerful fullback combined with sophomore halfback Billy Cannon to rock the Tech line with a vicious ground attack. Taylor gained 91 yards in 25 carries for a 3.6 yard average and was deadly when LSU needed a few yards for a first down. Cannon carried 17 times for 97 yards and a 5.7 yard average.

The LSU defense, leaky in earlier games, almost completely stymied the visitors on the ground.

Sophomore quarterback Fred Braselton connected on 9 of 13 passes for 91 yards to provide Tech's only offensive threat. He sneaked over from the one in the second period for the first Tech touchdown, then pitched five yards to end Jerome Green for the second one in the fourth period.

LSU, with Cannon and Taylor alternating, drove 81 yards in 17 plays in the first period for its first touchdown. Taylor went over from the one for the score.

In the second quarter, LSU guard Ed Cassidy grabbed a fumble on the Tech 29. The Tigers scored in five plays with Taylor going over from the three. LSU's final score came after a short Tech kick in the third period rolled dead on the Tech 30. In seven plays, LSU made its final score with Taylor sliding outside left tackle from the three for his third touchdown

LSU now has a 3-1 record with two straight SEC victories. Tech has a 1-1 SEC mark, with one tie in non-conference play.

For Georgia Tech, center Don Stephenson was almost the only standout on defense. At least 13 ndividual tackles were counted by pressbox observers as Tech's all-America candidate sparked two goalline stands that halted LSU inside the five yard line.

Braselton went all the way for Yellow Jackets, calling signals brilliantly and showing great poise under heavy pressure.

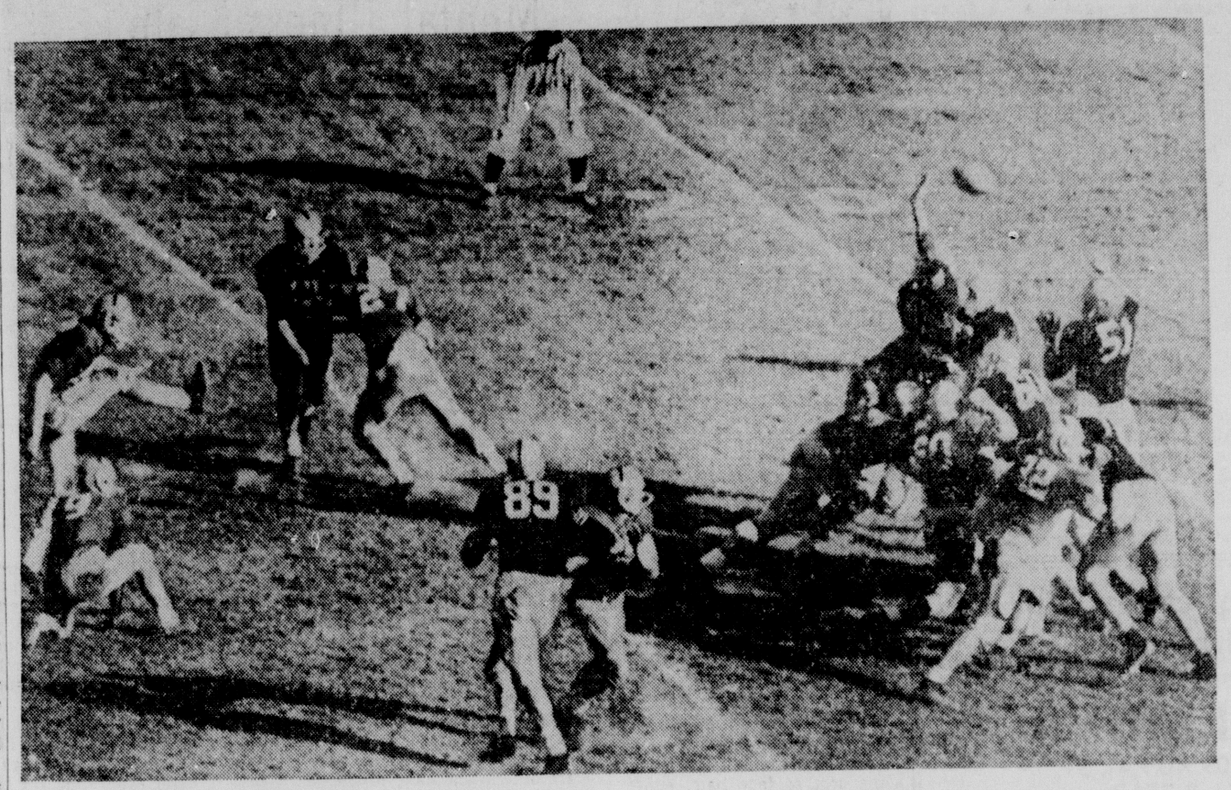

In addition to his fine running, Cannon completed two of four passes for 17 yards. In the fourth period, the triple-threat sophomore rolled two kicks on the Tech seven, putting the visitors in the hole when they needed desperately to score.

LSU's first team line, led by end Billy Hendrix, played well against the Tech offense and blocked brilliantly in the third period when LSU completely dominated the play.

Georgia Tech	0	7	0	6	—13
LSU	6	7	7	0	—20

Georgia Tech scoring — Touchdowns: Braselton (1, plunge); Green (5, pass from Braselton). Conversion: James.

Terps Defeat Wake Forest For 1st Win

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 12 (UP) — Maryland won its first football game of the year, 27-0, over Wake Forest today, thanks to an almost forgotten third string quarterback who had trouble making the squad.

The Terps' hero was senior John Fritsch, a first stringer last year but demoted to the third team this season and used previously only for conversions.

While kicking three of these extra points today, he also set up two of Maryland's touchdowns passes and scored once himself as he almost single - handedly sent the Deacons down to their fourth straight licking before 18,000.

Fritsch came off the bench late in the second quarter and lit a fire under the Terps' sluggish offense. He pitched a 40 yard pass to sophomore halfback Gene Verardi on the Wake Forest 18 and then got a break when the Deacs' Pete Barham interferred with Ed Cooke on another pass, giving the Terps a first down on the one. Fritsch himself sneaked over with only 19 seconds to go before intermission.

Maryland's regular quarterbacks again failed to move the team and Fritsch took over late in the third period. This time he completed four of five passes and ran nine yards for a first down in steering the Terps 72 yards to their second and clinching score. Soph fullback John Forbes punched over the six-pointer from one yard out.

Score by periods:

Maryland	0	7	0	20	—27

Maryland scoring: Touchdowns, Fritsch (1, plunge); Forbes (1, plunge); Dare (19, pass-run from Rusevlyan); Verardi (61, pass-run from Lewis). Conversions, Fritsch (3).

Irish Field Goal Nips Army

By RUSS GREEN

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12 (UP) — Monty Stickles, a dreary and dejected sophomore who missed the point in the fourth period, became an all-time Notre Dame hero today when he kicked a field goal from the 29-yard line with 6½ minutes left to give the fighting Irish an upset 23-21 victory over Army.

The towering, 19-year old from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., made as great a comeback as his team did in a matter of two minutes after his big flub, for his winning-kick climaxed a brilliant Irish resurge which came when the West Pointers had a two-touchdown lead with only one minute left in the third period.

The Irish, staggered in the first minutes by Bob Anderson's 81-yard touchdown run and reeling from the West Pointers' two scores in the third period, bolted back with two touchdowns to come within one point of knotting the score at 1-20 with six minutes played in the final period.

The Stickles plunged to the depths, for the big kid's boot went to the right of the goalpost and the Cadets gloried in their one point lead.

It could have been the ball game. But one of those quirks which follow Notre Dame came to pass. On the second play after kickoff, quarterback Dave Bourland of West Point, attempted to jump pass — a questionable call for a team leading by one point deep in its own territory.

Notre Dame lineman Frank Geremia leaped up and deflected the ball. It popped into the hands of teammate Nick Pietrosante, who already had scored two touchdowns.

Three plays, with a penalty mixed in, left it fourth down and six to go. Stickles, with 95,000 silent fans watching the resumption of the famed series, stepped back and kicked. It was straight as a die and a roar rose up from Municipal Stadium as the referee's hands went up.

The field goal was the first ever attempted by Stickles, a third-string end, in his entire football career, including high school play.

Under college rules, which measure a kick from the line of scrimmage plus 10 yards of end zone, it was officially a 32-yard field goal.

That was the ball game, the first in 10 years for the teams, the third in the 35-game series decided by the foot, and Notre Dame's 24th victory against seven losses, with four ties. It also was the first time in history each team scored three touchdowns.

Ole Miss Whips Vanderbilt, 28-0

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 12 (AP) —Senior halfbacks Leroy Reed and Billy Lott led a classy pack of Mississippi ball carriers to a solid 28-0 victory over Vanderbilt in a Southeastern Conference football game tonight.

The undefeated Rebels, held to a scant 7-0 lead at halftime, broke the game wide open in the last two periods to more than justify their 10-point pre-game favorite's role.

Vanderbilt threatened seriously only once—in the second period and moved to the Rebel nine, from where Reed intercepted a pass in the end zone.

Mississippi rolled 90 yards in 11 plays for its first touchdown in the first period, with Reed skirting end for the last 15. He promptly booted the extra point.

Gene Hickerson put the Rebels in business again early in the third by pouncing on a Vandy fumble at the Commodore 20. Four plays later Lott scampered the final two yards for a touchdown.

The Mississippi scatbacks turned on the steam for a pair of touchdowns in the final period. Quarterback Raymond Brown hit end Don Williams for the third TD, good for 11 yards.

Center Billy Pruett recovered another Vandy fumble a few moments later and the Rebels started from the Commodore 17. Four plays deeper in the period Cowboy Woodruff smacked three yards for the score.

The Rebels, playing like possible conference champions, turned loose two fast backfields and a pair of hard charging lines tonight, as they threw back every Commodore challenge.

Tonight's loss was Vandy's first, against two ties and a victory over Georgia. It was Mississippi's fourth straight victory of the season.

Mississippi	7	0	7	14	—28

Mississippi scoring — Touchdowns: Reed (15, run), Lott (2, run), Williams (11, pass from Brown), Woodruff (5, plunge). Conversions: Reed 2, Khayat, Burke.

SCORE IN EACH PERIOD

La. Tech Rolls By SLI, 28-13

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech jumped off to an early lead and, scoring a touchdown each quarter, rolled past Southwestern Louisiana, 28 - 13, in a Gulf States Conference battle here Saturday night.

The loss was SLI's first conference setback and left the visitors with a 1-1-1 record in GSC play. The Techers have now won one and lost one in conference competition.

Tech turned in a fast ground game to score three times on runs and once through the air. SLI scored in the second period on a run and again on a pass in the closing moments of the contest.

Tech drew first blood in the game on a 42 - yard drive in the first period. Fullback B. K. Miller plunged over from the 2 with six minutes gone in the contest. Wayne Bourgeois kicked the PAT and Tech held an early 7-0 lead.

Key plays in the drive were a 16 - yard pass from Tech quarterback James McCabe to Miller on the SLI 22 and halfback J. W. Slack reeled off a 15 - yard run two plays later to put the pigskin on the Southwestern 5. On fourth down and 2 to go, Miller scored.

In the second period Southwestern got within one point by taking advantage of a Tech fumble on the Bulldog 25. Going over for the score was halfback Ralph Davis who skirted right end for 13 yards. Davis' conversion attemp was blocked by Tech's Max Rudd. A 12 - yard pass by Joe Calloway to Ray Lancon put SLI in scoring range.

Seven minutes before halftime, Tech halfback Slack capped a 54-yard drive with a 6 - yard TD run. Rudd converted and the Bulldogs had a 14-6 lead. Tech took the kickoff after the SLI touchdown and used 9 plays to score. The longest run came on a 17-yard dash by quarterback James McCabe.

Tech turned an intercepted pass into a 54 - yard scoring drive midway of the third period. Wayne Bourgeois plunged for one yard to score and also kicked the extra point. McCabe started the drive by intercepting Joe Calloway's pass and returning 18 yards to Tech's 46. Bourgeois, Miller and Slack churned up yardage to make the TD in 11 plays.

Both teams put across scores in the final quarter. With six minutes left in the game, Tech's Taylor McNeel tossed 18 yards to end Robby Smith. Slack converted. Southwestern took to the air in the closing minutes and scored on a 15 - yard aerial from Steve Gossen to halfback Ralph Davis with only five seconds remaining. Davis kicked the PAT and that was the game.

Topping Tech's rushing department was Slack with 68 yards. Bourgeois had 57. Top groundgainer for SLI was fullback Charley Nunez with 55 yards rushing.

DICKINSON, MEEKS SCORE

Miss. Southern Defeats Southeastern La., 14-0

HAMMOND, La., Oct. 12 (AP) — Mississippi Southern sent two powerful drives down the field for touchdowns tonight for a 14-0 victory over Southeastern Louisiana.

After a 49-yard drive in the second quarter, Dick (Bo) Dickinson scored on a 14 yard run without being touched by a SLC man. Quarterback Ollie Yates kicked the extra point.

In the fourth quarter, Southern marched 62 yards for the second score. Dickinson was a powerhouse in the drive, running the ball 32 yards to the SLC 22. Right halfback Larry Meeks plunged across from two yards out and Yates converted.

Southeastern threatened late in the second quarter after taking the kickoff on its own 37. SLC drove to the Southern 15 only to lose the ball on downs. A field goal attempt was no good.

Arkansas Fights Off Jinx To Defeat Baylor, 20-17

WACO, Tex., Oct. 12 (UP)—The Arkansas Razozrbacks fought off a 53-year-old jinx after a sputtering start tonight to defeat the Baylor Bears 20-17 to take a heavy lead in Southwest Conference play.

The victory was the first for the Razorbacks in Waco since the two teams first met in 1904. It gave Arkansas two conference wins and left the Razorbacks undefeated in four starts.

Arkansas left halfback Billy Kyser intercepted a Doyle Traylor pass with only 15 seconds to go to stop a desperate drive by the Bears. Baylor had started the drive from its own 39 and reached the Arkansas 24 when Kyser nabbed the aerial to end the game.

Arkansas had got off to a sputtering start, failing to make a single first down in the opening quarter, while the Bears were racking up eight straight.

Baylor scored within six minutes after the game opened. The drive started on the Bears' 24-yard line with fullback Larry Hickman picking up most of the yardage to the Arkansas 46-yard line.

Traylor then hurled a 46-yard scoring pass to end Earl Miller. Halfback Arthur Beall kicked the point to put the Bears in front 7-0.

Auburn Squeezes By Kentucky, 6-0

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 12 (UP)—Helped by a roughness penalty against big Lou Michaels and saved in the clutch by right end Jimmy Phillips' fierce tackling, Auburn's 10th ranked Tigers scored a tense 6-0 victory over Kentucky today before 30,000 fans.

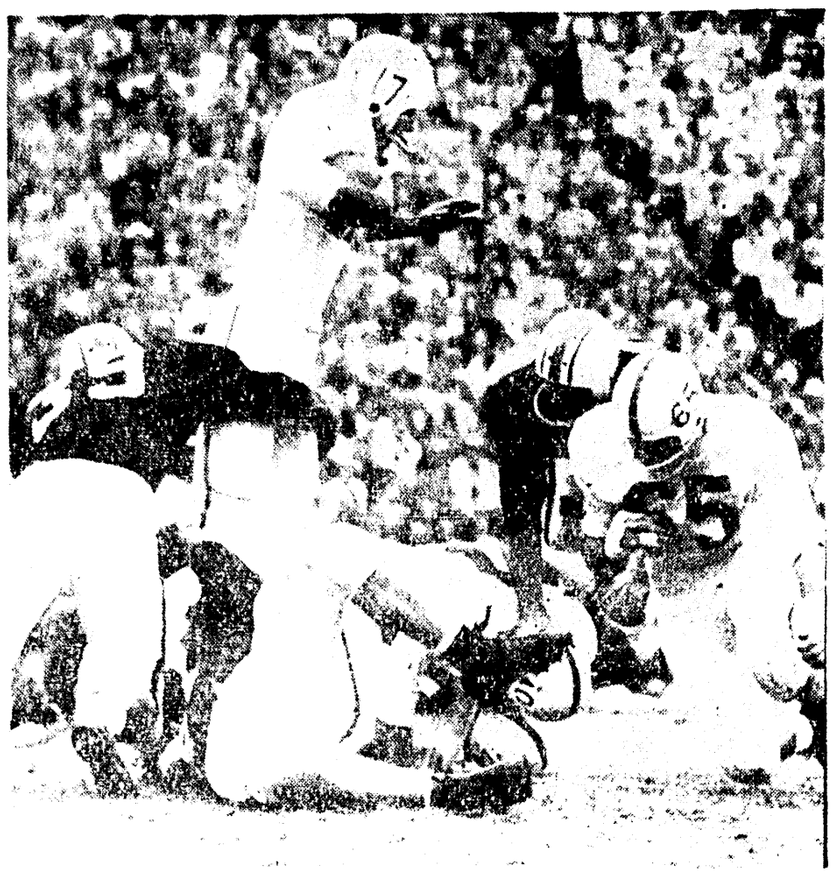

A sellout crowd of 30,000 watched Phillips personally blunt two Kentucky scoring threats and stop the wobbly Tiger attack with tenacious catches. The 205-pound senior from Alexander City, Ala., repeatedly plunged into the Wildcat backfield to make one-third of the tackles for the Tigers who host the second best rushing defense in the nation.

Auburn scored early in the third period after fullback Billy Atkins broke through to intercept quarterback Lowell Hughes' lateral on the Kentucky 35. Right halfback Bobby Hoppe rounded right end to the 30 and Tommy Lorino circled the other end for a first down on the Wildcat 24.

Kentucky's All-American tackle Michaels spiked southpaw quarterback Lloyd Nix for a three-yard loss. Nix then handed off to Lorino who smashed to the 24 where the Wildcats were penalized 15 yards for unnecessary roughness when Michaels knocked the ball back grossly. Atkins barreled into the end zone from six yards out on the next play for the game's only tally. Atkins' placement was wide.

COME FROM BEHIND

Sooners Top Aroused Texas, 21-7, For 43rd Win In Row

By ED FITE

DALLAS, Oct. 12 (UP)—Oklahoma's scintillating Sooners had to take their yardage in short chunks from an aroused University of Texas team today, but chewed up enough of it to get their 43rd straight triumph in a hard 21-7 battle.

The three-touchdown underdog Texans electrified a [illegible]-out crowd of 77,594 with a first quarter touchdown on a [illegible] pass from quarterback Walt Fodren to end Monte Lee, then fought against two equally-sharp Oklahoma teams down to the final minutes.

Oklahoma ground out long, time-consuming 66- and 80-yard drives in the second and third quarters to forge a lead, but it wasn't until only 12 seconds were left on the clock that the Sooners could put on the clincher.

Halfback Clendon Thomas, showing little after-effects of the flu, capped the second quarter surge with a spinning three-yard lunge for the first Oklahoma score. Lathe Jakie Sandifer slashed three yards for the third period score.

Carl Dodd, Oklahoma's senior quarterback, tacked on the last score with a one-yard sneak after Sandefer had set it up with an interception. Dodd then calmly kicked his third straight extra point to salt away the Sooners' ninth victory in the last 11 games of the 53-game rivalry.

Sandefer, one of several Texas-bred stars who help make coach Bud Wilkinson's eleven the nation's No. 1 power, led an Oklahoma ground assault that ate up 303 yards to only 71 for Texas, but the cold statistics could not reveal how hard those yards were to come by.

Interceptions and booming punts, including some great quick-kicking by both Fodren and Dodd, were instrumental in keeping the crowd on its feet from start to finish.

Texas intercepted four Oklahoma aerials and Oklahoma hauled in five orginating from Longhorn backs, including one that reserve center Jim Davis legged 97 yards to an apparent Oklahoma touchdown. It was nullified by a mid-field clipping penalty.

Sandefer with 69, Thomas with 51 and fullback Dennit Morris with 50 yards spearheaded the Oklahoma ground attack, which just had to work because of the ineffectiveness of a Sooner overhead game. Only two of Oklahoma's 15 passes found their targets.

Texas	7	0	0	0	7
Oklahoma	0	7	7	7	21

Oklahoma scoring: Touchdowns Thomas (3, run); Sandefer (3, run); Dodd (1, plunge). Conversions: Dodd 3.

POWER FOOTBALL

Maroons Score Easy 47-13 Triumph Over Ark. State

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Oct. 12 (UP)—Mississippi State, in an ever simplified version of power football, punched a little Arkansas State line to shreds in scoring an easy 47-13 victory today.

Bouncing back from last Saturday's 14-9 Southeastern Conference loss to Tennessee, Mississippi State's Maroons used only straight strategems in battering the visitors into total submission.

Mississippi State scored two touchdowns in the first period, added another in the 2nd quarter, two more in the third and two in the final period.

The Maroon's forward wall, playing without regular center Jimmy Lee Dodd, kept the Arkansas State offense bottled up throughout most of the game.

Mississippi State's first touchdown resulted from an Arkansas State fumble on its own 45. Using conventional power plays, the Maroons drove to the one from where halfback Jim Barnett plunged over. Kelly Cook converted Mississippi State into a 7-0 lead.

And from this point on, it was a constant array of Mississippi State backs crossing the Arkansas State goal.

Moments later, Mississippi State drove 40 yards for its second touchdown on a one-yard buck by William Earl Morgan. Morgan converted.

Early in the second period, the Maroons marched 57 yards in eight plays to rack up their third touchdown. Fullback Molly Halbert capped the drive by bucking over from the four. Gil Peterson's conversion was wide.

Mississippi State took the second half kickoff on its own 20 and promptly drove 80 yards for a fourth touchdown. It was Halbert again. The big senior fullback bucked it over from the one and Peterson converted the Maroons into a 27-0 lead.

Late in the third period, the Maroons second string quarterback Tom Miller went 44 yards on a beautiful cutback run to count Mississippi State's fifth score. Morgan converted.

Robrt Collins added the final two Maroon touchdowns by bucking from the one and eleven in the fourth period as coach Wade Walker cleared the bench.

Arkansas State took advantage of Maroon substitutes and a relaxed line to score its only two touchdowns in the fourth period.

The first Arkansas State touchdown came on a 23-yard pass from Jim Billings to Bob Gray. The second touchdown resulted from a yard pass from Billings to halfback Howard Cissell. Cissell missed the first conversion but made the second.

Arkansas State	0	0	0	13	13
Miss. State	14	6	14	13	47

Arkansas State scoring—Touchdowns: Gray (23 yard pass), Cissell (4 yard pass). Conversion: Cissell.

Virginia Beaten By Clemson, 20-6

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 12 (UP)—Led by fullback Bob Spooner of Ogensburg, N. Y., who tore off yardage in 20-yard chunks, Clemson riddled Virginia's line today for a 20-6 Atlantic Coast Conference win before 18,000 fans.

Spooner, making most of his yardage through the middle, plunged two yards for a second touchdown in the final period to clinch the victory and Clemson added another just before the gun.

Okla. State Footballers Dump Tulsa

STILLWATER, Okla., Oct. 12 (UP) — Halfback Jim Wiggins scored three touchdowns to lead Oklahoma State to a 28-13 victory over Tulsa University before a crowd of 20,000 today.

The 190-pound McPherson, Kan., junior scored from the five, eight and one-yard lines and teammate sophomore quarterback Dick Soergel added a fourth tally to hand Tulsa its fourth straight loss.

Tulsa center Gary Schoolcraft furnished the most spectacular play when he fielded a deflected pass on the 35 and lumbered 65 yards in the third quarter for the second Tulsa touchdown. Fullback Duwayne Gandy's conversion was good and the Oklahoma State margin was cut to 14-13.

A Tulsa fumble on its own 22 helped Oklahoma State put the game on ice. Soergel called seven routine line smashes and sneaked one yard with fullback John Jacobs converting for a comfortable 21-13 lead with nine minutes remaining.

Oklahoma State counted again with a merciless 54-yard drive in 10 plays against a weary Tulsa line, when Soergel plunged one yard to cap the drive. Tackle McOdell converted.

Tulsa opened the scoring today by moving 47 yards in six plays, with quarterback Benny Davis picking up 19 yards on an end run. Davis ran the keeper over tackle for five yards for Tulsa's first touchdown.

Score by periods:

Oklahoma State	0	7	7	14	28

WILL IT OPERATE?

Texas League Owners To Discuss Clouded Future

DALLAS, Oct. 12 (UP)—The clouded future of the Texas League will be discussed here Monday when club owners hold their fall meeting.

The main question is whether the AA circuit will be able to operate in 1958. Only four of the clubs appear likely to announce ready.

Dallas and Houston are looking longingly at the class AAA American Association but President Dick Butler says they can't enter that league unless drafted or through negotiations that would bring payment of damages to the Texas League. For that matter Butler added, he knows of no American Association territory open to receive Dallas and Houston. He also wondered if the other Texas League clubs would allow Dallas and Houston to leave.

Shreveport, which announced last season that it was selling its franchise, has indicated it will continue in the league although under a new setup.

Fort Worth and Austin are ready to go and Tulsa is expected to join the movement since it now has a full working agreement with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Baltimore owns the San Antonio franchise and has said it will either operate in the Texas League next season or sell. Butler pointed out that since Baltimore will be losing its working agreement with Vancouver in the Pacific Coast League, which is expected to quit since the major leagues have invaded its territory, he imagined the Orioles would want to go on with San Antonio. That would be the only minor league franchise controlled by Baltimore.

Oklahoma City appears likely to either quit or go under new ownership. It reportedly is having severe financial troubles.

While Butler said four cities had inquired about becoming members of the league he expressed some doubt the circuit would go on should Houston and Dallas, its biggest cities, and drawing power, leave. Butler did not reveal what cities had asked for membership in the league.

The meeting will open at 10 a.m. and Butler would not hazard a guess at how long it would continue. He also said he didn't know whether any action would be taken toward lining up for 1958. "We are just going to try to find out how we all stand," Butler declared.

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

In Passaic, New Jersey, bowler Marcia Riskin tossed a strike heard round the neighborhood the past week. Miss Riskin was demonstrating how to toss a hook when the ball slipped. It crashed through displays in her mother's grocery store, smashed a plate glass window, and wound up half a block away.

Locally, there weren't too many "hooks" thrown during the week. However, there were some good scores posted.

In the Major League, The Forge jumped out in front by four points over Longview Equipment and Royal Feed and Seed, and five points over Gay Clothing and Continental Lab. This is the most commanding lead any team has had in the league so far.

High averages for the league is figured on a basis of eighteen games or over. Lynn Morrow, who does his bowling for Standard Office Supply, is leading the Pack with 179. Bill Rambin, Gay Clothing, is second at 178.

The battle for first place in the Pioneer League still rages between Spatafora's and Fink's Men's Wear.

Spatafora has 'em by a mere half point with Henderson's Curb Market and Schlitz Beer closing in only two points away.

Art Smith and J. R. Hood, teammates and 1-2 in the average listings, are holding Southwest Gas on top in the Industrial Equipment League.

Clover Leaf Farms are holding the Kegler League lead over Pan-Am, but the latter should be stronger from here on out with the return of Russell Bates. Russell set his average Tuesday, posting a nice 562 series.

Ernest Carter (Spatafora Rexall) at 181 holds the top spot in average. Mack Taylor (McKenzie Sports Shop) is second at 179.

As usual in the Business Women's League a terrific battle rage for the top position.

Delta Music has 21 points, Fields 20½, Hollywood 19, and J. R. White 18.

Ora Lee Johnson's 149 and Bennie Mallery's 145 are the top averages for the league.

Holiday Inn bowlers Mary Long, Jo Ann Higgins, Hazel Higgins, Ethel Lancaster, and Anna Marie Danna are in first place in the Ladies League.

Norma Brown, averaging 168, and Myrtle Draughn, 165, lead the league in averages.

In the Housewives League, the Bordenettes lead by one and a half points over the Woodchoppers. The Jets are holding down third place two points out of first.

The Maxie Kosof Endurance Classic in Ogden, Utah, was won by last year's champion, Buzz Fazio.

Buzz had 8,525 actual score for his 10 consecutive games and 13 continuous hours of bowling. His 213 plus edged out Billy Weln who posted a tremendous 211 average.

The Buzzer not only defended his scratch title successfully, but won the handicap as well.

Ester Wood of Burbank, Calif., won the scratch division for women, while Mary Lou Martin, Albuquerque, N. M., won the handicap division.

Auburn Squeezes By Kentucky, 6-0

AUBURN, Ala., Oct. 12 (UP)—Helped by a roughness penalty against big Lou Michaels and saved in the clutch by right end Jimmy Phillips' fierce tackling, Auburn's 10th ranked Tigers scored a tense 6-0 victory over Kentucky today before 30,000 fans.

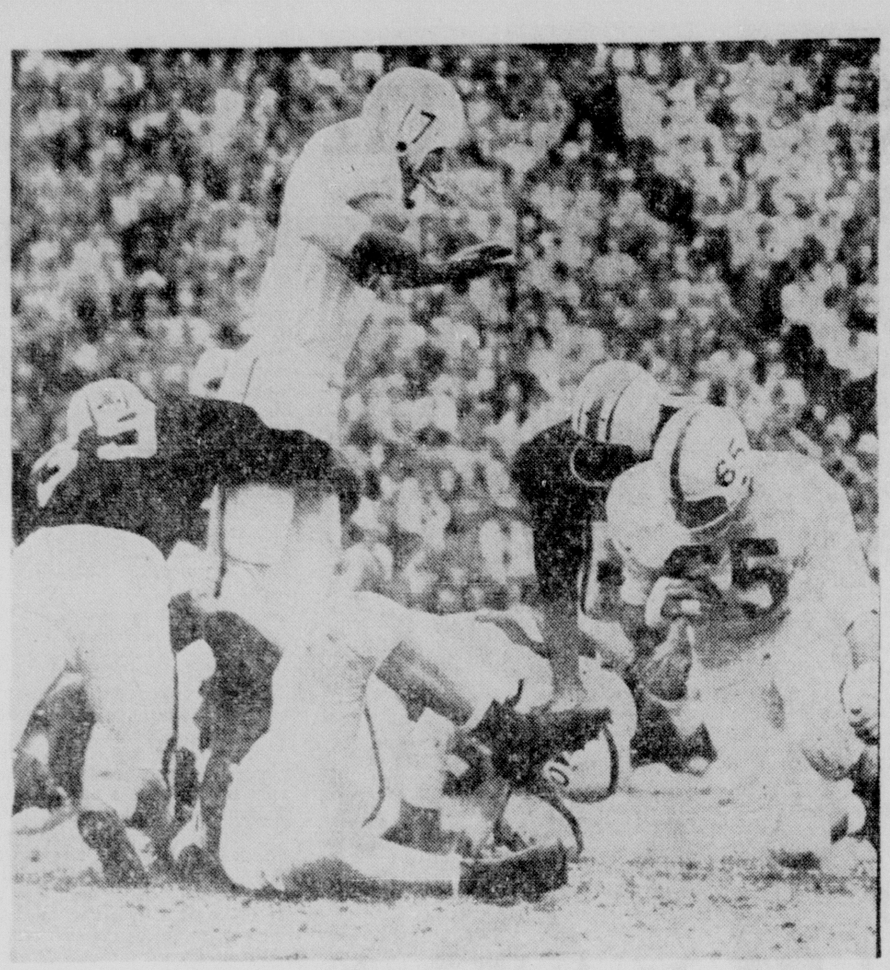

A sellout crowd of 30,000 watched Phillips personally blunt two Kentucky scoring thrusts and pace the wobbly Tiger attack with fingertip catches. The 205-pound senior from Alexander City, Ala., repeatedly plunged into the Wildcat backfield to make one-third of the tackles for the Tigers who boast the second best rushing defense in the nation.

Auburn scored early in the third period after fullback Billy Atkins broke through to intercept quarterback Lowell Hughes' lateral on the Kentucky 35. Right halfback Bobby Hoppe rounded right end to the 30 and Tommy Lorino circles the other end for a first down on the Wildcat 24.

Kentucky's All-American tackle Michaels spilled southpaw quarterback Lloyd Nix for a three-yard loss. Nix then handed off to Lorino who smashed to the 24 where the Wildcats were penalized 15 yards for unnecessary roughness when Michaels knocked the little back groggy. Atkins barreled into the end zone from six yards out on the next play for the game's only tally. Atkins' placement was wide.

GAINS SIX FOR KENTUCKY—Lowell Hughes (17), Kentucky quarterback, goes into the air as he is hit hard by Billy Atkins (39), Auburn fullback, but not until he had gained six yards around right end in first quarter at Auburn, Ala., yesterday. No. 65 is Jimmy Johns, Kentucky guard. (AP Wirephoto)

Gordon Stars As Vols Beat Chattanooga

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 12 (UP)—Tailback Bobby Gordon scored two touchdowns, one on an 89-yard run, and passed for another today as Tennessee capitalized on the breaks for a 8-13 football victory over Chattanooga.

The Volunteers, in picking up their second triumph, turned two Chattanooga fumbles into six-pointers in the second period and blocked a kick for a third in the fourth quarter. Gordon raced 89 yards with a third quarter kickoff for the other Tennessee touchdown.

Chattanooga quarterback John Green gave the crowd of 1,500 a thrill, and Tennessee a real scare, as he completed 17 of 29 passes for 152 yards and two touchdowns. Bill Butler caught for both scores.

FRANKFURT, Ger., Oct. 12 (UP) — Erich Schoeppner of West Germany tonight won a unanimous decision over Artemio Calzavara of Italy, the European light-heavyweight champion, in a 10-round non-title fight. Schoeppner weighted 173¾ and the loser 174.

Round Table Hawthorne's Cup Winner

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 (UP) — Round Table, making a strong bid for horse-of-the-year honors, today won his 10th straight race, smashing a track record to take the $126,550 Hawthorne Gold Cup.

Kerr Stable's color-bearer, the only 3-year-old in the field of six, beat out Swoon's Son by three lngths in stepping the mile and one quarter in 2:00 1-5.

The performance knocked 1-5 of a second off the Hawthorne track mark set by Sub Fleet, a 4-year-old, in 1953.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Find was third, two and one half lengths behind the E. Gay Drake four-year-old colt.

Round Table gained his fifth $100,000 added triumph of the season, winning $75,950 to boost his earnings in a two-year campaign to $645,970.

Round Table, packing 11 pounds, seven fewer than top-weighted Swoon's Son, returned $3.40, $2.40 and $2.20 to ticket holders in a crowd of 23,149. It was Hawthorne's closing day program.

Swoon's Son, winner of seven stakes this season and going in the longest race of his career, paid $2.60 and $2.20. Find returned $2.20.

Mauls Dayton

NEWTON, Mass., Oct. 12 (UP)—Once-beaten Boston College rolled to its third straight win today, mauling Dayton University, 41 to 14, as fullback Don Seagar and halfback Jim Colclough both scored twice. A 14-14 standoff for the first 29 minutes and 30 seconds, Boston broke the game wide open with three touchdowns in the third period.

COME FROM BEHIND

By ED FITE

DALLAS, Oct. 12 (UP)—Oklahoma's scintillating Sooners had to take their yardage in short chunks from an aroused University of Texas team today, but chewed up enough of it to get their 43rd straight triumph in a hard 21-7 battle.

The three-touchdown underdog Texans electrified a sell-out crowd of 75,504 with a first quarter touchdown on a five-yard pass from quarterback Walt Fondren to end Monte Lee, then fought against two equally-sharp Oklahoma teams down to the final minutes.

Oklahoma ground out long, time-consuming 66 and 80-yard drives in the second and third quarters to forge a lead, but it wasn't until only 12 seconds were left on the clock that the Sooners could put on the clincher.

Halfback Clendon Thomas, showing little after-effects of the flu, capped the second quarter surge with a spinning three-yard lunge for the first Oklahoma score. Lithe Jakie Sandfer slashed three yards for the third period score.

Carl Dodd, Oklahoma's senior quarterback, tacked on the last score with a one-yard sneak after Sandefer had set it up with an interception. Dodd then calmly kicked his third straight extra point to salt away the Sooners' ninth victory in the last 11 games of the 53-game rivalry.

Sandefer, one of several Texas-bred stars who help make coach Bud Wilkinson's eleven the nation's No. 1 power, led an Oklahoma ground assault that ate up 303 yards to only 71 for Texas, but the cold statistics could not reveal how hard those yards were to come by.

Interceptions and booming punts, including some great quick-kicking by both Fodren and Dodd, were instrumental in keeping the crowd on its feet from start to finish.

Texas intercepted four Oklahoma aerials and Oklahoma hauled in five orginating from Longhorn backs, including one that reserve center Jim Davis legged 97 yards to an apparent Oklahoma touchdown. It was nullified by a mid-field clipping penalty.

Sanduefer with 69, Thomas with 51 and fullback Dennit Morris with 50 yards spearheaded the Oklahoma ground attack, which just had to work because of the ineffectiveness of a Sooner overhead game. Only two of Oklahoma's 15 passes found their targets.

Texas	7	0	0	0	—7
Oklahoma	0	7	7	7	—21

Oklahoma scoring: Touchdowns Thomas (3, run); Sandefer (3, run); Dodd (1, plunge). Conversions: Dodd 3.

POWER FOOTBALL

Maroons Score Easy 47-13 Triumph Over Ark. State

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Oct. 12 (UP)—Mississippi State, in an over-simplified version of power football, punched a little Arkansas State line to shreds in scoring an easy 47-13 victory today.

Bouncing back from last Saturday's 14-9 Southeastern Conference loss to Tennessee, Mississippi State's Maroons used only straight strategems in battering the visitors into total submission.

Mississippi State scored two touchdowns in the first period, added another in the 2nd quarter, two more in the third and two in the final period.

The Maroon's forward wall, playing without regular center Jimmy Lee Dodd, kept the Arkansas State offense bottled up throughout most of the game.

Mississippi State's first touchdown resulted from an Arkansas State fumble on its own 45. Using conventional power plays, the Maroons drove to the one from where halfback Jim Barnett plunged over. Kelly Cook converted Mississippi State into a 7-0 lead.

And from this point on, it was a constant array of Mississippi State backs crossing the Arkansas State goal.

Moments later, Mississippi State drove 40 yards for its second touchdown on a one-yard buck by William Earl Morgan. Morgan converted.

Early in the second period, the Maroons marched 57 yards in eight plays to rack up their third touchdown. Fullback Molly Halbert capped the drive by bucking over from the four. Gil Peterson's conversion was wide.

Mississippi State took the second half kickoff on its own 20 and promptly drove 80 yards for a fourth touchdown. It was Halbert again. The big senior fullback bucked it over from the one and Peterson converted the Maroons into a 27-0 lead.

Late in the third period, the Maroons second string quarterback Tom Miller went 44 yards on a beautiful cutback run to count Mississippi State's fifth score. Morgan converted.

Robrt Collins added the final two Maroon touchdowns by bucking from the one and eleven in the fourth period as coach Wade Walker cleared the bench.

Arkansas State took advantage of Maroon substitutes and a relaxed line to score its only two touchdowns in the fourth period.

The first Arkansas State touchdown came on a 23-yard pass from Jim Billings to Bob Gray. The second touchdown resulted from a yard pass from Billings to halfback Howard Cissell. Cissell missed the first conversion but made the second.

Arkansas State	0	0	0	13	—13
Miss. State	14	6	14	13	—47

Arkansas State scoring—Touchdowns: Gray (23 yard pass), Cissell (4 yard pass). Conversion: Cissell.

Mississippi State scoring—Touchdowns: Barnett (plunge from 1); Morgan (plunge from 1); Halbert (plunge from 4); Halbert (plunge from 1); Miller (44 yard run); Collins (1 yard run); Collins (11 yard run). Conversions: Cook, 2; Morgan, 2; Peterson 1.

Virginia Beaten By Clemson, 20-6

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Oct. 12 (UP)—Led by fullback Bob Spooner of Ogensburg, N. Y., who tore off yardage in 20-yard chunks, Clemson riddled Virginia's line today for a 20-6 Atlantic Coast Conference win before 18,000 fans.

Spooner, making most of his yardage through the middle, plunged two yards for a second touchdown in the final period to clinch the victory and Clemson added another just before the gun.

Okla. State Footballers Dump Tulsa

STILLWATER, Okla., Oct. 12 (UP) — Halfback Jim Wiggins scored three touchdowns to lead Oklahoma State to a 28-13 victory over Tulsa University before a crowd of 20,000 today.

The 190-pound McPherson, Kan., junior scored from the five, eight and one-yard lines and teammate sophomore quarterback Dick Soergel added a fourth tally to hand Tulsa its fourth straight loss.

Tulsa center Gary Schoolcraft furnished the most spectacular play when he fielded a deflected pass on the 35 and lumbered 65 yards in the third quarter for the second Tulsa touchdown. Fullback Duwayne Gandy's conversion was good and the Oklahoma State margin was cut to 14-13.

A Tulsa fumble on its own 22 helped Oklahoma State put the game on ice. Soergel called seven routine line smashes and sneaked one yard with fullback John Jacobs converting for a comfortable 21-13 lead with nine minutes remaining.

Oklahoma State counted again with a merciless 54-yard drive in 10 plays against a weary Tulsa line, when Soergel plunged one yard to cap the drive. Tackle McOdell converted.

Tulsa opened the scoring today by moving 47 yards in six plays, with quarterback Benny Davis picking up 19 yards on an end run. Davis ran the keeper over tackle for five yards for Tulsa's first touchdown.

Score by periods:

Oklahoma State	0	7	7	14	—28
Tulsa	6	0	7	0	—13

Oklahoma State scoring: Touchdowns, Wiggins 3 (5, run, 8, run, and 1, plunge); Soergel (1, plunge. Conversions, Jacobs 3, Odell.

Tulsa scoring: Touchdowns, Davis (5, run); Schoolcraft (65, return of pass interception). Conversions, Gandy.

WILL IT OPERATE?

Texas League Owners To Discuss Clouded Future

DALLAS, Oct. 12 (UP)—The clouded future of the Texas League will be discussed here Monday when club owners hold their fall meeting.

The main question is whether the AA circuit will be able to operate in 1958. Only four of the clubs appear likely to announce ready.

Dallas and Houston are looking longingly at the class AAA AMerican Association but President Dick Butler says they can't enter that league unless drafted or through negotiations that would bring payment of damages to the Texas League. For that matter Butler added, he knows of no American Association territory open to receive Dallas and Houston. He also wondered if the other Texas League clubs would allow Dallas and Houston to leave.

Shreveport, which announced last season that it was selling its franchise, has indicated it will continue in the league although under a new setup.

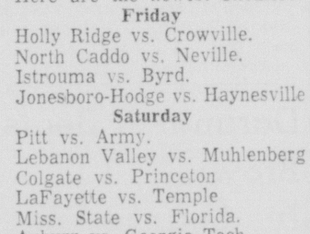

Fort Worth and Austin are ready to go and Tulsa is expected to join the movement since it now has a full working agreement with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Baltimore owns the San Antonio franchise and has said it will either operate in the Texas League next season or sell. Butler pointed out that since Baltimore will be losing its working agreement with Vancouver in the Pacific Coast League, which is expected to quit since the major leagues have invaded its territory, he imagined the Orioles would want to go on with San Antonio. That would be the only minor league franchise controlled by Baltimore.

Oklahoma City appears likely to either quit or go under new ownership. It reportedly is having severe financial troubles.

While Butler said four cities had inquired about becoming members of the league he expressed some doubt the circuit would go on should Houston and Dallas, its biggest cities and drawing power, leave. Butler did not reveal what cities had asked for membership in the league.

The meeting will open at 10 a.m. and Butler would not hazard a guess at how long it would continue. He also said he didn't know whether any action would be taken toward lining up for 1958. "We are just going to try to find out how we all stand," Butler declared.

The schedule of Solunar Periods as printed below has been taken from John Alden Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

In Passaic, New Jersey, bowler Marcia Riskin tossed a strike heard round the neighborhood the past week. Miss Riskin was demonstrating how to toss a hook when the ball slipped. It crashed through displays in her mother's grocery store, smashed a plate glass window, and wound up half a block away.

Locally, there weren't too many "hooks" thrown during the week. However, there were some good scores posted.

In the Major League, The Forge jumped out in front by four points over Longview Equipment and Royal Feed and Seed, and five points over Gay Clothing and Continental Lab. This is the most commanding lead any team has had in the league so far.

High averages for the league is figured on a basis of eighteen games or over. Lynn Morrow, who does his bowling for Standard Office Supply, is leading the Pack with 179. Bill Rambin, Gay Clothing, is second at 178.

The battle for first place in the Pioneer League still rages between Spatafora's and Fink's Men's Wear.

Spatafora has 'em by a mere half point with Henderson's Curb Market and Schlitz Beer closing in only two points away.

MINNESOTA, 41-6

Gopher Scoring Parade Storms Past Wildcats

By GENE BLUDEAU

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 12 (UP)—Bobby Cox and Billy Martin led a parade of scoring backs today in pacing Minnesota to a 41-6 rout of Northwestern.

The one-sided romp gave the powerful Gophers their third straight victory and their second in conference play. The victory margin gave the Gophers an overall total of 109 points against 30 for their opponents.

Minnesota poured through the Wildcat line almost at will, scoring in each of the first three pesiods. The only Wildcat touchdown came with 47 seconds left in the game and after the 215-pound per man Gopher line apparently eased up.

The Gophers rolled up 243 yards on the ground to 141 for the Wildcats, but Northwestern outpassed Minnesota 81-61 yards.

Minnesota turned one fumble and two pass interceptions into touchdowns and, until the final period, didn't allow Northwestern backs within 32 yards of their goal line.

Cox scored the first touchdown shortly after six minutes of play in the first period, capping a 47 yard drive with a one-yard plunge, and then, in the third period, tossed a 32 yard pass to Martin for the Gophers' fifth touchdown.

Martin, a 182 pound junior halfback, appearing in his first game, gained 57 yards in 11 carries as the workhorse for the Gophers. He scored the final touchdown in the third period, cutting through right tackle from the 11.

Score by periods:

Northwestern	0	0	0	6	6
Minnesota	7	20	14	0	41

Northwestern scoring: Touchdown, Gondexk (8, pass).

Minnesota scoring: Touchdowns, Cox (1, plunge), Chorske (3, run); Schmidt (6, pass); Bombardier (11, pass); Martin 2 (32, pass; and 11 run). Conversions, Borstad 3, Rasmussen, Blakley.

Unbeaten Iowa Clobbers Indiana In 47-To-7 Rout

By KURT FREUDENTHAL

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 12 (UP)— Unbeaten Iowa the nation's ninth-ranking football club, clobbered Indiana today 47-7 for its third straight victory and first in defense of its Big Ten championship.

Coach Forest Evashevski's big Hawkeyes ran roughshod over the hapless Hoosiers from the very outset. Led by the stellar ball handling and passing of quarterback Randy Duncan and the running of Bill Gravel, Collins Hagler and Bill Happel, Iowa scored twice in the first period and three times in the second while the Hoosiers never got out of their own territory.

Evashevski used every able-bodied player on his 38-man squad but it made little difference. The Hoosiers didn't rack up a first down until late in the second period. And they averted their third straight shutout only in the final period when third-string quarterback Steve Filipowski shot a 69-yard scoring pass to wingback Dave Whitsell.

Duncan, an able successor to the sparkling Kenny Ploen who paced the Hawkeyes to the Rose Bowl title over Oregon State last New Year's Day, fired two touchdown passes and Gravel a 5-8 junior from Hobart, Ind., got two others.

Duncan connected to Bob Prescott for a 29-yard touchdown toss and to Jim Gibbons for one measuring 36 yards.

Gravel scored Iowa's first marker from the 12 and took a handoff from Duncan from the 10 for his second tally. Sub Ray Jauch capped a 55-yard march by scoring Iowa's fifth touchdown, Hagler 16 yards to score in the third period and Happel completed the rout in the fourth with a 7-yard jaunt.

Idiana's only other real threat carried to the Iowa 15 when Vic Jones intercepted a Duncan pass in the third period. Two plays later, however Tom McDonald lost 10 yards passing and the drive fizzled out.

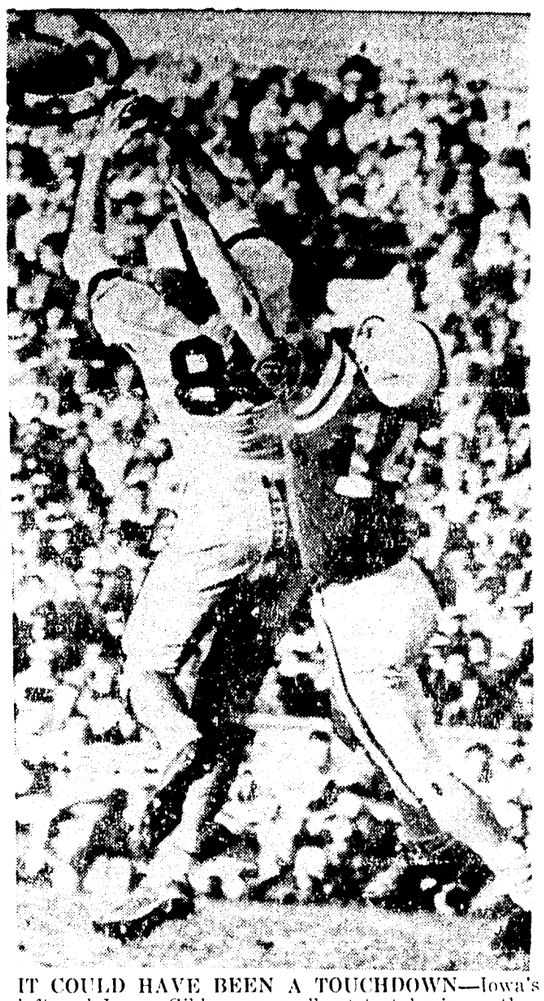

Iowa outgained Indiana 455 to 101. The Hoosiers wound up minus 30 rushing.

Score by periods:

Indiana	0	0	0	7	7
Iowa	13	20	7	7	47

Iowa scoring: Touchdowns, Gravel 2 (12 and 10 runs); Prescott (29-yard pass from Duncan); Gibbons (36-yard pass from Duncan); Jauch (11, run); Hagler (16, run); Happel (7, run). Conversions, Prescott 3, Karraf 2.

IT COULD HAVE BEEN A TOUCHDOWN—Iowa's left end James Gibbons was all set to take in another touchdown pass in the end zone, but Indiana's Dave Whitsell (14) came in to break it up in the third quarter of the Iowa-Indiana game at Bloomington, Ind., yesterday. (AP Wirephoto)

Nittany Lions Beat William And Mary, 21-13

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa., Oct. 12 (UP)—Aroused Penn State, sparked by 25-year-old Dave Kasperian, smashed for two touchdowns in the fourth period today to defeat William & Mary, 21-13.

The Nittany Lions carried 56 yards in 13 plays for the winning score with three minutes gone in the final stanza. Kasperian accounted for 36 of th yards in eight carries. Emil Caprara plunged for the score and kicked the extra point to put Penn State ahead.

Rutgers Romps Over Colgate By 48-6 Score

HAMILTON, N.Y. Oct. 12 (AP)—Rutgers, supposedly weakened by flu, showed the strength of a gridiron giant today by plastering Colgate 48-6. The game was the feature of the Colgate homecoming and the result was exactly the reverse of the score a year ago.

Field Goal New Experience For Notre Dame Star

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12 (UP) —Monty Stickles, a goat and then a hero within two minutes, smiled happily today that he never tried a field goal even in practice before he kicked the three pointer which gave Notre Dame a 23-21 victory over Army.

Only Stickles himself knew he was an absolute novice when he stepped back from the 29 yard line and booted the ball from beneath Bob Williams' fingers straight over the crossbars.

Terry Brennan, youthful Irish coach, was amazed himself when he learned it was Monty's first field goal attempt.

"I don't know whether I would have let him try it if I had realize that. But he sure looked confident," Brennan grinned.

Fishing In Louisiana

By JACK OWENS
The Associated Press

It came as a big surprise to Claude Matherne when he came out with top all-around honors in one of Louisiana's toughest fishing rodeos.

But Matherne, chief criminal investigator for the Terrebonne Parish sheriff's office at Houma, had the sixth largest redfish and third largest trout in the Terrebonne Sportsmen's League's redfish rodeo. That gave him a margin of one point and the victory last weekend.

The robust, 42-year-old sleuth hauled in a 16 pound redfish Friday, first day of the three-day event, and the following day boated a three-pound, 10-ounce speckled trout.

The redfish division champion was Nolan Poiencot of Houma, who got a 28¾ pound beauty, and the trout division winner was Teles Fonseca, who got a 5½-pound trout.

Other division winners in the contest which covered a wide expanse of bayou and lake waters included Alfred Pellegrin, a 7-pound, 5-ounce sheepshead, and Emile J. Pitre, a 50-pound, 6-ounce drum.

Matherne insisted he used no special technique in catching his point-getters. But he revealed a clue to why he did produce when he said he is a real lover of fishing and spends much time on the bayous with his 18-year-old son.

Matherne caught his redfish "on a bayou in back of Dog Lake" fishing on the bottom with a freshly-netted, but dead shrimp. He was over an oyster reef, so he couldn't play with the line much. He used no cork. His glass rod is about six feet long, nothing special, but he used 40-pound test line and a leader to insure boating the fighting gamefish. He and two other persons caught six redfish in all on the spot.

The same bait was used to catch his nice trout at a location out of Oyster Bayou. This time the three caught three dozen speckles.

Metherne used a cork, and he played his line, jerking it occasionally to bobble the cork.

Bilogists say the Louisiana Gulf Coast redfish, or red drum, is the same as the channel bass that is caught on the United States east coast in the area of the Carolinas.

In that case, the Louisiana gamefishermen have a touch record to beat. The biggest channel bass, or redfish, recorded in "The World Almanac" weighed 83 pounds. The monster measured four feet, four inches. Zach Walters Jr. caught it off Cape Charles, Va., Aug. 5, 1949.

Cooler weather is bringing more reports of excellent redfish catches, many within hopping distance of New Orleans. Harold Brouphy and Cris Kottemann flew to the Free Mason Islands, near the Chandeleurs, Thursday to take a number of reds weighing up to 11 pounds and trout up to three pounds. They selected 20 of the largest to return. Bait was shrimp boat scraps of small mullet and croakers.

Other hot spots reported are Turtle Bayou, Salt Bayou on the north shore, Trout Bayou at the Rgilets, and Hopedale. One catch reported was 17 reds up to 12 pounds, 50 croakers and 18 flounders.

A Metairie man, E. A. Winter, and his party boated 300 pounds of red snappers, some 12 to 20 pounds, during a cruise out of Grand Isle. A four-pound croaker also was caught about 25 miles out.

B. J. Robert of Baton Rouge took some very large Chela shrimp, A South American veriety which has penetrated many south Louisiana rivrs and bayou, from Bayou Lafourche at Donaldsonville Sunday. The tropical Chela is much larger than ordinary river shrimp.

Princeton Comes From Behind To Top Penn, 13-9

PRINCETON, N.J., Oct. 12 (UP)— Quick - thinking Jimmy Mottley set up one touchdown with an improm,tu pass pay and toss 15 yards for another score today as favored Princeton twice stormed from behind to defeat stubborn Pennsylvania, 13-9, for its second straight Ivy League football victory.

Penn, a 7-point underdog, shot into a 6-0 lead on a 30-yard sprint by halfback Fred Doerling in the first period and led again, 9-7, on a 13-yard field goal late in the third period by tackle John Oakhill, but each time Mottley rallied his orange - helmeted Princeton mates to a touchdown.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 12 (UP) — Wisconsin's touchdown twins, Danny Lewis and Sidney Williams, turned in long touchdown runs today to spark the Badgers to a 23-14 triumph over Purdue for their third straight victory of the season.

It was an impressive win for the Badgers, who went into the scrap with the touted Boilermakers as no better than an even bet.

Harvard Sacks Ohio University

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 12 (UP)— Harvard played fumbleitis with Ohio University for 30 minutes then got its split-T working for two second-half touchdowns runs by Walt Stahura to gain a 14-7 victory over the outmanned Bobcasts today.

Buckeyes Top Illinois, 21-7, In Loop Scrap

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 12 (UP) —Ohio State's Buckeyes, relying on their patented bone-crushing ground attack with just enough passes to make it interesting, defeated Illinois, 21-7, today in the Big Ten opener for both teams.

The Buckeyes scored on drives of 81 and 65 yards and again in the fourth period on a six-yard pass from quarterback Frank Kremblas to halfback Don Sutherin before 82,239 fans. It was the 18th straight game Ohio State's home attendance passed the 80,000 mark.

Illinois, boasting one of the Big Ten's fastest backfields, failed to generate a sustained scoring drive. The visitors scored early in the third period on a 58-yard pass from quarterback Tom Haller to end Rich Kreitling.

Sutherin set up Ohio's first touchdown when he stole the ball from Bob Mitchell's hands as the Illini halfback raced from Ohio's 26 to the 19. The Buckeyes punched the Illini line three yards at a time and twice running from a fourth and one situation, to go the 81 yards in 19 plays, the fleet Clark going in for the touchdown.

Illinois evened the contest early in the second half when Tom Haller unloaded a long pass to Kreitling, who snagged it on the Ohio 25 and went the rest of the way. Haller converted.

Ohio broke the deadlock with another ground-crushing 65-yard drive with Kremblas going over from the one.

Oldham, Hurst Pilot Navy Past California's Shoals

BERKELEY Calif., Oct. 12 (UP)—Navy's Midshipmen, powered by the brilliant running performances of halfbacks Ned Oldham and Harry Hurst, spotted California a 6-6 halftime lead, then came ripping back to chalk up a 21-6 victory today before more than 47,000 fans.

Fought to a standstill by a staunch defense that stopped drives within 15 yards of the goal line three times in the first half, the Navy pushed across one touchdown in the third quarter and picked up two more in the final period to clinch the intersectional contest.

Oldham who was the big ground gainer of the day, set up one touchdown by running the ball 53 yards on an off tackle play to the Cal 17 and set up another by intercepting pass and packing it back 20 yards to the one.

Prior to that outbreak of power a fine California defense, anchored by guard Proverb Jacobs, center Bob Chiappon and end Ron Wheatcroft, had stopped Navy drives on the 9, 10 and 15 yard lines.

But the naval power finally asserted itself. The inept California offensive never threatened—and the lone California score was set up in the second period on a Navy fumble on its own 16.

In fact, the Middies' line held California to 79 yards on the ground during the first 55 minutes of play—by which time the game was sewed up. And of that 79 yards, 51 were picked up by quarterback Gabe Arrillaga on a run in the opening minute of the game.

BAYOU BROWSING by Grits Gresham

The use of duck retrievers here in Louisiana hasn't found widespread popularity as yet, but it looks like changes are in the making. Last Sunday a group of about 40 people got together near Oak Ridge, Morehouse parish, for a picnic retriever "trial." To my knowledge it's a first for this state. Eleven dogs worked—nine Labradors, one Chesapeake, and one German Shorthair Pointed. The dogs weren't competing against each other, wince this was more of a workout for them and for the amateur handlers. Each dog was given two land retrieves on shot pigeons, at about 60 and 80 yards. Then each was given a single shackled duck about 50 yards out in a pond over a spread of decoys—and then a double retrieve, two shackled ducks.

There are many advantages to using a retriever on waterfowl. First, they're a joy to watch and work with. Then, on days when ducks are scarce, they'll enable you to come home with a limit more often. Also important, they cut down the considerable crippling loss which is an important drain on our duck population. Most numerous of the retriever breeds in La. is the Lab, followed by the Chesapeake, Golden and the spaniels.

Those who worked dogs at Oak Ridge were Harry Carpenter, Dr. & Mrs. Robert Wood, Chilli Baur, Dr. W. B. Liles, Marvin Williamson, Duke Yates, & Eddie Holmes, all of Monroe; David Bell, Delhi; and James Rolfe & E. M. Barham, Oak Ridge. They've tentatively called their group the North La. Retriever Club, with the hope of promoting retrievers in La. Next trial will be held in Jan., and you're invited to attend to work your dog or just to watch. Details can be gotten from Niney Barham, Oak Ridge.

Game warden George Bunch, Clinton, has been borrowed by the movie outfit shooting "The Long Hot Summer" as a standin for Paul Newman, the lead in the movie being shot there this month.

Another warden note: One of the first hunters to kill a turkey in St. Helena parish back in the spring wanted to tie it across his auto to show it off around town. Warden Roscoe Brecheen cut the nylong "antenna" cord off his car and gave it to the hunter for that purpose. On Oct. 31 Brecheen picked up a hunter coming out of the woods with a four-pound turkey. Yes, that's right. Same guy. District judge assessed $25 fine plus warning that the light fine would not be repeated for a second offense.

The squirrel season opens at sunrise on Oct. 18, and many a bushytail will bite the dust ere night falls that day. The educated guesstimate is that more than a million of these fine game animals are killed in La. each year. More license holders hunt squirrels than hunt any other species. The total annual kill figure was arrived at roughly by figuring that 50 per cent of the license holders hunt squirrels, that each squirrel hunter killed an average of 1.8 squirrels per trip, and that they hunted an average of 5 times a season. Thus if you killed nine during the year you'd be right on the average. Many shooters, of course, kill many times that, so the estimate is probably low.

The Wild Life Commission finally (Oct. 1) got around to acting on squirrel hunting in the game management units around the state. To their credit they decreed that managed hunts would be held on the following units: Caldwell, Catahoula, Evangeline, Grant-Rapides, Jackson-Bienville, Sabine No. 1 & No. 2, Thistlewaite, and Union. Details were not available at press time. Surplus game on these management units should be harvested. The hunter's dollar is spent building up these populations, but game can increase only to the carrying capacity of the land. When they reach that point (and sometimes before) it is wasteful not to utilize the resource by controlled hunting.

The best duck callers in the country will converge on Crowley, La. on Oct. 13 for the International Duck Calling Contest, the highlight of the Rice Festival (Oct. 17-18). All manner of calling and calls will be represented. Preliminary eliminations will begin at 8:00 a.m. on the 18th at the Crowley Golf Course, with the finals set for 5:30 p.m. on the reviewing stand on the main street in Crowley. This is an event well worth traveling to Crowley to see —and hear. One unfortunate aspect is that the 18th is also the opening day of the squirrel season. There will be almost three months of squirrel hunting, however, and only one day on which to hear the cream of the callers perform. See you there?

Gopher Scoring Parade Storms Past Wildcats

By GENE BLUDEAU

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 12 (UP)—Bobby Cox and Billy Martin led a parade of scoring backs today in pacing Minnesota to a 41-6 rout of Northwestern.

The one-sided romp gave the powerful Gophers their third straight victory and their second in conference play. The victory margin gave the Gophers an overall total of 109 points against 30 for their opponents.

Minnesota poured through the Wildcat line almost at will, scoring in each of the first three pesiods. The only Wildcat touchdown came with 47 seconds left in the game and after the 215-pound per man Gopher line apparently eased up.

The Gophers rolled up 243 yards on the ground to 141 for the Wildcats, but Northwestern outpassed Minnesota 81-61 yards.

Minnesota turned one fumble and two pass interceptions into touchdowns and, until the final period, didn't allow Northwestern backs within 32 yards of their goal line.

Cox scored the first touchdown shortly after six minutes of play in the first period, capping a 47 yard drive with a one-yard plunge, and then, in the third period, tossed a 32 yard pass to Martin for the Gophers' fifth touchdown.

Martin, a 182 pound junior halfback, appearing in his first game, gained 57 yards in 11 carries as the workhorse for the Gophers. He scored the final touchdown in the third period, cutting through right tackle from the 11.

Score by periods:

Northwestern	0	0	0	6—6
Minnesota	7	20	14	0—41

Northwestern scoring: Touchdown, Gondexk (8, pass).

Minnesota scoring: Touchdowns, Cox (1, plunge), Chorske (3, run); Schmidt (6, pass); Bombardier (11, pass); Martin 2 (32, pass; and 11 run). Conversions, Borstad 3, Rasmussen, Blakley.

Unbeaten Iowa Clobbers Indiana In 47-To-7 Rout

By KURT FREUDENTHAL

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 12 (UP)— Unbeaten Iowa the nation's ninth-ranking football club, clobbered Indiana today 47-7 for its third straight victory and first in defense of its Big Ten championship.

Coach Forest Evashevski's big Hawkeyes ran roughshod over the hapless Hoosiers from the very outset. Led by the stellar ball handling and passing of quarterback Randy Duncan and the running of Bill Gravel, Collins Hagler and Bill Happel, Iowa scored twice in the first period and three times in the second while the Hoosiers never got out of their own territory.

Evashevski used every ablebodied player on his 38-man squad but it made little difference. The Hoosiers didn't rack up a first down until late in the second period. And they averted their third straight shutout only in the final period when third-string quarterback Steve Filipowski shot a 69-yard scoring pass to wingback Dave Whitsell.

Duncan, an able successor to the sparkling Kenny Ploen who paced the Hawkeyes to the Rose Bowl title over Oregon State last New Year's Day, fired two touchdown passes and Gravel a 5-8 junior from Hobart, Ind., got two others.

Duncan connected to Bob Prescott for a 29-yard touchdown toss and to Jim Gibbons for one measuring 36 yards.

Gravel scored Iowa's first marker from the 12 and took a handoff from Duncan from the 10 for his second tally. Sub Ray Jauch capped a 55-yard march by scoring Iowa's fifth touchdown. Hagler 16 yards to score in the third period and Happel completed the rout in the fourth with a 7-yard jaunt.

Idiana's only other real threat carried to the Iowa 15 when Vic Jones intercepted a Duncan pass in the third period. Two plays later, however Tom McDonald lost 10 yards passing and the drive fizzled out.

Iowa outgained Indiana 455 to 101. The Hoosiers wound up minus 30 rushing.

Score by periods:

Indiana	0	0	0	7—7
Iowa	13	20	7	7—47

Fishing In Louisiana

By JACK OWENS
The Associated Press

It came as a big surprise to Claude Matherne when he came out with top all-around honors in one of Louisiana's toughest fishing rodeos.

But Matherne, chief criminal investigator for the Terrebonne Parish sheriff's office at Houma, had the sixth largest redfish and third largest trout in the Terrebonne Sportsmen's League's redfish rodeo. That gave him a margin of one point and the victory last weekend.

The robust, 42-year-old sleuth hauled in a 16 pound redfish Friday, first day of the three-day event, and the following day boated a three-pound, 10-ounce speckled trout.

The redfish division champion was Nolan Poiencot of Houma, who got a 28¾ pound beauty, and the trout division winner was Teles Fonseca, who got a 5½-pound trout.

Other division winners in the contest which covered a wide expanse of bayou and lake waters included Alfred Pellegrin, a 7-pound, 5-ounce sheepshead, and Emile J. Pitre, a 50-pound, 6-ounce drum.

Matherne insisted he used no special technique in catching his point-getters. But he revealed a clue to why he did produce when he said he is a real lover of fishing and spends much time on the bayous with his 18-year-old son.

Matherne caught his redfish "on a bayou in back of Dog Lake" fishing on the bottom with a freshly-netted, but dead shrimp. He was over an oyster reef, so he couldn't play with the line much. He used no cork. His glass rod is about six feet long, nothing special, but he used 40-pound test line and a leader to insure boating the fighting gamefish. He and two other persons caught six redfish in all on the spot.

The same bait was used to catch his nice trout at a location out of Oyster Bayou. This time the three caught three dozen speckles.

Metherne used a cork, and he played his line, jerking it occasionally to bobble the cork.

Bilogists say the Louisiana Gulf Coast redfish, or red drum, is the same as the channel bass that is caught on the United States east coast in the area of the Carolinas.

In that case, the Louisiana game fishermen have a tough record to beat. The biggest channel bass, or redfish, recorded in "The World Almanac" weighed 83 pounds. The monster measured four feet, four inches. Zach Walters Jr. caught it off Cape Charles, Va., Aug. 5, 1949.

Cooler weather is bringing more reports of excellent redfish catches, many within hopping distance of New Orleans. Harold Brouphy and Cris Kottemann flew to the Free Mason Islands, near the Chandeleurs, Thursday to take a number of reds weighing up to 11 pounds and trout up to three pounds. They selected 20 of the largest to return. Bait was shrimp boat scaps of small mullet and croakers.

Other hot spots reported are Turtle Bayou, Salt Bayou on the north shore, Trout Bayou at the Rgilets, and Hopedale. One catch reported was 17 reds up to 12 pounds, 50 croakers and 18 flounders.

A Metairie man, E. A. Winter, and his party boated 300 pounds of red snappers, some 12 to 20 pounds, during a cruise out of Grand Isle. A four-pound croaker also was caught about 25 miles out.

B. J. Robert of Baton Rouge took some very large Chela shrimp, A South American veriety which has penetrated many south Louisiana rivrs and bayou, from Bayou Lafourche at Donaldsonville Sunday. The tropical Chela is much larger than ordinary river shrimp.

Princeton Comes From Behind To Top Penn, 13-9

PRINCETON, N.J., Oct. 12 (UP)— Quick - thinking Jimmy Mottley set up one touchdown with an impromptu pass pay and toss 15 yards for another score today as favored Princeton twice stormed from behind to defeat stubborn Pennsylvania, 13-9, for its second straight Ivy League football victory.

Penn, a 13-point underdog, shot into a 6-0 lead on a 30-yard sprint by halfback Fred Doelling in the first period and led again, 9-7, on a 13-yard field goal late in the third period by tackle John Oakhill, but each time Mottley rallied his orange - helmeted Princeton mates to a touchdown.

Pardue Tumbles To Wisconsin's TD Twins, 23-14

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 12 (UP) — Wisconsin's touchdown twins, Danny Lewis and Sidney Williams, turned in long touchdown runs today to spark the Badgers to a 23-14 triumph over Purdue for their third straight victory of the season.

It was an impressive win for the Badgers, who went into the scrap with the touted Boilermakers as no better than an even bet.

Harvard Sacks Ohio University

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 12 (UP)— Harvard played fumbleitis with Ohio University for 30 minutes then got its split-T working for two second-half touchdowns runs by Walt Stahura to gain a 14-7 victory over the outmanned Bobcasts today.

Stahura, a 21-year-old senior from Cape God, was switched from quarterback to his more familiar halfback slot because of injuries and he sped 21 and 14 yards on identical reverse plays in the third period to lead Harvard to its first win of the season, before 10,000.

Buckeyes Top Illinois, 21-7, In Loop Scrap

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 12 (UP) —Ohio State's Buckeyes, relying on their patented bone-crushing ground attack with just enough passes to make it interesting, defeated Illinois, 21-7, today in the Big Ten opener for both teams.

The Buckeyes scored on drives of 81 and 65 yards and again in the fourth period on a six-yard pass from quarterback Frank Kremblas to halfback Don Sutherin before 82,239 fans. It was the 18th straight game Ohio State's home attendance passed the 80,000 mark.

Illinois, boasting one of the Big Ten's fastest backfields, failed to generate a sustained scoring drive. The visitors scored early in the third period on a 58-yard pass from quarterback Tom Haller to end Rich Kreitling.

Sutherin set up Ohio's first touchdown when he stole the ball from Bob Mitchell's hands as the Illini halfback raced from Ohio's 26 to the 19. The Buckeyes punched the Illini line three yards at a time and twice running from a fourth and one situation, to go the 81 yards in 19 plays, the fleet Clark going in for the touchdown.

Illinois evened the contest early in the second half when Tom Haller unloaded a long pass to Kreitling, who snagged it on the Ohio 25 and went the rest of the way. Haller converted.

Ohio broke the deadlock with another ground-crushing 65-yard drive with Kremblas going over from the one.

Oldham, Hurst Pilot Navy Past California's Shoals

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 12 (UP)—Navy's Midshipmen, powered by the brilliant running performances of halfbacks Ned Oldham and Harry Hurst, spotted California a 6-6 halftime lead, then came ripping back to chalk up a 21-6 victory today before more than 47,000 fans.

Fought to a standstill by a staunch defense that stopped drives within 15 yards of the goal line three times in the first half, the Navy pushed across one touchdown in the third quarter and picked up two more in the final period to clinch the intersectional contest.

Oldham who was the big ground gainer of the day, set up one touchdown by running the ball 53 yards on an off tackle play to the Cal 17 and set up another by intercepting pass and packing it back 20 yards to the one.

Prior to that outbreak of power a fine California defense, anchored by guard Proverb Jacobs, center Bob Chiappoi. and end Ron Wheatcroft, had stopped Navy drives on the 9, 10 and 15 yard lines.

But the naval power finally asserted itself. The inept California offensive never threatened—and the lone California score was set up in the second period on a Navy fumble on its own 16.

In fact, the Middies' line held California to 79 yards on the ground during the first 55 minutes of play—by which time the game was sewed up. And of that 79 yards, 51 were picked up by quarterback Gabe Arrillaga on a run in the opening minute of the game.

The victory gave Wofford permanent possession of the Edisto Trophy given to the winner of this football game each year. Three successive victories have given Wofford the trophy for keeps.

After the opening touchdown Wofford moved 58 yards in five plays to score again the next

BAYOU BROWSING
by Grits Gresham

The use of duck retrievers here in Louisiana hasn't found widespread popularity as yet, but it looks like changes are in the making. Last Sunday a group of about 40 people got together near Oak Ridge, Morehouse parish, for a picnic retriever "trial." To my knowledge it's a first for this state. Eleven dogs worked—nine Labradors, one Chesapeake, and one German Shorthair Pointed. The dogs weren't competing against each other, wince this was more of a workout for them and for the amateur handlers. Each dog was given two land retrieves on shot pigeons, at about 60 and 80 yards. Then each was given a single shackled duck about 50 yards out in a pond over a spread of decoys—and then a double retrieve, two shackled ducks.

There are many advantages to using a retriever on waterfowl. First, they're a joy to watch and work with. Then, on days when ducks are scarce, they'll enable you to come home with a limit more often. Also important, they cut down the considerable crippling loss which is an important drain on our duck population. Most numerous of the retriever breeds in La. is the Lab, followed by the Chesapeake, Golden and the spaniels.

Those who worked dogs at Oak Ridge were Harry Carpenter, Dr. & Mrs. Robert Wood, Chilli Baur, Dr. W. B. Liles, Marvin Williamson, Duke Yates, & Eddie Holmes, all of Monroe; David Bell, Delhi; and James Rolfe & E. M. Barham, Oak Ridge. They've tentatively called their group the North La. Retriever Club, with the hope of promoting retrievers in La. Next trial will be held in Jan., and you're invited to attend to work your dog or just to watch. Details can be gotten from Niney Barham, Oak Ridge.

Game warden George Bunch, Clinton, has been borrowed by the movie outfit shooting "The Long Hot Summer" as a standin for Paul Newman, the lead in the movie being shot there this month.

Another warden note: One of the first hunters to kill a turkey in St. Helena parish back in the spring wanted to tie it across his auto to show it off around town. Warden Roscoe Brecheen cut the nylong "antenna" cord off his car and gave it to the hunter for that purpose. On Oct. 31 Brecheen picked up a hunter coming out of the woods with a four-pound turkey. Yes, that's right. Same guy. District judge assessed $25 fine plus warning that the light fine would not be repeated for a second offense.

The squirrel season opens at sunrise on Oct. 18, and many a bushytail will bite the dust ere night falls that day. The educated guesstimate is that more than a million of these fine game animals are killed in La. each year. More license holders hunt squirrels than hunt any other species. The total annual kill figure was arrived at roughly by figuring that 50 per cent of the license holders hunt squirrels, that each squirrel hunter killed an average of 1.8 squirrels per trip, and that they hunted an average of 5 times a season. Thus if you killed nine during the year you'd be right on the average. Many shooters, of course, kill many times that, so the estimate is probably low.

The Wild Life Commission finlly (Oct. 1) got around to acting on squirrel hunting in the game management units around the state. To their credit they decreed that managed hunts would be held on the following units: Caldwell, Catahoula, Evangeline, Grant-Rapides, Jackson-Bienville, Sabine No. 1 & No. 2, Thistlewaite, and Union. Details were not available at press time. Surplus game on these management units should be harvested. The hunter's dollar is spent building up these populations, but game can increase only to the carrying capacity of the land. When they reach that point (and sometimes before) it is wasteful not to utilize the resource by controlled hunting.

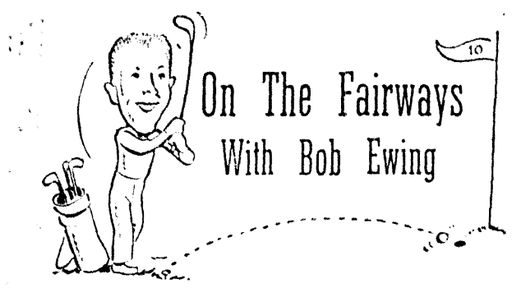

The best duck callers in the country will converge on Crowley, La. on Oct. 18 for the International Duck Calling Contest, the highlight of the Rice Festival (Oct. 17-18). All manner of calling and calls will be represented. Preliminary eliminations will begin at 8:00 a.m. on the 18th at the Crowley Golf Course, with the finals set for 5:30 p.m. on the reviewing stand on the main street in Crowley. This is an event well worth traveling to Crowley to see —and hear. One unfortunate aspect is that the 18th is also the opening day of the squirrel season. There will be almost three months of squirrel hunting, however, and only one day on which to hear the cream of the callers perform. See you there?

HIGHLAND PARK COUNTRY CLUB

Construction on the new Highland Park Club in West Monroe is coming right along and should be ready for use the latter part of January, 1958. James Aulds, the Highland pro, has already moved into the brand new golf shop and is all set for the winter play.

The first H. P. Club Championship is under way with first round matches to have been completed yesterday. Eddie Watkins was medalist with a 76 and only one match had been played at this writing and that was a 4 and 3 victory for E. B. Peddy over John Lacy. Peddy will meet the winner of the Watkins-Kenny Holt match.

BAYOU WOMEN'S TOURNEY

Mrs. George Miller shot an 82 to retain her Bayou DeSiard Country Club One-Day Women's Amateur Tournament championship.

Mrs. Miller is a former Louisiana amateur state champion. In last year's tournament, she defeated Mrs. Gordon Perrin of El Dorado, Ark. Mrs. Perrin did not compete in this year's meet.

Mrs. Leonard Warren of Bastrop carded the day's low net score for the championship flight with a 74, and tournament chairman Mrs. Stanley Mintz won the low putts with 27 for the 18 holes.

In the hole-in-one competition, Mrs. Frank Davis made one for the books when she actually scored a hole-in-one on the 13th hole using a 5 iron. Winnie Cole, Bayou DeSiard pro, said that Mrs. Davis' hole-in-one was the first he had ever seen in hole-in-one competition since he had been running tournaments.

HOLE-IN-ONES

Winnie, himself, made a hole-in-one from the tee on that very same hole playing as my partner a couple of days before that.

Our foursome figured up the totals and we had made eight between us. That was Winnie's third, I have made one, Johnny Myers of Bastrop had one, and Winnie's assistant pro, Billy Brown from Little Rock, has three to his credit. Anyway, we thought it something of an oddity.

SHREVEPORT PRO-AM

Ned White and his assistant pro, Bob Ledbetter (Incidentally, Bob is now the proud poppa of a fine baby girl by the name of Roberta Lynn Ledbetter born on September 30th. I heard Bob was giving away golf balls rather than the traditional cigar for the happy occasion!), were hosts to a fine one-day L.P.G.O. (Louisiana Professional Golfers Organization) pro-am tourney at Querbes Golf Course in Shreveport last Monday. 138 teams turned out for the event as Tommy Morrow, assistant pro at the new East Ridge Country Club in Shreveport, and three of his amateur partners took all of the top team honors. Tommy took the individual pro sweepstakes with a two under par 69 followed closely by Frank Champ, 70. Gray Little of Lake Charles and Red Cummings of Natchitoches tied for third in the pro ranks with 72's. Morrow and Charlie Weed of Shreveport were the low team with 27-31—58. The best round of the day was turned in by Jim Mangum of Shreveport who fired a red-hot 66 and also teamed with Morrow to tie still another one of Tommy's teams (Morrow and Parsons) with a low ball of 59.

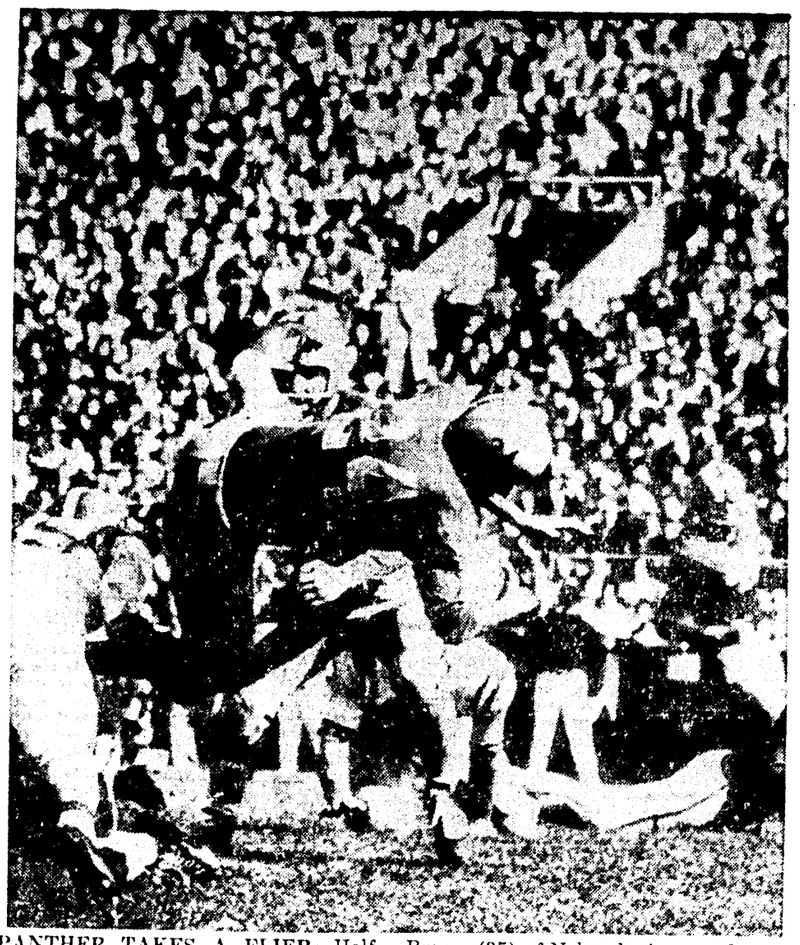

NEXT L.P.G.O. AT BASTROP

The next in a series of pro-am tournaments will be held at the Morehouse Country Club on October 21 where Leonard Warren will be the host pro.

Leonard says that the tournament will be run on a Canadian Handicap basis and that you can make up your own foursomes. Tee time is 1 p.m. but everybody should be registered by noon that plans to play. These tournaments are a sort of warm-up for the big state tournament coming up soon, but I'll tell you more about that later.

WINTER TOUR SOON

The winter tour starts in a few weeks and the big name pros will be off and at it again. I'll collect bits of information as it comes over the wires each week and pass it on to you. In 1958, I'm going to keep a weekly tab on the top ten money winners on the tour and pass that on to you also. Johnny Pott of Shreveport will pick up the tour somewhere in Florida during December and we'll have to keep an eye on him because he has a year's experience under his belt and should begin to consistently match shots with the best of them before too long.

Michigan State Spartans Wear Down Michigan, 35-6

By JACK BERRY

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 12 (UP) — Mighty Michigan State, paced by "flying blacksmith" Walt Kowalczyk on the ground and the sharp passing of Jim Ninowski, wore down fifth-ranked Michigan 35-6 today to strengthen its bid for No. 1 rating in the nation.

The unbeaten Spartans, although limited to a 33-man traveling squad, were too much for the Wolverines, whose two - game streak was snapped before a sell-out homecrowd of 101,001 home fans at Michigan Stadium.

Kowalczyk, a 205 - pound, six-foot light halfback, hit with the force of a hammer and ripped and faked away from would-be tacklers as he scored Michigan State's first touchdown and gained 138 yards in 17 carries for a six-yard average while playing only a little more than half of the game.

Injured in training last season, Kowalczyk didn't regain his sophomore form. But today he performed as brilliantly as he did two years ago when he led the Spartans to the Rose Bowl championship."

Ninowski broke open the game with a pair of third period touchdown passes to end Sammy Williams and Bob Jewett. Ninowski now has thrown five scoring strikes in his last two games.

Michigan State's second team scored twice in the fourth period to turn the game into a rout.

Williams gave Michigan State a safety bulge in the second period when he blocked Jim Van Pelt's end zone punt and later blocked Michigan's lone extra point attempt. At the time of Williams's safety, Michigan State held only a 6-0 lead and Michigan already had driven to the Michigan State 4.

Michigan State had a total of 73 plays to 59 for Michigan and rolled up a total of 486 yards to 245 for the losers. Michigan, usually the opportunist, fumbled three times and lost the ball each time, and had three passes intercepted.

Score by periods:

Michigan	0	0	6	0	— 6
Michigan State	6	2	13	14	—35

Michigan scoring: Touchdown, Pace (11, run).

Michigan State scoring: Touchdowns, Kowalczyk (1 foot, plunge) Williams (5 yard pass from Ninowski), Jewett (3 yard pass from Ninowski), Johnson (62, run), Panitch (1, plunge). Conversions: Kaiser 3. Safety, Williams (blocked Van Pelt's punt in end zone).

FOUR PLAYERS SCORE

Pittsburgh Methodically Tramples Nebraska, 34-0

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12 (UP)—Pittsburgh struck for two touchdowns in the first five minutes of play today and then methodically tramped injury and flu-ridden Nebraska for a 34-0 victory.

The Panthers called on four players to share in touchdown honors as they combined an array of hard-driving backs and alert line play to humble the undermanned Midwesterners.

Junior righthalf back Joe Scisly, of Elysburg, Pa., who started the season as a third saringer, hurdled two yards for the first score to climax a 71-yard drive in eight plays in which he accounted for 32 yards personally in three tries.

But late in the final period Scisley turned in the most thrilling run of the game by going 25 yards on a double reverse behind a host of five blocks.

In between, end Dick Scherer of Pittsburgh, scooped up a loose ball and raced 12 yards for a first period score, reserve quarterback Jim Lenhart passed 10 yards to end Art Gobb in the second period and fullback Fred Riddle plunged one yard in the final period.

It was a bad day for the Cornhuskers in practically all respects. They penetrated Pitt territory only three times during the long afternoon, twice through the courtesy of Panther fumbles. In the second and final stanzas, they were contained offensively on their side of the midfield stripe.

Score by periods:

Pittsburgh	14	7	0	13	—34
Nebraska	0	0	0	0	— 0

Pittsburgh scoring: Touchdowns, Scisly 2 (2 yard plunge, 29 1 run) Scherer (12, ran with block kick) Gob (10, pass from Lenhart. Riddle (1 plunge). Conversions, Toncic 3, Haley 1.

Iowa Staters Take 21-6 Win From Kansas

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct 12 (UP)—Iowa State, playing magnificently the traditional "waiting" game which for years typified Tennessee football teams, capitalized on three Kansas bobbles today to hammer out a 21-6 victory before 1,000 fans.

The Cyclones, surprise team of the Big Eight, scored two second quarter touchdowns following a Jayhawk fumble and errant pass to win their second game in four starts including a tie with Syracuse.

The triumph, a conference tussle, was televised regionally.

Iowa tate, tutored by freshman coach Jim Myers—a product of the Gen. R. R. Neyland Tennessee school—threw up a stout defense which baffled the unpredictable Jayhawks except in the third period when quarterback Wally Strauch hit on three passes to put the ball on the one. Fullback Homer Floyd dived across but Iowa State still led 14-6.

Ron Pohl scored Iowa State's first touchdown on a short plunge after a Kansas fumble and minutes later set-up the second with a pass interception on the Jayhawk 30.

Terry Ingram plunged over from the one a few plays later. A Kansas fumble in the final period set up the third Iowa State score with hard-running sophomore tailback Dwight Nichols going over from the 16.

Kansas	0	0	6	0	— 6
Iowa State	0	14		7	—21

Kansas scoring: Touchdown: Floyd (1, plunge).

Iowa State scoring: Touchdowns, Pohl (1, plunge); Ingram (1, plunge); Nichols (16, run). Conversions: Carlson 3.

GIANTS PLAY REDSKINS

Packers To Test Unbeaten Colts At Green Bay Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Baltimore Colts, leading land club can go all the way in the National Football League's western conference, open a two-game road trip today against the Green Bay Packers, and what happens in the next two weeks of 30 games on the road should indicate whether the Maryland Baltimore, undefeated in two games, sports a dismal all-time record playing away from home, having managed to win only four

Six games are on the schedule, with the unbeaten Cleveland Browns trying to make it 3-0 in a battle with the Philadelphia Eagles at Cleveland. The Browns, who won six straight conference titles before finishing in a tie for fourth last year, currently head the league's eastern division. Baltimore is a 1-point favorite, while Cleveland is 7½ over Philadelphia.

In other games the world championship New York Giants play the Redskins at Washington, the Chicago Cardinals meet the Steelers at Pittsburgh, the Los Angeles Rams play the Lions at Detroit, and the San Francisco 49ers take on the Bears in Chicago. All teams have 1 and 1 records for their first two games except the Bears, defending champions in the western division, and the Eagles. Both have lost two straight games

The Baltimore - Green Bay game is being played at Milwaukee County Stadium where the Braves and Yankees dueled a week ago. The ackers and Colts are the culprits who roughed up the Bears, Green Bay having won its opener two weeks ago 21-17, while Baltimore belted Chicago 21-10 last week. Green Bay, which holds a 5-4 edge in nine previous meetings with Baltimore, was beaten 24-14 by Detroit last Sunday. The Colts won their opener from Detroit, 34-14 and meet the Lions in the motor city next Sunday.

New York, which won the 1956 eastern title by losing three games and winning eight, with one tie, can't afford a defeat by Washington. The fact that Don Heinrich, starting quarterback, will be out with a broken thumb doesn't help the Giants cause. Chuck Conerly will have to do most of the work, aided by third stringer Bob Clatterbuck. New York, however, is a 4½ - point choice. Three rookie runners, Jim Podoley, Don Bosseler and Ed Sutton, have sparked the Redskins attack.

Cleveland, which has beaten New York and Pittsburgh on the top of placekicker Lou Groza, is favored by 7½ in spite of Philadelphia's rugged defenses.

The Chilago Bears' terrific offensive potential might break loose against]h 49ers, loser of their opener with the Cardinals. But Y.A. Tittle and Hugh McElhenry are a dangerous combination for San Francisco although the line shows the Bears by 7½. They can't keep Ed Brown and Rick Casares bottled up forever.

Earl Morrall and Jug Girard helped engineer a Steeler victory over Washington in their opener, only to fall before Cleveland. Pittsburgh is a ½ point pick over the Cards and Ollie Matson.

Los Angeles and Detroit are pick 'em, and the decision probably rests on the throwing arms of the Rams' Norm Van Brocklin, and Bobby Layne and Tobin Rote of the Lions.

"KIDS NIGHT"

Six Man Tag Bout Tops Kallio's Wrestling Card

Three familiar villains return to Monroe tomorrow night in a six man tag team wrestling event that tops the "Kids Night" program at Kallio's Arena.

Garza Lozano, Black Jack Dillon and Bill Steddum, all returning to the local arena after varying lengths of time, will meet heroes Jack and George Curtis and Bill Barney in another of those pier 6 brawls so popular with the nation's mat fandom. This bout will be over the 90 minute or less route with two falls needed to win.

Three preliminary bouts with 10-minute limits will kick of the night's action with all the tag bout participants taking part. Another feature of the night will be the appearance of Barney's 2½ year old pet aligator. The animal will be exhibited in the ring.

Promoter Gus Kallio says all younsters attending grade or high school will be admitted to the "Kids Night" show for 50c.

It has been some time since Lozano appeared before local fans. The grappler from Monterrey, Mexico last wrestled in Monroe six years ago, according to Kallio. The former heavyweight champion of Mexico, Lozano is a heavy set chap about 5 feet, 10 inches tall.

Lozano is a very capable wrestler and a mean one. Like his two partners, he's not adverse to using a few illegal tricks if it will give him the advantage.

Bill Steddum, the big, bad Texan from Waco, is another gent who's been wrestling a long time and appeared here within the past year. He and Jack Curtis have appeared in some epic battles and Steddum was a big rival of Jack's when the Vicksburg battler was lightheavyweight champion of the world.

Dillon is probably the most familiar of the three partners to Monroe fans, having appeared here only a few months ago. A tall grappler with a big paunch, Dillon also had several bloody bouts with Jack Curtis. He's been spending his Monday evenings in Shreveport rings in the last few weeks.

Dillon got his nickname, "Black Jack," for using one of the weapons on a referee several years ago. He hasn't tried that in Monroe but he's tried every other foul tactic and is not a big favorite hereabouts.

The Curtis boys and Barney need no introduction. The three wrestlers have probably appeared in the local arena more often than any other three wrestlers in the country. They've worked with each other often, both in 4 - man tag bout and the 6 - man variety. They work well with each other and should give a good account of themselves.

States To Get Federal Funds For Wildlife

WASHINGTON Oct. 12 (AP) — States will receive a record $25,130,000 in federal aid funds for restoration and development of sport fishing and wildlife during the year ending next June 30.

Ross Leffler, assistant secretary of the interior for Fish and Wildlife, announced the apportionment today, saying it exceeded by $4,068,000 the old record of $21,062,000 set a year ago.

States are required to put up one dollar for every three of federal funds, making a total of 32½ million dollars that will be available to State conservation departments for their fish and game programs this fiscal year.

Sport fishing programs will receive six million dollars in federal aid under the Dingell - Johnson Act. This is an increase of $1,174,000 over last year.

Wildlife restoration projects will get $19,130,000, including $2,693,494 representing the third 20 per cent allocation from an accumulated backlog of federal aid funds. The total is $2,894,000 higher than last year's.

The revenue for the sport fishing program comes from the 10 per cent excise tax on certain sport fishing equipment, which is paid by the manufacturers. The wildlife funds come from the 11 per cent excise tax on arms and ammunition levied on the manufacturer.

This year Michigan and Texas each are given the maximum amount possible under the formula for distribution of the wildlife funds, $956,500. Connecticut, Delaware, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont each get the minimum amount of $95,650.

California, Michigan and Minnesota each get the maximum $300,000 possible under the formula for sport fishery funds. Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Vermont and West Virginia each receive the minimum of $60,000.

2 Winners For Shoemaker At Belmont Track

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—Jockey Willie Shoemaker, a Texas boy from El Paso, did right well for himself today when he piloted Jewels Reward to victory in the $156,500 Champagne Stakes after accounting for the $80,700 Jockey Club Gold Cup with Ballant Man.

A crowd of 34,920 at swanky Belmont Park cheered Silent Shoe as he hustled Jewel's Reward home a neck ahead of Misty Flight, a fast-closing colt from the Wheatley stable, in the one mile Champagne — the richest race ever run in New York. The Fox-catcher farm's Rose Trellis was third in the field of a dozen -year-old stars. The Jacklyn stable's Li'l Fella, the 3-2 favorite, was fourth.

Gallant Man, whose owner is Ralph Lowe of Midland, Tex., had romped home a one length winner of the two-mile Gold Cup. C. T. Chenery's Third Brother was second with Woodley Fane farm's Reneged third.

Jewel's Reward netted a purse of $84,225 while Gallant Man collected $53,650. Thus, at the usual 10 per cent jockey stipened, Shoemaker banked a cool $13,807.50 for his work on this chilly, but sunny afternoon.

Jewel's Reward paid $10.80, $5.50 and $4.40. Misty Flight returned $7.60 and $5.50 and Rose Trellis $9.60.

Gallant Man paid $2.60, $2.20 and $2.10 and caused a $5,188 minus show pool. Third Brother returned $2.80 and $2.10 and Reneged was $2.10 to show.

The final six points came in the fourth period as Charles Anderson recovered a Bear fumble in the end zone. The single conversion for Drake was made by Bill Leeman in the second period.

WALLEN SPARKLES

UCLA Strikes In 2nd Half To Beat Washington, 19-0

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12 (UP)—A fighting UCLA football team inspired by the brilliant play of end Dick Wallen came to life in the second half today to defeat the University of Washington, 19 to 0, before 24,689 fans in Memorial Coliseum after having been held scoreless more than half the game.

Playing before the television cameras in the Pacific regional TV game, the Washington Huskies dominated the first half on the brilliant runs of halfbacks Luther Carr and Don Millich and the charge of fullback Jim Jones. But after holding Washington from scoring, UCLA came back in the second half to hit the scoreboard with three touchdowns.

The 175-pound Wallen intercepted two passes, recovered fumbles, was a tower of strength and made seemingly impossible catches of passes, some one-handed.

Don Long took over in the third period and sparked UCLA on a 63-yard drive featured by his 18-yard pass to Wallen that ended with Long plunging the final yard.

Early in the fourth period Washington drove to the UCLA 8 where quarterback Bobby Dunn fumbled and Wallen recovered. UCLA then put together a 56-yard drive led by Long and tailback Chuck Kendall to reach the goal line with Barry Billington scoring from the 1.

The final UCLA score came in the last 13 seconds of play when an 88-yard drive was climaxed by end John Pierovitch scoring from 13 yards out on an end around.

NO CAP FOR CAROL?

What do little girls dream of? Take Carol—she always dreams of being a nurse in a big hospital some day. But her chances are pretty slim.

Carol lives in a community where there's a serious shortage of classrooms, teachers and good schoolbooks. That means less schooling for Carol than she needs.

HIGHLAND PARK COUNTRY CLUB

Construction on the new Highland Park Club in West Monroe is coming right along and should be ready for use the latter part of January, 1958. James Aulds, the Highland pro, has already moved into the brand new golf shop and is all set for the winter play.

The first H. P. Club Championship is under way with first round matches to have been completed yesterday. Eddie Watkins was medalist with a 76 and only one match had been played at this writing and that was a 4 and 3 victory for E. B. Peddy over John Lacy. Peddy will meet the winner of the Watkins-Kenny Holt match.

BAYOU WOMEN'S TOURNEY

Mrs. George Miller shot an 82 to retain her Bayou DeSiard Country Club One-Day Women's Amateur Tournament championship.

Mrs. Miller is a former Louisiana amateur state champion. In last year's tournament, she defeated Mrs. Gordon Perrin of El Dorado, Ark. Mrs. Perrin did not compete in this year's meet.

Mrs. Leonard Warren of Bastrop carded the day's low net score for the championship flight with a 74, and tournament chairman Mrs. Stanley Mintz won the low putts with 27 for the 18 holes.

In the hole-in-one competition, Mrs. Frank Davis made one for the books when she actually scored a hole-in-one on the 13th hole using a 5 iron. Winnie Cole, Bayou DeSiard pro, said that Mrs. Davis' hole-in-one was the first he had ever seen in hole-in-one competition since he had been running tournaments.

HOLE-IN-ONES

Winnie, himself, made a hole-in-one from the tee on that very same hole playing as my partne a couple of days before that.

Our foursome figured up the totals and we had made eight between us. That was Winnie's third, I have made one, Johnny Myers of Bastrop had one, and Winnie's assistant pro, Billy Brown from Little Rock, has three to his credit. Anyway, we thought it something of an oddity.

SHREVEPORT PRO-AM

Ned White and his assistant pro, Bob Ledbetter (Incidentally, Bob is now the proud poppa of a fine baby girl by the name of Roberta Lynn Ledbetter born on September 30th. I heard Bob was giving away golf balls rather than the traditional cigar for the happy occasion!), were hosts to a fine one-day L.P.G.O. (Louisiana Professional Golfers Organization) pro-am tourney at Querbes Golf Course in Shreveport last Monday. 138 teams turned out for the event as Tommy Morrow, assistant pro at the new East Ridge Country Club in Shreveport, and three of his amateur partners took all of the top team honors. Tommy took the individual pro sweepstakes with a two under par 69 followed closely by Frank Champ, 70. Gray Little of Lake Charles and Red Cummings of Natchitoches tied for third in the pro ranks with 72's. Morrow and Charlie Weed of Shreveport were the low team with 27-31—58. The best round of the day was turned in by Jim Mangum of Shreveport who fired a red-hot 66 and also teamed with Morrow to tie still another one of Tommy's teams (Morrow and Parsons) with a low ball of 59.

NEXT L.P.G.O. AT BASTROP

The next in a series of pro-am tournaments will be held at the Morehouse Country Club on October 21 where Leonard Warren will be the host pro.

Leonard says that the tournament will be run on a Canadian Handicap basis and that you can make up your own foursomes. Tee time is 1 p.m. but everybody should be registered by noon that plans to play. These tournaments are a sort of warm-up for the big state tournament coming up soon, but I'll tell you more about that later.

WINTER TOUR SOON

The winter tour starts in a few weeks and the big name pros will be off and at it again. I'll collect bits of information as it comes over the wires each week and pass it on to you. In 1958, I'm going to keep a weekly tab on the top ten money winners on the tour and pass that on to you also. Johnny Pott of Shreveport will pick up the tour somewhere in Florida during December and we'll have to keep an eye on him because he has a year's experience under his belt and should begin to consistently match shots with the best of them before too long.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Baltimore Colts, leading the National Football League's western conference, open a two-game road trip today against the Green Bay Packers, and what happens in the next two weeks should indicate whether the Maryland club can go all the way.

Baltimore, undefeated in two games, sports a dismal all-time record playing away from home, having managed to win only four of 30 games on the road.

Six games are on the schedule, with the unbeaten Cleveland Browns trying to make it 3-0 in a battle with the Philadelphia Eagles at Cleveland. The Browns, who won six straight conference titles before finishing in a tie for fourth last year, currently head the league's eastern division. Baltimore is a 1-point favorite, while Cleveland is 7½ over Philadelphia.

In other games the world championship New York Giants play the Redskins at Washington, the Chicago Cardinals meet the Steelers at Pittsburgh, the Los Angeles Rams play the Lions at Detroit, and the San Francisco 49ers take on the Bears in Chicago. All teams have 1 and 1 records for their first two games except the Bears, defending champions in the western division, and the Eagles. Both have lost two straight games

The Baltimore - Green Bay game is being played at Milwaukee County Stadium where the Braves and Yankees dueled a week ago. The ackers and Colts are the culprits who roughed up the Bears, Green Bay having won its opener two weeks ago 21-17, while Baltimore belted Chicago 21-10 last week. Green Bay, which holds a 5-4 edge in nine previous meetings with Baltimore, was beaten 24-14 by Detroit last Sunday. The Colts won their opener from Detroit, 34-14 and meet the Lions in the motor city next Sunday.

New York, which won the 1956 eastern title by losing three games and winning eight, with one tie, can't afford a defeat by Washington. The fact that Don Heinrich, starting quarterback, will be out with a broken thumb doesn't help the Giants cause. Chuck Conerly will have to do most of the work, aided by third stringer Bob Clatterbuck. New York, however, is a 4½ - point choice. Three rookie runners, Jim Podoley, Don Bosseler and Ed Sutton, have sparked the Redskins attack.

Cleveland, which has beaten New York and Pittsburgh on the top of placekicker Lou Groza, is favored by 7½ in spite of Philadelphia's rugged defenses.

The Chilago Bears' terrific offensive potential might break loose against the 49ers, loser of their opener with the Cardinals. But Y.A. Tittle and Hugh McElhenry are a dangerous combination for San Francisco although the line shows the Bears by 7½. They can't keep Ed Brown and Rick Casares bottled up forever.

Earl Morrall and Jug Girard helped engineer a Steeler victory over Washington in their opener, only to fall before Cleveland. Pittsburgh is a ½ point pick over the Cards and Ollie Matson.

Los Angeles and Detroit are pick 'em, and the decision probably rests on the throwing arms of the Rams' Norm Van Brocklin, and Bobby Layne and Tobin Rote of the Lions.

"KIDS NIGHT"

Six Man Tag Bout Tops Kallio's Wrestling Card

Three familiar villains return to Monroe tomorrow night in a six man tag team wrestling event that tops the "Kids Night" program at Kallio's Arena.

Garza Lozano, Black Jack Dillon and Bill Steddum, all returning to the local arena after varying lengths of time, will meet heroes Jack and George Curtis and Bill Barney in another of those pier 6 brawls so popular with the nation's mat fandom. This bout will be over the 90 minute or less route with two falls needed to win.

Three preliminary bouts with 10-minute limits will kick of the night's action with all the tag bout participants taking part. Another feature of the night will be the appearance of Barney's 2½ year old pet aligator. The animal will be exhibited in the ring.

Promoter Gus Kallio says all younsters attending grade or high school will be admitted to the "Kids Night" show for 50c.

It has been some time since Lozano appeared before local fans. The grappler from Monterrey, Mexico last wrestled in Monroe six years ago, according to Kallio. The former heavyweight champion of Mexico, Lozano is a heavy set chap about 5 feet, 10 inches tall.

Lozano is a very capable wrestler and a mean one. Like his two partners, he's not adverse to using a few illegal tricks if it will give him the advantage.

Bill Steddum, the big, bad Texan from Waco, is another gent who's been wrestling a long time and appeared here within the past year. He and Jack Curtis have appeared in some epic battles and Steddum was a big rival of Jack's when the Vicksburg battler was lightheavyweight champion of the world.

Dillon is probably the most familiar of the three-partners to Monroe fans, having appeared here only a few months ago. A tall grappler with a big paunch, Dillon also had several bloody bouts with Jack Curtis. He's been spending his Monday evenings in Shreveport rings in the last few weeks.

Dillon got his nickname, "Black Jack," for using one of the weapons on a referee several years ago. He hasn't tried that in Monroe but he's tried every other foul tactic and is not a big favorite hereabouts.

The Curtis boys and Barney need no introduction. The three wrestlers have probably appeared in the local arena more often than any other three wrestlers in the country. They've worked with each other often, both in 4 - man tag bout and the 6 - man variety. They work well with each other and should give a good account of themselves.

Michigan State Spartans Wear Down Michigan, 35-6

By JACK BERRY

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 12 (UP) — Mighty Michigan State, paced by "flying blacksmith" Walt Kowalczyk on the ground and the sharp passing of Jim Minowski, wore down fifth-ranked Michigan 35-6 today to strengthen its bid for No. 1 rating in the nation.

The unbeaten Spartans, although limited to a 38-man traveling squad, were too much for the Wolverines, whose two - game streak was snapped before a sell-out homecrowd of 101,001 home fans at Michigan Stadium.

Kowalczyk, a 205 - pound, six-foot light halfback, hit with the force of a hammer and ripped and faked away from would-be tacklers as he scored Michigan State's first touchdown and gained 115 yards in 17 carries for a six-yard average while playing only a little more than half of the game.

Injured in training last season, Kowalczyk didn't regain his sophomore form. But today he performed as brilliantly as he did two years ago when he led the Spartans to the Rose Bowl championship."

Ninowski broke open the game with a pair of third period touchdown passes to end Sammy Williams and Bob Jewett. Ninowski now has thrown five scoring strikes in his last two games.

Michigan State's second team scored twice in the fourth period to turn the game into a rout.

Williams gave Michigan State a safety bulge in the second period when he blocked Jim Van Pelt's end zone punt and later blocked Michigan's lone extra point attempt. At the time of Williams's safety, Michigan State held only a 6-0 lead and Michigan already had driven to the Michigan State 4.

Michigan State had a total of 78 plays to 59 for Michigan and rolled up a total of 486 yards to 245 for the losers. Michigan, usually the opportunist, fumbled three times and lost the ball each time, and had three passes intercepted.

Score by periods:

Michigan	0	0	6	0—	6
Michigan State	6	2	13	14—	35

Michigan scoring: Touchdown, Pace (11, run).

Michigan State scoring: Touchdowns, Kowalczyk (1 foot, plunge) Williams (5 yard pass from Ninowski), Jewett (3 yard pass from Ninowski), Johnson (62, run), Panitch (1, plunge). Conversions: Kaiser 3. Safety, Williams (blocked Van Pelt's punt in end zone).

FOUR PLAYERS SCORE

Pittsburgh Methodically Tramples Nebraska, 34-0

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 12 (UP)—Pittsburgh struck for two touchdowns in the first five minutes of play today and then methodically tramped injury and flu-ridden Nebraska for a 34-0 victory.

The Panthers called on four players to share in touchdown honors as they combined an array of hard-driving backs and alert line play to humble the undermanned Midwesterners.

Junior righthalf back Joe Scisly, of Elysburg, Pa., who started the season as a third saringer, hurdled two yards for the first score to climax a 71-yard drive in eight plays in which he accounted for 32 yards personally in three tries.

But late in the final period Scisley turned in the most thrilling run of the game by going 25 yards on a double reverse behind a host of five blocks.

In between, end Dick Scherer of Pittsburgh, scooped up a loose ball and raced 12 yards for a first period score, reserve quarterback Jim Lenhart passed 10 yards to end Art Gobb in the second period and fullback Fred Riddle plunged one yard in the final period.

It was a bad day for the Cornhuskers in practically all respects. They penetrated Pitt territory only three times during the long afternoon, twice through the courtesy of Panther fumbles. In the second and final stanzas, they were contained offensively on their side of the midfield stripe.

Score by periods:

Pittsburgh	14	7	0	13—	34

Pittsburgh scoring: Touchdowns, Scisly 2 (2 yard plunge, 29 1 run) Scherer (12, ran with block kick) Gob (10, pass from Lenhart. Riddle (1 plunge). Conversions, Toncic 3, Haley 1.

Iowa Staters Take 21-6 Win From Kansas

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct 12 (UP)—Iowa State, playing magnificently the traditional "waiting" game which for years typified Tennessee football teams, capitalized on three Kansas bobbles today to hammer out a 21-6 victory before 1,000 fans.

The Cyclones, surprise team of the Big Eight, scored two second quarter touchdowns following a Jayhawk fumble and errant pass to win their second game in four starts including a tie with Syracuse.

The triumph, a conference tussle, was televised regionally.

Iowa tate, tutored by freshman coach Jim Myers—a product of of the Gen. R. R. Neyland Tennessee school—threw up a stout defense which baffled the unpredictable Jayhawks except in the third period when quarterback Wally Strauch hit on three passes to put the ball on the one. Fullback Homer Floyd dived across but Iowa State still led 14-6.

Ron Pohl scored Iowa State's first touchdown on a short plunge after a Kansas fumble and minutes later set-up the second with a pass interception on the Jayhawk 30.

Terry Ingram plunged over from the one a few plays later. A Kansas fumble in the final period set up the third Iowa State score with hard-running sophomore tailback Dwight Nichols going over from the 16.

Kansas	0	0	6	0—	6
Iowa State	0	14		7—	21

Kansas scoring: Touchdown: Floyd (1, plunge).

Iowa State scoring: Touchdowns, Pohl (1, plunge); Ingram (1, plunge); Nichols (16, run). Conversions: Carlson 3.

2 Winners For Shoemaker At Belmont Track

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—Jockey Willie Shoemaker, a Texas boy from El Paso, did right well for himself today when he piloted Jewels Reward to victory in the $156,500 Champagne Stakes after accounting for the $80,700 Jockey Club Gold Cup with Ballant Man.

A crowd of 34,920 at swanky Belmont Park cheered Silent Shoe as he hustled Jewel's Reward home a neck ahead of Misty Flight, a fast-closing colt from the Wheatley stable, in the one mile Champagne — the richest race ever run in New York. The Foxcatcher farm's Rose Trellis was third in the field of a dozen -year-old stars. The Jacklyn stable's Li'l Fella, the 3-2 favorite, was fourth.

Gallant Man, whose owner is Ralph Lowe of Midland, Tex., had romped home a one length winner of the two-mile Gold Cup. C. T. Chenery's Third Brother was second with Woodley Fane farm's Reneged third.

Jewel's Reward netted a purse of $84,225 while Gallant Man collected $53,850. Thus, at the usual 10 per cent jockey stipened, Shoemaker banked a cool $13,807.50 for his work on this chilly, but sunny afternoon.

Jewel's Reward paid $10.80, $5.50 and $4.40. Misty Flight returned $7.60 and $5.50 and Rose Trellis $9.60.

Gallant Man paid $2.60, $2.20 and $2.10 and caused a $5,188 minus show pool. Third Brother returned $2.80 and $2.10 and Reneged was $2.10 to show.

NO CAP FOR CAROL?

What do little girls dream of? Take Carol—she always dreams of being a nurse in a big hospital some day. But her chances are pretty slim.

Carol lives in a community where there's a serious shortage of classrooms, teachers and good schoolbooks. That means less schooling for Carol than she needs.

Let's see that this doesn't happen in our schools. You can help by supporting our School Board, by attending PTA meetings and school conferences.

General Business Tone 'Not Dismal'

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—Gloom may have taken over on Wall Street this week but along the Main Streets of America the general tone of business was far from dismal.

The gyrations of the stock market—and of Russia's Sputnik satellite—apparently left consumers unconcerned.

Spending in the nation's retail stores nudged the record high. Demand perked up for home appliances, television sets, women's coats and dresses.

Merchants had a ready explanation for a sudden slump in men's wear sales—their customers were all yrapped up in the World Series. But they hoped to reap a bonanza on Columbus Day.

Optimism was in the driver's seat on Automobile Row this week. Buick and Chevrolet swung into production of their 1958 models; by next week all the auto makers would be turning out their new and jazzed up lines. Most of the new 1958's were expected to be on showroom floors late this month or early next. Dealers figured they'd sell like hot cakes—in spite of higher prices.

Other evidence that the dark economic cloud might not be entirely without a silver lining included an upsurge of orders for paperboard, a slow but steady rise in home building, and the weekly paychecks of some 65½ million Americans holding steady jobs.

From mid-August to mid-September the number of job holders declined by about 700,000 as students quit summer jobs for school or college. Despite a smattering of factory layoffs, non-farm employment set a new high. Personnel men continued to report a shortage of white collar workers.

There were more defense plant layoffs this week. And there was no definite indication that Russia's earth satellite would cause our government to make any drastic changes in its defense production program. Overtime was ruled out for plants holding military contracts; monthly payments to defense contractors were scaled down.

Independents Rap U.S. For Oil Controls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA), which long has sought a curb on oil imports, accused the government this week of ineffective administration of the anti-dumping act to the detriment of domestic oil producers.

The association called for strengthening the law to make it do what the IPAA said Congress intended: Prohibit imports of any commodity at prices less than those for which the foreign producer sells the same commodity at home or on other world markets.

The IPAA' views were by its general counsel, Russell Brown, to a House Ways and Means subcommittee studying foreign trade policy.

"The board discretionary authority permitted the Treasury Department in determining whether to investigate alleged breaches of this law has resulted in ineffective administration," Brown said.

Brown said the IPAA recently had asked the ways and means committee to take steps to amend the act.

Government agencies concerned, he said, are not required to make public their findings of fact or conclusions of law in connection with anti-dumping activities and are not required to account publicly for their decisions.

The IPAA's position is that the agencies should be required to make a public record in each case and to make public reports giving reasons for any action taken.

The announcement was made this week during the opening session of the Southern Colleges Placement Officers Association at the Jung Hotel in New Orleans.

A 1949 graduate of Tulane, Schneider attended the University of Pennsylvania where he was awarded his master's degree in 1951.

He is a native of Monroe.

NO COMMENT

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12, (Special) Some members of Congress say the next session will produce worthwhile legislation to curb unions only if —

1. The Eisenhower Administration recommends and fights for it, and does not seek merely "slap on the wrist" legislation.

2. The old coalition of northern and southern members — those not beholden politically to unions—is revised.

3. The voters emphatically tell members of Congress that legislation must be enacted, even though 1958 is a political year.

The stage will be properly set for enactment of measures long overdue—to curb union monopoly, assure some democracy in conduct of labor unions, reduce the power of "labor bosses," halt use of union funds for political purposes, abolish compulsory unionism and the like.

The McClellan Committee — Exposure of activities in labor unions by the Senate rackets committee, headed by Sen. McClellan (D.-Ark.), has furnished a broad basis for legislative action.

The recent action in the million-man Teamsters union in electing Jimmy Hoffa president in spite of the McClellan Committee's disclosure of Teamster union corruption cast doubt on the ability of labor to clean its own house.

The evidence of labor union corruption makes more ridiculous than ever the charges by labor bosses that the Taft-Hartley Act is a "slave labor" law. It is now evident that the law, as interpreted is too weak to meet the issue of labor union monopoly and corruption.

Labor Opposition Expected—Attacks on the McClellan committee may be expected to continue, as the time for convening of the new session of Congress approaches.

Most members of Congress have praised the committee — which has been conducted on a non-partisan basis.

But Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, elected with support of labor unions, was quoted in Chicago last week as denouncing the McClellan committee as a "Kangaroo Court" — thus, perhaps, setting a pattern for future attacks.

The Teamsters union, with Hoffa as president, is expected to spend huge sums of money in an effort to blacken the McClellan committee.

The Immediate Future — Secretary of Labor Mitchell has predicted expulsion of the Teamsters union from the AFL-CIO as a result of the election of Hoffa and failure of the Teamsters to "clean house."

But Hoffa's union is set to fight expulsion. He is armed with a $3½ million union chest, a three-to-one backing by the union in his election, and the possibility of building a powerful rival to the AFL-CIO.

It is freely predicted by labor experts that Hoffa will set his sights on absorbing — or dominating — all transportation unions, thus putting him in a position ao paralyze commerce of the nation at any time.

Cotton Future Prices Change Little In Week

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—Cotton futures followed an erratic course this week but closed with small net changes. At the finish they were narrowly mixed.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange closed at prices ranging from 50 cents a bale higher to 20 cents lower than at the end of the week before.

The market started out on the downside. By midweek it was moving into higher ground, chiefly as a result of a lower-than-anticipated government crop forecast. Toward the close, prices eased on profit-taking.

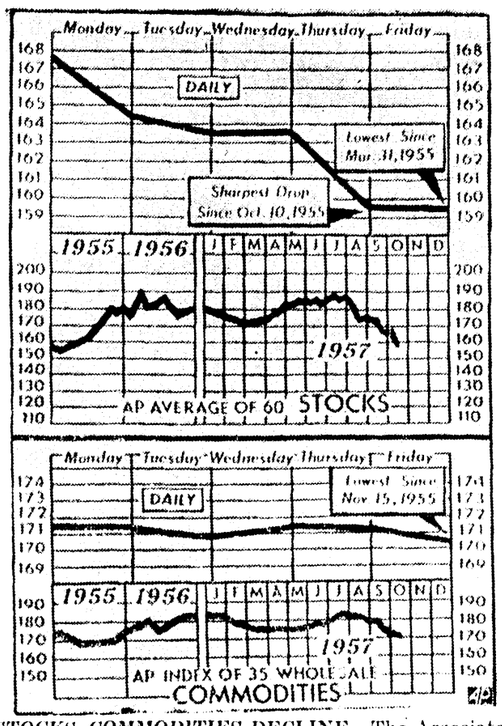

The official crop forecast, announced Tuesday, indicated a prospective outturn this season of 12,410,000 bales. That's 312,000 bales below the government's previous forecast in September. Most traders had expected the October forecast to be higher instead of lower.

On the basis of the government's forecast, the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau estimated the total supply of all cotton at the end of the current crop year would approximate 23,635,000 bales.

With distribution officially estimated at 13,650,000 to 14,650,000 bales, it was pointed out, an end-season carry-over of 9 million to 10 million bales would be in prospect, compared to a carry-over of 11,209,000 bales on Aug. 11.

Exports of U.S. cotton in the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the Service Bureau at 73,000 bales, against 82,000 bales in the previous week and 133,000 in the corresponding 1956 week.

For the current season through Oct. 6, exports were estimated at 793,000 bales, compared to 1,137,000 bales at approximately the same time last season.

STOCKS, COMMODITIES DECLINE—The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined sharply last week to the lowest point since March 31, 1955, closing at 159.4 from 167.6 a week ago. The commodity index, with livestock leading the decline, reached the lowest level since Nov. 15, 1955, closing at 170.3 from 171.4 a week ago. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

TWO-YEAR LOW LEVELS

Worst Weekly Drop In Over 24 Years Hits Stock Prices

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—The market this week suffered a break equal to the one in the week ended Oct.; 1955, the first week following President Eisenhower's heart attack.

To find a worse weekly setback you have to go back nearly 24 years, to the third week of July 1933, in the hectic Depression days of the early New Deal.

An estimated 10 million dollars was clipped this week from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the tall in the average.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week dropped $8.20 to $159.40, putting the average at its lowest point since March 31, 1955.

Since the first of this year, the stock market's estimated cash dron has been roughly 22 billion dollars, putting the quoted value of all listed stocks down to the neighborhood of 193 billion dollars. The fall off since Dec. 31, 1956, has been about 10 per cent.

The battering the market took this week accounted for more than a third of the decline so tar this year. The turnover of shares soared to 15,575,710, or a daily average of 3,15,710. This was the biggest weekly volume since the first post-heart attack week. It placed great emphasis on the decline.

The five most active issues this week were Bethlehem Steel off 1¼ at 41, Standard Oil (New Jersey) off 4⅜ at 53⅜, General Dynamics up 4⅞, Martin Co., up 8¾ at 35¾ and North American Aviation up 4⅜ at 24⅝.

U.S. government bonds drifted lower but corporate bonds held firm on average this week.

DURING CURRENT YEAR

Auto Industry Expects To Sell Six Million Vehicles

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT, Oct. 12 (AP)—New passenger cars have been sold this year at an averag of more than 500,000 monthly. The average undoubtedly will hold good through the entire year.

Car producers and merchandisers generally regard a six million car year as normal. Anything less would be considered an unsatisfactory volume.

But few industry analysts—and many of its more realistic producers and sales executives—look with raised eyebrows upon predictions that eight million sales annually will come in the early 1960s. That prediction has been heard in some quarters.

These optimists say the expanding population and the big federal highway program will bring the eight million car year. The less enthusiastic industry experts agree the broader highway system will stimulate car demand, but they say it will be more than just a few years before the highways can accommodate millions of additional cars.

Small Miss In 1955

The industry missed an eight million output year by a relatively small volume in 1955. Factory output that year came to 7,942,12 units, but the volume was a lot greater than the market could absorb. Registrations in 1955 numbered 7 169,903.

The aftermath was a mountainous retail inventory of approximately 904,000 cars in March the following year and a sharp production curtailment through much of 1956.

The industry's retailers sold nearly six million cars last year, but the volume was achieved by broad price slashing, the giving of premiums with car purchases and probably some borrowing from the industry's 1957 market.

Nobody close to the automotive industry will say positively there will not be another single eight million car year within the next five or six years. That not only is possible but wholly probable because a perfect balance between factory output and retail sales still eludes the auto makers.

Virtually Certain

However, the less optimistic forecasters say only eight million car year in the next decade is virtually certain to be followed by a sharp falling off in the succeeding year.

Peaks and valleys both in production and sales volume have become a tradition in the car industry. They came with the advent of mass production. All the skill of the industry's business forecasters has not made it easy accurately to appraise market requirements more than a few months ahead.

This was demonstrated in 1956 and again this year when the customary spring upsurge in new car demand failed to materialize. Some industry executives kept predicting the upturn would appear, perhaps slightly later than usual.

When it failed to arrive they said the spring upsurge was a thing of the past; car sales would be kept at steady levels throughout the year. They point now to the monthly average of 500,000 retail deliveries this year to date.

But this average has been achieved by heavy sales pressure, a lot of price slashing by the retailers and high trade-in allowances. Price concessions are expected by most new car buyers. They probably will continue to be a major factor in over-all sales volume as long as the supply of new cars tops the demand.

Wood Preserve Council Meet Slated Monday

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 12 (UP)—The coordinated Wood Preserve Council will hold its 11th annual meeting at Louisiana State university Monday and Tuesday.

The council will also tour the facilities for wood preservation research at the university's school of forestry, Dr. Paul Y. Burns, director of the school, reported.

Members of the council represent 12 agencies from nine southern states and are engaged in research projects to develop and test preservation treatments for wood used in light construction. The agencies represented include land-grant colleges, forest experiment stations, and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Grain Futures Mixed On News From Agencies

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 (AP)—A variety of government reports and decisions provided the principal incentives for the grain trade this week.

Day to day price trends reflected a decision by the commodity credit Corp. to ease up on sales of government owned corn, a report on wheat impoundings, CCC rental of bins for storing soybeans and the USDA's monthly crop report.

OTHER TYPES DOWN

U.S. Life Insurance Firms Have Good Year During '57

By WALTER BUSSEWITZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—Business has been good this year for the country's 93-billion dollar life insurance industry. On the other hand, results have been disappointing for many companies which underwrite fire and casualty losses.

With one pendulum swinging up and the other down, at least temporarily, a new trend appears to be taking shape—an invasion of the life insurance business by the stock fire and casualty companies to stabilize their overall operations.

Sixteen fire and casualty concerns have taken steps to go into life insurance during the past 12 months. They include major concerns such as Allstate Insurance Co., a Sears, Roebuck & Co., subsidiary; New York's Federal Insurance Co; St. Paul Fire & Marine Insurance Co.; and Philadelphia's 158-year-old Insurance Co. of North America. Some are setting up life insurance subsidiaries, others are taking over existing life companies.

What Caused Swing?

What is prompting this swing? Alfred M. Best Co., New York, which has been compiling and publishing statistics on the insurance industry for more than 50 years, says, "By its very nature the fire and casualty business is one of cyclical movement in which a profitable period for any class of business becomes the base for a reduction in rates while an unprofitable period brings about higher rates."

Fire and casualty companies, most of which overlap with multiple lines, insure ricks that are more subject to inflation. So they hold investments that fluctuate with the economy and can be marketed readily They also have a difficult time foreseeing or controlling the hazards on which their losses depend.

Actuaries for life companies, on the other hand, can predict the length of human life quite accurately. Their investments are almost entirely of a risk-free long term nature, such as bonds, real estate and mortgages.

Broaden Bases

Thus, moving into the life field, fire and casualty concerns can broaden their base. They also can make use of their regular agents in most cases.

The Best Co. has put together data on the first-half results of 126 representative stock fire and casualty companies. Of the 126 concerns, 97 lost money on their insurance operations. Many were still in the red after investment income was added in.

"The ratio of losses to earned premiums was the worst experienced by the industry since the depression year of 1932," says the statistical firm.

The current period it says, "is unique in that rising loss cycles in virtually all lines have nearly coincided." It points out that substantial automobile rate increases have been placed in effect in many states and cuts in term discounts on fire lines will provide "a large measure of relief in due course."

So far this year, auto liability rates alone have gone up in 31 states by an average of 16 per cent.

Causes Troubles

Generally, auto liability and home fire policies have been the lines in which the industry has had troubles. Much of the difficulty can be summed up in two words—inflation and keen competition.

An industry spokesman says, "Lots of auto liability settlements are going up much faster than the cost of living. The courts are recognizing inflation when they hand down decisions, but the public is not keeping up with the rise in costs by raising its coverage."

William Leslie, general manager of the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters, says, "The average paid claim cost for bodily injury in 1956 was 116 per cent higher than in 1941, and for property damage, it was 239 per cent higher."

"This is not surprising in view of the increases in hospital rates, doctors' fees, medical expenses and the larger court and jury verdicts rendered in liability cases."

The national bureau points out auto repair costs have jumped more than 150 per cent since 1940, partly because of such innovations as wraparound windshields costing $200 compared with $25 for the earlier types.

Losses Low In '40s

Fire company spokesmen say their problem arose in part from the fact losses were phenomenally low in the late 1940's and early '50's. This set the stage for rate cuts and stepped up competition, which brought on some looser underwriting practices. The competitive factor was heightened by the spurt of the over-the-counter or direct writers, which generally operate without agents and thus cut their overhead.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters says it's practically certain that 1957 will be the first year in history in which fire losses exceed one billion dollars. So far this year, losses are 6.8 per cent ahead of the same period of 1956.

Assets of the 750 stock fire and casualty companies have climbed from $3,800,000,000 in 1931 to $17,800,000,000. Their holdings include 8½ billion dollars in government and corporate bonds and 6 billions in common stocks.

Investment earnings have dropped the past two years. They aotaled $1,500,000,000 in 1954, $1,100,000,000 in 1955 and 579 millions last year.

$60,000 Research Contract At LSU

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 12 (UP)—A $60,000 research contract with the office of Naval research to test a theory of leadership developed by Prof. Bernard M. Bass of the LSU department of psychology has been extended for an additional three years.

The six-year project, supported by the $60.000 in grants, will permit Dr. Bass to examine the accuracy of predictions about leader behavior and group operations based on his theory.

General Business Tone 'Not Dismal'

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—Gloom may have taken over on Wall Street this week but along the Main Streets of America the general tone of business was far from dismal.

The gyrations of the stock market—and of Russia's Sputnik satellite—apparently left consumers unconcerned.

Spending in the nation's retail stores nudged the record high. Demand perked up for home appliances, television sets, women's coats and dresses.

Merchants had a ready explanation for a sudden slump in men's wear sales—their customers were all yrapped up in the World Series. But they hoped to reap a bonanza on Columbus Day.

Optimism was in the driver's seat on Automobile Row this week. Buick and Chevrolet swung into production of their 1958 models; by next week all the auto makers would be turning out their new and jazzed up lines. Most of the new 1958's were expected to be on showroom floors late this month or early next. Dealers figured they'd sell like hot cakes—in spite of higher prices.

Other evidence that the dark economic cloud might not be entirely without a silver lining included an upsurge of orders for paperboard, a slow but steady rise in home building, and the weekly paychecks of some 65½ million Americans holding steady jobs.

From mid-August to mid-September the number of job holders declined by about 700,000 as students quit summer jobs for school or college. Despite a smattering of factory layoffs, non-farm employment set a new high. Personnel men continued to report a shortage of white collar workers.

There were more defense plant layofts this week. And there was no definite indication that Russia's earth satellite would cause our government to make any drastic changes in its defense production program. Overtime was ruled out for plants holding military contracts; monthly payments to defense contractors were scaled down.

Independents Rap U.S. For Oil Controls

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Independent Petroleum Assn. of America (IPAA), which long has sought a curb on oil imports, accused the government this week of ineffective administration of the anti-dumping act to the detriment of domestic oil producers.

The association called for strengthening the law to make it do what the IPAA said Congress intended: Prohibit imports of any commodity at prices less than those for which the foreign producer sells the same commodity at home or on other world markets.

The IPAA' views were by its general counsel, Russell Brown, to a House Ways and Means subcommittee studying foreign trade policy.

"The board discretionary authority permitted the Treasury Department in determining whether to investigate alleged breaches of this law has resulted in ineffective administration," Brown said.

Brown said the IPAA recently had asked the ways and means committee to take steps to amend the act.

Government agencies concerned, he said, are not required to make public their findings of fact or conclusions of law in connection with anti-dumping activities and are not required to account publicly for their decisions.

The IPAA's position is that the agencies should be required to make a public record in each case and to make public reports giving reasons for any action taken.

NO COMMENT

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1?, (Special) Some members of Congress say the next session will produce worthwhile legislation to curb unions only if —

1. The Eisenhower Administration recommends and fights for it, and does not seek merely "slap on the wrist" legislation.

2. The old coalition of northern and southern members — those not beholden politically to unions—is revised.

3. The voters emphatically tell members of Congress that legislation must be enacted, even though 1958 is a political year.

The stage will be properly set for enactment of measures long overdue—to curb union monopoly, assure some democracy in conduct of labor unions, reduce the power of "labor bosses," halt use of union funds for political purposes, abolish compulsory unionism and the like.

The McClellan Committee — Exposure of activities in labor unions by the Senate rackets committee, headed by Sen. McClellan (D.-Ark.), has furnished a broad basis for legislative action.

The recent action in the millionman Teamsters union in elerting Jimmy Hoffa president in spite of the McClellan Committee's disclosure of Teamster union corruption cast doubt on the ability of labor to clean its own house.

The evidence of labor union corruption makes more ridiculous than ever the charges by labor bosses that the Taft-Hartley Act is a "slave labor" law. It is now evident that the law, as interpreted is too weak to meet the issue of labor union monoply and corruption.

Labor Opposition Expected—Attacks on the McClellan committee may be expected to continue, as the time for convening of the new session of Congress approaches.

Most members of Congress have praised the committee — which has been conducted on a non-partisan basis.

But Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, elected with support of labor unions, was quoted in Chicago last week as denouncing the McClellan committee as a "Kangaroo Court" — thus, perhaps, setting a pattern for future attacks.

The Teamsters union, with Hoffa as president, is expected to spend huge sums of money in an effort to blacken the McClellan committee.

The Immediate Future — Secretary of Labor Mitchell has predicted expulsion of the Teamsters union from the AFL-CIO as a result of the election of Hoffa and failure of the Teamsters to "clean house."

But Hoffa's union is set to fight expulsion. He is armed with a $3? million union chest, a three-to-one backing by the union in h's election, and the possibility of building a powerful rival to the AFL-CIO.

It is freely predicted by labor experts that Hoffa will set his sights on absorbing — or dominating — all transportation unions, thus putting him in a position ao paralyze commerce of the nation at any time.

Cotton Future Prices Change Little In Week

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—Cotton futures followed an erratic course this week but closed with small net changes. At the finish they were narrowly mixed.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange closed at prices ranging from 50 cents a bale higher to 20 cents lower than at the end of the week before.

The market started out on the downside. By midweek it was moving into higher ground, chiefly as a result of a lower-than-anticipated government crop forecast. Toward the close, prices eased on profit-taking.

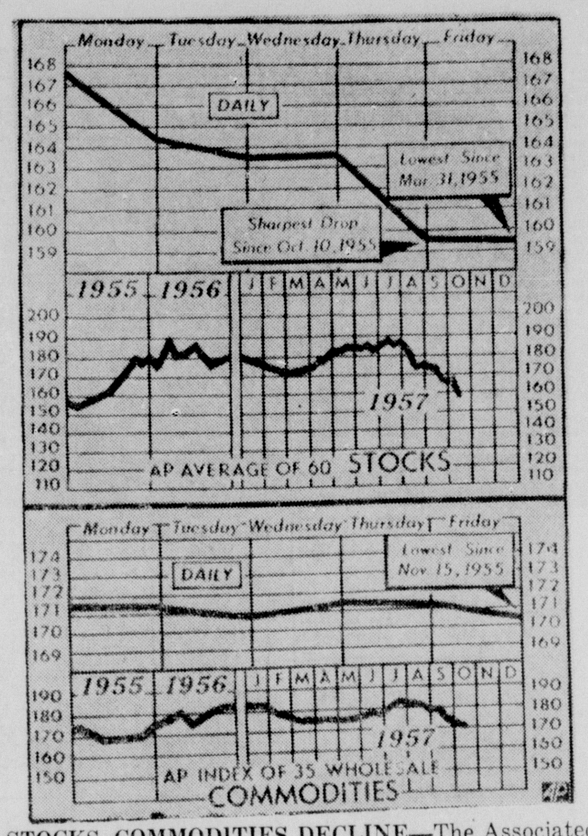

The official crop forecast, announced Tuesday, indicated a prospective outturn this season of 12,410,000 bales. That's 312,000 bales below the government's previous forecast in September. Most traders had expected the October forecast to be higher instead of lower.

On the basis of the government's forecast, the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau estimated the total supply of all cotton at the end of the current crop year would approximate 23,635,000 bales.

With distribution officially estimated at 13,650,000 to 14,650,000 bales, it was pointed out, an end-season carry-over of 9 million to 10 millkon bales would be in prospect, compared to a carry-over of 11,200,000 bales on Aug. 11.

Exports of U.S. cotton in the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the Service Bureau at 73,000 bales, against 82,000 bales in the previous week and 183,000 in the corresponding 1956 week.

For the current season through Oct. 8, exports were estimated at 793,000 bales, compared to 1,137,000 bales at approximately the same time last season.

STOCKS, COMMODITIES DECLINE—The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined sharply last week to the lowest point since March 31, 1955, closing at 159.4 from 167.6 a week ago. The commodity index, with livestock leading the decline, reached the lowest level since Nov. 15, 1955, closing at 170.3 from 171.4 a week ago. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

TWO-YEAR LOW LEVELS

Worst Weekly Drop In Over 24 Years Hits Stock Prices

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—The market this week suffered a break equal to the one in the week ended Oct.; 1955, the first week following President Eisenhower's heart attack.

To find a worse weekly setback you have to go back nearly 24 years, to the third week of July 1933, in the hectic Depression days of the early New Deal.

An estimated 10 million dollars was clipped this week from the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the fall in the average.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week dropped $8.20 to $159.40, putting the average at its lowest point since March 31, 1955.

Since the first of this year, the stock market's estimated cash drop has been roughly 22 billion dollars, putting the quoted value of all listed stocks down to the neighborhood of 193 billion dollars. The fall-off since Dec. 31, 1956, has been about 10 per cent.

The battering the market took this week accounted for more than a third of the decline so far this year. The turnover of shares soared to 15,575,710, or a daily average of 3,15,710. This was the biggest weekly volume since the first post-heart attack week. It placed great emphasis on the decline.

The five most active issues this week were Bethlehem Steel off 1¼ at 41, Standard Oil (New Jersey) off 4⅜ at 53⅜, General Dynamics up 4⅞, Martin Co., up 8¾ at 35¾ and North American Aviation up 4⅜ at 24⅜.

U.S. government bonds drifted lower but corporate bonds held firm on average this week.

DURING CURRENT YEAR

Auto Industry Expects To Sell Six Million Vehicles

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT, Oct. 12 (AP)—New passenger cars have been sold this year at an averag of more than 500,000 monthly. The average undoubtedly will hold good through the entire year.

Car producers and merchandisers generally regard a six million car year as normal. Anything less would be considered an unsatisfactory volume.

But few industry analysts—and many of its more realistic producers and sales executives—look with raised eyebrows upon predictions that eight million sales annually will come in the early 1960s. That prediction has been heard in some quarters.

These optimists say the expanding population and the big federal highway program will bring the eight million car year. The less enthusiastic industry experts agree the broader highway system will stimulate car demand, but they say it will be more than just a few years before the highways can accommodate millions of additional cars.

Small Miss In 1955

The industry miss d an eight million output year by a relatively small volume in 1955. Factory output that year came to 7,942,12 units, but the volume was a lot greater than the market could absorb. Registrations in 1955 numbered 7 169,908.

The aftermath was a mountainous retail inventory of approximately 904,000 cars in March the following year and a sharp production curtailment through much of 1956.

The industry's retailers sold nearly six million cars last year, but the volume was achieved by broad price slashing, the giving of premiums with car purchases and probably some borrowing from the industry's 1957 market.

Nobody close to the automotive industry will say positively there will not be another single eight million car year within the next five or six years. That not only is possible but wholly probable because a perfect balance between factory output and retail sales still eludes the auto makers.

Virtually Certain

However, the less optimistic forecasters say any eight million car year in the next decade is virtually certain to be followed by a sharp falling off in the succeeding year.

Peaks and valleys both in production and sales volume have become a tradition in the car industry. They came with the advent of mass production. All the skill of the industry's business forecasters has not made it easy accurately to appraise market requirements more than a few months ahead.

This was demonstrated in 1956 and again this year when the customary spring upsurge in new car demand failed to materialize. Some industry executives kept predicting the upturn would appear, perhaps slightly later than usual.

When it failed to arrive they said the spring upsurge was a thing of the past; car sales would be kept at steady levels throughout the year. They point now to the monthly average of 500,000 retail deliveries this year to date.

But this average has been achieved by heavy sales pressure, a lot of price s shing by the retailers and high trade-in allowances. Price concessions are expected by most new car buyers. They probably will continue to be a major factor in over-all sales volume as long as the supply of new cars tops the demand.

Wood Preserve Council Meet Slated Monday

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 12 (UP)—The coordinated Wood Preserve Council will hold its 11th annual meeting at Louisiana State university Monday and Tuesday.

The council will also tour the facilities for wood preservation research at the university's school of forestry, Dr. Paul Y. Burns, director of the school, reported.

Members of the council represent 12 agencies from nine southern states and are engaged in research projects to develop and test preservation treatments for wood used in light construction. The agencies represented include land-grant colleges, forest experiment stations, and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Grain Futures Mixed On News From Agencies

CHICAGO, Oct. 12 (AP)—A variety of government reports and decisions provided the principal incentives for the grain trade this week.

Day to day price trends reflected a decision by the commodity credit Corp. to ease up on sales of government owned corn, a report on wheat impoundings, CCC rental of bins for storing soybeans and the USDA's monthly crop report.

By WALTER BUSSEWITZ

NEW YORK, Oct. 12 (AP)—Business has been good this year for the country's 98-billion dollar life insurance industry. On the other hand, results have been disappointing for many companies which underwrite fire and casualty losses.

With one pendulum swinging up and the other down, at least temporarily, a new trend appears to be taking shape—an invasion of the life insurance business by the stock fire and casualty companies to stabilize their overall operations.

Sixteen fire and casualty concerns have taken steps to go into life insurance during the past 12 months. They include major concerns such as Allstate Insurance Co., a Sears, Roebuck & Co., subsidiary; New York's Federal Insurance Co; St. Paul Fire & Marine Insurance Co.; and Philadelphia's 158-year-old Insurance Co. of North America. Some are setting up life insurance subsidiaries, others are taking over existing life companies.

What Caused Swing?

What is prompting this swing? Alfred M. Best Co., New York, which has been compiling and publishing statistics on the insurance industry for more than 50 years, says, "By its very nature the fire and casualty business is one of cyclical movement in which a profitable period for any class of business becomes the base for a reduction in rates while an unprofitable period brings about higher rates."

Fire and casualty companies, most of which overlap with multiple lines, insure ricks that are more subject to inflation. So they hold investments that fluctuate with the economy and can be marketed readily They also have a difficult time foreseeing or controlling the hazards on which their losses depend.

Actuaries for life companies, on the other hand, can predict the length of human life quite accurately. Their investments are almost entirely of a risk-free long term nature, such as bonds, real estate and mortgages.

Broaden Bases

Thus, moving into the life field, fire and casualty concerns can broaden their base. They also can make use of their regular agents in most cases.

The Best Co. has put together data on the first-half results of 126 representative stock fire and casualty companies. Of the 126 concerns, 97 lost money on their insurance operations. Many were still in the red after investment income was added in.

"The ratio of losses to earned premiums was the worst experienced by the industry since the depression year of 1932," says the statistical firm.

The current period it says, "is unique in that rising loss cycles in virtually all lines have nearly coincided." It points out that substantial automobile rate increases have been placed in effect in many states and cuts in term discounts on fire lines will provide "a large measure of relief in due course."

So far this year, auto liability rates alone have gone up in 34 states by an average of 16 per cent.

Causes Troubles

Generally, auto liability and home fire policies have been the lines in which the industry has had troubles. Much of the difficulty can be summed up in two words—inflation and keen competition.

An industry spokesman says, "Lots of auto liability settlements are going up much faster than the cost of living. The courts are recognizing inflation when they hand down decisions, but the public is not keeping up with the rise in costs by raising its coverage."

William Leslie, general manager of the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters, says, "The average paid claim cost for bodily injury in 1956 was 116 per cent higher than in 1941, and for property damage, it was 239 per cent higher."

"This is not surprising in view of the increases in hospital rates, doctors' fees, medical expenses and the larger court and jury verdicts rendered in liability cases."

The national bureau points out auto repair costs have jumped more than 150 per cent since 1940, partly because of such innovations as wraparound windshields costing $200 compared with $25 for the earlier types.

Losses Low In '40s

Fire company spokesmen say their problem arose in part from the fact losses were phenomenally low in the late 1940's and early '50's. This set the stage for rate cuts and stepped up competition, which brought on some looser underwriting practices. The competive factor was heightened by the spurt of the over-the-counter or direct writers, which generally operate without agents and thus cut their overhead.

The National Board of Fire Underwriters says it's practically certain that 1957 will be the first year in history in which fire losses exceed one billion dollars. So far this year, losses are 6.8 per cent ahead of the same period of 1956.

Assets of the 750 stock fire and casualty companies have climbed from $3,800,000,000 in 1931 to $17,800,000,000. Their holdings include 8½ billion dollars in government and corporate bonds and 6 billions in common stocks.

Investment earnings have dropped the past two years. They aotaled $1,500,000,000 in 1954, $1,100,000,000 in 1955 and 579 millions last year.

Mentally Retarded Helped By Agency

Three of every 100 babies born in the United States today are mentally retarded.

A shroud of shame surrounded these children and their families not too many years ago. But today the picture is rapidly changing as methods are being learned for dealing with cases of this type.

In Ouachita Parish, the picture has changed remarkably just since 1954. At that time, eight mentally retarded children had an opportunity to go to school in this parish for the first time.

They received a chance to undergo training and treatment that would enable them to enjoy at least some of the things more fortunate people take for granted. They were released from their pointless, purposeless existence and their families were able for the first time to face the future with hope instead of despair.

Guiding Organization

The Ouachita Parish Association for Retarded Children was the influence that made this schooling possible. Three years ago, this group obtained a classroom in a West Monroe elementary school for the use of the eight retarded children, and found a teacher for them. Today there are five such classes in the Ouachita Parish schools, and 50 children instead of eight.

Thus the door has been opened for such children, giving them a chance to become happy citizens instead of wards of the state or burdens to their families. These children range in age from 6 to 16, and each has a uniquely different problem. This makes it necessary for the classes to be very small with one teacher for every eight or 10 pupils.

Now that the local association has made such strides in the past three years, they are planning still more projects for the future. A nursery for retarded children under 6 years of age is one of these goals, and a workshop where pupils may learn useful trades is another. It has been pointed out that many retarded adults today could be working at a good job if they had had the opportunity to go to a school workshop for the retarded as a child.

Real Problem

In the United States today, retarded children and adults number 4,800,000. These persons present a real problem and challenge to communities everywhere. The local association is trying to do its part by providing school facilities, and by educating the parents too. This latter is being accomplished by magazines, letters, publicity and regular monthly meetings.

Although the Ouachita Parish School Board has cooperated with the local group in furnishing schoolrooms and teachers, there are still many other expenses. As a United Givers agency, the association is allocated funds it desperately needs if this work is to continue on a satisfactory basis.

Special equipment and literature must be obtained to aid in teaching the pupils, to use for training the teachers themselves, and to use for training helpers to assist the instructors in supervising the children.

Only through a successful United Givers Fund Drive will the association be able to receive its allocation. Remember, three of every 100 babies born in the United States today are mentally retarded.

Oil Allowable Upped In Texas

AUSTIN, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Railroad Commission said today the total average calendar day oil allowable this week was up 12,770 barrels to 2,940,139, compared to 2,927,369 last Saturday in Texas.

In 7 days 303 oil and 38 gas wells were completed. The number of oil wells brought in this year totaled 12,454 as compared to 12,097 last year. Gas wells numbered 1,552 compared to 1,388. There were 141 dry holes this week.

In unproven territory, 8 oil, 1 gas well and 198 dusters were recorded.

A total of 193 wells were plugged, bringing the year mark to 8,692 compared to 9,213 in 1956.

During the last fiscal year sales from national forest timber and grazing land rent amounted to more than $102,000,000.

Mentally Retarded Helped By Agency

Three of every 100 babies born in the United States today are mentally retarded.

A shroud of shame surrounded these children and their families not too many years ago. But today the picture is rapidly changing as methods are being learned for dealing with cases of this type.

In Ouachita Parish, the picture has changed remarkably just since 1954. At that time, eight mentally retarded children had an opportunity to go to school in this parish for the first time.

They received a chance to undergo training and treatment that would enable them to enjoy at least some of the things more fortunate people take for granted. They were released from their pointless, purposeless existence and their families were able for the first time to face the future with hope instead of despair.

Guiding Organization

The Ouachita Parish Association for Retarded Children was the influence that made this schooling possible. Three years ago, this group obtained a classroom in a West Monroe elementary school for the use of the eight retarded children, and found a teacher for them. Today there are five such classes in the Ouachita Parish schools, and 50 children instead of eight.

Thus the door has been opened for such children, giving them a chance to become happy citizens instead of wards of the state or burdens to their families. These children range in age from 6 to 16, and each has a uniquely different problem. This makes it necessary for the classes to be very small, with one teacher for every eight or 10 pupils.

Now that the local association has made such strides in the past three years, they are planning still more projects for the future. A nursery for retarded children under 6 years of age is one of these goals, and a workshop where pupils may learn useful trades is another. It has been pointed out that many retarded adults today could be working at a good job if they had had the opportunity to go to a school workshop for the retarded as a child.

Real Problem

In the United States today, retarded children and adults number 4,800,000. These persons present a real problem and challenge to communities everywhere. The local association is trying to do its part by providing school facilities, and by educating the parents too. This latter is being accomplished by magazines, letters, publicity and regular monthly meetings.

Although the Ouachita Parish School Board has cooperated with the local group in furnishing schoolrooms and teachers, there are still many other expenses. As a United Givers agency, the association is allocated funds it desperately needs if this work is to continue on a satisfactory basis.

Special equipment and literature must be obtained to aid in teaching the pupils, to use for training the teachers themselves, and to use for training helpers to assist the instructors in supervising the children.

Only through a successful United Givers Fund Drive will the association be able to receive its allocation. Remember, three of every 100 babies born in the United States today are mentally retarded.

Oil Allowable Upped In Texas

AUSTIN, Oct. 12 (AP)—The Railroad Commission said today the total average calendar day oil allowable this week was up 12,770 barrels to 2,940,139, compared to 2,927,369 last Saturday in Texas.

In unproven territory, 8 oil, 1 gas well and 198 dusters were recorded.

A total of 198 wells were plugged, bringing the year mark to 8,692 compared to 9,213 in 1956.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT:

Advance reports show that many of the 1958 models will have many of the features already contained in the 1957 Mercury. These features will be called "new" and you'll pay more for them.

The Big 1957 Mercury NOW has 4 features not available on ANY other automobile in addition to more glass area, interior room, trunk space, braking area than ANY OTHER CAR in its price range. Why pay the high price for '58 styling when you have it in the Big '57 Mercury?

THE WONDROUS YEARS OF OUR TIME...

Man's use of petroleum—of oil and natural gas—began before the first records of history.

But petroleum's full usefulness to man has been a matter of decades only.

They have been wondrous years, those decades. Years that saw automobiles built by the millions because gasoline was available as a cheap source of power. Years that saw the oceans dwindle under the high speed of great ships powered by oil. Years that saw the evolution of a more comfortable living in homes warmed by oil and natural gas. Years that saw rubber, fibers, paints and many other useful items of everyday living produced from petroleum's hydrocarbons. Years that saw the earth shrink under the wings of the airplane, and great wars decided by the availability of oil.

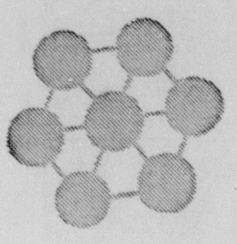

Thus, the oil industry has led the way into the wondrous years of our time. The industry, through foresight, ingenuity, research, and risk-taking, has found and produced the oil required in greater quantity each year, has conserved oil for the future, has devised the transportation systems that move oil economically, has built the refineries and plants that convert crude oil and natural gas to the hundreds of useful products needed by a growing United States.

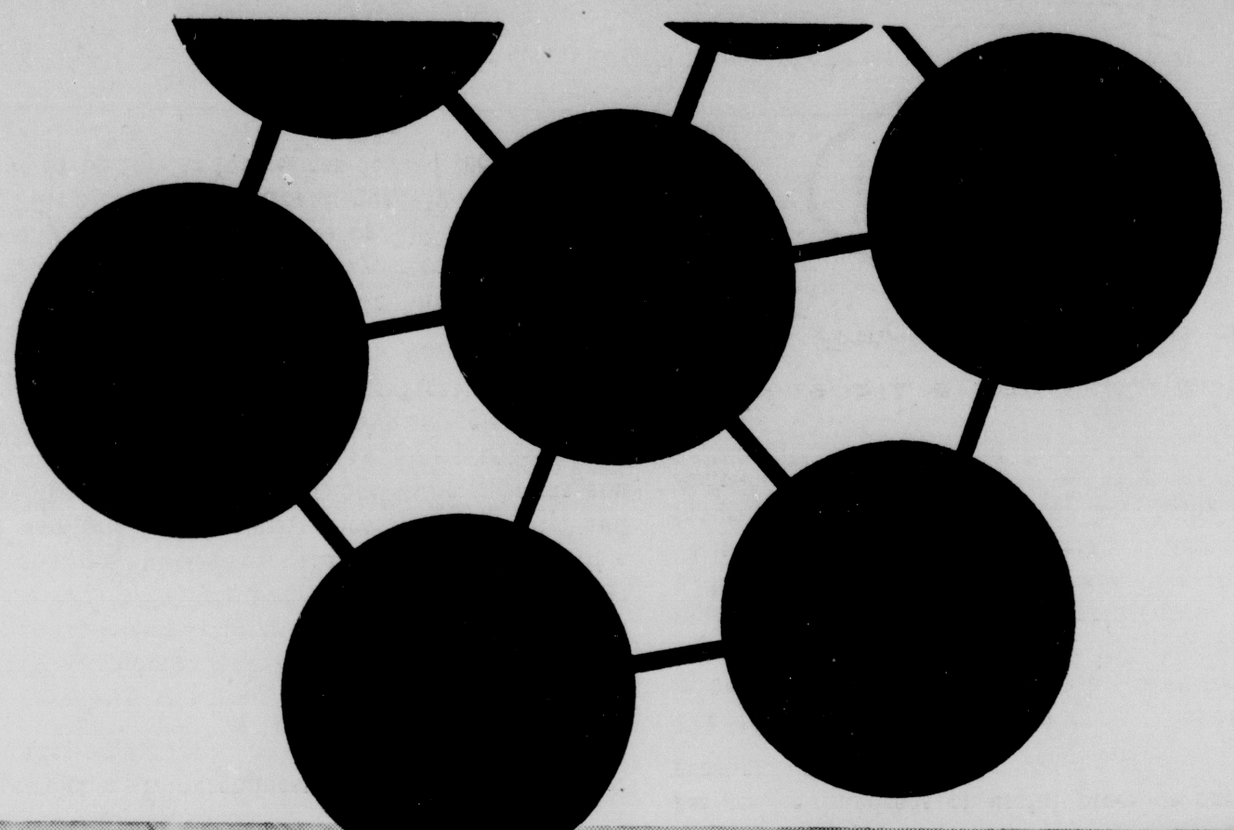

The Humble Company, founded in 1917, has participated in petroleum's progress during four great decades, and has pioneered in the development of many current techniques for finding, producing and refining oil. This week, with the industry, Humble invites you to consider the variety and extent of oil's progress . . . Surely no other industry has contributed more to the making of modern America.
